IT COULD ALSO LIMIT POTENTIAL TRADE-OFFS, SUCH AS HYDROPOWER REDUCING FOOD SECURITY OR IRRI-GATION INCREASING ENERGY CONSUMPTION.

s climate impacts intensify across the globe, nations must dramatically increase funding and implementation of actions designed to help vulnerable nations and communities adapt to the climate storm, a new United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP) report said on Thursday.

Released ahead of COP27, the latest round of climate talks at Sharm El-Sheikh in Egypt, the 'Adaptation Gap Report 2022: Too Little, Too Slow - Climate adaptation failure puts world at risk' finds that global efforts in adaptation planning, financing and implementation are not keeping pace with the growing risks.According to UNEP's Emissions Gap Report -- the recently released sister publication of the Adaptation Gap Report -- Nationally Determined Contributions (NDCs) under the Paris Agreement point towards global warming of 2.4-2.6 degrees Celsius by the end of the century. Research from the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) says that climate risks will intensify with each tenth of a degree.

Such trends mean that adaptation must take centre stage alongside mitigation in the global response to climate change, the report finds. Since even ambitious investments in adaptation cannot fully prevent climate Combined adaptation and mitigation finance flows in 2020 fell at least $17 billion short of the $100 billion pledged to developing countries. Significant acceleration is needed if a doubling of 2019 finance flows by 2025 is to be met, as urged by the Glasgow Climate Pact. The estimated annual adaptation needs are $160-340 billion by 2030 and $315-565 billion by 2050.

The authors conclude that strong political will is needed to increase adaptation investments and outcomes.

Crises such as the war in Ukraine and the Covid-19 pandemic cannot be allowed to derail international efforts to increase adaptation. Unprecedented political will and more long-term investments in adaptation are urgently needed to avoid the adaptation gap from widening.

New Delhi: The rupee on Thursday crossed the 83-mark against the US dollar, hours after the US Fed hiked interest rates for the fourth time this year. It touched 83.08 before ending the day at 83.02.

The rupee had earlier opened at 83 against the dollar. The US Federal Reserve on Wednesday raised key rates by 75 basis points, the fourth such hike by it this year, to curtail rising inflation. The chairman of US Fed, Jerome Powell, was quoted as saying by reports that the bank is firmly committed to lowering inflation.

The aggressive rate hike by the Federal Reserve will put further pressure on the stock markets globally, especially on rising economies like India.The already weakened rupee too is likely to be impacted.

While the rupee has crossed the 83 mark against the US dollar on quite a few occasions this week in anticipation of the US Fed announcing a rate hike, now that it has actually happened, the domestic currency may weaken further, as was visible on Thursday.

SHUNNED BY HOSPITAL, WOMAN DELIVERS TWIN BABIES AT HOME IN K'TAKA, ALL 3 DIE

Tumakuru: In a heart wrenching incident, a woman and her new-born twins died on Thursday, after the district hospital authorities refused to admit her for delivery here. Thirty-year-old Kasturi from Tamil Nadu and her two new-born babies died at her residence at Bharathinagar locality in Tumakuru city.

Protesting the hospital's apathy, the locals staged a protest and demanded suspension of the concerned doctors and staff.

The family and relatives of the woman also refused to cremate the bodies until action is taken against the guilty. According to locals, Kasturi had come from Tamil Nadu and was staying at a rented place with her daughter. Kasturi, who was pregnant, developed labour pain on Wednesday evening.

She was taken to the government district hospital in an auto. But, the authorities and staff of the government district hospital refused admission in the absence of Aadhaar and Mother's card.

The doctors also refused to provide her treatment and admit her to the hospital despite the woman being in labour. They asked her to be taken to Victoria hospital in Bengaluru.

As she did not have money to go to Bengaluru, Kasturi returned home. On Thursday, she gave birth to twin boys but died due to profuse bleeding.

Following the death of their mother, the twins also died.The public held the doctors of the government hospital responsible for the deaths.

he Supreme Court on Thursday affirmed the death penalty for Lashkar-e-Taiba (LeT) terrorist Mohammad Arif alias Ashfaq for carrying out the December 2000 Red Fort attack, saying there was a direct attack on the unity, integrity and sovereignty of India.

Dismissing Arif's review plea against capital punishment, a bench comprising Chief Justice U.U. Lalit and Justices S. Ravindra Bhat and Bela M. Trivedi said: "the aggravating circumstances evident from the record and specially the fact that there was a direct attack on the unity, integrity and sovereignty of India, completely outweigh the factors which may even remotely be brought into consideration as mitigating circumstances on record.'

