EMBARRASSMENT FOR TRINAMOOL AS MLA DESCRIBES PARTY AS 'COMPANY', MAMATA AS 'BRAND'

Kolkata | Agencies

Trinamool Congress MLA from Howrah (North) constituency, Gautam Chowdhury, has left the party embarrassed by describing Trinamool as a "company" and Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee as the "brand" of that company. Chowdhury's remarks virtually echoed what leader of opposition Suwendu Adhikari had said at a public rally on Thursday. "Trinamool Congress is a private limited company, whose owner is the Chief Minister and the Managing Director is her nephew (Abhishek Banerjee)," Adhikari had said on Thursday. On Friday, while speaking to mediapersons in Howrah, Chowdhury said that Trinamool Congress is like a company whose brand is the Chief Minister. "We are non-entities. We are like medical representatives in pharmaceutical companies. Mamata Banerjee is everything in the party," Chowdhury said. After his remarks, Trinamool leaders immediately jumped in for damage control. "Such comments are confusing and unwarranted. I do not know what he actually meant. But the choice of words had been improper. Trinamool Congress is an established political party and we all are loyal party workers. It is true that Mamata Banerjee is the face of the party, and the rest follows her," said Trinamool spokesman Kunal Ghosh. The party's Howrah district president, Kalyan Ghosh, claimed Chowdhury has said that he made the comments by mistake and he has been cautioned by the party to be careful with his words in the future. Meanwhile, ridiculing Trinamool in the matter, state BJP President Sukanta Majumdar said that Chowdhury has accepted the fact that Trinamool Congress is a company and its leaders are mere employees. "Time is ripe for all the employees of 'AITC Private Limited' to accept this bitter fact and live with the same. Truth has only one version. Deal with it," Majumdar tweeted.

Residents of Uttarakhand's Joshimath camp out on cold nights in fear of collapse

SINKING TOWN

The town, over 6,000 feet high, is considered a gateway for several climbing expeditions in the Himalayas. These include the trek to the pilgrimage centres of Badrinath and Hemkunt Sahib, and to the Valley of Flowers. Over 500 houses are staring at a collapse in this holy town - entry point for major Hindu and Sikh pilgrimages - which is also one of the major military bases near India's border with China.

- Cracks have appeared in 561 houses, hotels and shops of the city, which is said to have been established by Shakaracharya centuries ago, due to frequent landslides.
- The NTPC's Tapovan-Vishnugarh hydropower project and the Marwadi-Helang bypass motor road have been shut with immediate effect, till further orders by the administration.
- Along with this, the Joshimath-Auli ropeway has been closed citing security reasons.
- A ban has also been imposed on the construction work being carried out in the city areas.

Seventy seven families have left their homes and shifted to safer places. The district administration has issued orders to the NTPC and HCC companies to prepare 2,000 pre-fabricated houses each, in advance, as a precautionary measure to shift the affected families.

Arrangements have been made by the administration for them to stay at municipality, block, BKTC guest house, GIC, Gurudwara, Inter College, ITI Tapovan and other safe places. The buildings which are in danger due to increasing landslides are being identified to prevent loss of life. Nodal officers have been given the responsibility of arranging water, electricity, food, toilets and other basic facilities in the relief camps.

The State Disaster Response Force (SDRF) and the NDRF have been alerted to deal with the landslides.

On Thursday, Joshimath villagers blocked the Badrinath national highway amid a new panic as water began to leak from the "Joshimath rock." The residents were already battling menacing cracks and crevices that started to form in their homes, on the roadways, and in their fields.

On Thursday (5 January), the terrified villagers, who have been pleading with the authorities to halt all construction activities in their "sinking" town, gathered on the streets holding torches. The town is "placed on an old landslide," making it vulnerable, and there is concern that the hillside on which it is built would collapse.

The Uttarakhand government assembled a team of scientists on Thursday to determine the cause of the sinking of the land and the cracks in the buildings in an attempt to reassure the locals. The crew will visit the location and look into the cause.

The devastating landslide in Chamoli, which caused many landslides, made the first mention of the cracks in homes in the national media in 2021. More than 3,000 people are affected, the municipality chief has said. That's over 10 per cent of the population in the Himalayan town. Around 40 families have already moved out as soil subsidence gets worse by the day in a region that's among the most susceptible to earthquakes. Climate change and constant infrastructure development are to blame, say locals. "Tunnels being dug for hydel power plants have led to this," alleged a local hotelier. "And they continue to blast through rocks to widen roads, build bypasses, even very close to our town."

Meanwhile, a team of experts, including officials from the administration and the State Disaster Management Department, conducted a door-to-door survey.

An inspection team in Joshimath that is to give a report to the chief minister.

TEMPLE COLLAPSED

Joshimath: A temple collapsed in Singdhar ward of the Himalayan town of Joshimath on Friday evening, further alarming residents living under constant fear of a major disaster in the offing, officials said. According to local residents, there was no one inside the temple when the incident occurred as it had been abandoned after it developed huge cracks over the past 15 days. Huge cracks have appeared in many houses and nearly 50 families have been moved to safer locations.

CM CALLS HIGH-LEVEL MEETING

Chief Minister Pushkar Singh Dhama has called a high-level meeting to assess the situation. Singh will be leaving for the city soon. The team included Disaster Management Secretary Ranjit Kumar Sinha and Garhwal Commissioner Sushil Kumar, among others. Kumar has authorised all the technical personnel of the Project Implementation Unit division, Public Works Department, working in the Badrinath Master Plan till further orders, for immediate assessment of the buildings, hotels and other structures in the affected areas. Along with this, in view of the increasing problem, instructions have been given to deploy National Disaster Response Force (NDRF) personnel in the city.

