Production of the Sputnik V vaccine against coronavirus will begin in India this summer, the Russian Direct Investment Fund (RDIF) and pharmaceutical company Panacea Biotec announced on Monday. Sputnik V was registered in India under the emergency use authorisation procedure on April 12 and vaccination against coronavirus with the Russian vaccine started on May 14. As announced in April, RDIF and Panacea have agreed to produce 100 million doses per year of Sputnik V.

Sputnik V uses two different vectors for the two shots in a course of vaccination, providing immunity with a longer duration than vaccines using the same delivery mechanism for both shots. It is developed by Russia's Gamaleya National Center. It will be the third vaccine to be cleared for the immunisation programme in India after Covaxin and Covishield.

"The first batch produced at Panacea Biotec's facilities at Baddi will be shipped to the Gamaleya Centre [in Russia] for quality control. Full-scale production of the vaccine is due to start this summer. Company's facilities comply with GMP [good manufacturing practice] standards and are prequalified by WHO."

PFIZER, MODERNA REFUSE TO SELL VAX DIRECTLY TO STATES

The Delhi Government on Monday slammed the Central Government of delay in procurement of vaccines from the international markets. Delhi Deputy Chief Minister Manish Sisodia during a digital briefing on Monday said US pharmaceutical companies manufacturing Covid vaccines - Pfizer and Moderna have made it clear they won't sell directly to Delhi. "We have spoken to Pfizer and Moderna for vaccines, and both the manufacturers have refused to sell vaccines directly to us. They have said they will deal with the central government. We appeal to the Centre to import vaccines and distribute to the states," Sisodia said. This has come a day after Punjab said Moderna has refused to sell vaccines to the state directly. The Amarinder Singh government had reached out to all such manufacturers, according to officials, looking for direct purchases.

VACCINE CRISIS A SCANDALOUS INEQUITY: WHO

Geneva: The ongoing vaccine crisis is a "scandalous inequity" that is perpetuating the Covid pandemic, World Health Organisation (WHO) Director-General Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus said on Monday. In his address at the WHO's 74th World Health Assembly, taking place online from May 24 to June 1, he said: "More than 75 per cent of all vaccines have been administered in just 10 countries." The fate of the rest of the world is controlled by a small group of countries that are making and buying the majority of the vaccines, he added. If the vaccines had been distributed equitably, the doses "administered globally so far would have been enough to cover all health workers and older people."

To minimise vax wastage, on-site registration for 18-44 years enabled

New Delhi: The Ministry of Health and Family Welfare on Monday initiated on-site Registration in addition to online appointment for 18-44 years age group now on CoWIN, the service is only enabled only for Government Covid Vaccination Centres (CVCs) to minimise vaccine wastage and to facilitate those without internet reach. The ministry said the reason behind it to provide maximum vaccination as in case of sessions exclusively organised with online slots, towards the end of the day, some doses may still be left unutilised in case the online appointee beneficiaries do not turn up on day of vaccination due to any reason. In such cases, on-site registration of a few beneficiaries may be necessary to minimise the vaccine wastage.

Why vaccines are not free: Kerala HC to Centre

Kochi: The Kerala High Court on Monday asked the Centre why the vaccines are not provided for free to the citizens. The court pointed out that even though it would cost Rs 34,000 crore, the Centre has with it Rs 54,000 crore by way of dividend from the Reserve Bank of India. On Monday, in a related issue the Centre said it has so far provided, both through the free of cost category and through direct state procurement category, more than 21.80 crore vaccine doses (21,80,51,890) to States/UTs.

disease. It takes a long time to heal. This patient's condition cannot be said to be very good, he is still undergoing treatment." According to Tyagi, as far as the symptoms of this disease are concerned, there remains sluggishness or lethargy in the body while there is less appetite, due to which the weight starts decreasing. Body wounds also heal very slowly. Cleanliness is very important to avoid this disease, as infection starts off due to poor hygiene. The more you keep cleanliness around you, the more you can stay safe from this disease.

DELHI POLICE REACH TWITTER INDIA OFFICE TO SERVE NOTICE OVER TOOLKIT ROW

SC: Centre takes policy decisions regarding relief to people on repayment of loan

Team Absolute | New Delhi
A team of Delhi Police reached the offices of Twitter India in Delhi and Gurugram on Monday evening to "serve notice" in connection with its probe into the alleged toolkit case.

A source in Delhi Police told IANS, "The Special Cell has sent a notice to Twitter. In its reply, Twitter said it has no more knowledge in the matter. So a team of Special Cell officers went to the offices of Twitter to record the statements of the persons there, but they were found closed."

The source also clarified that there no raids or searches are being carried out at the offices of Twitter in Delhi and Gurugram.

Later, Delhi Police issued a statement which said, "The Delhi Police team went to Twitter office to serve a notice to Twitter, as a part of routine process. This was necessitated as we wanted to ascertain who is the right person to serve a notice, as replies by Twitter India MD have been very ambiguous."

The action comes after the Special Cell sent a notice to Twitter India MD

Manish Maheshwari over the alleged toolkit case on May 21.

Earlier in the day, the Delhi Police had said, "We are inquiring into a complaint in which clarification is sought from Twitter regarding the classification of a tweet by (BJP spokesperson) Sambit Patra as 'manipulative'." The statement said that "it appears that Twitter has some information which is not known to us on the basis of which it has classified it as such".

"This information is relevant to the inquiry. The Special Cell, which is conducting the inquiry, wants to find out the truth. Twitter, which has claimed to know the underlying truth, should clarify," the statement added.

In its notice to Twitter India MD, the Delhi Police had asked Maheshwari to be present in the office of the Special Cell on May 22 at 1 p.m. with all the relevant documents.

The Delhi Police also said that they were carrying out a preliminary inquiry pertaining to the 'toolkit' allegedly released by the Congress.

A war of words had erupted between the Congress and the BJP last week after Sambit Patra released a set of pages alleging to be the 'toolkit' of the Congress to defame the Narendra Modi government.

The Congress had approached the Delhi Police with a complaint against BJP chief J.P. Nadda, Patra, B.L. Santosh, Union minister Smriti Irani and others.

The Supreme Court on Monday said the Union government takes policy decision in connection with the nature of measures, to help people facing financial woes due to the ongoing Covid-19 pandemic.

Advocate Vishal Tiwari filed a petition seeking some relief to borrowers during the second wave of Covid-19 pandemic and lockdown. A bench of Justices Ashok Bhushan and M R Shah asked Tiwari to send a representation to the Union government. The bench said, "At the maximum, what we can do is that we can allow him (the petitioner) to give his representation to the central government."

The bench noted that the matter in connected with policy decision. After it was informed that the petitioner was not connected virtually to make his submissions, the top court posted the plea for further hearing on June 11.

"We will adjourn the case to June 11", said the bench.

The plea contended that the bank or financial institutions should refrain from taking action for auction in respect of any property of any citizen or person or party or anybody corporate for a period of six months. interest free moratorium period for term loan. The petitioner also sought deferment of payment of loan instalments for a period of six months or till the Covid-19 crisis continues.

Vax key to controlling pandemic, Govt doesn't care: Rahul Gandhi

Team Absolute | New Delhi

Amid shortage of vaccines, Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Monday attacked the government saying it is not "serious" about it.

Rahul Gandhi tweeted on Monday, "Vaccination is the key to controlling the pandemic but GOI doesn't seem to care." His remark came on a day when the government informed that more than 1 crore people of 18-44 age group were administered vaccine under the ongoing drive. However many states have complained about shortage of vaccines and companies have refused to give directly to state governments. The achievement was made within 23 days of the implementation of the Liberalized and Accelerated Phase-3 strategy of Covid-19 vaccination that was started on May 1.

Vax drive in UP goes awry: Hesitancy, rumour push villagers into river

Team Absolute | Barabanki

Despite a sustained campaign and widespread publicity, vaccine hesitancy continues to prevail in the rural hinterlands of Uttar Pradesh where the pandemic is spreading its tentacles.

In Sisoda village in Barabanki -- where a group of residents jumped into the Saryu river to evade vaccination on Sunday -- the residents remain firm in their decision of not getting the jab.

Shishupal, a local farmer, said, "People have died even after getting vaccinated. I know of those who have had to be hospitalised after the jab. Jab marna hi hai to vaccine kyon?"

Shishupal, who has done matriculation, is convinced that the Covid vaccine is 'harmful' and spreads this 'information' among others.

"I have got this information from several of my friends who work in big cities. I am convinced as the local officials have not answered my queries. My own uncle, who worked in Delhi, died a month after having both vaccine shots. What more proof do I need," he asked.

Mohd Ahsan, another resident, was also unwilling to take the jab. "Is there a guarantee that we will not get infected after the vaccine?"

There are many in adjoining village who rushed to take the vaccine and then got infected. Why is the government pushing for vaccination--they should give it to those who want it," he stated. Besides this, rumours abound in the village that the vaccine causes 'impotence' and this is mainly responsible for driving the men away. On Sunday evening, a group of people in Sisoda village in Barabanki district had jumped into the Saryu river after seeing a team of health officials. The health team had gone to the village to give Covid vaccination to the local residents.

Sub-Divisional Magistrate of Ramnagar tehsil, Rajiv Kumar Shukla, said about 200 people of the village ran away from the village because of the fear of vaccine and reached the Saryu shore. When the health team reached the river, these people jumped into the river.

Shukla said he made the villagers understand the importance and benefits of vaccination, and tried to dispel the myths, following which only 18 people in the village got the jabs.

The villagers said they jumped into the river because some people had told them that this was not a vaccine, but a poisonous injection. It took a great deal of convincing to get people come out of the river.

99 Buddhist monks test Covid positive in Sikkim

GANGTOK | Agencies

'DIVINE HORSE' FUNERAL IN K'TAKA SEES HUNDREDS, VILLAGE SEALED

BELAGAVI | Agencies

Amid the raging pandemic, hundreds of people in Gokak taluk of Karnataka's Belgavi defied all Covid safety protocols to take part in a "divine" horse's funeral. Authorities have now swung in action to seal of the village and test the residents.

This incident was reported on Sunday after the horse of Maradi Mutt, a local religious institution, died.

Some Mathas belonging to various castes and communities in north Karnataka region, have practice of rearing horses like some temples in Kerala rear elephants, as divine. Whenever such horse is let off by Mutt, people who live in the vicinity pray to the animal, while making offerings to it. After visuals of several hundred people living in villages surrounding Maradi Matha flouting Covid norms, went viral on local media channels, authorities have now woken up and decided to carry out RT-PCR test to all residents of Konnuru village in Gokak taluk where the Mutt is located.

Gokak Tahsildar Prakash Huleppgol, under whose jurisdiction this village falls, told reporters that the state government has already directed him to "seal the village" besides carrying out RT-PCR test of all residents who live in Konnuru.

"The local police has already taken information of around 15 'influential' personalities of 15 villages who have organised such mammoth funeral procession of this horse," he said.

Data of 18cr Domino's India users out on Dark Web: Researcher

Team Absolute | New Delhi

After a hacker made 13TB data of nearly 18 crore orders of Domino's India with key details public on the Dark Web, cyber security researchers on Monday stressed on the need for organisations handling end-user data to invest more in cyber-security solutions and practices that will enhance their security posture.

Independent cyber security researcher Rajshekh Rajaharia first reported that Domino's India has been hit by a hacker again, after Alon Gal who is CTO of cyber security firm Hudson Rock, claimed in April that credit card details of nearly 10 lakh people who purchased online on Domino's Pizza India were allegedly being sold for over Rs 4 crore on the Dark Web.

According to Rajaharia, data of 18 crore orders from Domino's Pizza in India has now become public, that contains name, email, phone number and even the GPS location of the users.

According to him, the same person who earlier hacked financial services company MobiKwik has compromised Domino's

India. "The earlier hacker failed to receive ransom and sold the data to some unknown hacker, who has now posted the 13TB data of Domino's India on the Dark Web," Rajaria told reporter. In an earlier statement, Jubilant

Foodworks that owns the master franchise for Domino's Pizza in India, told IANS that the company experienced an information security incident recently.

"No data pertaining to financial information of any person was accessed and the incident has not resulted in any operational or business impact," the spokesperson said.