Arif, a Pakistan national, was held guilty of murder, criminal conspiracy, and waging war against the country. The bench concluded there is nothing on record which can be taken to be a mitigating circumstance in favour of the review petitioner."The suggestion that there is a possibility of retribution and rehabilitation, is not made out from and supported by any material on record," said Chief Justice Lalit, who authored the judgment on behalf of the bench.

The Chief Justice said in conclusion, it must therefore be observed that even after eschewing circumstances, which were directly attributable to the CDRs relied upon by the prosecution, the other circumstances on record do clearly spell out and prove beyond any doubt the involvement of the review petitioner in the crime in question.

rime Minister Narendra Modi on Thursday said that for a developed country, trust and credibility are critical, noting that the earlier governments failed to earn people's trust.

Addressing a programme marking the vigilance awareness week of the Central Vigilance Commission (CVC) at Vigyan Bhawan, Modi said, "Earlier the governments not only lost people's confidence but they also failed to trust people.

"We have been trying to change the system of scarcity and pressure for the last eight years. The government is trying to fill the gap between the supply and demand," he added.

The Prime Minister also launched the Management System portal of CVC on the occasion.

"For a developed India, trust and credibility are critical." he said further, adding that technology, service saturation and Aatmnirbharta are the three key ways of tackling corruption. "For a developed India, we have to develop such an administrative ecosystem with zero tolerance on corruption," Modi emphasised. He suggested to the CVC officials present on the occasion to devise a way of ranking departments on the basis of pending corruption cases and publish the related reports on a monthly or quarterly basis.

"When you take action with conviction, the whole nation stands with you," said the Prime Minister.

Touching upon the worrying trend, the Prime Minister said, "We have seen that many times the corrupt people are glorified in spite of being jailed even after being proven to be corrupt.'

"This situation is not good for Indian society. Even today, some people give arguments in favour of the corrupt who have been found guilty. It is very necessary for such people, such forces to be made aware of their duty by society. In this also concrete action taken by your department has a big role," he said. Principal Secretary to the Prime Minister, P.K. Tith the schedule for the arrival of Congress' Bharat Jodo Yatra in Madhya Pradesh getting closer, the leaders from the ruling BJP and the opposition Congress have sharpened their attacks on each other. The yatra is scheduled to enter Burhanpur district on November 21.

Top leaders of the state BJP, including Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan, state Home Minister Narottam Mishra and state BJP president Vishnu Dutta Sharma and other party leaders have started reminding the people of the promises made by Rahul Gandhi during his campaign in 2018 Assembly elections in the state. The BJP is also saying that the Bharat Jodo Yatra "has become more like a physical fitness test" as its lead campaigner, Rahul Gandhi, can be seen doing pushups and running.

While addressing gatherings, Shivraj Singh Chouhan attacks the yatra. On some occasions, he also reiterated the first Prime Minister, Jawaharlal Nehru, as the "divider' pg India.

"On one side there is Narendra Modi who is working for the country and on the other side there is Rahul baba (Rahul Gandhi) who is doing Bharat Jodo Yatra. Rahul Gandhi, do tell us - who did the 'todo' (divided) of India? In 1947 with an urge to get power at the earliest, if someone divided the country it was Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru and the Congress," Chouhan had said last week. On the other side, the Madhya Pradesh Congress unit led by former Chief Minister and the party's state head Kamal Nath has swung into action to welcome the 'Bharat Jodo Yatra' with 17 subordinates (subyatras) from different parts of the state. These sub-yatras will cover all the 230 Assembly seats of Madhya Pradesh and will welcome Rahul

Gandhi in Burhanpur. Digvijaya Singh, who is also one of the key members of the 'Bharat Jodo Yatra' has said that photos of former party Presidents Sonia Gandhi and Rahul Gandhi along with the Congress' newly elected president Mallikarjun Kharge should be used instead.

Singh's willingness to be left out from the publicity material being prepared by the state party unit gave ample opportunity to the BJP to take a dig at the Congress. However, the Congress leaders defended his willingness stating that he (Digvijaya) did it as a mark of respect for the top leadership of the Congress.

