WRESTLING MESS: IOC CONDEMNS POLICE ACTION AGAINST WRESTLERS, URGES IOA TO PROTECT ATHLETES

Wrestlers got support

Team Absolute | New Delhi

The International Olympic Committee (IOC) has condemned the alleged manhandling by Delhi Police of protesting wrestlers over the weekend by calling it "disturbing" and urged the authorities to ensure the "well-being of the athletes" throughout the investigation against Wrestling Federation of India (WFI) sidelined chief Brij Bhushan Sharan Singh.

Close on the heels of a similar statement by United World Wrestling, the sport's world governing body, the IOC also urged the Indian Olympic Association (IOA) to take all necessary action to protect the protesting wrestlers.

Since April 23, prominent Indian wrestlers led by Olympians Bajrang Punia, Sakshi Malik, and Vinesh Phogat have been staging a protest at the Jantar Mantra demanding the arrest of Brij Bhushan Sharan Singh over sexual harassment of female athletes, including a minor. The IOC also confirmed its close communication with the United World Wrestling (UWW), the global governing body for the sport, regarding the matter.

Last weekend, the protesting wrestlers were detained by the Delhi Police during their march towards the new Parliament building.

As the protesters tried to breach the security cordon, a fierce tussle broke out -- the wrestlers and cops pushed, shoved and grappled with one another.

Khaps extend full support to wrestlers, mull approaching President

Muzaffarnagar (UP): The Mahapanchayat of Khaps that met in Muzaffarnagar on Thursday has decided to meet President Droupadi Murmu if need be and seek justice for the protesting wrestlers demanding the arrest of Wrestling Federation of India chief Brij Bhushan Sharan Singh on charges of sexual harassment.

Bharatiya Kisan Union (BKU) spokesman

Rakesh Tikait said the final decision on the issue of wrestlers' protest will be taken at a meeting in Haryana on Friday.

The Mahapanchayat held at Sauram village extended full support to the protesting wrestlers and demanded the arrest of WFI chief Brij Bhushan Sharan Singh. Meanwhile, farmer leader Mangeram Tyagi alleged that the wrestlers' protest is being given a casteist colour. BKU chief Naresh Tikait, who had persuaded the wrestlers not to immerse their medals into River Ganga on Tuesday, made it clear that they will leave no stone unturned.

The wrestlers have been on a warpath since January, demanding action against WFI chief Singh, whom they accused of sexually harassing seven athletes.

Security tightened at Delhi borders following SKM's nationwide protest call

New Delhi: Delhi Police have tightened security measures along the city's borders, including Singhu, Tikri and Ghazipur, in the wake of a nationwide demonstration call by the Samyukt Kisan Morcha (SKM) in support of the country's top grapplers protesting against the Wrestling Federation of India (WFI) chief, Brij Bhushan Sharan Singh.

"Additional police personnel have been deployed, and extra checkpoints were set up to prevent any undesirable occurrences," a senior police official said on Thursday. "Security has been heightened, and we have increased the presence of police personnel while setting up additional checkpoints at Delhi's borders. Our objective is to ensure the maintenance of law and order and prevent any untoward incidents," said another officer. The officer also mentioned that vehicles entering Delhi from neighbouring states are being subjected to thorough inspections at the borders. On Tuesday, the SKM had announced demonstrations and effigy burning of the WFI chief at villages and town centres on June 5, the day RSS workers and Mahants have called a rally in support of Brij Bhushan in Ayodhya.

As the sporadic incidents of violence continued in Manipur, the government extended the suspension of Internet services till June 5 to prevent the spread of rumours and videos, photos, and messages, which might affect the law and order situation in the ethnic-violence hit northeastern state. Commissioner, Home, H. Gyan Prakash, in a fresh notification extending the suspension of Internet services till June 5, said that the Director General of Police, Manipur, reported that there are still reports of incidents like arson of houses and premises. "There is an apprehension that some anti-social elements might use social media extensively for transmission of images, hate speech and hate video messages inciting the passions of the public, which might have serious repercussions for the law and order situation in the state," the order said.

After the widespread violence broke out on May 3 in 11 of the 16 districts during and after the 'Tribal Solidarity March' called by the All Tribal Students' Union of Manipur to oppose the demand for inclusion of the Meitei community in the Scheduled Tribe category, the Manipur government suspended the Internet to control the situation.

When shortage of various essentials, transport fuel and life-saving drugs, disturbances in banking and ATM facilities shattered the normal life, the Internet suspension for around a month across the mountainous state further added to the problems of the people.

Not seeking any int'l support, our fight is ours: RaGa at Stanford

SAN FRANCISCO | Agencies

In his address at the Stanford University, Congress leader Rahul Gandhi clarified he was not seeking any international support and said that "our fight is ours".

While addressing a gathering at the California-based varsity on Wednesday, Rahul, who is on a six-day trip to the US, was asked about his opinion on many opposition parties across the world seeking international support. To this, the former MP said: "I'm not seeking support from anyone or anybody. I am very clear that our fight is our fight."

The Congress leader said that he wanted to speak to a group of young students from India at the Stanford University and build relations with them. "I think it is my right to do it and I don't understand why Prime Minister Narendra Modi doesn't come here and do it. The Prime Minister needs to answer some hard questions," Rahul said.

On a number of occasions, the BJP has attacked Rahul Gandhi for defaming the country on foreign soil.

Breaking his silence on his disqualification from Parliament, former Congress Rahul Gandhi has said that he had never imagined that he would get maximum punishment in a defamation case and would be disqualified as an MP, but asserted that it has given him a lot of opportunity to work. He said on Wednesday that "democracy isn't about opposition, it is about sacred institutions that support the opposition, and those institutions by the capture certainly want to change the role it is supposed to do." He made the remarks while delivering a lecture at the prestigious Stanford University Campus in California on the changing world order and India's crucial role within it.

'Man Mein Ek Aas Hai', Pilot's video triggers speculations

Jaipur | Agencies

With Assembly polls nearing in Rajasthan, the Congress high-command recently 'resolved' the internal conflict between Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot and his former deputy Sachin Pilot after two months of constant exchange of barbs between the two camps.