"As a policy, we do not store financial details or credit card data of our customers, thus no such information has been compromised". According to Prakash Bell, Head of Customer Success and SE Lead, India and SAARC, Check Point Software Technologies, implementing technology solutions such as ZTNA, DLP, XDR and security posture management is key to ward off such incidents.

"Complementing these with employee education around data handling, vigilance, tight security controls, processes and audits would help creating the desired culture," Bell said in a statement.

There have been a string of hacking incidents involving Indian firms in the recent past, including Bigbasket, BuyUcoin, JusPay, Upstox and others.

DELHI SHUTS 400 VAX CENTRES FOR 18-44 GROUP AS STOCK DRIES UP

Team Absolute | New Delhi

At a time when vaccines are necessary to fight the Covid-19 pandemic, people between 18-44 age groups in Delhi will not be administered vaccines at any government-run centres on Monday as the administration claimed no stock left for youth.

Since the first week of May, the Delhi government had set up vaccination centres for 18-44 age groups and around 400 centres were opened at government-run schools across the capital, but they are closed now. However, vaccination drives for 45 and above age groups which were already operational at hospitals and other healthcare centres though have been extended with the idea of 'walk-in vaccination' at government-run schools.

Delhi has been raising alarms time and again regarding shortage of vaccines and knocking every possible door to get jobs for the citizens. Covaxin, which is manufactured by

Bharat Biotech, was out of stock for 18-44 age groups for the last two weeks and now Covishield manufactured by Serum Institute of India (SII) too have gone out of stock now. Over 300 vaccination centers to administer vaccines for 18-44 age groups remained shut on Monday as no stock was left for this age group, however, when vaccination drive for 45 and above ages groups was continued.

Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal repeated word vaccines three times, as SOS call for vaccines for Delhi. "Vaccinate, Vaccinate, Vaccinate," Kejriwal wrote on his Twitter handle in reply to a tweet by Jai Kotak, AVP at Kotak Mahindra Bank on Monday.

As per the Delhi government, a total of 64,240 people were vaccinated on Saturday, of which 44,676 received their first dose and 19,538 their second. Over 50 lakh doses of vaccines were administered in Delhi so far, and 11,51,356 people have been fully vaccinated after receiving both shots. "No one knows how many more Covid waves will come till then, how many more people will die. I request the Centre to ensure the delivery of the required number of vaccine doses to Delhi," Kejriwal had said on Sunday.

Over 500 black fungus cases in Delhi:

Hospitals short of drugs to fight the infection: Kejriwal

Kejriwal said that several government-run hospitals dedicated to Covid care are grappling with shortage of medicines for patients. These include Guru Teg Bahadur, Lok Nayak Jaya Prakash and Rajiv Gandhi Super Specialty hospital.

Super Specialty hospital. Kejriwal said the Delhi government did not receive medicines for black fungus on Sunday, even as the number of cases crossed 500. "We did not receive the medicine yesterday. So how can we treat the patients without the medicine? The injection is administered four to five times a day. If we are not given the injection, how can we treat patients?" asked the chief minister.

As of today Delhi needs around 2,000 injections per day for patients infected with black fungus, but the capital is being provided merely 400-500 injections, said Kejriwal.

"There is an extreme shortage of medicine and its production has to be increased. Since 4-5 injections need to be administered daily and there are around 500 patients, we need 2,000 injections every day but we are receiving only 400-500 injections," he added.

Amid the second wave of the Covid pandemic, Delhi isn't just battling a shortage of vaccines, it is also grappling with a scarcity of drugs required to treat patients infected with the black fungus infection, Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal said on Monday. In the last few days, cases of black fungus have been diagnosed in large numbers and as of today more than 500 patients are being treated in over a dozen hospitals in the national capital. Kejriwal said that several government-run hospitals dedicated to Covid care are grappling with shortage of medicines for patients. These include Guru Teg Bahadur, Lok Nayak Jaya Prakash and Rajiv Gandhi

With lessons from 2nd wave of Covid, Delhi starts preparing for 3rd

Team Absolute | New Delhi

With the second wave of the Covid-19 pandemic continuing to decline in the last few weeks in the capital, the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) led Delhi government has started preparations for the next wave of Covid-19, which could require nearly 40,000 oxygen supported beds.

During the period April-May, when daily Covid cases were over 25,000 and the positivity rate was over 35 per cent, not only did the healthcare system of the capital almost collapse, but the Delhi government's Covid management system too was under total stress. To meet the challenges, the state administration had then deployed all its senior officials and Delhi Deputy Chief Minister Manish Sisodia was appointed as the nodal minister for Covid management.

Taking a lesson from the second wave, during which Delhi lacked a number of ICU beds with inadequate stock of oxygen resulting in several deaths in and outside the hospitals, the state administration seems geared up to ensure that the same situation is not repeated, if a third wave of the Covid pandemic hits the capital.

For this, the Kejriwal government has not only started augmenting the number of general and ICU beds, but is also working to ensure that Delhi does not grapple with a shortage of medical oxygen again. Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal on Monday visited the oxygen depot in Mayapuri, which has been prepared to store the consignment of the oxygen cylinders received from China. He informed that around 6000 oxygen cylinders have been airlifted from China, out of which 4400 have been received and 1600 will be received within this week.

"These cylinders can be given to the individuals in need and if another wave emerges and the cases rise again then with these 6000 cylinders, the Delhi government can prepare 3000 oxygen beds, as two cylinders are needed on each oxygen bed," Kejriwal said.

The Chief Minister stated that for the country, this is the second wave but for Delhi this is the fourth wave, and this time, in the last week of April around 28,000 cases were recorded but now they have come down to 1500. The infection rate had also declined to 25 per cent. "It seems that this wave is subsiding but there has been no laxity in the efforts by the Delhi Government. We have already started preparing for the next, what is being called the third wave."

New Delhi: The cases filed against the farmers in Hisar on May 16 following their protest against the Centre's three farm laws will be withdrawn, it was decided in a meeting between the Sanyukt Kisan Morcha and the district administration after another large demonstration in the Haryana town on Monday. Meanwhile, one of the protesting farmers succumbed to a heart attack.

According to the SKM, the detailed discussion between the two sides saw the district administration seek apology for the police action on May 16, which came ahead of Haryana Chief Minister Manohar Lal Khattar's visit. Three decisions were taken in the meeting. Firstly, the police cases filed on May 16 against the protesters will be withdrawn; secondly, the administration will get the farmers' vehicles damaged by the police on May 16 repaired; and thirdly, a government job will be provided to an eligible kin of the deceased farmer, Ramchandra.

Team Absolute | New Delhi

The North Delhi Municipal Corporation (North MCD) said on Monday that the Centre will provide 30 ventilators and 20 big oxygen concentrators for the hospitals being run by it.

There are three hospitals - Hindu Rao, the Rajan Babu Institute of Pulmonary Medicine and Tuberculosis and the Girdhari Lal Maternity hospital in Delhi which are operated by the North MCD.

Jai Prakash, Mayor of North MCD, said, "The Centre will provide 30 ventilators and 20 oxygen concentrators from PM Care Fund to three hospitals under the North civic agency. These ventilators and oxygen concentrators would help in strengthening the health infrastructure in the hospitals. These ventilators would also help us to fight against the third wave of Covid-19."

To review the Covid situation in the areas under the North civic body, the Mayor also convened a meeting with officials to take stock of facilities for treatment, cremation and sanitisation.

He said that officials have been directed to be more vigilant and ensure that bio medical waste is being collected regularly and sanitisation being done in residential areas regularly. He also directed the officials to ensure that people do not face problems at cremations and burial grounds. "North MCD is making efforts to provide all possible facilities to the citizens under its jurisdiction. We are performing with limited resources but Delhi government is not doing as per requirement, although help is pouring in from all sectors public, private and social sector," Jai Prakash said.

Covid medicine hoarding: HC says Gambhir has done disservice, malpractice

Team Absolute | New Delhi

The Delhi High Court on Monday directed the Drug Controller of Delhi to examine the procurement and distribution of FabiFlu by BJP MP Gautam Gambhir, and to take necessary action as per law.

A division bench of Justice Vipin Sanghi and Jasmeet Singh said Gambhir has been a cricketer who played for India. "we are sure he had good intentions.... the way he has gone about it, he has actually done a disservice, unintentionally may be. This is not done." The bench took note that FabiFlu was in short supply at the time when the drug was being distributed by Gambhir.

The bench added that it is sure Gambhir had best intentions and he also started a charity and if he wanted to help maybe he could have provided funds. The bench added, is it a responsible behaviour to bulk purchase medicines when you know there is a shortage? The High Court also took note of the AAP MLAs Preeti Tomar and Praveen Kumar's procurement of oxygen cylinders and directed an inquiry must be done by the drug authority. The court emphasised that the law must take its course. "Intentions may be lacking but, in that process, if they cross the line, law has to take its course. Even with best intention, they are malpractices", the court noted. The bench added that it has narrowed down on three: Gambhir, Tomar and Kumar.

The court noted in Gambhir's case, FabiFlu left after distribution, were given to the Directorate General of Health Services (DGHS). The court has sought report from Delhi's drug controller, detailing on the quantity of FabiFlu procured on the basis of a single prescription and then distributed to several patients/attendants. The court told the drug controller that a very clear case and it should find out against whom action is required to be taken. However, the court clarified that it has not directed that "any action be taken" against Gambhir or the two MLAs. The High Court was hearing a plea seeking registration of FIRs against political leaders involved in hoarding and illegally distributing Covid-19 medicines, which led to denial of these medicines to common people.

Cong ups the ante against BJP in MP after by-poll win

Team Absolute | Bhopal

The Congress has adopted an aggressive political strategy in Madhya Pradesh after its recent victory in the Damoh Assembly by-elections, with party leaders, including former Chief Minister Kamal Nath, intensifying their attacks on the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) governments in the state and at the Centre.

In Damoh, the defeat of sitting Congress MLA Rahul Lodhi, who switched over to the Congress' Ajay Tandon came as a shot to the party. With the state hit hard by Covid, Congress leaders launched a blistering political attack on the BJP government for its failure to tackle the pandemic. Even the filing of a case against Congress MLA and former cabinet minister, Umang Singhar, for abetting a woman's suicide saw party leaders rally behind him and go on all-out offensive against the BJP.

Kamal Nath, who claimed that more than one lakh people had died in the state during March and April this year due to the pandemic, also accused the BJP government of political vendetta by filing a case against Singhar, and said that he too has a CD against the BJP.

His aggressive stance has sent out a message to the workers at the ground level that they must raise their voice against the BJP government. With bypolls for three state Assembly and one Lok Sabha constituencies along with urban civic bodies and panchayats polls coming up ahead, Congress workers and the party as a whole have adopted an aggressive approach.

Political experts believe that the Congress has realised that it is competing with BJP's organisational machinery in the state. As the BJP organisation is steadily intensifying its preparation on the ground, grooming workers from the younger generation, the Congress has realised that the BJP can be fought only when there is enthusiasm among the Congress workers and leaders, they say. The Congress has been forced to change its overall outlook to match the BJP as an organisation, they claim.

OFFICERS AND STAFF OF PUBLIC RELATIONS DEPARTMENT ON STRIKE AS COLLECTOR REMOVES KHANDWA OFFICER

"We strongly oppose the decision of the Khandwa collector to relieve Sharma from his post as he is not empowered to do so. The collector acted arbitrarily in the matter by encroaching on the powers of the Chief Minister."

Team Absolute | Bhopal

In a curious development, officers and employees of the Madhya Pradesh government's Public Relations Department went on an indefinite strike on Monday demanding suspension of Khandwa district collector who they alleged has "arbitrarily" removed the PRO of the district without having powers to do so.

The sudden development affected the dissemination of official news, sources claimed.

The dispute started after Khandwa collector Anay Dwivedi relieved the district's public relation officer (PRO) Brajendra Sharma of duties on May 22 following alleged complaints that he was not working properly. Later, Indore's divisional commissioner suspended Sharma on Sunday, relieved him of his duty, and attached him to the Department of Public Relations, Bhopal.