IN MAOIST-HIT BASTAR, SOLAR POWER BRINGS INDIVIDUAL TAP CONNECTIONS TO RURAL HOMES

Deepanwita Gita Niyogi

There is a nip in the air. The clucking of hens, the clanging of pots and pans, and the delicious aroma of 'chaur bhaja', a traditional rice and roasted chicken dish, keep the senses alive. Resplendent in a red saree, Damsi Nag arranges the logs to maximise the heat in her 'chulha' (an earthen stove). Belonging to the Dhurwa indigenous community, Damsi lives in Gudiya village of Bastar, a district known for its vibrant tribal life and Maoist insurgency, in Chhattisgarh state of Central India. In her mid-40s, Damsi travels down memory lane to a time when, as a young bride, her in-laws would chastise her if the food was served late. "Can you imagine the rush to prepare 'pej' (a rice and ragi porridge) and lunch for the entire family when everyone is hungry? It all depended on water availability. On most days, I had to go to a nearby stream located a km away for clean drinking water. The hand pump came much later, in 2012-13," she says, remembering how her legs had felt weak and her neck and shoulders had ached due to the weight of the water pots on her head. In the winter, when darkness descends early, the women would band together for courage, carrying 'mashals' (a long pole with a fire burning at one end) through the dense forest teeming with wildlife. Damsi got tap connection at home sometime back under the Jal Jeevan Mission (JJM) run by the Jal Shakti Ministry. The programme is aimed at connecting every rural household in India with tap water connection by 2024, covering 19.35 crore rural families. At the time of its launch, 3.23 crore families had access to tap water. As on December 12, 2022, the numbers have increased to 10.72 crore. Bastar district has seen 30.24 per cent coverage with 49,554 out of the 1.63 lakh households having tap water connections.

connectivity issues and those proposed by the PHED, which funds the structure construction. "Many gram panchayats (village councils) often failed to pay electricity bills, ultimately leading to disconnection." Individual connections have reduced the burden of fetching water from long distances. For years, Rukna Yadav from Bamnaras had fetched water from a chua (surface water source in fields). "I had to boil the water to use it. In the monsoon, it got dirty. I do not have to toil much now, as the nearest water stand post located just 50 metre from my house started functioning four months ago." Prior to the JJM, many women in Bamnaras village depended on either the hand pump or a perennial chua. "Most of us had to spend at least 15 to 30 minutes each time bringing water. The manually operated hand pump made the hands ache. So many vessels, big and small, had to be filled two to three times," says Rambati Nag, Jitri Nag (50), who used to spend about an hour daily fetching water from the stream, adds that she finds time to tend to her kitchen garden after getting the tap connection. Standing by and translating, Baliram Nag, nods. A Dhurwa community member and CREDA technician, he intimately knows how the lives of women have changed since improved water connectivity. Besides home connection, there are common stand posts where women can collect water. In a few places, the individual taps are yet to yield water as connections have not been possible. For Bamnaras resident Tara Nag, a mother of four, the common stand post is a stone's throw away and she takes just 10 minutes to fill up her vessels each time. There is no tap in her house, which is at a higher elevation. Though many have benefitted from the JJM, it is a long-drawn process in interior villages. First site surveys are carried out, followed by foundation work, erection of structures and installation of dual water tanks on top.

TOUCHING LIVES

In areas where electricity grids are absent, the use of solar power under JJM helped bring tap water to rural households. The Chhattisgarh State Renewable Energy Development Agency (CREDA) and Public Health Engineering Department (PHED) have been working together to set up these solar water structures. Under the project, one horsepower (HP) solar submersible pump costing Rs 90,000 is installed and a structure, either nine or 12-metre high with a capacity to hold two 5,000-litre water tanks, is built. The whole set-up is powered by four solar panels of 300 watt each. PHED Executive Engineer S.P. Mandavi told 101Reporters that solar energy in water connection arrived in 2010-11. Under the Chhattisgarh government's Nal Jal Yojana, solar was used in some instances and a common stand post was erected for water collection. The JJM added individual tap connections to that. CREDA Executive Engineer Damrudhar Sidar says the use of solar power in JJM has accelerated its penetration and efficiency. "Earlier, structures of four-and-a-half metre to six metre in height were built under the Nal Jal Yojana. With the JJM, the structure's height was increased for better gravity, so that water could reach the tail end to serve 25 to 30 households in a hamlet." Sidar says the CREDA is working only in areas having grid