As the party leadership is now trying to show that everything is fine in Rajasthan Congress, a tweet by Sachin Pilot has triggered speculations in the political circles.

Pilot has posted a video story on his Twitter handle, in which he is seen with the people of the state. He captioned the video: "There is hope in my mind, there is a belief in the heart, will build a strong Rajasthan, when people are together."

While Pilot is visible in every slide in the video, no other Congress leaders, nor the party's symbol, could be seen in it.

Actually, Pilot and Gehlot have not been in the best of terms ever since the Congress government was formed in 2018. On many occasions, Pilot has expressed his displeasure with the Congress high-command for not resolving his pending issues.

Man kills wife for refusing sex in Hyderabad

Hyderabad: Enraged over his wife refusing sex, a man strangled her to death in Hyderabad.

The shocking incident came to light with the autopsy report revealing the cause of the death. Though the crime was committed on the night of May 20, the police could solve the case 10 days later.

Hailing from Nagarkurnool district of Telangana, the couple had a love marriage in 2021. Tarun told police that on the night of May 20 he expressed his desire. Jhansi told him that she was very tired. The man, however, started forcing her. When she started shouting, he pressed her mouth with his hand. When she became motionless and started foaming at the mouth, Tarun panicked and alerted his relatives. She was rushed to Owaisi Hospital, where doctors declared her brought dead.

The hospital authorities informed the police, which shifted the body to government-run Osmania General Hospital for autopsy.

Team Absolute | New Delhi

The Supreme Court on Thursday declined urgent hearing on a plea challenging the Delhi High Court's May 29 judgement allowing exchange of Rs 2,000 currency notes without any identification.

A bench comprising Justices Sudhanshu Dhulia and KV. Viswanathan told advocate Ashwini Upadhyay, appearing-in-person, the court is not taking up these kinds of cases during vacation and "you can always make a mention to the chief (Chief Justice of India)".

money and according to media reports in last one week Rs 50,000 crore have been exchanged and urged the court to grant urgent hearing in the matter. The bench reiterated that he can mention the matter before the chief and "we are doing nothing...bring to the notice of the RBI..."

I filed a writ in the Delhi High Court and the high court disposed of the matter without issuing notice...this is happening for the first time in the world ... entire black money will become white," said Upadhyay. SAD alleges jail inmate appointed market committee chief in Punjab Chandigarh: The Shiromani Akali Dal (SAD) on Thursday condemned Punjab Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann for criminalising politics by appointing a jail inmate, who was booked for abetting suicide, as Chairman of the Anandpur Sahib Market Committee. Expressing shock that four Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) functionaries had been appointed Chairmen of Improvement Trusts, which had been dissolved by the government, SAD leader Bikram Singh Majithia said "the AAP government has achieved the dubious distinction of touching new lows day after day." Asking the Chief Minister to explain his conduct, Majithia said "it is not conceivable that the government was not aware of Kamikkar Singh Dhaddi's case, especially considering his close proximity to the Chief Minister. The very fact that he has been appointed Chairman of a market committee despite being arrested after being accused of driving a person to commit suicide by jumping into the Bhakra canal speaks of his closeness to the Chief Minister." "It also sends across a clear message that this anti-people and corrupt government does not care for the law of the land and will do as it wishes regardless of the consequences of its actions on civil society," the SAD leader added.

Everyone has the right to visit Bihar, BJP scared of opposition unity: Tejashwi

Patna | Agencies

Bihar Deputy Chief Minister Tejashwi Yadav on Thursday made light of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's expected visit to address a string of rallies, saying that everyone has a right to come to Bihar and who is stopping him.

"Since we have come together in Bihar and formed the government, they (BJP) are in a deep scare. They are frightened about what will happen in the 2024 Lok Sabha election and this fear is not leaving their hearts. I don't know if their fear would go or not but one thing is sure that they would be thrown out from power through people's mandate," he said.

There is a buzz in Bihar that PM Modi will address four rallies in Bihar soon. The dates of the rallies are not finalised yet but the decision has been taken to counter the meeting of opposition leaders from 18 parties in Patna scheduled on June 12.

The BJP has also decided to protest on June 11 and 12 against the meeting of opposition parties.

Sources in BJP are saying that Home Minister Amit Shah came to Bihar several times and held rallies in Purnea, Nawada and some other places but the things are not going in the favour of BJP. Hence, the BJP wants to launch its trump card - the PM - to turn the tables in its favour. So far, the performance of the BJP's Bihar unit and rallies of Amit Shah are failing to sway voters similar to the situation before 2019 Lok Sabha polls.

BHOPAL CELEBRATES ITS 'GAURAV DIWAS' ON DAY OF MERGER INTO INDIAN UNION

Praveen Dwivedi | Bhopal

'Gaurav Diwas' was being celebrated in Madhya Pradesh's capital Bhopal on Thursday, to mark its merger into the Indian Union in 1949, with different departments of the state administrations having made elaborate arrangements, sports activities having begun a day before and an extravagant cultural programme to be held. The concept of 'Gaurav Diwas' initiated by Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan in February last year when he had appealed the representatives of each village, town, district of the state to celebrate the occasion on a particular day - for instance Indore's 'pride day' was celebrated to mark the foundation day of state's commercial city last week. Similarly, Bhopal district administration is celebrating capital city's 'Gaurav Diwas' on its merger day with India after Independence.

Bhopal, which remained a princely states even after Independence like many others across the country, was merged with the Union of India on June 1, 1949, hence it is the 74th anniversary of the merger.

Chouhan had greeted people of the city on the occasion. "This auspicious time came on June 1, 1949, two years after independence of the country, when Bhopal became an integral part of India. Number of people had made sacrifices for this day. I bow at the feet of determined, brave sons."

There are many stories on how Bhopal's last Nawab, Mohammad Hamidullah Khan, who had acquired a high profile by virtue of being the Chancellor of the Chamber of Princes, harbored aspirations of an independent Bhopal and made his best possible effort to achieve it but was foiled.

One such untold story on merger of Bhopal, written by senior journalist Sandeep Bamzai, who is Editor in-Chief and CEO of IANS, in his book "Princcstan", which explain how the unity of a newborn nation was insured by Jawaharlal Nehru, Sardar Patel and Lord Mountbatten.