"We strongly oppose the decision of the Khandwa collector to relieve Sharma from his post as he is not empowered to do so. The collector acted arbitrarily in the matter by encroaching on the powers of the Chief Minister," Madhya Pradesh Jansampark Adhikari Singh said in a memorandum addressed to Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan, who heads the department. The memorandum was handed over to the Commissioner, Public Relations, Sudam P Khade.

"The association also wants the action taken against Sharma be rolled back and that Dwivedi is immediately suspended for encroaching on the powers of the chief minister," reads the memorandum.

All three unions of the public relation department's officers, employees and drivers went on an indefinite strike on the issue by disrupting the dissemination of government news for the media and the public.

According to sources in the Khandwa district administration, the collector had removed Sharma for alleged negligence in the duty which damaged the reputation of the state government.

Meanwhile, Dwivedi told media persons that action was taken against Sharma as per "administrative requirement". "Besides, the officer was not discharging his duties properly," the collector added.

Fingers raised over quality of oxygen used for treating Covid patients

"There is difference between oxygen for medical use and oxygen for industrial use. People who use it at home cannot differentiate between the two. Only manufacturers or suppliers can tell which is for medical use."

Fingers have been raised over quality of oxygen and water used for oxygen supply to treat Covid patients. Other states too have raised the issue and considering to investigate the matter though doctors have also blamed overuse of steroids, which causes black fungus. "There is difference between oxygen for medical use and oxygen for industrial use. People who use it at home cannot differentiate between the two. Only manufacturers or suppliers can tell which is for medical use. So, there are chances that people may have used the used oxygen blindly at home," Sidhdhanta Hospital's Dr Subodh Varsheny said.

Dr ID Chaurasia, neurologist at Hamidia Hospital, said main thing is water, which should be distilled for supply of oxygen. "If potable water is used, it will cause fungal infection," he added.

Health Worker On Covid Duty Faces Conversion Probe

Team Absolute | Bhopal

A health worker in Madhya Pradesh is facing police investigation after she was seen in a video that purportedly showed her going door to door and asking people to pray to Jesus Christ to stay safe amid the COVID-19 pandemic. BJP MLA Rameshwar Sharma was among those who tweeted the video, alleging the health worker's motive was religious conversion.

In videos shared on social media, the health worker is seen visiting homes at a village in Madhya Pradesh's Ratlam district. Some villagers alleged she is heard asking people to pray to Jesus Christ for protection from Covid and safe recovery, if infected.

A man is heard in the video confronting the health worker. "Why are you asking people to pray to Jesus Christ? Who sent you here? From which hospital are you? Why are you telling people that they will recover by praying to Jesus Christ?" said the man, who is recording the video.

The health worker, in a white coat, is heard replying: "People are getting better by offering prayers to Jesus Christ."

Ratlam district tehsildar BS Thakur said they have got a complaint that the health worker under government contract was propagating Christianity while carrying out the "Kill Coronavirus" campaign at the village. Religious pamphlets were also found with her, Thakur said.

The tehsildar said a report will be sent to senior officers.

Tweeting the video, BJP MLA Rameshwar Sharma said, "Will the coronavirus kill the conversion virus..." "This is not the time to propagate any religion. Doctors and medical professionals are engaged in selfless service to humanity. In such a situation, the woman is propagating a religion. This is condemnable," Sharma said.

Chief medical and health officer Dr Prabhakar Nanaware said they will send a report to the district collector, seeking to end the contract of the health worker. Local police inspector Dilip Rajoriya said a case will be filed after investigation.

Lockdown to be lifted phase-wise in district

Before starting the unlocking process, three zones Red, Orange and Green will be earmarked on the basis of the number of corona cases in different areas.

Team Absolute | Bhopal

The lockdown will be lifted phase-wise in Bhopal, but, before starting the unlocking process, three zones Red, Orange and Green will be earmarked on the basis of the number of corona cases in different areas. Besides, micro-containment zones will be created, and, accordingly, stickers will be affixed to the houses of corona patients after unlocking. DME minister Vishwas Sarang said this while addressing a meeting at the police control room.

The minister said that, before June 1, entire exercises such as demarcation of zones and identification of micro-level containment zones will be carried out. Micro-planning will be done in the wards of Bhopal Municipal Corporation limits. There are sixteen such wards where monitoring will be done on a daily basis and a track of the number of cases will also be kept.

He added that, before the lockdown is lifted, a campaign would be launched to identify corona-infected patients and, over the next seven days, stickers would be put outside the houses of corona-positive people.

"Strictness will be increased outside the patients' houses and the areas will be sanitised regularly," said Sarang, adding that the police, Bhopal Municipal Corporation (BMC) and district administration officials would take care of this exercise.

If Covid-positive patients do not follow Covid protocols, they will be shifted to hospitals and those who are living in small rooms will be shifted to Covid Care Centres, he added.

The city will be divided into three zones Red, Orange and Green and testing capacity will also be increased. The areas having more than 20 cases will be identified as Red Zones, while those having more than 10 cases will be called Orange Zones. If there are 5 to 10 patients, it will be marked as a Green Zone. If patients who are in home isolation come out of their houses, the police and administration should be informed by the neighbours on 1075.

Preparations for this have been done as the responsibility of monitoring corona patients is currently at the SDM level. Now, it will be changed to the ward, colony and home level, so that the infection can be prevented. Its grading will be done every week and, only after that, it will be decided in which areas exemption can be given from June 1.

Kamal Nath booked for 'spreading panic' with Covid remarks

Team Absolute | Bhopal

Former Madhya Pradesh chief minister Kamal Nath has been booked for allegedly creating panic over the Covid-19 pandemic. An FIR has been registered against the Congress leader at the Crime Branch police station, Bhopal.

The case against Kamal Nath was registered on the basis of a complaint lodged by BJP leaders, including MLAs Vishwas Sarang and Rameshwar Sharma. Bhopal district president of the BJP, Sumeet Pachouri, was also among the complainants. Ramji Shrivastav, Bhopal Headquarter Superintendent of Police, said the complainants submitted two videos in a pen drive showing Kamal Nath allegedly spreading disinformation. The videos show the former chief minister addressing a press conference in Ujjain on Saturday where he said, "Corona, which has spread throughout the world, is being known as the Indian variant of the virus."

Such statements made by Kamal Nath, who is also the Leader of Opposition in the MP Assembly create confusion and defame the country internationally, said the complainants. They also accused Nath of disobeying WHO's guidelines, claiming that his actions amounted to sedition.

In addition, the complaint also said Kamal Nath hurled "false allegations" against the Madhya Pradesh government, accusing it of concealing the real number of Covid deaths in the state.

Kamal Nath has been booked under section 188 of the IPC (disobeying order duly promulgated by public servant) and section 54 of the National Disaster Management Act 2005 (raising false alarm as to a disaster or its severity, leading to panic). Earlier this week, the Government of India issued an advisory to social media platforms, asking them to remove all content with mention of the 'Indian strain' of Covid-19. The WHO has made it clear that any strain of the virus cannot be named after the country where it was first detected, said the advisory.

The development came two days after the ill-fated Barge Papaa-305 wreck was found in the vicinity of the Bombay High Fields, around 175 off Mumbai in high seas, where it had sunk late last Monday, large," he said.

The Indian Navy's specialised ship INS Makar has located the wreckage of the Tugboat Varaprada in the Arabian Sea where it had sunk last week during the Cyclone Tauktae fury, an official said here on Monday.

Divers are now going underwater to find out if any more persons are trapped in the tugboat during the devastating natural calamity.

The development came two days after the ill-fated Barge Papaa-305 wreck was found in the vicinity of the Bombay High Fields, around 175 off

Mumbai in high seas, where it had sunk late last Monday.

Late on Sunday, the IN announced that a total of 86 bodies have been recovered from the Arabian Sea so far, including 70 from the two vessels that went under and 8 each which were washed ashore on Maharashtra and Gujarat coasts.

There were 261 persons on board Papaa-305 and 13 others on the tugboat, an anchor-handling vessel which was towing the Barge GAL Constructor. Incidentally, all the 137 crew members on the Barge GAL Constructor were rescued in daring operations last Tuesday (May 18) after it was grounded near the Colaba Point. A total of 188 survivors - 186 from Papaa-305 and two from Tugboat Varaprada were picked up at sea during the massive IN-led Search and Rescue (SAR) operations which lasted for seven days, the first half being in extreme weather conditions.

"All 274 reported missing have been accounted for. Final confirmation, however, will be pending till the identification of all bodies are complete," the officials said.

The IN's teams of expert divers and specialist ship INS Makar located the wreck of Papaa-305 late on Saturday, followed by the location of the tugboat today, and a search is on to trace bodies of any others still feared missing.

Ex-Mumbai top cop granted relief from arrest till June 9

Team Absolute | Mumbai

The Maharashtra government on Monday informed the Bombay High Court that it would not arrest former Mumbai Police Commissioner Param Bir Singh till June 9, provided he cooperates with the police in an atrocities case registered against him.

Singh, a 1988-batch IPS officer, is currently serving as the Commandant-General of the state Home Guards after he was transferred from the post of Mumbai Police chief last month.

On April 28, following a complaint filed by police inspector Bhimrao Ghadge, the Akola Police had registered a case under the Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribe (Prevention of Atrocities Act), 1989 and the Indian Penal Code against Singh.

Senior Counsel Darius Khambata, appearing for the Maharashtra government, told a vacation bench of Justices S.S. Shinde and N.R. Borkar that Singh would not be arrested till the next date of hearing on June 9.

Khambata argued that Singh cannot ride two horses at the same time by seeking relief from both the Supreme Court and the Bombay High Court in the same case.

Singh's lawyer Mahesh Jethmalani said that if interim protection is granted in the high court, his client would not press for relief in the apex court. However, complainant Ghadge's lawyer, Satish Talekar, opposed the interim relief from arrest granted to Singh.

The court noted that the case dates back to 2016 and the FIR was filed after five years, and since the complainant waited for so long, nothing would happen if he waited for another two weeks. "He (Singh) was not arrested all these years. What purpose will it serve if he is arrested now," the court observed.

As per the FIR, Singh, who was the then Police Commissioner of Thane, had asked Ghadge not to chargesheet certain persons, but when he refused, he (Ghadge) was suspended and five FIRs were lodged against him. Last week, Singh had moved the SC alleging that he is being bounded with multiple cases lodged against him by the Maharashtra government as vendetta after he accused former state Home Minister Anil Deshmukh of allegedly demanding a collection of Rs 100 crore from former cop Sachin Vaze.

Mumbai Gets 3 Bids From Russia's Sputnik Covid Vaccine Makers

The RDIF's bids for Mumbai comes when Punjab and Delhi have said that private firms have refused their request for Covid vaccine supply.

Team Absolute | Mumbai

Has received three bids for the supply of Russia's Sputnik V Covid vaccine, government sources have said. The city's civic body had earlier this month placed global tenders for one crore doses.

The Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation (BMC) had placed the tenders on May 11. These were issued under India's latest nationwide COVID-19 inoculation policy, allowing state governments to procure Covid vaccine doses directly from producers. The deadline for submission of bids ends tomorrow. Of the three received till now, one was made directly by the Russian Direct Investment Fund (RDIF) and the other two by its independent representatives, the sources said.

"The legal, technical, and financial aspects of the bids will be decided in two weeks, in consultation with the Maharashtra government after the bids close tomorrow," government sources informed. RDIF, or its representatives, are willing to transfer one crore vaccine doses in 60 days to BMC, they said.

The proposed import of Sputnik V, if it happens, will be independent of the manufacture of the vaccine which is being handled in India by Hyderabad-based Dr Reddy's. Sputnik V was developed by the Moscow-based Gamaleya Research Institute of Epidemiology and Microbiology and was registered on August 11, 2020, by the Russian Ministry of Health. It is cleared for use in India but it yet to get clearance from the World Health Organization. The next step in the bidding process for Mumbai involves a letter of interest to be sent to RDIF.

In all cases, the payment must be made to an escrow account of RDIF's, sources said.

Mumbai's success in receiving bids for Covid vaccine supply comes amid instances where Punjab and Delhi have revealed that the private manufacturers they approached had refused them, opting to deal only with the Central government.