OVERCOMING PROBLEMS

Noting how Tusail village has aquifers located deeper than in other places, CREDA Sub-engineer Kamlesh Kumar says some areas of Bastar have this issue. In such cases, the solar capacity could be enhanced using high-power pumps. Water can also be lifted from surface sources, but requires purification at a treatment plant. However, the JJM does not provide for that facility. CREDA Superintending Engineer, S.K. Shukla tells 101Reporters that site selection posed problems as workers mostly refused to come to Bastar for work. Against 1080 work orders for solar pump systems under the JJM in Bastar division (encompassing seven districts), work has been completed in 883 of them. In Bastar district alone, there are work orders to solarise 199 out of the 614 water structures; 164 of which have been completed. In the whole of Chhattisgarh, 4,534 solar pump systems have been installed against the 5,010 work orders. For the financial year 2022-23 (April-March), the total budget allocation for Bastar district till November this year under JJM stands at Rs 28 crore. On the progress made in Bastar so far, District Collector Chandan Kumar tells 101Reporters that people, especially women, were appreciative as the JJM scheme saved both their time and energy. "By December next year, all households will be covered," he predicts. However, issues like improper functioning of taps or yielding water in lesser quantities are cropping up. In Kanakurushpal, all 75 households have tap water connections. Mangla Kashyap, a beneficiary, now gets ample time to spend with her children. "But some women still queue up at the hand pump as taps are not functioning properly or the water flow is lean," she says. In Irpa village of Bastanar, a region dominated by memorial pillars erected in honour of the dead, most residents belong to the indigenous Maria community. Here, a solar system has been set up in Pujariipara hamlet. The residents point out that cloud cover during monsoon slows down the supply. "During monsoon, we have to depend on the chua as the solar system charges only slowly. Nevertheless, solar adoption has made life easier for women. They can now devote more time to fuelwood collection," says Sudru Poyam, a paddy farmer, who says the community has to clear the twin tanks every month. Back at Gudiya, Damsi's neighbour Deoli Nag insists on proper maintenance. "What if some glitch happens and water does not come? The technical people live far away. In case of a problem, we should not be left without water, for say a fortnight." When Pramila Maurya came to Nayapara hamlet of Raikot village after her marriage in 2007, she had to deal with the absence of power and tap water for years. "As the hand pump yielded iron-contaminated water, all women in my family went to the talab (pond). Individual tap connections started only in June this year." Now, life is more comfortable for Maurya, the wife of a government school teacher. "I spend time watching TV serials and talking to my devranis (sisters-in-law) under the shade of a tamarind tree. We pass time comfortably with no tension over water availability." "Earlier going to the talab entailed putting the children to sleep, but they invariably woke up, sometimes before we even started... When the village got electricity, I insisted on a personal borewell. However, the power bill ran quite high. Now I intend to use it for watering my vegetables in winter." As November is the month of paddy harvest, work has been stalled in some areas. According to contractor SR Markandi, people are not at home all day long. "But we have to consult them on matters like pipe-laying and standpost erection, all of which are getting delayed."

US HOUSE ADJOURNS WITH NO SPEAKER ELECTED FOR 1ST TIME IN 164 YEARS

Washington | Agencies

The US House of Representatives has again adjourned for a third day without electing a new Speaker even after 11 votes, becoming the longest contest to select a person to take the gavel in 164 years.

The House will not convene on Friday noon, the second anniversary of the 2021 Capitol riot, reports Xinhua news agency.

Kevin McCarthy from California, the House Republican leader since 2019, fell short of the necessary votes to take the gavel in five more rounds of voting Thursday afternoon.

The House has voted 11 times since the 118th Congress convened on Tuesday, making it the longest speaker contest in 164 years.

Not since 1860, when the US' union was fraying over the issue of slavery, has the lower chamber of Congress voted so many times to pick a Speaker. Back then it took 44 rounds of ballots.

A group of 20 hard-line Republican lawmakers are refusing to give the California Congressman the necessary 218 votes.

The 435-seat lower chamber, where Republicans have a slim majority over Democrats, is unable to conduct any legislative business until a speaker is elected.

McCarthy has the support of most House Republicans and former President Donald Trump but the 20 hardliners have pressured him to decentralise the Speaker's power.

All House Democrats have voted for Congressman Hakeem Jeffries, a New York Democrat, to be Speaker in the election.

Though it's unlikely for Jeffries to attain the position, he is set to become the first African-American lawmaker to lead a party in either chamber of Congress.

In the November 8, 2022, midterm elections, Republicans won the House by a slender margin of 222 to 212 in the 435-seat chamber, while Democrats retained control of the Senate.

Earlier on Thursday, McCarthy was defiant in the face of the stiff headwinds, saying that he will continue to face opposition until he reaches a deal with his detractors.

"It's all going to be this way until an agreement comes. It's easier if we're able to all get an agreement together," he told CNN.

Asked the point he would make a realisation that the outcome won't change, McCarthy told the network: "After I win."

But one of the 20 dissidents, Ralph Norman of South Carolina, told the BBC that he simply does not trust McCarthy.

The Congressman said McCarthy's team had threatened political retaliation against them if they did not fall in line, in the weeks leading up this deadlock.

"We were going to be thrown off committees... We're going to lose every privilege we had. And we'd basically told them, 'If we can't ask questions, if we can't vet out the most powerful person that we're getting ready to put in office, then we're out'," he told the BBC.

The Speaker of the House is the second in line to the presidency, after Vice President Kamala Harris. They set the agenda in the House, and no legislative business can be conducted there without them.

Evacuations ordered in California due to deadly storm

San Francisco | Agencies

Authorities have ordered evacuations in parts of northern California and also warned of threats to life and property, especially around San Francisco and Sacramento, as a deadly storm is pounding the US state bringing with it heavy rain and powerful winds.

California has been under a state of emergency since Wednesday with more than 160,000 home and businesses without electricity, the BBC reported. The powerful storm system known as a 'bomb cyclone' has killed at least two people, including a toddler who died on Wednesday evening when a redwood tree fell on his home in Sonoma County.

According to weather officials, much of the state has been hit by "atmospheric rivers" -- an airborne current carrying dense moisture from the ocean -- bringing heavy rain to low-lying areas, powerful winds to San Francisco and snow to the Sierra Nevada mountains.