As per the book, some courses that some of the Princes, particularly the Nawab of Bhopal, had hoped to present to the politicians in British India were "already in disarray by the time the Congress and the Muslim League had agreed to accept the plan for Indian independence, and the situation deteriorated rapidly thereafter".

"The Nawab of Bhopal was harbouring delusions of grandeur - like several others - was completely spooked. He reckoned that the Congress would swoop down on him (which they did eventually). He resigned as Chancellor of the Chamber and announced that he would consider himself free and independent the moment the British departed from India, to choose the destiny of his state for himself."

The Nawab, as per the book, had due to his "high profile by virtue of being the Chancellor of the Chamber of Princes", shared an excellent rapport with Mohammad Ali Jinnah and an excellent equation with Lord Mountbatten as well.

"But the Nawab, like Travancore, Hyderabad and Kashmir, harbored aspirations of an independent Bhopal and thought the British crown would bail him out in crunch situations. In fact, with Mountbatten arriving in India, Hamidullah Khan's hopes were high before the new Viceroy crushed the ambition without so much as a by-your-leave." The Nawab thought of a brighter future in Pakistan such as planned to abdicate in favor of Abida Sultan, the heir apparent, and leave for Karachi. The Nawab was even promised the post of Governor General of Pakistan. He was prevented from doing so by a grievous family dispute that he could not resolve, although he tried his best.

In March 1949, V. P. Menon (the then Secretary of the government of India) arrived in Bhopal to finalise the merger agreement. According to this, Hamidullah Khan was to receive a privy purse of Rs 11 lakh annually and the Princely State of Bhopal was relegated to the annals of history. Subsequently, the state of Bhopal was taken over by the Union Government on June 1, 1949. Later, according to the States Reorganisation Act 1956, Bhopal was integrated into the state of Madhya Pradesh and Bhopal was declared as the capital of the state.

GROWING TENSION IN THE CONGRESS ON THE FACE OF THE CHIEF MINISTER

Team Absolute | Bhopal

A new debate has started in the state since senior leader Rahul Gandhi's opinion on who will be the face of the Congress and who will become the chief minister in the upcoming assembly elections in Madhya Pradesh. Leader of opposition Gobind Singh has even said that his supporters are also using his name.

The Congress has been in a state of controversy over the Chief Minister's face for the past few years. In the state, the Congress has made up its mind to contest elections on the face of Kamal Nath. Many Congress leaders have also put up posters declaring Kamal Nath as the future and inevitable Chief Minister. On this, the senior leaders of the Congress, former minister Ajay Singh and former Union minister Arun Yadav, citing the party constitution, have said that elected MLAs and party chiefs select the leaders.

Recently, when Rahul Gandhi was asked about the face of the Chief Minister, he not only avoided it directly, but only said that the Congress is winning 150 seats.

After Rahul Gandhi's statement, the statements of many leaders of the state have come. Leader of Opposition Dr. Gobind Singh was asked about the face of the Congress Chief Minister, and he said that some people are using our name, who are talking about whomever they support. People of Chhindwara want our leader to become Chief Minister. Jahan Tak Meri Baat Hai To Leader Nahi Main Karte Hoon.

When former Chief Minister Digvijay Singh was asked about Rahul Gandhi's speech, he said that in which parliamentary democracy there is no direct election of the Chief Minister, by what means are the members of the Legislative Assembly selected, what has been said is correct in his opinion.

According to public opinion of Madhya Pradesh, 99 percent of people are in favor of contesting elections under the leadership of Kamal Nath and this is the public opinion that he should become the Chief Minister.

While tweeting the statement of former Chief Minister Digvijay Singh, Kamal Nath's media adviser Piyush Babel has tweeted, BJP, which cheated God, will face the curse of the people this time. No matter how many lies BJP spreads, Kamal Nath will come. Digvijay Singh has bluntly said that 99 percent of the people of Madhya Pradesh want to make Kamal Nath the Chief Minister. There is only one slogan in Madhya Pradesh, Jai Jai Kamal Nath.

With three cheetahs and as many cubs dying at the Kuno National Park in Madhya Pradesh in three months, Union Environment Minister Bhopender Yadav Thursday said, "We take responsibility for whatever happened", but asserted that the translocation project will be a major success.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi released the first batch of eight spotted felines from Namibia into a quarantine enclosure at Kuno in Madhya Pradesh on September 17 last year. In a second such translocation, 12 cheetahs were flown in from South Africa and released into Kuno on February 18.

Three cheetahs died in March and April. Of the 17 remaining adult cheetahs, seven have already been released into the wild. The death of three adult cheetahs and three of the four cubs born to a female Namibian cheetah, Sisaya, has prompted questions from several experts on the suitability of the habitat and wildlife management.

"It's an international project and we had anticipated mortality. It's mentioned in our report too (cheetah introduction action plan). One of the cheetahs was unwell before it even came to India. We have provided the reasons for the deaths of the two other (adult) cheetahs.

"The three cubs died due to extreme heat. The temperature soared to 47 degrees Celsius... We take responsibility for whatever happened. However, the project will be a major success and the whole country will be proud of it," he said in reply to a question at Times Network's conclave.

Shortly after news emerged about the death of two cheetah cubs last week, the Centre set up an 11-member high-level steering committee to review and monitor the progress of the cheetah reintroduction programme.

The government and experts involved in the project have maintained that the mortalities are within the normal range. The action plan for cheetah reintroduction anticipated up to 50 per cent mortality in the first year of relocation.

The steering committee met for the first time on Wednesday and decided to release seven more cheetahs, including two females, into the wild by the third week of June.

A 27-year-old local functionary of Karni Sena was found dead in his car with bullet wounds in Indore, the police said on Thursday.

The deceased has been identified as Mohit Patel, who was the district president of Karni Sena. The car was parked on the road side.

The police said that Patel's licensed revolver was also found in the car with two bullets less in the magazine.

"We are probing whether it was a suicide or a murder, Additional Commissioner of Police, Jayant Rathore, told mediapersons.