'Bharat Jodo Yatra', which will enter Madhya Pradesh from Maharashtra's border area between November 20-21, will cover around 382 km in next 16 days - passing through Khandwa, Khargone, Indore, Ujjain, and Agar-Malwa. According to Congress MLA P.C. Sharma, who is in-charge of the Madhya Pradesh leg, the participants will cover a distance of nearly 25 km per day. Rahul Gandhi will also interact with the people gathered along the route. DEBATE RAGES AS GIR'S LIONS LOSE OUT TO CHEETAHS FROM NAMIBIA few years back, there were discussions on relocating the Asiatic lions from Gir Forest in Gujarat to some other states in India because their numbers have outgrown the available forest cover. But Gir's lions seem to have lost out to the cheetahs from Namibia who have been settled at the spot where they were supposed to have been relocated -- the Kuno national park in Madhya Pradesh.

Cheetah politics, meanwhile, has become the hot subject of discussion in three states, namely, Gujarat, MP and Rajasthan.It started in Gujarat three decades back as the Centre sought the views of some state governments on how to relocate the Asiatic lions from the Gir Reserve to other national parks in the country. The reason was to hedge the risk to the lions, whose numbers are growing rapidly, from becoming victims of human-animal conflicts, or being wiped out by a major natural calamity.It did not make sense to have all the lions in the country located at just one place. The lions needed to be relocated to other appropriate habitats for their own good.Madhya Pradesh and Rajasthan took the lead and identified several alternate habitats suitable for the Gir lions. Kuno Palpur Sanctuary in MP was adjudged the most ideal forest to become a second home for lions in India.

But Gujarat continued to resist the logical move of relocating the lions, considering it would lose its monopoly over the big cat. In April 2013, the Supreme Court ordered Gujarat to send a few Gir lions to Madhya Pradesh to establish a second population.

The court gave the wildlife authorities six months to complete the transfer. Kuno was upgraded to the status of a National Park and its protected area was increased. About

1.650 inhabitants of 24 villages were resettled outside the protected area. An area of 924 sq km, surrounding the wildlife sanctuary, was added as a buffer zone to human settlements. Hopes were kept alive of the lions reaching Kuno. But political thinking underwent changes. Then Union Environment Minister, Jairam Ramesh, saw new mileage in the cheetahs who had become extinct in India in the early fifties, so it was decided to bring them from an African country. In 2009, Kuno was proposed as a possible site for the cheetahs' reintroduction in India.Their arrival took a long time. Eight cheetahs reached Kuno in mid September 2022 after being airlifted from Namibia. India hailed it as an addition of a wild cat species that had become extinct some seventy years ago!

The call for lions has not remained unheard. Gujarat's pride was to be maintained - for lions as well. So during January 2022, the Union government drafted a 25year plan for lions to be relocated within Gujarat state and not in other states. It is on record that the Gujarat government did not carry out the Supreme Court's order since 2013. It has been resisting the relocation of lions outside Gujarat. According to Bhopal-based environmentalist Ajay Dubey, plans to reintroduce African cheetahs in Kuno National Park is another way to stall the transfer of lions to Kuno National Park

Talking about the cheetahs at Kuno, officials said, "They are still within the quarantine zone. It is a large open grassland habitat fenced on all sides where the overseas guests roam around. They hunt Spotted Deer which are released within their precincts and are able to catch them," said an official at Kuno on condition of remaining incognito. They will enjoy the luxury of such spoon feeding for another couple of months. It is to enable them to acclimatize with the local ecological factors. After that they will be let loose in the open fields of Kuno to roam wherever they like, hunt their prey and start a new life in the wilderness of India

Lauri Marker, founder of the Cheetah Conservation Foundation in Namibia, conveyed to her Indian counterparts: We have done our job from Namibia. If you need more cheetahs, they will be offered. Try South Africa and other neighbouring countries to get more cheetahs.

Marker was the one who flew to Gwalior in a specially designed aircraft carrying the cheetahs for Kuno. She has been to India several times over the past two decades to negotiate the cheetahs' entry into India. She is now happy that her objective has been fulfilled

Meanwhile officials confirmed that by the time the present lot of eight cheetahs resume their normal life in Kuno's wilderness, a new momentum for importing more cheetahs from Africa will start gathering speed. The Union Environment Ministry has an action plan to introduce 50 more cheetahs in India in the next five years. Not all will be billed for Kuno. So where else?Since Prime Minister Narendra Modi himself introduced the imported wild cats at Kuno on his birthday, a new element in the nation's polity appears to be gaining currency: Cheetah politics. The states may put in requests for cheetahs in the next reintroduction drive. Madhya Pradesh's quota appears full through Kuno. Next in the race is Rajasthan which missed the bus this time. Its Mukundara Reserve was selected as an ideal grassland habitat Lauri Marker visited it in July 2022. Will it receive some cheetahs in the next reintroduction drive of the Union Government?