The National Weather Service (NWS) said California will continue to be impacted by atmospheric river conditions through Thursday, "with heavy to excessive rainfall, flooding with debris flows and landslides near recent burn scar areas, heavy mountain snow and high winds".

Rains and winds are expected to die down on Thursday night, before ramping up again over the weekend and into next week, it added.

MAN FATALLY SHOTS 7 FAMILY MEMBERS BEFORE SUICIDE IN US

Los Angeles | Agencies

A 42-year-old man fatally shot seven other family members, including his wife and their five children, inside their home in the US' Utah state before taking his own life, authorities said.

Eight people were found shot to death inside a home on Wednesday in Iron County's Enoch, a mostly rural and agricultural city, in the southwestern US state, Xinhua news agency reported. Enoch is nearly 400 km south of Salt Lake City, the capital city of Utah.

Police officers were summoned to the home in reference to a welfare check. Concerned family and friends contacted the police after not hearing from the victims, said the Enoch City in a news release.

"While this intense investigation is ongoing, investigators currently believe there are no suspects outstanding," said the news release, noting that the suspect is Michael Haight. The seven victims were identified as Haight's wife, Tausha Haight, 40, Haight's mother-in-law, Gail Earl, 78, the couple's five children, including a 17-year-old girl, a 12-year-old girl, a 7-year-old girl, a 7-year-old boy and a 4-year-old boy, according to the news release on Thursday.

Iron County School District said in a letter sent to parents that "eight members of a family residing in Enoch with five students in our schools tragically passed away."

"This loss is sure to raise many emotions, concerns, and questions for our entire school district, especially our students," said the school district.

"Our hearts go out to all those affected by this senseless violence. Please keep the community of Enoch in your prayers," Utah Governor Spencer J. Cox tweeted Wednesday night. "The President and first lady are mourning with the Enoch City, Utah community in the wake of a tragic shooting that has reportedly claimed the lives of five children and multiple adults in their family home," the White House lamented in a statement Thursday.

UKRAINE REJECTS RUSSIA'S 'TRIVIAL' CEASEFIRE OFFER

Kiev | Agencies

Ukraine's President Volodymyr Zelensky has rejected Russia's "trivial" Christmas ceasefire offer, saying it was a cover for Moscow to stop Ukrainian advances in the eastern Donbas region and bring in more conscripts and equipment.

On Thursday evening, Russian President Vladimir Putin ordered his Defence Minister to impose the 36-hour ceasefire on the Ukrainian frontline, beginning at 12 a.m. on Friday to coincide with the Russian Orthodox Christmas, the BBC reported. The Russian Orthodox Church celebrates Christmas Day on January 7, according to the Julian calendar. In a statement, the Kremlin said: "Taking into consideration the appeal by (Kirill, Patriarch of the Russian Orthodox Church), the President hereby instructs the minister of defence of the Russian Federation to impose a ceasefire regime along the entire line of contact in Ukraine for the 36-hour period." The order called on Ukraine to reciprocate so that the "large numbers of Orthodox believers (who) reside in areas where hostilities are taking place" could celebrate Christmas Eve on Friday and Christmas Day on Saturday. But in his nightly address to the nation, Zelensky said: "Now they want to use Christmas as a cover to stop the advance of our servicemen in the Donbas for a short time and bring equipment, ammunition and conscripts closer to our positions. What does this mean? Just another increase in the volume of losses."

Jakarta: A car crashed into a river due to severe weather conditions in Indonesia's South Sulawesi's Pangkep Regency, killing five people. The car carrying six people was running through heavy rain at 05:15 local time from north to south on Thursday, Pangkep police officer Ida Ayu Suastini said, adding that then the car plunged into a three-meter deep river after hitting a tree on the left side of the road, Xinhua news agency reported. "One survivor is still receiving care at Pangkep Hospital," told Suastini. All five of the victims, including the driver and a three-year-old child, have been evacuated. Authorities are still investigating the cause of the incident, but they believe it was caused by bad weather. Indonesia has been facing extreme weather of heavy rains and strong winds since December, which led to a series of hydrometeorological disasters like floods and landslides. According to the Meteorology, Climatology, and Geophysics Agency (BMKG), the peak of extreme weather will happen until February.

Kamal Nath's big promise to backward classes if congress returns in power

Team Absolute | Bhopal

Aiming to consolidate his party's position among the Other Backward Classes ahead of the Assembly elections in Madhya Pradesh, senior Congress leader and former chief minister Kamal Nath said his party would amend the Constitution for the benefit of the OBC community if it returns to power at the Centre.

The Madhya Pradesh Congress president accused the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) government of cheating the OBCs in the state, where polls are due by the end of 2023.

"I promise that whenever our government comes to power at the Centre, it will amend the Constitution to extend the benefit of reservation to the OBC community," Kamal Nath said at an OBC community rally in Satna town. Sources close to Kamal Nath said such a constitutional amendment will ensure removal of the 50 per cent cap on quota in jobs and education, and uniformity in implementation of 27 per cent reservation for the OBCs in all states.

"When our government was in power in Madhya Pradesh, it had given 27 per cent reservation to the OBCs in the state (up from 14 per cent earlier), but the BJP cheated them (the community) and dragged the matter to court," he alleged.

The Congress leader sought to know what the BJP had given to the people of the state despite being in power for the last 18 years barring the brief period in 2018-20 when his party governed Madhya Pradesh.