Patel was found in his car in the Kanadiya police station area late on Wednesday night.

"At first glance, it appeared that two bullets were pumped into his chest from point-blank range," Rathore said.

Since Patel was working as a property dealer, the police are looking into the rivalry angle.

According to Rathore, Patel left his home alone at around 8:30 p.m. on Wednesday.

Patel had reportedly told his friends that he was going to some place and they should meet him there. But when his friends reached there, they found Patel lying dead in his car with bullet wounds on his chest.

"Patel had rung up some of his friends and called them to a place. According to his friends, when they reached there, they found Patel's blood-soaked body in the car," Rathore said.

The officer said that Patel's friends took him to a hospital where the doctors declared him dead.

Cong to move HC over 'scam' in 'Mahakal Lok' corridor

The Congress on Wednesday said it will approach Madhya Pradesh High Court to seek its intervention over alleged financial irregularities in 'Mahakal Lok' corridor of Ujjain. The opposition also raised question on Ujjain district collector Kumar Purusottam, saying the officer has acted like "puppet of Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan." Congress MLA Sajjan Singh Verma and Shobha Oza, who were among the seven opposition leaders who visited Mahakal Lok corridor on Tuesday, levelled serious allegations on the ruling BJP. The Congress leaders claimed China's local material was used for building the statues of 'Saptarshi'. He further claimed damaged statues were kept in a hidden place and were being redeveloped. When asked why the Congress is demanding judicial inquiry into the matter when Ujjain district collector Kumar Purusottam has said that 'statues collapsed due to gusty wind and there is no need of any investigation. However, Urban Development Minister Bhupendra Singh ruled out the Congress' allegations and accused the opposition of doing politics on religious issue. The Minister further said that over 100 Fibre Reinforced Plastic (FRP) statues were made at a cost of Rs 7.5 crore and artwork carried out on them "was only possible on such statues" and cited the examples of Kingdom of Dreams in Gurugram, Haryana, the Akshardham temple in Delhi and other other projects where FRP statues were used. Notably, six out of the seven idols of 'Saptarishis' installed at the Mahakal Lok corridor, developed on the Mahakaleshwar temple premises collapsed and suffered damages due to gusty winds. Prime Minister Narendra Modi inaugurated the first phase of the Mahakal Lok corridor project on October 11 last year.

STUDIOS CLAIM OWNERSHIP OF RIGHTS

Vinod Mirani

It was since foreign companies entered the Indian film market that filmmakers in the country, especially in the Hindi film industry, took huge strides. Films with budgets in lakhs suddenly started costing crores. With projects being underwritten by big-time backers, the films with stars started costing over Rs 100 crore. This was just the beginning of the whole filmmaking industry going haywire! Creativity went for a toss and greed took over. The budgets went high but content suffered. Films depended solely on the kind of draw a star commanded! Actors wanted to be paid in crores and so did the director. Soon, the stars started asking for Rs 100 crore or more and the ones with just a single success wanted Rs 10-15 crore. Female artistes started demanding in crores, even thought their films, at best, collected Rs 5 crore or less in lifetime business. Somewhere along the line, the filmmaking happened with no sense of the economics. The prices the stars demanded were artificial, much against their draw or potential to recoup. This continued for a long time because the companies which backed these films opened their purse strings generously. The producer had nothing to lose and stood only to gain. Nobody cared for what a star charged or a director did. Ridiculous budgets were presented and sanctioned by the new corporate entrants who were under the impression that they were producing films when, in fact, they were actually outsourcing the film production activities. They had neither the knowledge of filmmaking the way it happened in India, nor any control. Besides the budgets of the films, the manipulations extended to the media and on social media. Amitabh Bachchan, at his peak, commanded the price of Rs 15 lakh, it is said. That price was meant to be the equivalent to one major circuit (Mumbai circuit was one), there being about six. Yet, the maker stood to earn an amount worth one circuit. It was all worked out to everybody's satisfaction and interest. Bachchan's films drew massive footfalls and his price was recovered within a day if you added up all-India box-office collections. In those days, only net collections were made public after deducting the entertainment tax as well as the cinema rentals. That was unlike the practice now, which is aimed at deceiving the people with gross figures, or the recovery from ticket sales, being put out, which is unfair. If Bachchan recovered his price within a day, the films of stars today don't recover their own price, let alone the cost of the film in the lifetime business. A star is someone who assures an initial draw to his every new release. But when the star's prices became unviable, filmmakers resorted to giving out inflated collection figures. There was no way a film costing Rs 100 crore could recover the investment; the film was now limited to multiplexes with an average ticket price (ATP) of Rs 270. The masses, who accounted for a film's success and flocked to the single screens, were driven out. Even at today's prices with inflation and all things considered, one can buy a few things of necessity for that kind of money! Just about everybody was making money, except for those who backed these films. As the things worked in the film industry in India, the negative belonged to the producer of the film, albeit considering there was no lien on the film. That all the financiers' claims had been settled as often there were multiple people from whom the producer borrowed in the process of making his film. The various financiers' claims were guaranteed by the film processing laboratory with whom vested the film's entire negative footage shot for the film. Unless, there was another kind of arrangement in place. It was called World Rights Controller, which involved a single financier. He would let the film release even if his monies were not recovered, but the rights to the negatives vested with him till the time the money was recouped. In those days, the normal practice was to release a film in various circuits through local distributors with an understanding that they paid a price described as MG, and after recovery, shared, what was called the overflow equally with the producer. In the World Rights arrangement, that overflow went to the world rights controller. Now, of course, the recoveries are not only from the overflow of a film, but there exist various other avenues, such as OTT, satellite and other rights. These rights are given out for a stipulated period and recur again. Some of the studios backing Hindi films withdrew from the trade and some were left to wonder what came to them in this whole exercise? It was their money so, rightfully, the rights in the content should belong to them. After all, the producer on record was being paid what is called the Runner Fees to produce a film for the studio, like the director was paid his, so was the star as well as the other crew. As things work now, projects are sanctioned and financed by the principal, say a television channel or an OTT streaming platform, and they own the content. Even during the good old days of Doordarshan, if your serial was sanctioned and televised, the rights and the content finally belonged to DD. The studios that financed film production recently took up this issue with the filmmakers whose films they had bankrolled. The studios staked their claim to the films they had financed because it was their product by all logic. After all, even the producer was paid for his work. In other words, some of our top-rung filmmakers, who were hogging the glory and the limelight when a film was a success, were no more than mere production controllers or, at best, executive producers, and they were making the film on behalf of a studio. So, some of the big-time filmmakers, for that is the kind these studios preferred to deal with, were asked to cede the film rights, rock stock and barrel, to the principal studio, it must have come as a bolt from the blue! The fact that the studios were correct in their demand must have played on their mind. It resulted in the few top names who stood to lose it all, to get into talks. The settlement reached, according to reports, is that the one who produced the film will share the gains from the film on a 50:50 basis. The arrangement will last for ten years from the date of the film's release. Thereafter, all rights in the film in subject will revert back to the studio in toto. Can you imagine that the films that will feed many of your generations to come, won't be yours eventually! Many filmmakers of the yesteryear, such as Raj Kapoor, Shakti Samanta, G.P. Sippy, N.N. Sippy, N.C. Sippy, Pramod Chakravorty, Manmohan Desai, Prakash Mehra, Devendra Goel and many others who made a number of films (though some of them may have sold their film negatives for various reasons), have left them behind and their value in the era of satellite, OTT and other rights are worth crores. Unlike them, the present-day producers may have made a lot of money while they made their films, but nothing will remain with them for the future. Among all these, the one production house that has emerged with no claims on its films is Yash Raj Studios. It has never been reported to seek finance from the corporate studio houses.