The cheetah controversy has not died down so far. Eight scientists of international stature have criticised the Union Government over cheetahs having been imported from Namibia. Arjun M. Gopalaswamy, Femke Broekhuis, Leili Khalatbari, Michael G. L. Mills, Ravi Chellam, David Thuo, Abi Tamim Vanak and K. Ullas Karanth, have said that India's plan is based on three unsubstantiated claims -- that cheetahs have run out of space in Africa; that India currently has sufficient and suitable space for them; and that conservation translocations have been successful in wild cheetah range restoration efforts.

They have written an article "Introducing African cheetahs to India is an ill-advised conservation attempt", published in Nature Ecology and Evolution, to highlight that there are "unknown ecological, disease-related and genetic risks involved in replacing Asiatic cheetahs with the larger cheetahs from southern Africa." They added: "The action plan appears to have substantially overestimated cheetah carrying capacity in the first release site (Kuno National Park), which is unfenced, harbouring about 500 feral cattle and surrounded by a forested landscape with 169 human settlements. Neither Kuno nor the other landscapes considered are of the size and quality to permit selfsustaining and genetically viable cheetah populations."

Political pundits said the central government will like to use the cheetahs as a new politico-wilderness model to woo the people and try to receive greater voter support. Let the lions remain at Gir, cheetahs are the new ploy.

N.KOREA FIRES SUSPECTED INTERCONTINENTAL BALLISTIC MISSILE: SEOUL

Pakistan Minister claims Imran is inviting martial law

TROPICAL STORM NALGAE DEATH TOLL IN PHILIPPINES REACHES 150, 36 MISSING

Thursday fired a suspected intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) and two shortrange ones toward the East Sea, the South Korean military said. The Joint Chiefs of Staff (JCS) said it detected what is presumed to be a long-range ballistic missile launch from the Sunan area in Pyongyang at around 7.40 a.m. and the firing of two apparent short-range ballistic missiles (SRBMs) from Kaechon in South Pyongan province from 8.39 a.m., reports Yonhap News Agency.

The long-range missile flew about 760 km at an apogee of around 1,920 km at a top speed of Mach 15, and the two SRBMs travelled some 330 km at a maximum altitude of around 70 km at a top speed of Mach 5, it said. It marks the North's first firing of an ICBM since May.

The North's provocations came a day after it shot more than two dozen missiles, the biggest-ever barrage in a single day.

One of them flew southward past the de facto maritime inter-Korean border for the first time since the end of the 1950-53 Korean War.

The North is seen as demonstrating its firepower in protest against this week's combined air drills of South Korea and the US, involving more than 240 aircraft, amid growing speculation that Pyongyang may conduct a nuclear test soon. Pyongyang has long denounced joint military drills between Seoul and Washington as a rehearsal for invasion.

The countries stress the exercises are defensive in nature. North Korea's Foreign Ministry had earlier warned of "more powerful follow-up measures" against what it called Washington's "ceaseless and reckless" military provocations.

akistan Information Minister Marriyum Aurangzeb said that PTI chairman Imran Khan wanted martial law in the country which reflected his "fascist" and "autocratic" mindset.

In a statement on Wednesday, she said that innocent people were losing lives due to the "bloody march" of the former Prime Minister, "who is bent upon creating chaos and anarchy to satisfy his ego in achieving ulterior motives", The Express Tribune reported.

She said that the "foreign-funded fitna (mischief)" had admitted that he was in pain for not getting an opportunity to appoint the new army chief but in fact, it was Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif's constitutional rights to make the appointment.

The "mark of disgrace" was clearly visible on his (Khan) face, she said, adding: "The people are fully aware that Imran Khan is a thief, dacoit, liar, incompetent and foreign-funded fitna... Imran's conspiracies will not work."

Aurangzeb asked why Khan had failed to produce a single piece of evidence against Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif in a court of law to prove the false cases filed by the PTI government, The Express Tribune reported.

"If Rana Sanaullah is a murderer then why did your government arrest him on the fake charges of carrying drugs," she said, adding where were the proofs and videos that his government claimed to have against the Interior Minister.