Kamal Nath slammed Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan, saying he has made more than 20,000 announcements and accused his government of committing a scam in the name of "smart city" project. He said, "It is not a smart city (project), but a smart scam. Chouhan himself has said he is a machine of making announcements." Kamal Nath said the Constitution framed by Dr Bhimrao Ambedkar is known the world over and many countries adopted similar statute book and warned India's culture was in danger today. "It was a challenge for him (Dr Ambedkar) to make a Constitution for such a diverse country but he drafted a great Constitution for the nation based on which leaders like Jawaharlal Nehru, Maulana Abul Kalam Azad and Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel took the nation forward," said the former Union minister.

"But today India's culture is in danger and you have to decide whether you want to tread the path of Modi (Prime Minister Narendra Modi) or the path shown by the country's culture," he said. Asked about the row over claims of alleged obscene videos of BJP leaders, Kamal Nath said, "When our government was in power, such types of videos and CDs had surfaced but I had directed officials to probe them in a proper manner as I didn't want the state's image to get sullied."

The Love Island star described herself as 'very sexual' and said she is 'not shy' about asking for what she wants. Shannon said: 'I'm very sexual. I'm not shy when it comes to my sex life because I require it. My connection with my partner is getting into bed, getting in the feels and having a great time. People get so shy talking about sex and I'm not like that at all. Me and Ben will have a long drive from London to Scotland and we will stop at the service stations and spark it up.' Shannon insisted that she 'needs' sex but added that it's not the only form of intimacy she and her boyfriend enjoy. She said: 'I literally need to keep it alive and I love it because he's the same. It's not to the point that it's the only intimacy we have, but I know I have a really high sex drive so I need it.'

Appearing on the Who's Your Daddy podcast, she said: 'I am very sexually active, I have sex like eight times a day. Not every day but I have a lot of sex. I am very sexually active. I had sex in the morning yesterday, then in a toilet, then in the afternoon. I quite like a bit of rough and tough. I kind of like it rough and I love a bit of morning sex. I love it.'

'I lost my virginity quite young; I have always been mature for my age. I regret losing it so young. But I was sexually active from a young age.'

Shannon took part on the 2021 series of Love Island but was the first contestant sent home, leaving the villa after just one day.

'STRANGER THINGS' STAR NOAH SCHNAPP COMES OUT AS GAY

Los Angeles | Agencies

Actor Noah Schnapp, who plays the closeted gay teenager Will Byers on Netflix's 'Stranger Things', has come out as gay.

In a video posted to his TikTok account on Thursday, the actor wrote: "When I finally told my friends and family I was gay after being scared in the closet for 18 years and all they said was 'we know'".

Over Schnapp lip-syncing to an audio clip from a different TikTok of someone saying, "You know what it never was? That serious. It was never that serious. Quite frankly, will never be that serious," reports Variety. In the caption to his TikTok video, Schnapp wrote: "I guess I'm more similar to Will than I thought." Schnapp confirmed to Variety for the first time that Will Byers is gay and in love with his best friend Mike. "It was always kind of there, but you never really knew, is it just him growing up slower than his friends?" Schnapp said. "Now that he's gotten older, they made it a very real, obvious thing. Now it's 100 per cent clear that he is gay and he does love Mike." When Variety asked Schnapp about how he navigated the attention on Will's sexuality while he was also still figuring himself out, the actor pointed to all the tribulations the character has faced over the course of the series.

"I think it's all just part of the challenge of acting," he said. "This isn't just a single layer thing of he's struggling with coming out. It's this multifaceted trauma that goes years back, because he was taken by the Demogorgon and then his friends, they never acknowledged him, and now he's scared to come out and doesn't know if they'll accept him."

'HAVING THE GUTS TO FAIL'

Los Angeles | Agencies

Actor Dwayne Johnson, in a reflective post, spoke about "having the guts to fail" after the 'Black Adam' box office bomb. On early Thursday, the wrestler-turned-actor posted on his Instagram page a video of him retreating to the woods while sharing an empowering message about embracing failure. "Tapping in with you with a quick thought that's anchored my success (and failures) over the years that may anchor and help you too on your journey. Having the guts to fail is far more powerful than having the desire to succeed. Having the desire to succeed is very attractive. It's sexy," he wrote in the caption.

"While having the guts to fail is extremely uncomfortable. And sometimes it's scary," he admitted, reports aceshowbiz.com. "But guts over desire has served me all throughout my career - and when we put ourselves in positions to be uncomfortable - to have the guts to fail - we actually set ourselves up in a much more powerful way to WIN. It's 2023. It's our year. Guts over desire."