MIKE PENCE TO ANNOUNCE 2024 BID NEXT WEEK: REPORT

Washington | Agencies

Former US Vice President Mike Pence will announce his bid for the 2024 US presidential election next week -- the latest to join an increasingly crowded field for the Republican Party's White House nomination, a media report said. Citing informed sources, the BBC report said that the 63-year-old will launch his campaign on June 7 in Iowa. Launching his campaign will put Pence face-to-face with former President Donald Trump. Relations between the two soured after Trump turned on Pence for lacking "courage" after the latter refused to help overturn the 2020 election results, the BBC report said. They have largely kept their distance since January 6, 2021, when pro-Trump rioters stormed the US Capitol and were heard chanting "Hang Mike Pence!". Calm and soft-spoken,

Pence began his career in conservative politics as a talk radio host. He was elected to the House in 2000 and served until 2013. When Pence was the Governor of Indiana from 2013-17, he passed the largest tax cut in the state's history and signed bills to restrict abortion and protect religious freedom. Besides Pence, former

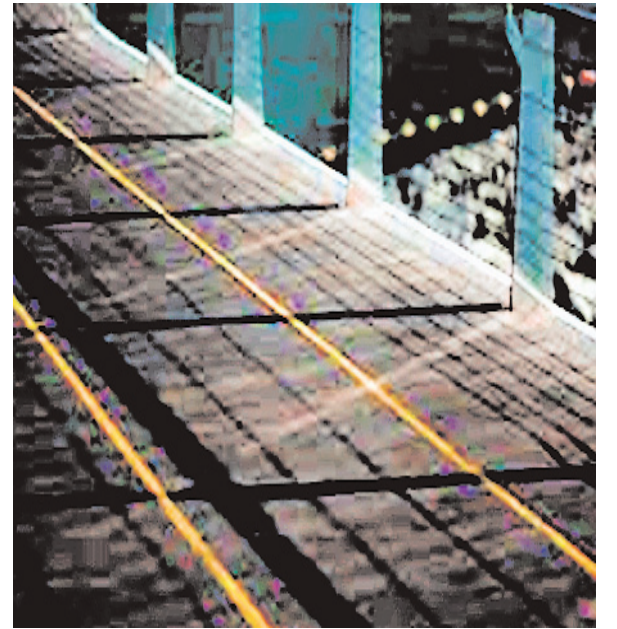

New Jersey Governor Chris Christie is planning to announce his candidacy on June 6 at a town hall event in New Hampshire, where the first Republican primary election will be held, the BBC report said citing multiple sources. After his 2016 presidential bid failed, Christie allied himself with Trump, leading the incoming president's transition team and preparing him for debates against incumbent President Joe Biden in 2020. But Christie has become a critic of Trump since the Capitol riot, calling the latter "a TV star, nothing more, nothing less". After months of speculation, Florida Governor Ron DeSantis launched his 2024 bid during a live Twitter Spaces event, which was plagued by a technical glitch, delaying his announcement by at least 20 minutes. The other names that have already announced their bids for the Republican Party nomination are former US Ambassador to the UN Nikki Haley, Indian-American entrepreneur Vivek Ramaswamy, South Carolina Senator Tim Scott, former two-term Arkansas Governor Asa Hutchinson, Virginia Governor Glenn Youngkin, businessman Perry Johnson and conservative radio host Larry Elder.

17 kids, 1 adult injured in Canada walkway collapse

Ottawa | Agencies

Seventeen children and one adult were injured after falling off an elevated walkway in central Canada, local media reported. The accident happened at Fort Gibraltar in Winnipeg's St. Boniface area on Wednesday when the children aged 10-11 from St. John's-Ravenscourt School were on a field trip, reports Xinhua news agency. Some children fell directly from the 5-metre-high walkway when it collapsed and others slipped down, said local media reports, adding that three of them were taken to hospital in unstable condition, while the remaining were in stable condition. A City of Winnipeg spokesperson said that inspectors will be attending the scene and that a provincial workplace safety and health investigation will take place.

An initial search of our records would seem to indicate that repairs were made to the elevated walkway in 2004 and 2013. We have not received any complaints related to the property based on an initial search of our records," the spokesperson was quoted as saying.