MAHARASHTRA GOVT LIKELY TO EASE LOCKDOWN IN FOUR STAGES

Due to fears of a third wave in the state, restrictions will not be completely lifted, but there is scope for some relaxation.

Team Absolute | Mumbai

As the second wave of Covid-19 recedes, the Maharashtra government is preparing to ease the state-wide lockdown in a phased manner owing to the decline in Covid cases and positivity rate in the state.

Health minister Rajesh Tope indicated the same, saying, "Let's review the preparations. If all matters are positive, then only the chief minister and deputy chief minister, in consultation with the experts of the task force, can decide on the relaxation of the restrictions to some extent. Don't be under the illusion that restrictions will be completely removed."

It is learnt that planning to gradually lift the lockdown has begun and will be done by June 30. There is no clarity at this time as to when the easing will begin. Due to fears of a third wave in the state, restrictions will not be completely lifted, but there is scope to provide some relaxation.

In the first stage shops will be allowed to function from 7 am to 2 pm. While in second stage permission to open a few more shops related to daily requirements would be given. These shops will be allowed to open on alternate days. In the third stage Hotels, permit rooms, beer bars, liquor stores to open with restrictions. Hotels will not operate at full capacity, likely to start with a cap of 50 per cent and in the fourth stage Mumbai local, religious places including temples, district ban postponed.

Experts have hypothesised that a third wave of Covid cases is expected to hit in August-September 2021. The state will monitor a number of parameters to carry out the unlock if the caseload increases and the number of expected vaccinations are not done, then another lockdown is possible. The government will use three important criteria when deciding on a lockdown. It will be discussed in an upcoming cabinet meeting and with the task force. Only then will a decision be made.

Lockdown will be decided based on the following factors including Covid positivity rate falling to a single digit, ICU oxygen availability should be more than 60 per cent and Covid mortality rates across the state. Last week, Maharashtra chief minister Uddhav Thackeray had hinted at lifting the lockdown post June 1. However, the Shiv Sena supreme had said that people should not grow complacent and must continue to follow Covid-19 norms to keep the number of cases in check.

Meanwhile, Maharashtra on Sunday reported 26,672 new Covid cases and 594 deaths, taking the state's case tally to 55,79,897 and toll to 88,620. Out of the cumulative number of cases, 3,48,395 are active. As many as 29,177 new recoveries have pushed the total number of patients recovered to 5,14,022. The recovery rate is at 92.12 per cent while case fatality rate has now reached 1.59 per cent. The case positivity rate is recorded at 16.9 per cent.

Moving swiftly, a Mumbai Police team swooped on two cyberbullies based in Haryana and nabbed them for trolling and harassing 'Mahabharat' fame actor Aayush Shah and his sister Mausam Shah, officials said here on Monday.

Following a complaint by the Shah siblings to the VP Road Police Station, Assistant Commissioner of Police (Zone II) Rajendra Chavan, Senior Police Inspector Hemant Bawdhanekar and Police Inspector Avinash Mandale acted quickly.

Using tech-intel, they set up a team which managed to zero in on the duo - the Shahs' ex-employee Rohit Goyal and his partner Harshit D. Mittal - both based in Cheeka, Haryana, for allegedly abusing Mausam Shah on social media and attempting to extort money through blackmail.

A special team of officials comprising Police Sub-Inspector Abhijit Deshmukh, Dinesh Suryawanshi, Santosh More, Jitendra Salve, Maruti Kumbhari and Kumar Patharut probed the matter diligently, and finally managed to track down the accused duo in Haryana last week. At one point, Goyal gave the slip to the police team searching for him in Haryana, but they went undercover and finally managed to nab him from his hometown. Shortly after their arrest, the two accused Goyal and Mittal were brought to Mumbai for further investigations, said the officials.

They were sent to police custody for six days by a Mumbai Court, and on Monday (May 24), further remanded to judicial custody for 14 days.

Aayush is an actor while Mausam is a publicity professional for several celebs and brands, and Goyal was in their employment which they terminated on grounds of non-performance.

Thereafter, Goyal allegedly started issuing threats and demanding large sums of money from the Shah siblings, and when they refused to oblige, they started harassing their friends, threatened them with death threats and demanded money from them also.

Pandemic's 2nd wave affects momentum of road construction, but unlikely to materially change trend: Crisil

Team Absolute | Mumbai

Last fiscal, the national highways sector thumbed a nose at Covid-19 and delivered a stellar performance, riding on higher project awards, record construction, and traffic that surpassed pre-pandemic levels once the lockdowns were lifted in the second half.

Though the second wave of infections has dampened this momentum, it may not have a material bearing on growth for the current fiscal, Crisil said in research report on Monday.

Lower National Highway (NH) awards of only 311 km in April 2021 are unlikely to deter the government from awarding more projects for the full fiscal as ramp-up typically occurs in the fourth quarter, the report added.

A decline in national highway construction to 853 km in April from the peak of 2,189 km in March may seem like a 61% nosedive. But this translates into a decent pace of 28 km per day, or 4x times faster than the April 2020 levels, despite endemic labour shortage.

Road engineering, procurement and construction (EPC) contractors also have learnings from the first wave so scaling up can happen once the economy opens up again, just the way it did last fiscal, the report said.

The less-stringent, localised lockdowns this time around have had a softer impact on national highway traffic, which saw only a 15% decline in April, on-month. This was supported by the implementation of FASTag, which eliminated toll leakages. The National Highways Authority of India (NHAI) awarded projects totaling 4,818 km last fiscal - a three-fiscal high - underscoring the government's sharp focus on the infrastructure sector. Favourable changes in the build-operate-transfer (BOT) and hybrid annuity model (HAM) agreements, and relaxation of bidder eligibility criteria indicated a clear policy shift last fiscal to improve private-sector participation. The trend is expected to continue this fiscal as developers will be able to free up capital through stake sales, Crisil said.

Developers made up for lost time and construction at NHAI projects rose 5% on-year last fiscal. Given the acceleration in project awards, sharper focus on resolving land acquisition issues, and the 'Atmanirbhar Bharat' initiatives to ease liquidity for road EPC players, the pace of construction should continue to increase steadily. Last fiscal, NHAI's HAM (hybrid annuity model) project auctions saw increased competition following relaxation of bidder eligibility criteria. Smaller regional players cornered 33% of the HAM projects awarded. Though their bids are not aggressive, financial closures and project execution would remain the key monitorables in the road ahead. Crisil said that the median rating for large players is A-, while that for small ones is BBB-.

HAM project developers saw an average delay of 3-4 months in achieving financial closure compared with the stipulated time. But the 37% completed projects - awarded over fiscals 2016-18 - have been largely executed on time. About 55-60% of these were executed six months ahead of schedule on average, while the rest lagged by the same amount of time.

Land acquisition issues have persisted even before the pandemic. As many as 35-40% of the projects were granted the appointed date 16 months after the project award and a few were terminated before it because of land-related glitches. As many as 45-50% of under-construction projects that were awarded between fiscals 2016 and 2018 are delayed by 8-9 months on average, beyond their scheduled completion date (SCOD), largely because of de-scoping/delinking, and financing issues pertaining to a few developers.

A large chunk 66% of the projects awarded over fiscals 2019-2021 - are yet to commence construction awaiting financial closures and appointed dates. The under-construction projects face labour issues following the pandemic. The government's steps to extend milestones and SCODs ranging from 3-6 months provides them with the needed cushion.

RAGHAV JUJAL: APPEAL TO FRIENDS, CRITICS TO ADOPT VILLAGES THAT NEED HELP

Team Absolute | Mumbai

Dancer, choreographer and actor Raghav Jujal has been working hard to help people especially in rural Uttarakhand amid the ongoing second wave of the Covid-19 pandemic.

Opening up on what inspired him to take up this initiative, Raghav told IANS: "My acquaintances and I have been receiving distress calls from rural Uttarakhand for oxygen and life saving equipment for Covid-19 positive patients. We connected with some government officers to understand the situation and we were told that help from all quarters at this time is crucial. The government has also assured us to support us in Uttarakhand in all possible manner." The 29-year-old Dehradun boy expressed gratitude to those who have stood beside him in this noble cause. "My friends, acquaintances, followers, our volunteers, friends from the TV and film industry, government officials, and donors from around the world -- I'm amazed and overwhelmed to see how everyone is standing with us in this initiative," he said.

Quizzed on what Raghav and his team have done till now to help the common people in the state, he informed: "We were able to send some D Type cylinders to help PauriGarhwal with the help of officers and field volunteers. This achievement motivated my team, and now we have many more oxygen cylinders, medicines and beds coming for hill districts to save lives of needy villagers in far flung hills of Himalayas.

"At present over 130 volunteers, mostly from different parts of the country, are helping us to help patients find ambulances, oxygen beds, oxygen cylinders, ICU beds, blood donors, etc. People are also working on ground to manage logistics in more than 10 districts."

Opening up on the problems he is facing in this initiative, the dancer said:

"Availability of amenities, equipment, medicines, supplies etc in remote villages was an issue as was the non-availability of skilled technicians to operate oxygen cylinders and concentrators. Managing the logistics between different cities and villages in hills in an emergency situation is another challenge."

Raghav also appeals for more fund to carry out his task.

"So far we have exhausted all our aids and are in the process of raising more funds. We've started a fundraising campaign and need more people who can donate to us as we aim to cover approx 5000 villages." Working with Covid-19 affected people can pose a health risk for him, too.

Asked about the same, Raghav informed: "My family and I have recovered from Covid recently. We couldn't get the time to rest as the second wave of Covid made its way into remote villages. We are following all the protocols like double mask, PPE kit for volunteers working on the ground and sanitisation of medical supply boxes etc."

Quizzed if critics call his gesture a publicity stunt, what would he say in reply? Raghav smiled: "Critics will always have an opinion about anything and everything. I will do whatever it takes to help the people of Uttarakhand. I appeal to my friends, followers and critics to come together and create teams to adopt villages that need help. Any village in the country can be adopted, all we have to do is extend helping hands urgently."

There is a whole gamut of skincare products available right now online and in stores that might give our skin the glow, shine, anti-ageing, smoothness that we all crave. But, what happens when we stop using these products? Many of us have an endless list of skin concerns like pigmentation, others about dryness or oiliness, or pimples, or allergies. However, as you grow older, one of the best ways to take care of your skin is to focus on what you eat, rather than what you apply. Many of us face challenges in deciding what to eat to keep our skin young and healthy, defining a healthy diet, and understanding the role of diet in ageing. Currently, the buzzing topic is finding ways to maintain healthy skin and delay skin ageing. According to a study, there is a close association between sugar and some food processing methods (such as grilling, frying, baking, etc) with skin ageing, and their mechanisms are related to skin advanced glycation end products.

Skin health is closely linked to nutrition, which is required for all biological processes in the skin, from youth to ageing or disease. Nutritional deficiencies and eating habits can both repair and cause damage to the skin.

There are several simple things we don't follow regularly that can cause skin ageing: Not drinking enough water, deficiency of vitamin, proteins, trace elements like zinc, copper, iron, iodine, etc.

Water deficiency in the body can lead to tissue dehydration and functional issues (such as ageing and inflammation). Skin is no exception, and the state of moisture in the body is reflected in the appearance of the skin on the lips and limbs.

IS THERE A LINK BETWEEN NUTRITION AND SKIN AGEING?

It is advisable to at least drink more than two litres of water every day. Almonds are a source of 15 nutrients such as vitamin E, magnesium, protein, copper, zinc, iodine, etc. A new research suggests that there may be more than one reason to add almonds to your daily skin care routine. The study found that eating almonds daily in place of typical calorie-matched snacks improved measures of both wrinkle severity and skin pigmentation in postmenopausal women. Almonds are known to be a rich source of antioxidant vitamin E and deliver essential fatty acids and polyphenols, which make them a great addition to one's daily diet for improved skin health. Lack of Vitamin C can also cause skin disorders. They are available in abundance in oranges, lemons, strawberries and guavas. All of the body's tissue cells are constantly renewed, and only a sufficient protein intake can keep normal tissue renewal and repair going. The skin is no exception, with a 28-day skin renewal cycle being the norm. Apart from almonds that are rich in protein, you could also consume other protein-rich foods such as yoghurt (dahi), lentils and oats for healthier skin.