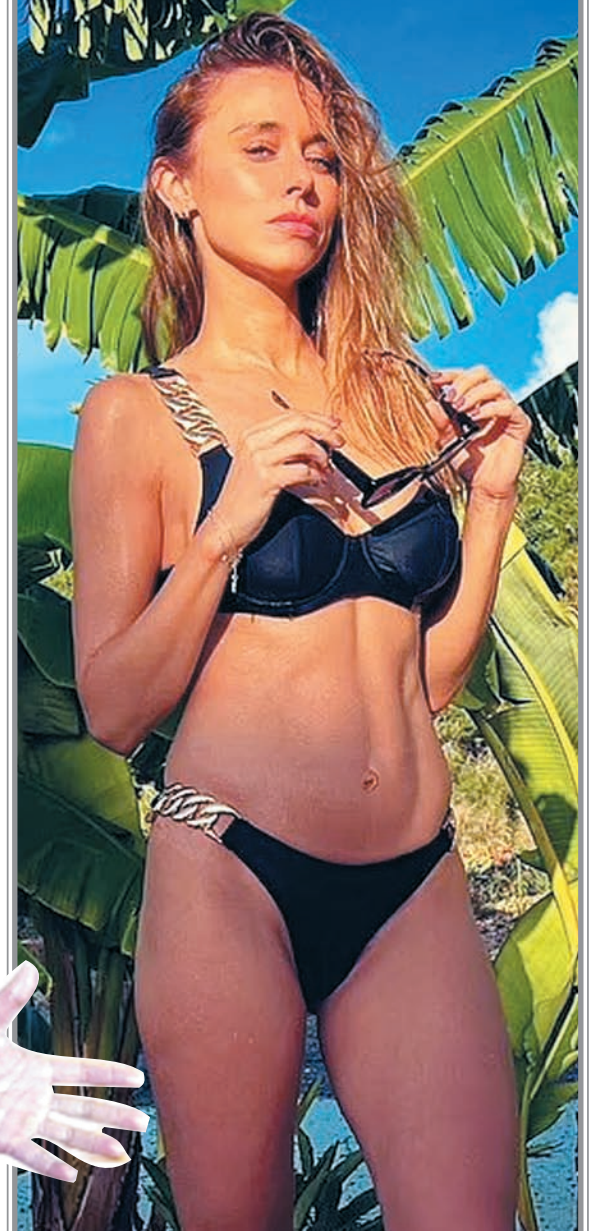

In the video, Johnson further elaborated on the advice that he got from his "good friend" named Inky Johnson. "He's always got great perspective, grounding perspective. He keeps it raw. He keeps it real. He said something that was really profound that I feel ties into this whole thing: he talked about having the guts to fail," he gushed.

"And the reason why I bring that back around to you guys is having the guts to fail compared to having the desire to be famous, having the desire to succeed." "But I have found in life, that the desire to become famous, the desire to succeed will never be as powerful as having the guts to fail. And I love that, because I look back at my own life, and around every corner, and still today," he explained.

IND vs BAN T20I Series

PANDYA BLAMES POOR EFFORTS IN POWERPLAY FOR INDIA'S LOSE

Pune | Agencies

India skipper Hardik Pandya blamed poor efforts by his team in both the bowling and batting powerplay for his team's 16-run defeat to Sri Lanka in the second T20I at the Maharashtra Cricket Association Stadium.

After Pandya won the toss and chose to bowl first, the Indians conceded 55 runs without any success in the power-play as Kushal Mendis made merry. They pulled things back in the middle overs before Sri Lanka hammered 77 runs in the last five overs to race to 206/6 in 20 overs with Sri Lanka skipper Dasun Shanaka blazing to a sensational 20-ball half century. In reply, the Indians made a hash of the power-play as they lost four wickets in the first five overs. Though Suryakumar Yadav (51) and Axar Patel (65) raised their hopes, in the end, the hosts fell short by 16 runs.

"In bowling and batting, the power-play hurt us. We made some basic errors, which we shouldn't be making at this level. Everyone knows what it is, the learning for us is we should be focussing on what we can control," Pandya said after the match. The skipper consoled pacer Arshdeep, who bowled five no-balls and conceded 37 runs in two overs. You can have a good day, you can have a bad day, but you shouldn't be moving away from the basics. For Arshdeep, in this situation, it is very difficult. It is not about blaming him for being too hard on him, but we know no-balls in any format are a crime," he said. The third and decisive T20I of the three-match series will be played in Rajkot on Saturday.

Men's National Boxing Championships

Hisar | Agencies

Heavy favorites Shiva Thapa and Hussamuddin powered their way to remarkable victories and bagged gold medals while defending champions Services Sports Control Board (SSCB) topped the rankings with 10 medals at the 6th Elite Men's National Boxing Championships.

The record six times Asian medalist Shiva of Assam had a pretty comfortable day at the office as he defeated the 2021 World Youth Championships bronze medalist Ankit Narwal of Railways Sports Promotion Board (RSPB) to win by unanimous decision in the 63.5kg final.

Contrastingly, the SSCB pugilist Mohammad Hussamuddin had to toil hard to prevail against the 2016 World Youth champion Sachin of RSPB in the 57kg final. Having suffered defeat in last year's final, the two time Commonwealth Games bronze medalist showcased brilliant tenacity to emerge victorious this time round with a 4-1 scoreline.

Alongside Hussamuddin

and Narender, the pugilists of SSCB stole the show on the final day of the tournament as the team successfully defended their crown at the Men's National Boxing Championships with a total of six gold, one silver and three bronze medals. Bishwamitra Chongtham (51kg), Sachin (54kg), Akash (67kg), and Sumit (75kg) were the team's other gold medalists.

The 2022 Asian Championships bronze medalist Govind Sahani (48kg) and the 2021 Asian bronze medalist Varinder Singh (60kg) defended their title and attained gold for RSPB. While Govind defeated Keisham Singh of Manipur with a 5-0 win, Varinder won against Vijay Kumar of Punjab with the same scoreline. Punjab's Kartik (86kg) and Karnataka's Nishant Dev (71kg) also obtained gold medals in their respective categories at the prestigious tournament which witnessed participation of 386 boxers fighting in 13 weight categories.

Apart from the medals, Abhimanyu Loura was also presented with the Best Promising pugilist award. Kartik of Punjab secured the Best Boxer award while Zoram Muana of Mizoram was given the Best Challenger award.