Aurangzeb said it was Khan's government which allowed Pakistan Muslim League-Nawaz (PML-N) supremo Nawaz Sharif to go abroad.

"Now, it is too late (to speak of that)," she added.

The Minister further said that during Khan's rule, he used hollow slogans of accountability against opponents but at the same time offered a lifetime extension to the army chief in a bid to save his government's failures.

unaccounted for due to the severe tropical storm Nalgae that bat tered the Philippines last weekend and triggered flash floods and landslides in many parts of the Southeast

Asian country, the government said on Thursday. The National Disaster Risk Reduction and Management

Council said 94 fatalities have been identified, the remaining 56 are being verified, reports Xinhua news agency.

Of the 36 reported missing, the agency confirmed 28, while the identities of the other eight are still being verified.

The agency said the tropical storm affected over 3.9 million people, damaged 499 roads and 120 bridges, and caused power outages in many areas.

Nalgae is the 16th tropical cyclone to lash the Philippines this year. It slammed into Catanduanes, an island province in the Bicol region, on October 29.

The Philippines is one of the most disaster-prone countries globally, mainly due to its location in the Pacific Ring of Fire and the Pacific typhoon belt. On average, the archipelagic country experiences 20 typhoons yearly, some of which are intense and destructive.

In April, tropical storm Megi dumped rains in central and southern parts of the Philippines, inundating many areas and causing landslides, resulting in over 220 deaths.

Record number of Australians 'very concerned' about climate change: Report record numbers of Australians are "very concerned" about climate change as the eastern part of the country is affected by the flood, according to a new report published on Thursday. Think tank the Australia Institute published its 15th annual Climate of the Nation report, which charts citizens' attitudes towards climate change and its solutions, reports Xinhua news agency. The report found that 83 per cent of Australians are concerned that climate change will affect the food supply as a result of droughts and floods.

The same portion of participants in surveys for the report said they were concerned climate change would cause more bushfires

Asked about measures that could be taken to reduce Australia's carbon emissions, 68 per cent supported the introduction of national fuel efficiency standards and 64 per cent support requiring all new car sales in the country to be zero-emissions vehicles by 2035.

"As flood waters continue to rise at record levels, so too does the number of Australians worried about climate change impacts, with concern over floods at record highs," Richie Merzian, Director of Climate and Energy for the institute, said in a statement.

"Australians are dealing with the high-cost consequences of relying on gas and coal power and three-quarters want the government to step in and plan the shift to renewables and storage."The Australian government has a clear mandate to do more when it comes to climate, in particular, clean transport. The upcoming electric vehicle strategy is an opportunity to get moving on fuel efficiency standards, targeted electric vehicles subsidies, and a phase-out of fossil-fuelled vehicles - all of which have strong public support," Merzian added.

In July, the Australian Capital Territory announced a plan to ban the sale of all new vehicles powered by an internal combustion engine from 2035. According to the Australia Institute, nationally 75 per cent of the respondents support electrifying state bus fleets by 2030 and 62 per cent believe that governments should introduce policies to encourage mode change from cars to active and public transport.Another 62 per cent support a national subsidy scheme for bikes, e-bikes, and cargo bikes.

The incident, caught on camera, took place after he met Maharashtra Chief Minister Eknath Shinde at Mantralaya (state secretariat) in south Mumbai, and promoted the state women's commission to issue him a notice.

In a video, Sambhaji Bhide was heard telling the female reporter, who sought sound byte from him about his meeting with Eknath Shinde, that she should apply a 'bindi' before coming to take his byte, and declined to speak to her. He also told the journalist that a woman is akin to Bharat Mata and that she should not appear like a "widow" by not sporting a 'bindi. Maharashtra State

Among them is Sanjay Shirsat who is said to be disgruntled and feeling uncomfortable with the Shinde Group, according to Andhare.

The firebrand leader's comments came during a media interaction in Jalgaon where she is participating in the Mahaprabodhan Yatra.

"We have not cut off the cords with the rebels. Some MLAs are very upset there and are in touch with us," said Andhare, indicating that there may be 'home-coming' to the Thackeray Group.

Directorate against the Opposition parties, while no action is taken against corrupt leaders in the BJP.Andhare reiterated that the Shinde government is making announcements on farmers' issues, but they remain in the air as there are no benefits seen at the ground-level.