B16172 is curable

Two doses of either Pfizer and AstraZeneca coronavirus vaccine are highly effective against the B16172 variant, first identified in India, a new study has found.

THE PFIZER VACCINE WAS FOUND TO BE 88 PER CENT EFFECTIVE AT STOPPING SYMPTOMATIC DISEASE FROM THE INDIAN VARIANT TWO WEEKS AFTER THE SECOND DOSE, COMPARED WITH 93 PER CENT EFFECTIVENESS AGAINST THE UK VARIANT.

The vaccines were also found to give a similar level of protection against symptomatic disease from the UK variant (B117), the BBC reported on Sunday. The study, led by Public Health England (PHE), showed that three weeks after the first dose, both vaccines provided only 33 per cent protection against the Indian variant, while it offered 50 per cent effectiveness against the UK variant. The Covid jabs by Pfizer and AstraZeneca are likely to be even more effective at preventing hospital admission and deaths, the researchers said. For the study, a total of 12,675 sequenced cases were included between April 5 and May 16. Of these, B117 was detected from 11,621 cases and B16172 from 1,054. The Pfizer vaccine was found to be 88 per cent effective at stopping symptomatic disease from the Indian variant two weeks after the second dose, compared with 93 per cent effectiveness against the UK variant. On the other hand, the AstraZeneca jab was 60 per cent effective against the Indian variant, compared with 66 per cent against the UK variant, the report said. The difference in effectiveness between the vaccines after two doses might be explained by the fact that rollout of second doses of AstraZeneca was later than for the Pfizer vaccine, which was approved first. Other data shows it takes longer to reach maximum effectiveness with the AstraZeneca vaccine, PHE said. The study looked at data from all age groups from April 5, to cover the period since the Indian variant emerged. There is not enough data to estimate how effective the vaccine is against severe outcomes for the Indian variant, PHE said. There was higher confidence in the data from the first vaccine dose than that from the second as "there are bigger numbers that have been vaccinated with one dose", Jamie Lopez Bernal, consultant medical epidemiologist at PHE and the study's lead author, was quoted as saying.

Further, an impartial analysis will reveal that the generalists' bureaucrats, not the professional doctors manage every sector connected with providing health care facilities in the country. In such a scenario everything becomes expensive and a source of corruption.

India, which is known as pharmacy of the developing nations, is famous for its counterfeit medicines also. Added to this is the fact that the people who manage Drug Pricing are not professionally qualified. This further leads to seeping corruption and inflating prices, which might be 400-500 per cent of the actual production cost. Additionally generic drugs are not encouraged in the country, so ultimately a patient may have to shell out a bigger price for a product which might have cost a few rupees to manufacture.

The mushrooming of private speciality and multi-speciality hospitals across the country has also led to treatment getting costlier, as these hospitals are guided more by the profits than providing welfare or cure.

Way forward To provide universal medical aid to every citizen of the country at the lowest cost we'll have to restructure the whole medical system of the country. First, we'll have to ensure that medical education is in government's hand not with private institutes. Secondly, after becoming a certified doctor, through statutory guidelines every doctor should be made to work at a primary health-care centre, which will make him more aware of the people's troubles and also make him more empathic to his patients.

Thirdly, drug pricing should be through a fair and transparent mechanism and should be focussed at providing the drug at the least cost to the patients and to generate not unhealthy but reasonable profits for the manufacturer. Fourthly, there should be strict laws against pharmaceutical companies approaching individual doctors at hospitals to help promote their products. Lastly and most importantly, the government should ensure that the management and administration of hospitals is in government's hands and not the private sector, so as to ensure providing cost-effective medical facilities to every citizen of the country.

Overall, we may not be able to come out of this vicious cycle of corruption and nepotism, till the time we are able to give the reigns of managing the country's healthcare system in the hands of the professionals instead of the bureaucrats.

COUNTRY'S MEDICAL SYSTEM NEEDS A REVAMP

Asad Mirza

During the continuing Covid pandemic, one fraternity, which has been eulogised for its dedication and services in India, is the medical fraternity. Till date as per the Indian Medical association (IMA), 1017 doctors have died during the current pandemic since last year. The actual numbers may be higher as the doctors association only keeps a record of doctors registered with it. India has more than 12 lakh practicing doctors.

Though every Indian is appreciative of the doctors and para-medical staff for their commitment to their profession and their unparalleled services to the needy, yet the overall medical system in the country seems to have collapsed and this forces us to ponder and analyse the reasons for this and its plausible answers.

India's Health Budget It may not be wrong to say that since independence though India's defence budget has grown at an annual average rate of 9 per cent, with India being the third largest military spender in the world in 2019, its spending on health sector has been coming down.

It is a fact that the government's spending on health sector in India has been stuck at around 1% of GDP for close to 15 years. In 2004, the Government of India made a commitment to raise public spending on health to at least 2-3 per cent of GDP over the next five years. That did not happen. A similar commitment was reiterated in the 2017 National Health Policy, which commits to increasing public spending on health to 2.5 per cent of GDP by 2025. Till now, we have not seen signs of any significant increase in health spending by the government.

The allocation for health in the Rs 20-lakh-crore ($260 billion) stimulus package announced by the central government last year on May 12, amounts to only 0.008 per cent of the country's gross domestic product (GDP).

The package in reality incentivises the private health sector, whose contribution has been negligible during the pandemic. It is reported that private hospitals, handled less than 10 per cent of the critical load of Covid-19 patients, besides charging an exorbitant price for treating Covid-19 patients.

Since Independence, though the successive governments built a robust system of a primary health centre in big villages and densely populated localities, supplemented with a District Hospital in every district of the country. However, over the years this system has been led to rot and collapse, due to the pressure from the business lobbies, which made entry into the healthcare system of the country by 1990. Basic infrastructure in the form of primary health care included maternal and child health care and family welfare services. Specialised health services were provided through government hospitals in the urban areas.

Though since 1951 the number of doctors in India has increased nine times. Yet, due to the population growth the average number of doctors per ten thousand population has increased only by three times.

In addition, India has fared poorly in its universal health coverage (UHC). This is the barometer by which every developed or developing country is judged as to how professionally, emphatically and proactively the respective governments provide medical care to its citizens. UHC is critical to ensure that all, especially the most vulnerable and marginalised groups, such as women, daily labourers, homeless and migrants are cared for and attended to medically at the least or negligible cost. The UN has included achievement of UHC by 2030 in its Sustainable Development Goals and proclaimed December 12 as the International Universal Health Coverage Day. The Planning Commission in 2010, guided by the high-level expert group on UHC for India, envisioned UHC as a means to ensure that all people and communities could access preventive, curative, rehabilitative and palliative health services of assured quality. However, we can't say with confidence that India has been able to achieve any parameters of the UHC. What ails our medical system? Maybe, the current scenario of the poor medical system in the country has arisen due to the crass commercialisation of the healthcare sector in India, from education to management.

First, medical education was made expensive and then the corruption seeped in. This assured seats at the medical colleges for the undergraduate courses and post-graduate courses being allotted to people with deep pockets through the discretionary management quota of the private medical institutes, which mushroomed throughout the country.

Though the medical student or future doctors seemed committed professionally to the ethics and professional standards of their profession, but in reality they too had to recoup the investment, once they became active professionally.

Secondly, the corporate hospitals, which lured doctors at big salaries, further muddied the waters. They were governed mostly with strict corporate policies of generating more business for the management, which was guided only by the profit generation of his enterprise.

Maritime partnerships are key to promoting national interest

BINAY KUMAR SINGH

During the Raisina Dialogue, External Affairs Minister S. Jaishankar, in articulating his description of the 'India Way', said that India is now "more of a decider or a shaper rather than an abstainer". This is a welcome change in India's approach to the region and the world. If India hopes to contribute to shaping the future, it will need to look outwards. This implies shedding archaic baggage of past decades, along with the affliction of being myopically inward looking. Assuming greater roles and responsibilities regionally and globally should form a vital element of the approach alluded to by the Minister.

It is in this context that India's continued unwillingness to join broad, issue-based, multilateral security constructs may need a review. One of these important multilateral groupings is the Combined Maritime Forces or CMF that operate extensively in India's backyard. The CMF website articulates that the multinational maritime partnership "exists to uphold the International Rules-based Order". This is a concept that India's leadership too has been seized of in recent years. Moreover, it is not an alliance but rather a 'partnership'. Why then the reluctance to join? The CMF is an agglomeration of about 34 countries engaged in myriad security tasks in the Arabian Sea and Persian Gulf. Areas that are of critical and of direct interest to India. It has representation from countries spanning the entire globe. East and Southeast Asian representation includes Japan, the Philippines, Malaysia, Thailand, South Korea, and Singapore. Europe finds representation through Belgium, Denmark, France, Germany, Greece, Italy, The Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Spain, and Turkey. Interestingly, all these players are from beyond the region, but have still invested in such a partnership, driven by their individual and collective national interests. Of course, regional players like Saudi Arabia, Jordan, Qatar, Bahrain, Kuwait, Seychelles and UAE are also part of the construct. Then there is Pakistan, which has been part of the CMF for well over a decade and has commanded two of the three Task Forces under the CMF on multiple occasions. In fact, the Pakistan Navy is currently in Command of Combined Task Force 151. Everyone seems to be playing, except India.

If India is to be a 'shaper' and 'decider' on the global stage, it needs to first be more proactive and engaged at the regional stage. Structures such as the CMF have the potential to accrue multiple strategic and operational benefits. For instance, being a part of the construct, Pakistan has a ready platform to promote its own narrative, build professional expertise, gain access to valuable operational information (if not intelligence) and, in essence, punch above its weight. Notably, it is able to play the game with practically no opponent, for instance, to challenge its version of events. From a geo-strategic perspective, the Indian Ocean is progressively becoming the primary arena for global competition and volatility. Threats like terrorism, drugs and gun-running, piracy, etc., all compete for attention. Then there is inherent land-based volatility in the region spilling into the seas like in Somalia, Yemen, and more recently in the Persian Gulf. On top of all these, great-power competition in its latest avatar is also being played out in India's backyard. As USA and China jostle for influence, other players are either hopping on to one bandwagon or hedging their bets. A complex mosaic indeed, and a game requiring keen skill, and more importantly a fresh approach. It is increasingly apparent that 'more of the same' will not do, nor will rigid approaches to dynamic issues foment advantages.

From an operational perspective, the Indian Navy's INS Suvarna undertook an operation off the coast of Kerala recently, seizing over 300 kg of narcotics. A few days earlier, a French Naval Ship FS Guepratte had also carried out a similar operation in the Arabian Sea to seize over 600 kg of narcotics. Two players, one evident goal, but both playing separately. Could they not play in collaboration? Can the whole not be more than the sum of its parts? Will joining an issue-based, non-binding construct such as the CMF not accrue tangible operational benefits for India? As India's defence budget continues to be under stress, harnessing partnerships across the region could be beneficial. From a regional and policy perspective, Prime Minister Modi has provided a vision of Security and Growth for All in the Region -- SAGAR. This alludes to cooperation and is collaborative in its essence. As players of all hues engage in pursuit of common goals in the region, India remains somewhat of an outlier. If India is to truly don the mantle of being a 'Preferred Security Partner', as envisaged by the political leadership, it may be time to think and act differently. It may be time to identify convergences with constructs like the CMF and, indeed, fast-track policy changes that promote India's interests through every possible avenue, including participation in multilateral constructs such as the CMF towards shaping and deciding the direction of the game.