SHOPLIFTING CASES SPIKE IN UK; STEAK, CHEESE, COFFEE MAIN TARGETS

Indian-American teen wins $50,000 Young Scientist award

New York | Agencies

A 17-year-old Indian-origin student in Missouri has won the prestigious Regeneron Young Scientist Awards of $50,000 for his research relating to the mpox virus. Saathvik Kannan of David H. Hickman High School in Columbia was awarded for using biocomputational methods to understand the causes of heightened infectivity in the disease mpox after it re-emerged in 2022. Saathvik's approach, named Bioplex, uses a combination of machine learning and three-dimensional comparative protein modeling to decode structures like those that enable the mpox virus to replicate. This allowed him to identify the mutations in the virus that likely made it more infectious as well as other mutations that could make it resistant to antibiotics. He credited his mentor, Kamalendra Singh, an assistant professor of veterinary pathobiology at the University of Missouri. "I was overjoyed and incredibly excited!" Saathvik wrote in an email to the Columbia Daily Tribune about the prize. "I felt that it reflected our work with Dr. Singh's mentorship and guidance over the last few years culminating in my project for this year." Saathvik believes scientists will also be able to apply Bioplex to future outbreaks of other viruses. More than 1,600 young scientists and engineers representing 49 states and 64 countries across the world competed at the 2023 Regeneron International Science and Engineering Fair. Saathvik also took first place in the fair's computational biology and bioinformatics division, receiving another $5,000.

N.KOREA WILL CORRECTLY PLACE SPY SATELLITE INTO ORBIT SOON: KIM JONG-UN'S SISTER

Seoul | Agencies

The influential sister of North Korean leader Kim Jong-un has vowed that Pyongyang will "correctly" place a military reconnaissance satellite into orbit soon, state media reported on Thursday, a day after Pyongyang's attempt to launch a spy satellite failed. Kim Yo Jong made the remarks as she slammed the US for its denouncement of North Korea's botched launch on Wednesday of what it claimed to be a "space launch vehicle," according to a statement carried by North Korea's official Korean Central News Agency (KCNA). "If North Korea's satellite launch should be particularly censured, the US and all other countries, which have already launched thousands of satellites, should be denounced," she said. "It is certain that the North Korea's military reconnaissance satellite will be correctly put in space orbit in the near future and start its mission." "We confirmed once again that the enemies are most afraid of North Korea's access to excellent reconnaissance and information means including reconnaissance satellite and, accordingly, we are aware that we should direct greater efforts to developing reconnaissance mean," she added. Kim, who serves as the vice department director of the Central Committee of the ruling Workers' Party, also called the UN Security Council's resolutions that ban Pyongyang's use of ballistic technology as "gangster-like" and "wrong" for violating North Korea's right to use space, Yonhap news agency reported. Meanwhile, she reiterated that North Korea is not interested in talks with the US, citing Washington's "hostile policy" toward Pyongyang. "We have no content of dialogue and do not feel the necessity of dialogue with the US and its stooges... we will continue our-style way of counteraction in a more offensive attitude so that they should not but realise that they will have nothing to benefit from the extension of the hostile policy toward North Korea," she said. On Wednesday, North Korea fired the rocket southward, but it fell into the Yellow Sea after an "abnormal" flight, according to Seoul's military. North Korea confirmed the failure, saying its new "Chollima-1" rocket, carrying a military reconnaissance satellite, "Malligyong-1," fell into the sea due to the "abnormal starting of the second-stage engine," adding that it plans to conduct a second launch as soon as possible, the KCNA said. The latest launch drew immediate condemnation from South Korea, the US and Japan.

'I HAVE IMPOSTER SYNDROME'

Gal Gadot opens up on her insecurities as actress

Los Angeles | Agencies

Actress Gal Gadot shared that every time she acts, she doubts herself and worries no one will like what she's doing. "It's funny, I always feel like I have this imposter syndrome, because I feel so lucky and I'm so happy that I get to do what I really, really, really love. I always feel like, 'I hope they're gonna like it'. There's never a moment when I'm like, 'They're gonna love this,'" she said in a cover interview with L'Officiel magazine, reports aceshowbiz.com.

The 38-year-old actress also shared the one piece of advice that has helped her with the psychological disorder that makes people feel a fraud.

Recalling a conversation with Hollywood director Francis Ford Coppola, 84, the actress said: "Francis said, 'You know, something? I'm always filled with doubts. I'm always afraid they're not going to like it. I just follow my heart and I come into it humble.'" nerability of the country. During the course of uncovering the corruption, Jack discovers a far-worse reality: the collusion of a drug cartel with a terrorist organisation.

The series stars John Krasinski as Jack Ryan, Wendell Pierce as James Greer, Michael Kelly as Mike November, and Betty Gabriel as CIA Acting Director Elizabeth Wright, with Abbie Cornish returning as Cathy Mueller. Joining the cast this season are Michael Pena as Domingo Chavez and Louis Ozawa as Chao Fah.

KIM CATTRALL RETURNS AS SAMANTHA JONES

Los Angeles | Agencies

Actress Kim Cattrall will reprise her iconic role as Samantha Jones in the Season 2 finale of 'And Just Like That', the revival of 'Sex and the City'.

But she will only appear in one scene. According to sources, Cattrall shot her dialogue on March 22 in New York City, without seeing or speaking with the stars of the series, including Sarah Jessica Parker, or with 'And Just Like That' showrunner Michael Patrick King, reports 'Variety'.

In the scene, Samantha, who in the show has moved to London, will have a phone conversation with Parker's Carrie Bradshaw.

In the first season of 'And Just Like That', Carrie engaged with an estranged Samantha over text, and in the finale, the two made a plan to see each other in order to reconcile.

Famed 'Sex and the City' costume designer Patricia Field, who has not been working on 'And Just Like That', dressed Samantha for her scene.

A rep for Cattrall didn't respond to request for comment. Max did not immediately respond to a request for comment.

Cattrall's appearance as Samantha will not be a continuation of the character for now.

Still, the return of Samantha in any form will certainly thrill 'Sex and the City' fans, who have been clamoring for even a glimpse of the beloved, empowered publicist who put the "sex" in the groundbreaking series that ran on HBO for six seasons from 1998 to 2004, and led to two movies.

Cattrall publicly announced in 2016 that she was done playing Samantha when she didn't feel like the script for a proposed third film did justice to the character.

Ryan Reynolds flew Charlotte Church to US to sing before they even met

Los Angeles | Agencies

Singer-songwriter Charlotte Church has revealed that Ryan Reynolds flew her and her three kids over to America despite never meeting before.