Several other Sena (UBT) leaders have also claimed that several of the 'rebel' legislators who joined Shinde en-masse in June have opened communication

It may be recalled that after a chunk of 50 MLAs led by Shinde switched camps, the erstwhile Maha Vikas Aghadi government of Shiv Sena-Nationalist Congress Party-Congress led by ex-CM Uddhav Thackeray collapsed.

Amid a high political drama, on June 30, a new regime led by Shinde as the CM, and BJP's Devendra Fadnavis as the Deputy CM took office on June 30.

In early-August, the Shinde-Fadnavis cabinet was expanded with 9 MLAs from each side, taking the strength to 20, though there is no representation to the group of independents or smaller parties supporting them.

In October, the Election Commission of India gave separate names and poll symbols to the two rival factions even as other contentious issues are pending before the Supreme Court.

2,400 kg MD drug seizure case: cops attach properties worth Rs 19.58 cr of prime accused umbai crime branch's Anti-Narcotics Cell (ANC) on Wednesday attached properties worth Rs 19.58 crore of the prime accused in the 2,400 kg MD drug haul case in which eight persons were arrested earlier this year, an official said.

Team Absolute Mumbai

The seized properties include two flats and nine commercial units located in a highrise in suburban Dahisar. Six bank accounts, containing Rs 1.14 crore, operated in the name of family members of the prime accused were also attached, the official said.

"We have attached his property and will submit the report to the state government," the ANC official added.

The prime accused in the case is a chemistry post-graduate who was arrested along with others between March and June for allegedly selling mephedrone manufactured in his factory in Ambernath in Thane district. He was allegedly trying to set up a pharmaceutical unit in Gujarat as a front to manufacture the synthetic stimulant. Police had conducted multiple raids in Nalasopara in Palghar district neighbouring Mumbai and also busted a factory at Bharuch in Gujarat.

The 1,200 kg of raw material was recovered from the Bharuch-based factory in August, which was used to make mephedrone or MD. The haul took the quantum of the total drug seizure to 2,400 kg worth Rs 4,853 crore, police had said earlier.

In August, the ANC seized 701 kg of MD from Mumbai and arrested six persons. Their interrogation led ANC to the Bharuch factory.

JILTED LOVERS THREW ACID-LIKE BOILING FLUID ON WOMAN AND HER PARAMOUR

Mumbai: A 20-year-old woman and her paramour, who were stay ing in a live-in relationship, were attacked by two jilted lovers of the woman with acid-like fluid when they were asleep in Nalasopara East.

As per the doctors, it has been analysed that 'it was not acid but boiling oil that caused superficial burn injuries,' said police.

"Had it (boiling fluid) been acidic, it would have badly damaged the victims. We have collected the sample and sent it for forensic analysis," the police said.

Both the victims woke up after being attacked and were rushed to a nearby hospital for treatment. "The incident took place on the intervening nights of Monday and Tuesday. According to the doctor, the woman and her paramour have faced superficial burn injuries on her hands and face," said inspector Mahendra Shelar of Pelhar police station where an FIR has been registered against the woman's two jilted lovers.

Shelar added, "We have recorded the statement of a woman who suspected that her former boyfriends Taufeeq and Kamran hatched the plan and attacked her with some acid-like substance. We have registered an FIR under section 326A of IPC and sent the sample of fluid for forensic analysis to ascertain if it was acid."

The officer further added that the woman initially stayed in a livein relationship with Taufeeq and she has one four-year-old daughter with him.

"After Taufeeq, the woman dated Kamran before moving to stay in a live-in relationship with her third paramour in Nalasopara. The four-year-old daughter was also with the woman when the incident took place but, thankfully, the girl is unharmed," he added.

"Both the suspects stay in the Ghatkopar area and we have launched a manhunt for them but they are yet to be arrested. A team has been formed to arrest the suspects," she added.

Speaking about the health condition of both the victims, Shelar said, "The woman has sustained 25 percent superficial burn injuries, as per the doctor's report. Both of them are out of danger.

'The Devil Wears Prada' sequel is 'tempting': Anne

Los Angeles | Agencies

Hollywood star Anne Hathaway has admitted that a sequel to 'The Devil Wears Prada' is "tempting" - but unlikely. Despite there being another book, 'Revenge Wears Prada: The Devil Returns', released in 2013, seven years after the comedy-drama flick's release, 'The Intern' star doesn't believe a follow-up could be made today.