La Liga clubs Betis, Bilbao, Osasuna move into last-16 stage of Copa del Rey

Madrid | Agencies

Copa del Rey holders Real Betis came back from a goal down away to fourth-tier Ibiza Islas Pitucas to win 4-1 and ensure their place in the last 16 of the tournament.

Ibiza briefly threatened an upset when Jose Miguel Bernal put them ahead midway through the first half, but Betis reacted strongly after the break, with striker William Jose scoring twice, along with Edgar Gonzalez and Nabil Fekir to ease Betis' progress. Athletic Bilbao cruised past Eldense 6-1 in a game the Basque side took control of after goals in the 35th minute from Nico Williams and in the 40th from Alex Berenguer. Oier Zaraga, Berenguer again, Iker Muniain and an own goal settled the match in the second half as Athletic produced a display of clinical finishing, reports Xinhua.

Osasuna had to work much harder away to third-tier Gimnastic Taragona, with the home side forcing extra time thanks to Pablo Fernandez cancelling out Kike Garcia's first-half opener for the top-flight side.

Fernandez was then sent off with six minutes of normal time left to play, but it wasn't until a minute before the end of extra time that Eric Montes put the ball into his own net to give Osasuna a 2-1 win. The draw for the next round is on Saturday, with the games to be played on January 17th, 18th and 19th.

AUS vs SA Test Series

RAIN FORCES ABANDONMENT OF DAY THREE IN SYDNEY TEST

Persistent rain in Sydney meant that no play was possible on the third day of the third and final Test between Australia and South Africa at the Sydney Cricket Ground.

Sydney | Agencies

The inclement weather had already played a role in nearly half of the first day's play getting lost in the match. Things improved on Day Two when almost a full 90 overs were possible before the rain returned to force a washout for Day Three on Friday. The weather forecast suggestions are far better for Saturday when much less rain is on the radar.

Australia was batting at 475 for four when early stumps were called on Thursday. Usman Khawaja was unbeaten on 195 off 368 balls, including 19 fours and one six, while Matt Renshaw, who tested positive for Covid-19 before the start of the match, was alongside him with five not out. Cricket Australia also announced that patrons who purchased tickets for day three's play may be eligible for a refund under the terms of the 2022/23 Refund Policy. Given that less than 15 overs were bowled on Friday, ticket purchasers may be eligible for a full or partial refund.

The rain in Sydney on Day 3 of the Test meant all elements of the pre-match ceremony of Jane McGrath Day - including the pre-show performance, and unfurling of the Jane McGrath Pink Silk and Pink Cap presentation - has been postponed for day four. South Africa has already lost the three-match series after Australia registered victories in Brisbane and Melbourne.

Brief scores

Australia 475/4 in 131 overs (Usman Khawaja 195 not out, Steve Smith 104, Anrich Nortje 2/55) against South Africa.

Adelaide International 1

MEDVEDEV DOWNS KHACHANOV TO SOAR INTO SEMIFINAL

Adelaide | Agencies

After making an impressive start to the 2023 season, Daniil Medvedev continued his fine form as he recorded a commanding victory over the World No. 7 Karen Khachanov 6-3, 6-3 on Friday to reach the semifinals of the Adelaide International 1.

Medvedev will face either Serbian Djokovic or seventh-seed Canadian Denis Shapovalov in the semifinals. After saving two break points from 15/40 in his opening service game, Medvedev reeled off four games in a row from 2-3 to claim the first set and did not panic when broken early in the second. He took five straight games to clinch a comfortable 78-minute victory over his compatriot. Medvedev is yet to drop a set this week in Adelaide, where he moved past Lorenzo Sonego and Miomir Kecmanovic in his opening two rounds. Fourteen of his 15 tour-level titles have come on hard courts, and he will hope to move one step closer to lifting another trophy on the surface when he takes on top seed Novak Djokovic or seventh seed Denis Shapovalov in the semifinals. Medvedev and Khachanov last met in Montreal three-and-a-half years ago. When asked about his potential semi final opponents -- Djokovic or Shapovalov -- he said: "I think one of them has a lot of titles and quite likes to play in Australia! I think he didn't lose for a long time here, but I'm going to watch their match.

You never know what is going to happen. Denis is such a strong player, and even if he didn't manage to beat Novak yet, this moment is going to come one day, because he is such a strong player."

Sabalenka sails into semifinals, beats Vondrousova in straight sets

Adelaide | The No.2 seed Aryna Sabalenka defeated Tokyo Olympic silver medalist Marketa Vondrousova 6-3, 7-5 in straight sets to reach the semifinals at the Adelaide International 1.

The World No.5 will play against either No.4 seed Veronika Kudermetova or unseeded Romanian Irina-Camelia Begu for her 19th career WTA Tour singles final. The big-hitting Sabalenka was dominating the opening quarterfinal to the tune of a 6-3, 4-1, 40-0 lead against the 2019 Roland Garros finalist before things got complicated. She lost four of the next five games and failed to convert match point, before righting the ship in the late stages for a 6-3, 7-5 win. Sabalenka hammered 38 winners to 26 unforced errors, while the crafty Vondrousova totalled 17 winners to just 10 mistakes. It was Sabalenka's fourth straight win over Vondrousova and her second straight triumph against the Czech Down Under. Last year, Sabalenka defeated her 4-6, 6-3, 6-1 in the third round of the Australian Open. The player hasn't dropped a set so far this week as she came from 5-1 down, and saved seven set points, in the first set of a 7-6(8), 7-6(3) win over Liudmila Samsonova in Round 2. Against Vondrousova, she saved two break points in the last game of the match and saved six of the eight against her overall. "It was a tough match. She fought until the end. I'm really happy I was able to win this match," Sabalenka said after the win. "I think because I'm staying really calm and I feel at home here, that's why I'm playing really well."