The Welsh singer-songwriter praised the Wrexham FC owner for welcoming her to New York as part of his documentary, reports Mirror.co.uk.

Hollywood actors Ryan, 46, and Rob McElhenney purchased the Welsh footballer club and even starred in a TV series about their promotion race. Cardiff-born Charlotte, 37, has explained she was chosen by the stars to sing the Welsh national anthem.

She told Nick Grimshaw and Angela Hartnett on their podcast 'Dish', quoted by Mirror.co.uk: "Ryan Reynolds flew me and my kids out to New York. Because... 'cause yeah, they were doing the show about Wrexham, and I went and I sang the national anthem, Hen Wlad Fy Nhadau. Yeah, and I was like, look, I'm a mum, I'm a working mum 'cause the kids were like, 'It's Ryan Reynolds! We have to go!' So I was like, I'm a working mum, unfortunately you're gonna have to bring all three of my children out, and they were like, yeah, sure, fine."

She added: "And then they got to meet him. Him and Rob McElhenney. And they were delicious. They were so kind, they're so lovely. So yeah, I think what they're doing for Wales - in terms of Wrexham and stuff - it's really genuine. You know what I mean?"

Charlotte continued: "Like often when people - unfortunately the way that Wales has been portrayed for such a long time is like we're the poor relation, do you know what I mean? And a lot of people talk about us with - taking the p, but actually it feels like, it's really like, uplifting. And they're doing it with a lot of care, and integrity."

Team Absolute | Bangkok

Kiran George and Lakshya Sen stormed into the quarterfinals even as star doubles pair Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty besides Olympic bronze medallist Saina Nehwal and Ashmita Chalia crashed out on a poor day for India in the Thailand Open 2023, here on Thursday.

Kiran George, the Odisha Open 2022 Champion, continued his superb form as he reached his first quarterfinal at a BWF World Tour Super 500 event, beating world No. 26 Weng Hong Yang of China in straight games, 21-11, 21-19 in the Round of 16 clash. Kiran George had stunned third seed Shi Yu-Qi of China in the first round on Wednesday.

Lakshya Sen kept the Indian flag flying by sealing his berth in the quarterfinals. He upset fourth seed Li Shi Feng of China 21-17, 21-15 in a 49-minute clash.

But the big setback for India was the stunning defeat of the top-seeded men's doubles pair of Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty, who was stunned by Indonesia's Muhammad Shohibul Fikri and Maulana Bagas in three games, losing 26-24, 11-21, 17-21 in 62 minutes.

Saina Nehwal, the 2012 London Olympics bronze medallist, joined them on the sidelines as she lost to third seed He Bing Jiao of China, going down 11-21, 14-21 in a women's singles Round of 16 encounter.

Ashmita went down 21-18, 21-13 to former Olympic and World Champion Carolina Marin of Spain losing 18-21, 13-21.

In the men's singles clash, Kiran George took an early lead from 2-2 in the first game to go up 6-3 in the match played on Court 2 at the Indoor Stadium Huamark in the Thai capital.

The Chinese shuttler, however, levelled scores at 8-8. But Kiran George went ahead again 12-9 and went on to win 21-11.

The second game was a neck-and-neck battle in which the 23-year-old Indian ranked 59th in the BWF Rankings, shot off to an early 5-2 lead but his Chinese opponent caught up with him at 5-5. Lead changed hands at regular intervals as the players went up to 17-17.

Ashmita put up a good fight in the opening game of her Round of 16 clash with Marin, who surged to a 5-0 lead. Ashmita reduced the margin to 4-5 and then 7-8 as she fought for each point. Marin won the next three points (11-7) and then maintained a slight gap as she went on to extend it to 20-13. Ashmita saved five game points and made it 18-20 before Marin won the game 21-18.

In the second game, Marin won five points in a row from 5-4 to open up the lead and did not give the Indian shuttler many chances as she won the game and match at 21-13.

In men's doubles, Satwik and Chirag fought back from a 7-12 deficit in the first game to level barrow it down to 11-12 before the Indonesians surged to a 12-17 lead. Satwik and Chirag eventually caught up with them at 20-20. After a neck-and-neck battle for the next few points, the Indians, who had six game points, eventually won the game 26-24 to take a 1-0 lead.

Playing against He Bing Jiao, Saina conceded an early 0-4 lead and though the Indian fought back to make it 2-4, the Chinese shuttler won the next five points to make it 9-2. She did not allow Saina any more chances of coming close as she won the opening game 21-11.

He Bing Jiao opened up a 9-2 lead in the second game before Saina reduced the margin to 10-8. The Chinese shuttler maintained her upper hand as she won the second game 21-14 and sealed a comfortable victory.

Key for both teams will be to dismiss Kohli and Smith as early as possible: Finch

Rybakina overcomes Noskova to reach third round

Team Absolute | Paris

No.4 seed Elena Rybakina booked her place in the French Open third round for a third straight year, defeating Linda Noskova 6-3, 6-3 in 1 hour and 26 minutes, here on Thursday.

The result was Rybakina's eighth straight victory following her first WTA 1000 clay-court title in Rome two weeks ago. The reigning Wimbledon champion extended her overall 2023 record to 32-7, also including the Indian Wells title and Australian Open final on hard courts.

The 18-year old Noskova made her tour-level debut exactly 12 months ago after qualifying for Roland Garros 2022. A year later, she has risen to World No.50 after an impressive transition to the WTA Tour, including a run to her first final in Adelaide this January.

Having dealt with Noskova's power, Rybakina will next face a very different test in the form of Sara Sorribes Tormo, who defeated Petra Martic 6-4, 6-1 in 1 hour and 29 minutes.

Sorribes Tormo won her only previous encounter with Rybakina 6-1, 3-6, 6-2 in the third round of Miami 2021.

GAEL MONFILS WITHDRAWS WITH WRIST INJURY

Paris: Gael Monfils withdraws from French Open with a wrist injury, calling his first-round triumph his top win at Roland-Garros.

The announcement came less than 24 hours after the Frenchman produced a magical late-night performance on Court Philippe-Chatrier in the first round against Sebastian Baez.