AIMING FOR ZERO LEPROSY

Thirty years ago this month, the World Health Assembly (WHA) adopted a resolution to eliminate leprosy as a public health problem. Today, as the 74th WHA gets under way, WHO Goodwill Ambassador for Leprosy Elimination Yohei Sasakawa is urging countries not to overlook leprosy amid the global coronavirus pandemic and aim for zero leprosy. The resolution adopted at the 44th World Health Assembly in 1991 called for the elimination of leprosy as a public health problem at the global level by the year 2000. "Elimination" was defined as reaching a prevalence rate of the disease of less than 1 case per 10,000 population. This was achieved globally by the end of 2000 and almost all countries have since replicated that success at the national level. Leprosy is not yet a disease of the past, however. Each year, around 200,000 new cases are reported and there are still endemic areas and scattered hot spots of leprosy in many countries. Some 3-4 million people are thought to be living with visible impairments or deformities due to leprosy, while stigma and discrimination towards those with the disease persist. In April, the fight against leprosy entered a new phase with the launch by the WHO of "Towards Zero Leprosy: Global Leprosy (Hansen's disease) Strategy for 2021-2030". The targets include zero leprosy patients in 120 countries and a 70 per cent decrease in new cases detected globally by 2030. Yohei Sasakawa, who has visited over 100 countries since first being appointed Goodwill Ambassador in 2001, welcomes the new strategy and believes it will accelerate momentum towards a leprosy-free world. But he cautioned: "These are ambitious targets, so commitments from national governments will be required if they are to be achieved. I realize these are challenging times, but we mustn't allow leprosy to be overlooked amid COVID-19."

Responsibility in honouring the Gaza ceasefire

Jonathan Zadka

As the hostilities from Gaza have halted, we enter a very delicate and sensitive period in hope that the terrorist organisations in the coastal enclave will indeed honour the ceasefire, and stop the indiscriminate rocket attack against Israel's civil population.

On Thursday night, Israel's Security Cabinet unanimously accepted the recommendation of all of the relevant security officials, the IDF Chief-of-Staff and the head of the ISA, as well as of the heads of the Mossad and the National Security Council, to accept the Egyptian initiative for a mutual ceasefire without pre-conditions. The security officials have briefed the Israeli Cabinet Ministers on Israel's significant achievements in the operation to date, some of which are unprecedented.

During operation "Guardian of the Walls", Israel was able to restore deterrence and bring about cease of hostility (quiet) quickly after the Palestinians provoked the current round of fighting. The ceasefire entered into effect on Friday night, and since, no hostilities have been recorded. However, the actual reality on the ground will determine the future and sustainability of this arrangement.

Hamas is embedded deeply in civilian areas and chose to target civilians while hiding behind civilians using them as human shields. Despite Hamas' blatant disregard for international law or its citizen's wellbeing, Israel did everything feasible in order to prevent, or at least minimize, harm to the Palestinian civilian population, often at the cost of operational advantage. In doing so, Israel employs precautions that exceed the requirements of international law, as well as the practices commonly employed by advanced militaries of other like-minded states. Fighting an enemy that deliberately abuses the Law of Armed Conflict in the most cynical way, raises grave challenges for Israeli soldiers. Nevertheless, Israeli commanders strictly apply international law, including the principle of proportionality, in every military action. One must not ignore the question of who put Gazan civilians in danger in the first place. Hamas pays no price for its war crimes against its own civilians and, indeed, often it is Israel that is wrongfully blamed. This situation provides an incentive to Hamas to continue with its heinous practices.

Make no mistake, the moral responsibility for this deterioration, and for those harmed on both sides, falls entirely on Hamas and the terrorist organizations in Gaza. The rocket fire and terrorist activities against Israeli civilians must be unequivocally condemned by the international community, while recognizing Israel's right to protect its citizens, and working with the Palestinian Authority to immediately stop the incitement and violence.

Hopefully this will be the last cycle of violence initiated by the terrorist organizations from Gaza as their efforts should be directed at providing a better environment for the people of Gaza. For now, we pray for peace and security in our region.

NEPAL OPPN MOVES SC AGAINST HOUSE DISSOLUTION

Kathmandu | Agencies

Nepals opposition on Monday moved the Supreme Court against Prime Minister KP Sharma Olis decision to dissolve Parliament, holding the mid-term elections and President Bidhya Devi Bhandaris rejection to appoint the opposition leader as the next prime minister. On May 21, President Bhandari dissolved the House at the recommendation of the Oli government and announced the mid-term elections for November 12 and 19. Nepali Congress President and leader of the opposition party, Sher Bahadur Deuba, Chairman of the Communist Party of Nepal (Maoist Centre) Pushpa Kamal Dahal, Chairman of the Janata Samajbadi Party Uprendra Yadav, former Prime Minister Madhav Kumar Nepal and dozens of other leaders and lawmakers had moved the Supreme Court. writ petition, which was filed on the behalf of Deuba, demanded the restoration of House, appoint him the next Prime Minister by removing Oli who no longer enjoys a parliamentary majority. Due to the Prime Minister who always thinks he is above the constitution and law, we were forced to move the Supreme Court again and again," said Nepali Congress lawmaker Gagan Thapa.

Oli too had earlier dissolved the house in December last year, but it was reinstated on by the apex court. "We have the support of the majority lawmakers and Supreme Court will look after our grievances," said Thapa. Of the 275 members of the House of Representatives four are suspended and 136 is the magic number needed for a majority. Deuba is backed by 147 lawmakers and all of them signed in the writ petition. All 147 lawmakers from different political parties have verified their signatures at the Supreme Court after the writ petition was filed. Before dissolving the House, President Bhandari had also rejected the claim by Deuba to form the new government saying that both opposition party leader and Oli secured signatures of the majority lawmakers, and hence it was impossible. Oli had claimed that he had the support of 152 lawmakers. The opposition parties called the President's move as "unconstitutional and undemocratic" and had attempted a coup with the support of Prime Minister Oli. Deuba's move was supported by his own party, Nepali Congress, Communist Party of Nepal (Maoist Center), a section of ruling party led by former Prime Minister Madhav Kumar Nepal and a section of the Janata Samajbadi Party. Oli's ruling party, Nepal Communist Party-UML, is a divided house. Out of its 121 lawmakers, 23 lawmakers have signed in favour of making Deuba as Prime Minister. More lawmakers would support Deuba but some of our lawmakers are not well and some are infected by Covid, Birod Khatiwada, a lawmaker said that due to Oli's working style, the ruling party is on the verge of a split. Janata Samajbadi Party is also on the verge of split as 13 out of its 32 lawmakers have decided to support Deuba. A section of the Janata Samajbadi Party is all set to join the Oli government.

15 deaths after volcano eruption in DR Congo

Kinshasa | Agencies

At least 15 people were killed after the eruption of Mount Nyiragongo volcano located on the outskirts of Goma city in the Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC), according to the authorities. Government spokesman Patrick Muyaya said that 15 people were killed while fleeing following the explosion on May 22, reports Xinhua news agency. Nine people were killed in a truck rollover accident, while four others were prisoners trying to break the Munzenze central prison in Goma, the spokesman said. He added that two more people were burned to death on Sunday morning. DRC authorities are yet to release the assessed collateral damage caused by the eruption. Muyaya still urged residents to avoid non-essential activities while seismic activity in the area could still cause damage. Helicopters of the UN peacekeeping mission in the DRC made constant reconnaissance flights after the eruption over the crater to closely monitor the situation. According to local authorities, the lava flow came to a stop at around 4 a.m. on Sunday morning, while local residents started returning to their homes overnight. Around 3,000 people fled Goma for neighbouring Rwanda, while others headed for villages surrounding the city, including Sake. Right after the volcano erupted, the sky above Goma, with a population of nearly 2 million, was illuminated with orange flames.

OFFICIALS OF INDIAN MISSION IN PAK QUARANTINED AFTER COVID CASE

Islamabad: Officials of the High Commission of India in Islamabad along with their family members have been placed under quarantine after one of them tested positive for Covid-19 following their arrival in Pakistan, according to officials. In a statement, Foreign Office spokesman Zahid Hafeez Chaudhri said that a group of 12 High Commission officials and their family members crossed over to Pakistan via the Wagah border on May 22, The Express Tribune reported on Monday. Chaudhri added that although the 12 people carried negative PCR reports, "the spouse of one official tested positive after a rapid antigen test was conducted by Pakistani health officials". Following the detection of the positive case, the National Command and Control Centre (NCOC) advised all 12 officials and their family members along with the driver of the vehicle to undergo the mandatory quarantine. "As per the standard operating procedures (SOPs) agreed between the two countries, if a member of the diplomatic staff or their associates test positive for Covid-19, he/she will be quarantined in the same country instead of being sent back," diplomatic sources told The Express Tribune. As of Monday, Pakistan has reported a total of 903,599 coronavirus cases and 20,308 deaths, while India's overall infection tally and fatality toll stood at 26,752,447 and 303,720, respectively.

the wake of the Covid-19 pandemic situation in the South Asian country. The Dubai-based airline had announced the suspension first on April 24 as a devastating second wave of the pandemic hit India, leading to record high number of daily cases and deaths. In a statement issued on Sunday evening, the airline added: "Furthermore, passengers who have transited through India in the last 14 days will not be accepted to travel from any other point to the UAE. "UAE Nationals, holders of UAE Golden Visas and members of diplomatic missions who comply with the revised published Covid-19 protocols will be exempt for travel." Earlier this month, the UAE's General Authority of Civil Aviation and the National Emergency Crisis and Disasters Management Authority said that the suspension of entry for travellers from India would be extended, Gulf News reported. The Departments said the suspension applied to travellers from India on all flights on national and foreign carriers, as well as for transit passengers coming from India, with the exception of transit flights travelling to the UAE and bound for India.

JAPAN AIRLINE BEGINS TRIAL OF MOBILE APP TO CERTIFY PASSENGERS' COVID STATUS

Tokyo: The All Nippon Airways (ANA), Japan's largest airline, on Monday began testing a mobile app to certify the Covid-19 status of passengers, in a move towards the country's potential issuance of "vaccine passports" aimed at making international travel smoother and safer. The trial of the international Air Transport Association Travel Pass (ATA Travel Pass) will be conducted on the carrier's international flights connecting Tokyo with Honolulu and New York through June 6, Xinhua news agency quoted ANA as saying. "As it is important to create an environment in which passengers can travel with peace of mind, the aviation industry has high hopes for the IATA app," ANA executive Tadashi Matsushita, who is heading the project, said. The smartphone app, developed by a global industry body, works by displaying passengers' polymerase chain reaction (PCR) test results and vaccination status. "IATA Travel Pass enables passengers to easily verify whether they meet the Covid-19 testing requirements of their destination and share their test results with airlines and authorities in a secure way," ANA President Yuji Hirako was quoted as saying previously. Passengers involved in the trial at Tokyo's Haneda airport on Monday said the process was smooth as they only had to show their phones and no other documents. ANA has said that 32 airlines have committed to joining the trial, with the app similar to one previously tested called CommonPass, which has been developed with the involvement of the World Economic Forum. CommonPass allows passengers to prove their Covid status by having a QR code on their smartphones scanned prior to boarding a flight, and, ostensibly, in the near future, making overseas travel digitalised and standardised for those who have been vaccinated against the virus.

Suu Kyi appears in court after long public absence

Nay Pyi Taw: Myanmar's ousted de facto leader Aung San Suu Kyi appeared in court on Monday, her first in-person appearance since the February 1 coup, to face a charge of "incitement to sedition". The sedition charge is the most serious she faces, but she is also accused of violating a state secrets law and breaking coronavirus containment measures, reports dpa news agency. Defence lawyer ThaeMaungMaung said lawyers were able to meet with Suu Kyi separately before the hearing and they discussed the legal matter. The 75-year-old has been under house arrest since the coup. dpa news agency that Suu Kyi was in good health. Her next court hearing is scheduled for June 7. While Suu Kyi has answered questions in court via video link in recent weeks, her lawyers have been unable to meet her in person. A special courtroom had been set up for the hearing in the capital Nay Pyi Taw, not far from Suu Kyi's home, lawyer Min Min Soe told dpa. Nationwide protests against the coup have been met with fierce army reprisals that left hundreds of people dead. In an interview published on May 22 by Chinese-language broadcaster Phoenix, Myanmar's military ruler, Min Aung Hlaing claimed the media had vastly overstated the number of dead, putting it at "around 300", according to the Assistance Association for Political Prisoners monitoring group, at least 818 people have been killed so far, while more than 5,300 have been detained.

Israel warned about actions against Palestinians in E. Jerusalem

The warning was issued by Presidential spokesman Nabil Abu Rudeineh here on Sunday after social media activists published short videos of Israeli police forces attacking Palestinian worshippers at the Al-Aqsa Mosque in East Jerusalem, reports Xinhua news agency.