Hathaway

Appearing on 'The View' this week, she said: "I don't know if there can be (a sequel movie). I just think that movie was in a different era, you know? Now, everything's gone so digital, and that movie centered around the concept of producing a physical thing. It's just very different now."

According to a website, Anne would love to see where her character Andy and Emily (Emily Blunt) would be now, the assistants to Meryl Streep's hellish mag-

"Although, it is tempting to think about Andy and Emily needing to get Miranda her coffee and she's somewhere in Europe. And then along the way they pick up Stanley Tucci [Nigel] in Italy, who's at a restaurant. It's tempting, but I don't think it's gonna happen."

The report further states that the 39-year-old star could, however, see it being rebooted with a new cast.

She further mentioned: "But they could relaunch it. They could find new people and do it. Do you think they'd let us do that?"

Zac Efron trolled for his new look

Hollywood star Zac Efron has been trolled with 'Shrek' character Lord Farquaad meme after he debuted muscular shocking look on film set. In photos circulating online, the 35-year-old actor was seen filming for his new role as Kevin Von Erich in 'The Iron Claw'. He rocked a tight gray cut-off crew neck tank, ripped denim shorts and, most notably, a brown wig with short bangs and wavy hair that flowed right past his ears.

After the photo went viral on social media, Twitter users began comparing him to the 'Shrek' villain Lord Farquaad, a villain character who had short black hair with bangs and was short in stature.

"He looks like if lord farquaad hit the weight room," one fan tweeted, referring to the muscle gain Zac took on in order to resemble his wrestling role. "Lord Farquaad but makes it the 21st century," someone else chimed in. A separate Twitter user joked, "I see lord farquaad has been working out." Another said, "not zac efron becoming lord farquaad's lost

Another said, "not zac etron becoming ford farquaad's lost brother." Someone quipped, "lord farquaad's been having a glow up!"

Efron, however, didn't seem too bothered by the comparison as he has yet to comment on the social media madness. Back in September, the "Baywatch" actor set the record straight on rumours that he had undergone aesthetic surgery to enhance his jawline. In an interview with a Health magazine, Efron said that he shattered his jaw while running around his house with socks. After getting surgery to repair the damage, his facial muscles got "really, really big" to compensate for the injury. "The masseters just grew," he told the publication. "They just got really, really big."

"Avatar: The Way of Water" offers a glimpse at fresh imagery of Pandora and an epic war

The new trailer for 'Avatar: The Way of Water' has been released a few weeks ahead of the hotly anticipated sci-fi sequel's December 16 release date. The second installment in the franchise sees the return of Stephen Lang's villain character Colonel Quaritch - who is seemingly revived through a Na'vi avatar form - once again at odds with Pandora native Neytiri (Zoe Saldana) and her mate Jake Sully (Sam Worthington). "The story is about family, about our families trying to stay together [and] the lengths to which we all go to protect each other and protect the place where we live," Weaver told Variety at a screening for her film "The Good House." "It's very much based on (James Cameron's) family and his joy in the family; and also, how vulnerable you are when you have children."

Franchise newcomers include Kate Winslet, Michelle Yeoh, Cliff Curtis, Joel David Moore, Edie Falco and Jemaine Clement.

The trailer has no shortage of visually stunning ocean footage, which doubles to show off the impressive breathholding skills of the film's cast, who trained with specialists to be able to shoot extended takes of scenes underwater without coming to the surface for air.

In an interview earlier this year, Saldana revealed her personal record for holding her breath underwater was five minutes. Just like 2009's 'Avatar', Cameron is writing, producing, and editing 'Avatar: The Way of Water', in addition to directing. Jon Landau and Peter M. Cast: Lesley Manville, Alba Baptista, Ellen Thomas Director: Anthony Fabian Runtime: 1 hr 55 min Rating: 3.5/5

Synopsis : A widowed cleaning lady falls madly in love with a couture Dior dress and decides she must have one of her own. She embarks on an adventure to Paris after working to raise the funds to pursue her dream, which will change not only her own outlook but also the future of the House of Dior.

Review : Is this a movie about Mrs Harris going to Paris? Or is it a stab at reality? A kind woman who helps everyone is being hurt in return. But, at last, as everything ends, so does misery. The film begins by introducing the character of a woman (Mrs Ada Harris) and establishing her as a giver. Mrs Harris is an adult child whose world is shattered several times in her life. When she learns that her husband has died in the call to action, she experiences her first shock. Starting with how a Christian Dior dress motivates her to fly miles and be happy, to how she keeps throwing things in the river as a symbol of not holding on to things that should be left behind. The film explains every aspect of life... It has the notion of a lucky day, the concept of broken hopes and many more.