While he had recovered well from the physical effort of Tuesday's extraordinary three-hour 47-minute first-round rollercoaster, the flare-up of an injury to his left wrist has left him unable to continue.

Monfils was scheduled to play sixth seed Holger Rune on Thursday evening for a place in the third round. The injury is to the TFCC of his left wrist. Monfils is unsure exactly how long he will be out but is hopeful of returning for the grass-court season.

Sevilla overpower Roma in penalties to lift seventh Europa League title

Team Absolute | Budapest (Hungary)

Top Spanish club Sevilla made a remarkable comeback to clinch the Europa League title, with goalkeeper Bono thwarting two attempts to ensure a 4-1 victory in the penalty shootout at the Puskas Arena in Budapest on Thursday.

The opening period proved challenging for both sides, marked by numerous fouls that disrupted the rhythm of the match.

The first genuine scoring opportunity came 12 minutes into the match when Roma's Leonardo Spinazzola tested Sevilla's goalkeeper with a shot from the edge of the penalty area, reports Xinhua.

Despite being Europa League record winners, Sevilla struggled to penetrate Roma's staunch defense.

Roma eventually broke the deadlock when Gianluca Mancini's through ball, following a counterattack, allowed Paulo Dybala to strike past Bono into the far post corner, 35 minutes into the game.

Sevilla rebounded well and nearly levelled the score before the break, but Fernando's header from Ivan Rakitic's corner kick sailed just over the target.

Rakitic, the veteran midfielder, remained a central figure, rattling the woodwork with a 20-meter hammer in the closing stages of the first half.

The momentum shifted after the restart, as Sevilla's Alex Telles squandered another promising attempt from a favourable position.

Sevilla's persistence paid off when Mancini inadvertently deflected a dangerous cross from Jesus Navas Gonzalez into his own goal, equalizing the score 10 minutes into the second half.

Roma nearly reclaimed the lead in the 67th minute, but Bono deftly defused Tammy Abraham's close-range shot.

A potential penalty for Sevilla was revoked by referee Anthony Taylor after a review 10 minutes later.

The final minutes saw both teams trading attacks, as Bono denied Andrea Belotti from close range following a free kick. Conversely, Suso and Fernando couldn't bypass Rui Patricio in quick succession at the other end of the pitch.

After a goalless extra time, the match was decided by penalty kicks. Sevilla converted all attempts, while Mancini and Roger Ibanez were denied by Bono.

Axar Patel confident of India shifting into top gear for WTC final

Team Absolute | Dubai

With IPL fever only just settling down, India now have little time to switch gears for a format change with the ICC World Test Championship Final starting on June 7.

Several members of the India squad have already reached England and kicked off their preparations for the big finale at the Arundel Cricket Club.

While they managed to catch a glimpse of the thrilling IPL 2023 final, all-rounder Axar Patel, who was among the training group, confirmed that their preparations were going well for the WTC showdown against Australia.

The switch between formats in a short timeframe comes with its challenges, but Axar revealed that the preparations had begun during the IPL season itself where they practiced with the red ball.

"We knew about this before the start of IPL," Axar told the ICC.

"So even during the IPL, it was discussed that we will bowl with the red ball. We had red balls, so we were using them. You know when and how to play, how much time you have. This mental switch from white ball to red ball is obviously tough, but we have enough time."

"Those who did not qualify (for IPL Playoffs) got more time. So I don't think there will be many problems because we have had a good time to prepare."

While India play their red-ball games at home with the SG ball, the WTC Final will have the Dukes ball which is used in English conditions. Axar stated that they were practicing with the Dukes ball during the IPL, but maintained that the focus was on hitting the right spot irrespective of the ball used.

Stokes' ability to fully fulfil that all-rounder function is absolutely critical: Michael Atherton

Team Absolute | London

Former captain Michael Atherton said it would be a big blow for England if skipper Ben Stokes' knee problem limits his ability to bowl during the upcoming Ashes, saying the allrounder's role he fulfils in the side is absolutely critical. Stokes suffered a flare-up of a left knee injury during the drawn Test series in New Zealand in February. Since then, he has only bowled just one over in one of his two matches for Chennai Super Kings (CSK), in IPL 2023, where his appearances were limited due to various niggles.

Ahead of the one-off Test against Ireland at 'ord's, Stokes had said the left knee was in a much better position than it was in New Zealand and has given himself the best opportunity to play a role with the ball in England's home summer.

"Stokes' knee is a concern because of the balance of the side. He has asked for good, true pitches against Australia but if England only have four bowlers that puts a lot of work on those bowlers, one or two of whom (in James Anderson and Stuart Broad) are cracking on in years."

"Stokes' ability to fully fulfil that all-rounder function is absolutely critical. I wouldn't expect him to bowl too much in this Ireland game but hopefully, his knee will be okay come the Ashes."

ACTING IS THE ONE TIME I FEEL MEDITATIVE: ANUPRIYA GOENKA

Team Absolute | Mumbai

Actress Anupriya Goenka is all set to reprise the role of Naina Nair in the second season of 'Asur: Welcome To The Dark Side'. She reflected on her own journey in the film industry as well as her personal experience working in this thriller show.

Reminiscing on what inspired her to transition from the corporate world to acting, Anupriya spoke about her immense love for the art and the zen effect it has on her.

"I am an overthinker and my mind goes on constantly talking. I feel acting is the one time when I feel meditative. Between action and cut, no matter what is happening in my life, I'm just there in the present moment."

"That is the most fulfilling feeling. It's almost as if you breathe through it (acting) and everything in life is justified for the purpose of acting - the emotions, the good, the bad. I have started searching for new experiences because I want to be a better performer and push myself."

Coming to her role as Naina, Anupriya also spoke about how closely she relates to the character.

"There is a lot of similarity between me and Naina. I relate to her in the sense that I'm also very strong-headed, I'm very opinionated, I don't shy away from my opinions but at the same time I'm extremely vulnerable sometimes, and I show my vulnerability too."

"I have my own struggles with right and wrong, my value systems. But through Naina, I was able to touch upon that part, that one can cross a line for what they believe in."