Ramallah | Agencies

Palestine has warned Israel about actions against Palestinians, especially in East Jerusalem, noting they may lead to more tension in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip. The warning was issued by Presidential spokesman Nabil Abu Rudeineh here on Sunday after social media activists published short videos of Israeli police forces attacking Palestinian worshippers at the Al-Aqsa Mosque in East Jerusalem, reports Xinhua news agency. "The Israeli government is fully responsible for sabotaging the efforts of ending the Israeli aggression," Abu Rudeineh said. Renewing the measures against the Palestinians in East Jerusalem "would sabotage the international and Arab efforts to reconstruct what had been destroyed in the Gaza Strip", he added. Abu Rudeineh called on the US "to immediately intervene to stop the provocative Israeli actions and measures". On May 10, the Israeli police restricted Arab worshippers' movement in and around Al-Aqsa Mosque in the Old City of Jerusalem, stirring up tension and violence that soon expanded to the entire West Bank and Gaza. Later, militant groups in Gaza fired barrages of rockets toward Israel. In response, Israeli fighter jets carried out dozens of airstrikes on the Palestinian coastal enclave. The trade of fire that lasted 11 days and ended on May 31 with an Egypt-brokered ceasefire killed 248 Palestinians and 12 Israelis, according to official figures from the two sides.

Philippines' 2nd most active volcano spews steam-laden plumes

Manila | Agencies

The Philippines second most active volcano on Monday spewed steam-laden plumes reaching 1 kilometre high following days of volcanic earthquakes, officials said. The Philippine Institute of Volcanology and Seismology (Phivolcs) has monitored hundreds of quakes since last week at Taal Volcano in Batangas province, 66 km south of Manila, dpa news agency reported. "Low-level background tremors" have also persisted since April 8, the institute said in its bulletin. On Monday, an "upwelling of hot volcanic fluids in (the volcano's) lake ... generated plumes that reached 1 kilometre tall", while sulphur dioxide emissions remained high amid steady ground deformation, the bulletin added. "These parameters indicate persistent magmatic activity at shallow depths beneath the edifice," Phivolcs said, adding that alert level two remained at Taal. "Sudden steam-driven or phreatic explosions, volcanic earthquakes, minor ashfall, and lethal accumulations or expulsions of volcanic gas can occur and threaten areas within and around (the volcano island)," it added. Taal last erupted on January 12, 2020, forcing more than 376,000 people to flee their homes in surrounding towns. It has erupted 33 times since 1572. Thirty-nine people died due to illness while in evacuation centres and accidents caused by thick ash fall, according to the provincial government. The authorities did not specify how many of those deaths were directly related to the volcano's eruption. It is a popular tourist destination for its picturesque crater lake. Taal also has the distinction of being the only volcano in the world within a lake on an island.

Iran to continue nuke talks until final deal: Rouhani

Tehran | Agencies

Iranian President Hassan Rouhani said that the country will continue talks in Vienna over the 2015 nuclear deal until a final agreement is reached. Despite all the pressures from US-imposed sanctions and "economic war" and the economic consequences of Covid-19 pandemic, Tehran's industry has been able to achieve production growth in the past Iranian calendar year ending March 20, Xinhua news agency quoted the President as saying on Sunday. The US' maximum pressure campaign against Iran has proved "ineffective", he noted, lauding what he called the "triumph" of the Iranian nation in the face of the American sanctions. Earlier, Rouhani said the "main agreement" to revive the nuclear deal, commonly known as the Joint Commission of the Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action (JCPOA), has already been reached in the talks, and Iran's counterparts have agreed on the need to lift "all main sanctions". On May 19, the fourth round of negotiations on the deal ended in Vienna, and the participants agreed to reconvene this week. The US administration under former President Donald Trump withdrew from the JCPOA in May 2018 and unilaterally re-imposed sanctions on Iran. In response to the US' decision, Iran gradually stopped implementing parts of its JCPOA commitments from May 2019. However, incumbent US President Joe Biden has vowed to return to the deal and ease sanctions against Iran. The JCPOA Joint Commission began its meetings on April 6 in Vienna to continue previous discussions in view of a possible return of the US to the agreement and on how to ensure the full and effective implementation of the landmark deal.

JUVENTUS, MILAN SEAL CHAMPIONS LEAGUE SPOTS

Rome | Agencies

The race for the Champions League in Serie A came to an end on Sunday, as Juventus joined AC Milan to move into the prestigious competition, knocking out Napoli.

Inter Milan and Atalanta had secured Champions League spots before the match day, with Milan, Napoli, and Juventus vying for the last two tickets. The trio was locked together going into the final round, as Napoli were level with Milan on 76 points, one point ahead of Juventus, Xinhua reports.

Juventus needed to beat Bologna in the final battle and hope either Milan or Napoli fail to wrap up all three points.

Juventus were 3-0 up in the first half at Dall'Ara stadium, and Alvaro Morata bagged his second after the break, Riccardo Orsolini scored a consolation goal for the home side.

AC Milan also pocketed the three points they needed by winning away to Atalanta 2-0 with a pair of penalties from Franck Kessie, but Napoli only snatched one point after a 1-1 draw with Hellas Verona.

As a result, Milan, Atalanta, and Juventus rank from second to fourth respectively, while Napoli is placed fifth.

Newly-crowned Inter finished their 2020-21 season in style, crushing Udinese 5-1, with five different players on the scoresheet.

Also on Sunday, Sassuolo beat Lazio 2-0, Spezia shared the spoils with Roma at 2-2, Torino drew with Benevento 1-1.

Liverpool and Chelsea confirmed their qualification for the last two places in next season's Champions League after a dramatic last day in the Premier League.

Sadio Mane scored a goal in each half as Liverpool breezed past Crystal Palace 2-0 to finish the season in third place, Xinhua reports.

Liverpool's win lifted them above Chelsea, who will return to the Champions League no matter what happens in next weekend's final against Manchester City, despite a 2-1 defeat to Aston Villa.

Goals from Bertrand Traore after 43 minutes and Anwar El Ghazi's 52nd-minute penalty put Villa 2-0 up before Ben Chilwell pulled a goal back for Chelsea, who had Cesar Azpilicueta sent off in the last minute of the match.

Chelsea's defeat opened the door for Leicester City to finish above them and claim the last Champions League spot, but Leicester suffered a 4-2 defeat at home to Tottenham.

Anger in Japan over 'sacrifices' needed to host Olympics

Tokyo | Agencies

International Olympic Committee (IOC) president Thomas Bach and vice-president John Coates were the target of social media anger in Japan on Monday over their insistence that the rearranged Tokyo Games should take place amid the coronavirus pandemic.

Coates on Friday had said "absolutely yes" that the Games should go on from July 23 even if host city Tokyo remained in a state of emergency.

And Bach's comments reportedly made to a meeting of the international hockey federation (FIH) that "some sacrifices" were needed were also not readily accepted by many in Japan, whose population is firmly against the Games taking place according to recent polls, reports DPA. The IOC on Monday said Bach was not referring to sacrifices from the Japanese population but rather "everyone in the Olympic community".

This was needed to keep the sporting aspect of a toned-down Games alive so "the athletes can fulfil their Olympic dreams," Bach was quoted by the IOC.

Local organisers insist the Games can go ahead safely despite Japan fighting a fourth wave of the pandemic and Tokyo being continually placed in states of emergency -- the latest extending to the end of this month.

Foreign fans will not be permitted to attend the Games, which were delayed from last year, while the numbers attending from federations, sponsors and media have been cut.

Late last month, the Tokyo Olympic Games organising committee had said it had prepared for the possibility of holding the event without spectators.

"If the situation is expected to cause problems for the medical system, in order to put the highest priority on safety and security, there may come a time when we have to decide to go ahead with no spectators," Seiko Hashimoto, the organising committee president, had said in April.

Martins's work ethic will come in handy for India: FC Goa coach

Team Absolute | Goa

Midfielder Glan Martins's work ethic will help India football team during 2022 FIFA World Cup and 2023 AFC Asian Cup Qualifiers in Doha, said FC Goa coach Juan Ferrando.

The 26-year-old Martins made the India squad for three FIFA World Cup Qualifiers on the back of a creditable performance for FC Goa in AFC Champions League Group Stage matches in Goa last month.

FC Goa drew three games against top Asian teams such as Qatar's Al Rayyan and UAE's Al Wahda, while losing two by narrow margins.

Martins played a key role in midfield. "Since Glan joined FC Goa in January, he has been working very hard. He has been very involved in everything the team does -- both in training sessions and in games. He has shown himself as a player who is willing to learn, improve and help the team achieve its goals.

"I think the most outstanding thing about Glan is his involvement in daily work and in understanding the game. He makes good choices and involves the teammates playing around him. Glan reads the game well and most importantly, enjoys himself on the pitch," Ferrando told indiansuperleague.com.

"In both the 2020-21 ISL and the AFC Champions League, the whole team has progressed as a group and each of the players on an individual level. That's what it's all about. I hope that Glan continues progressing in FC Goa and in national team. Regular game time usually improves a player's performance with each passing game," added Ferrando. The Sunil Chhetri-led India will play Qatar on June 3, Bangladesh on June 7 and Afghanistan on June 15.

Shapovalov pulls out of French Open with shoulder injury

London | Agencies

Canadian Denis Shapovalov has pulled out of the French Open with a shoulder injury.

The 14th-ranked Canadian, 22, had recently hit form on the European clay. Shapovalov pushed 13-time French Open champion Rafael Nadal all the way in the third round in Rome, holding two match points, and he backed that up by reaching the final of the Geneva Open on Saturday.

But, after losing to Casper Ruud, Shapovalov underwent tests on a sore shoulder and has decided not to play in the year's second grand slam, which starts on Sunday, DPA reports. Shapovalov tweeted: "I'm saddened to share that after consulting with my medical team I've made the difficult decision to withdrawal from @rolandgarros."

Unfortunately my shoulder has been bothering me and while medical tests look good, it is for the best to rest. See you in 2022, Roland-Garros."

Shapovalov has played in the main draw at Roland Garros three times, with his best performances coming in 2018 and 2020, when he reached the second round.

NAGAL TO FACE MACORCA IN 1ST ROUND

Paris: India's ace tennis player Sumit Nagal will face Roberto Macorca of Italy in the first round of French Open qualifiers on Tuesday. Nagal, ranked 142 currently, will face Macorca (ranked 191) for the first time. The Indian has won two and lost five matches on the ATP Tour this season. He lost in the first round of the Australian Open this year after qualifying for the second round of the US Open in 2020.

American teenager Coco Gauff and Spain's 23-year-old Paula Badosa made significant movement in the WTA rankings released on Monday, following their title triumphs at the Emilia-Romagna Open (Parma) and the Serbia Ladies Open (Belgrade) over the weekend.

Coco, who had moved up five places to 35 in the rankings last week, jumped another five spots to 25 in singles following her title triumph in Parma, where she defeated China's Wang Qiang 6-1, 6-3.

Badosa moved up 10 places to a career-high 34 following her Belgrade triumph.

There was no movement in the Top-10, with Australia's Ashleigh Barty leading the rankings, followed by Japan's Naomi Osaka and Romania's Simona Halep.

The 17-year-old Coco also became the youngest woman to sweep both the singles and doubles titles at a WTA event since Maria Sharapova in 2004.

At 17 years, 72 days old, the American is also the youngest player to make her top-25 debut since September 12, 2005, when Nicole Pietrangeli did so at 16 years, 142 days.

Coco is the youngest American to make her top-25 debut in nearly 23 years (Serena Williams, June 8, 1998).

After starting the year at No.48, Coco was the No.9-ranked American and has currently improved her current position as fifth in line behind No. 24 Madison Keys, No.14 Jennifer Brady, No. 8 Serena Williams and No. 5 Sofia Kenin. In four clay-court events in 2021, Coco owns a 12-3 record on the surface.

WILL BE WARY OF 'DANGEROUS' PANT IN WTC FINAL: NZ BOWLING COACH

London: New Zealand will be wary of the danger that Rishabh Pant poses when they face India in the World Test Championship (WTC) final, said the team's bowling coach Shane Jurgensen. India play New Zealand in the inaugural WTC title from June 18 to 22 at the Ageas Bowl in Southampton. "Well, Pant is an extremely dangerous player who can change the game on its head. We saw how well he did it against Australia and England. He's extremely positive-minded, but with that comes potentially the opportunity to take his wicket," Jurgensen told The Telegraph.