When it comes to star performances,

Lesley Manville, who plays Ada Harris, is unquestionably outstanding in the film. But kudos to the supporting cast; describing the beauty they all bring to this film. It is impossible to remove even one of these characters and make the film look the same.

Special mention goes to Ellen Thomas who plays Ada's best friend in the movie. Her character is like that one person in life one can rely on.

When it comes to technical aspects, the film deserves 11 out of 10. Despite the fact that the entire film has good cinematography. What stands out is a panoramic shot taken with a hand-held camera when Ada visits the section of C. Diors where the dresses are made and stitched.

A film is never complete without a good background score and music, but in this case, It has a fantastic selection of soundtracks.

The last 15-20 minutes of the film are an absolute treasure. Those last few minutes are a life synopsis that contains all of the important details that a person has in a lifetime. In those 15 mins, you get to see emotions that Ada always hides. You get to see her rage and boldness, which is a real treat that touches your heart.

Conclusion

This film is not as simple as it appears. While watching the film, one must introspect. It's a life summary, and everyone will find someone to relate to. This film is a genuine look at life, and if you can see through the details, this is the film for you.

T-20 WC: PAKISTAN'S SLIM SEMIFINAL HOPES Kerala gears up to welcome FIFA World Cup, One lakh ALIVE WITH 33-RUN WIN OVER SOUTH AFRICA children to be trained football

Sydney | Agencies

Shadab Khan produced a brilliant all-round show while Iftikhar Ahmed and Shaheen Shah Afridi played their roles to perfection to keep Pakistans slim semifinal hopes alive in the Men's T20 World Cup with a 33-run victory over South Africa.

The victory for Pakistan, who made 185/9 in 20 overs and restricted South Africa to 108/9 in 14 overs as per the adjustments by the DLS method, in Super 12s also meant that they maintained their perfect record over the Proteas in the history of Men's T20 World Cups with their fourth victory in as many meetings. Pakistan are now in third place in Group 2 points table, pushing Bangladesh to fourth place.

Iftikhar stepped up to resurrect Pakistan's innings as he built a 52-run stand with Mohammad Nawaz (28 off 22 balls) and then established a crucial 82-run stand off just 35 balls for the sixth wicket with Shadab, who struck the second fastest fifty by a batter from the country in T20Is, to take Pakistan to 185/9, which looked absolutely impossible at one point. While Iftikhar scored 51 from 35 deliveries, hitting three fours and two sixes at a strike rate of 145.71, Shadab's knock proved to be the game-changer for Pakistan as he needed 75 runs off the remaining five overs, with the target readjusted to 142 in 14 overs as per the DLS method.

The pressure of a high asking rate was always going to be huge as Shaheen, Mohammad Wasim, Naseem Shah and Haris Rauf picked up wickets in impressive fashion for Pakistan to stay alive in the race for the semifinals.

Pakistan now need to win their next match against Bangladesh at Adelaide on Sunday and then hope that either India or South Africa lose their final Group 2 matches to Zimbabwe and Netherlands respectively.

Brief scores

Pakistan 185/9 in 20 overs (Shadab Khan 52, Iftikhar Ahmed 51; Anrich Nortje 4/41, Wayne Parnell 1/31) beat South Africa 108/9 in 14 overs (Temba Bavuma 36, Aiden Markram 20; Shaheen Shah Afridi 3/14, Shadab Khan 2/16) by 33 runs (via DLS method) ort Worth (Texas) Maria Sakkari booked a spot in the semifinals of the year-ending championships for the second year in a row after moving past No.7 seed Aryna Sabalenka 6-2, 6-4 in 97 minutes here on Thursday.

Sakkari needed to win in two sets on Wednesday to guarantee herself a second consecutive appearance in the final four of the WTA Finals. She did just that with a straight-sets victory over Aryna Sabalenka in Fort Worth.

"If you're not aggressive on this court, then it's just game over," Sakkari said afterwards. "If I was passive, especially against Sakkari had garnered only one win over a Top 10 player all year before making it to Fort Worth. Now she has notched two Top 10 wins in a row this week, repeating her feat from last year's WTA Finals where she beat Iga Swiatek and Sabalenka backto-back. "It's been a long time