As a professional, you can't be doing this: Gavaskar on Arshdeep's no-balls

Pune | Agencies

Legendary India cricketer Sunil Gavaskar has slammed left-arm fast-bowler Arshdeep Singh for bowling five no balls in his two-over spell during the hosts' 16-run defeat to Sri Lanka in the second T20I at Pune.

"As a professional, you can't be doing this. We often hear that today's players say, things aren't in our control. Not bowling no ball is in your control. What happens after you deliver the ball, what the batsman does, is another thing. Not bowling a no ball is definitely in your control," said Gavaskar.

Arshdeep last featured for India in November 2022 during the white-ball tour of New Zealand. He bowling no balls on a day when the young Indian bowling attack conceded 11 extra is something which impressed captain Hardik Pandya.

"You can have a good day, you can have a bad day, but you shouldn't be moving away from the basics. For Arshdeep, in this situation, it is very difficult. It is not about blaming him for being too hard on him, but we know no-balls in any format is a crime," Pandya said after the match ended.

But veteran wicketkeeper-batsman Dinesh Karthik came out in support of Arshdeep on Twitter. "You've got to feel for Arshdeep Singh, just lack of match practice. It's never easy," he said in a tweet.

Pegula shocks Swiatek to give USA 1-0 lead over Poland

Sydney | Agencies

Jessica Pegula registered a 6-2, 6-2 win over reigning World No.1 Iga Swiatek in the first match of the United Cup semifinal to give the USA a 1-0 lead over Poland.

Pegula broke Swiatek five times and dropped her serve only once in storming to her first wins over the three-time grand slam champion since 2019.

Swiatek lost the first seven points of the match - five with forehand errors. A slew of terrific winners enabled her to break Pegula back from 40/0, but it was the American who maintained her initial momentum.

Pegula teed off repeatedly on Swiatek's serves, firing clean return winners en route to breaking for 4-1. The player out-rallied Swiatek in the highest-octane baseline exchanges ultimately tallying 21 winners to the Pole's 18. Swiatek showed some excellent volleying and overheads, but none led to any sustained momentum. In the first set, Pegula won 15 of her first 18 return points; in the second, she lost only five points behind her serve and did not face a break point.

BELIEF OF NOT BEING LESS THAN ANYONE TOOK ME TO TOP LEVEL: JHULAN GOSWAMI

Team Absolute | New Delhi

Legendary India fast bowler Jhulan Goswami has said that her belief of not being less than anyone and intent to compete and win over teams has been one of the reasons for her reaching to the top level and then taking women's cricket to great heights.

Considered as one of the greatest fast bowlers to have ever played the game, Jhulan represented India in 12 Tests, 204 ODIs and 68 T20Is, picking 355 wickets across formats, the most by any bowler in women's international cricket. In ODIs, she picked 255 wickets, a record in women's international cricket.

"When I started playing cricket, if anyone hit a six or went for boundaries on my ball, then people used to tease me a lot. Because they were like, 'You bought these girls to play. It's not going to work. We'll win anyways'. I used to think that I wasn't lesser than them and I could go against them and win. My takeaway is if you believe in your inner instinct then definitely, with honesty and dedication, you can reach that place," said Jhulan.

Asked about her style of leadership, she explained, "You have to do a lot of communication as the leader. That is the most important thing. If you don't know your teammates, what emotional state they are in, what mental state they are in, technically whether they feel any different, whether they are feeling nervous."

All these things you have to know as a leader. What you are doesn't matter, but how you give that comfort to your teammates, that are important."

Jhulan played for India in five Women's ODI World Cups -- 2005, 2009, 2013, 2017 and 2022. She remains the leading wicket-taker in the history of the Women's Cricket World Cups with 43 scalps.

Things turn bitter between Shalin and Tina yet again

Team Absolute | Mumbai

Its new week and new tasks and tragedies taking place in Salman Khan hosted reality show Bigg Boss 15. In a fun task, "Bigg Boss" orders the housemates to splash foam on the faces of contestants whose personalities haven't emerged after nearly 10 weeks in the prized residence. It will be interesting to find out who has kept their true selves hidden inside in order to play the game.

Soon after, housemates begin readying themselves for the 'vaar' and that's when Shalin interrupts a conversation between Sreejita De and Priyanka Chahar Choudhary, who sternly asks him to shut up.

Shalin questions her rude behavior and she taunts him by pointing out that she doesn't throw things around like him in anger and that she's not scared of him. An annoyed Shalin badmouths Priyanka in front of his close friend Tina Datta, who reprimands him for his anger issues that affect his friendships.

Following this drama and tension, Salman Khan exposes the truth of the much-talked-about equation between Shalin and Tina. Even after 10 weeks, it's not clear if Shalin and Tina have a soft corner for each other or if it's all an act for the cameras. Known to not mince his words, Salman asks Tina what game she is playing and with whom.

Upon Tina making it clear that she has maintained that there can be no relationship between her and Shalin, Salman raises questions about her dancing closely with Shalin right after a huge fight on New Year's night. He observes that when Tina is weak, she goes to Shalin and when she's strong she snaps out of the fake equation with him. He guarantees that their relationship of convenience will not last and challenges Tina to own the game that she's playing.