Pant shook off the bad form he went through in 2020 during India's tour of Australia, in which he played an integral role in his team recording a second consecutive Test series win Down Under, despite the absence of a number key players. He has scored 515 runs in six Tests at an average of 64.37 this year.

Aussie batsman Hodge asks BCCI to 'locate' IPL dues

Sydney | Agencies

Former Australia batsman Brad Hodge took to twitter to bring to the Indian cricket board's notice unpaid dues for his services at Kochi Tuskers Kerala (KTK) in the Indian Premier League's (IPL) 2011 season.

"Players are still owed 35% of their money earned from ten years ago from the @IPL representing Kochi tuskers. Any chance @BCCI could locate that money?," wrote Hodge on his twitter handle while reacting to a report from former England international Isabelle Westbury on India women cricketers not getting their prize money from last year's T20 World Cup. The right-handed Hodge played 14 matches for KTK, scoring 285 runs at an average of 35.63.

KTK franchise was terminated by the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) after only one season in the IPL and could not participate from the 2012 season since the owners could not pay the 10 per cent bank guarantee element of the franchise fee.

KTK was bought for Rs. 1,550 crore. The owners had to pay Rs. 156 crore every year, i.e. 10 per cent amount as bank guarantee every year which they failed to. Rendezvous Sports World, one of the co-owners of the franchise, took BCCI to the Bombay High Court contesting the termination. The court ordered BCCI to pay the franchise Rs 550 crore.

Hockey India adds 126 umpires and judges for competitions

Hockey India (HI) said on Monday that it has added 126 candidates to its list of umpires and judges following two sets of online workshops from September last year till March 2021.

The candidates have become eligible to be appointed for HI-sanctioned sub-junior and junior category tournaments.

Level 1 was designed to provide the candidates with basic knowledge of the latest international hockey federation (FIH) rules and regulations, among others.

India women cricketers need a players' body: Guha

London | Agencies

Former England woman cricketer Isa Guha wants a players' association for India women cricketers after British newspaper The Telegraph reported that Indian cricket board hasn't paid prize money due to them for T20 World Cup in 2020. Harmanpreet Kaur-led India had reached final of the tournament.

"Women are made to feel grateful for progress but there is still so much to be done to reach equity (& that isn't just equal pay). Players associations are a vital part of reaching this. India women will dominate the global stage when as much thought goes into their game as the men," wrote Guha while quote-tweeting the report on her timeline.

"While the men are at a different level there are still base level equities in player welfare. Things like payment/contract times, well-being support networks, domestic structure [professional] support, maternity provisions, retirement planning

are all things can be gained from having a PA

(players' association)," she added on her timeline.

On Sunday, a report by former England woman international and sports writer Isabelle Westbury in The Telegraph claimed that Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) is yet to give prize money due to Indian players from T20 World Cup that ended on March 8, 2020.

Westbury was even more scathing in her attack on Indian board following a report in an India media outlet quoting the BCCI as saying that it was unable to pay since it received prize money late from the International Cricket Council (ICC). She called the claim a 'cover-up' as the ICC gave BCCI the prize money by April, 2020.

"However, dismayed that, even when exposed, the cover up continues. The BCCI received the prize money from the ICC by April 2020 latest. Not 'late last year'," tweeted Westbury.

Her report said that Australia's women players got their prize money by April, 2020 and England's players by May, 2020.

Listed developers' sales share increases amid pandemic

Team Absolute | New Delhi

The overall housing sales share of the top eight listed realty players has surged amid the pandemic.

As per latest Anarock data, out of the total sales of around 93,140 units in the first nine months of FY2021 across the top seven cities, the top eight listed players' share stood at 22 per cent while non-listed leading players' share was 18 per cent. Non-branded developers accounted for a 60 per cent share. In contrast, of the total 2.03 lakh units sold in top seven cities in FY2017, the share of these top eight listed players was the lowest at about 6 per cent while that of non-listed leading players stood at 11 per cent and others (non-branded) had a whopping 83 per cent share.

The increased share of these top eight listed players over the years provides a clear roadmap of home buyers' evolving preferences.

The top eight listed developers considered are Brigade Enterprises, Godrej Properties, Kolte-Patil, Mahindra Lifespaces, Oberoi Realty, Prestige Estates, Puravankara, and Sobha. The top listed players together sold as much as 21.23 million square feet area in the first three quarters of financial year 2021 despite the first wave of COVID-19, rising by 2 per cent against the corresponding period in FY2020, when 20.88 million square feet were sold. Among the listed players, Godrej Properties sold the maximum in terms of area (around 6.64 million square feet) in this period, followed by Bengaluru-based Prestige Estates with around 5.04 million square feet space. Anuj Puri, Chairman of Anarock

Property Consultants said: "After the roll-out of structural policies including RERA and GST, organized and branded players' dominance has risen exponentially. Homebuyer demand has tilted towards branded products. Both listed and leading developers have been catering to this new demand with projects for the affordable and mid-income segments, rather than playing only to the luxury homes gallery." This demand-supply equilibrium going during the pandemic, when housing demand rose significantly, he said. "The top eight listed players' sales share increased to 22 per cent from April to December 2020 - a major increase from 6 per cent in FY 2017. Even non-listed leading developers have ramped up their share from 11 per cent in FY 2017 to 18 per cent now. It is a major and ongoing realignment in residential real estate demand and supply," Puri said.

Remote job searches soared to 966% in April: Report

New Delhi | Agencies

As a majority of Indians are working from home, searches for 'remote work' skyrocketed to 966 per cent in April 2021, from the same period last year, according to data from job site Indeed.

The data revealed that searches for remote work were higher across age groups - 60-64, 15-19 and 40-44 at 13 per cent each, while the searches in the age groups 35-39 and 20-24 were 12 per cent each.

The data also revealed that Bengaluru topped the chart for remote job searches with 16 per cent followed by Delhi (11 per cent), Mumbai (8 per cent), Hyderabad (6 per cent) and Pune (7 per cent).

This burgeoning demand for remote jobs is backed by the fact that geographical boundaries are blurring while employers hire and the job seekers scout for opportunities.

"The Covid-19 pandemic has fast tracked the adoption of technology across functions in India and has set in motion the largest work from home experiment of our generation. Our data has reflected the same showing a consistent rise in searches for remote jobs," said Sashi Kumar, Managing Director, Indeed India, in a statement on Monday.

The pandemic has defined the significance of skills as the top priority for hiring as opposed to location of the job seeker, the data showed. It is expected that employers would increase work-from-home options, embracing hybrid work as the future of work. With the increasing need for technical integration across functions and sectors, job roles that require technical expertise to ensure seamless working have been the most in demand. The data also revealed that technical support specialist (25 per cent) emerged as one of the most searched remote jobs followed by data entry clerk (22 per cent), IT recruiter (16 per cent), content writer (16 per cent) and back end developer (15 per cent). "As businesses transitioned digitally, it has become a norm for employees and companies to work from anywhere and this change enabled by technology will see more and more companies turning to hybrid work in the future. We believe that going forward, recruiters will focus on role and skills based hiring, thus blurring geographical boundaries," Kumar said.

CMFRI'S INNOVATIVE TECH ENSURES BUMPER HARVEST OF GREEN MUSSEL

Kochi | Agencies

Experimental farming on a commercial scale with participation of local fish farmers, for the first time in Kerala, by the Central Marine Fisheries Research Institute (CMFRI) at Moothakunnam near here has yielded a bumper harvest of green mussel.

The attempt has shown that innovative farming technology Integrated Multi-Trophic Aquaculture (IMTA), which combines appropriate proportions of fish, seaweeds and filter feeding bivalves to create balanced systems for environmental and economic stability, is economically feasible and well-suited to Kerala's ecosystem, as per CMFRI experts. The CMFRI started the venture in December last year as part of its research initiative for developing a sustainable cage fish farming model suitable to Kerala's ecosystem. In the first harvest among the three crops of the integrated farming, around one tonne of green mussel was yielded from 150 strings hung around as many as four fish cages. Individual mussel grew to the size of 72 grams which is a successful growth rate in mussel farming. A scientific team led by CMFRI's Principal Scientist, Shoji Joseph, also observed that the fishes inside the cage attained better growth and seaweed being cultured around the cage also showed healthy status with fast growth rate. The fishes will be harvested by the end of the next month.

Joseph said that apart from enhanced income through diversified crops from a particular area during the same time period, the IMTA helps maintain environmental sustainability.

Covid decline pushes equities higher, energy stocks climb

Team Absolute | Mumbai

India's benchmark equity indices ended mildly higher after a volatile trade session on Monday.

The indices opened higher but soon sold off in the first hour of trade.

However, healthy buying in power, realty, oil and gas, and capital goods kept pushing the market higher.

Globally, stocks struggled for momentum as investors awaited key US inflation readings for guidance on monetary policy, despite news of China's clampdown on mining and trading of cryptocurrencies.

The S&P BSE SENSEX closed the day's trade at 50,651.90, higher by 111.42 points, or 0.22 per cent, from its previous close.

Similarly, the Nifty50 of the National Stock Exchange ended the trade session at 15,197.70, up 22.40 points, or 0.15 per cent, from its previous close. "Large caps are finding it difficult to rise as a group while the broader market still keeps doing well. 15,256-15,108 is the band for the Nifty for the near term." "Market sentiments were positive as fresh cases continued to be below 3L mark for almost a week now and earnings season has been healthy so far."

Peak margin levy will lead to export of business to overseas markets

ANMI has written to the Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI), expressing its opinion that there is a great disconnect between what is being collected from clients and what needs to be collected vis-a-vis the attendant risks arising in intraday trades. ANMI, however, reiterates that they are not against collection of intraday margin levied on clients nor the levy of full margin on the Clearing member irrespective of the nature of the trade.

Team Absolute | New Delhi

Association of National Exchanges Members of India (ANMI) has urged regulatory authorities to reconsider the proposed 100 per cent levy on day trade peak margins as the margin is 300 per cent of what should have been the actual levy. ANMI has written to the Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI), expressing its opinion that there is a great disconnect between what is being collected from clients and what needs to be collected vis-a-vis the attendant risks arising in intraday trades. ANMI, however, reiterates that they are not against collection of intraday margin levied on clients nor the levy of full margin on the Clearing member irrespective of the nature of the trade.

Sharing its data with the regulator, ANMI pointed out that the rate of overnight margins, levied on intraday trades are almost 3.33 times more than what is warranted based on the risks of the trade.

In the current margin structure, the current levy of Peak margins is actually 300 per cent of the margin which should have been actually levied," said ANMI spokesperson.

"The levy of margin being a high multiple on intraday trades is also causing effects elsewhere. Also, nowhere in the world, clients are required to pay upfront peak margins.

Already open interest in Nifty is more in Singapore compared to India though it is a product based on Indian stocks. Indian markets are already at a disadvantage compared to SGX in terms of margins, time of trading, transaction cost and taxation. Any further unwarranted restrictions will result in export of business from India to overseas markets.

According to ANMI, the spike in peak margin will bring change in market behaviour by shifting from future to option buying and a shift in the mind-set of people gravitating more towards options trading and moving away from Stock / Index Futures and Stock Options. They also pointed out that higher margins would also imply prolonged carry forward of loss making trades giving a false sense of security. Due to the shift, hedging opportunities have seen a dip due to lower volumes in capital market and commodity markets have been greatly impacted.

ANMI's concern over the peak margin issues rises as the deadline for the increase of current margin of 50 per cent to 75 per cent from June 1, 2021 is closing in. Between December 2020 and February 2021, traders were supposed to maintain at least 25 per cent of the peak margin. This margin was raised to 50 per cent between March 2021 and May 2021 and is proposed to be raised to 75 per cent between June 2021 and August 2021 and finally to 100 per cent from September 1st onwards.

ANMI hopes that the regulating authorities will consider our suggestions and bring the peak margin back within the band of 25 per cent to 33.33 per cent from the current rate of 50 per cent.
