A MICHAEL JACKSON 'ACT' & RAMP WALK - INDIA'S ROVER ROCKS ON THE MOON

Chennai | Agencies

India's moon rover did a Michael Jackson 'act' on the lunar surface after walking down on the ramp!

Well, it did a 'moonwalk' after slowly rolling down on the moon lander's ramp, the Indian space agency said.

Moonwalk is a dance move that became very popular after Michael Jackson did it during the performance of the song 'Billie Jean' on 'Motown 25: Yesterday, Today, Forever'.

The lander - part of the Chandrayaan-3 spacecraft - had landed safely near the moon's south pole on Wednesday in a text book style.

In a post on X (formerly Twitter) on Thursday, the Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) had said: "Chandrayaan-3 ROVER: Made in India Made for the MOON! The Ch-3 Rover ramped down from the Lander and India took a walk on the moon!"

While the rover did its moonwalk on Thursday, ISRO released the much awaited video on Friday.

In the video, taken by one of the lander cameras

- India's first lunar selfie - the rover with its solar panel deployed could be seen slowly going down the ramp, touching the moon soil and moving forward.

One can also see the rover's wheel imprint on the lunar soil as well as the shadow of the rover with the solar panel. In another post on X, ISRO said: "A two-segment ramp facilitated the roll-down of the rover. A solar panel enabled the rover to generate power." The Indian space agency also posted the video of the ramp and solar panel deployment prior to the rover rolling down.

"The deployment mechanisms, totalling 26 in the Ch-3 mission, were developed at U R Rao Satellite Centre (URSC)/ISRO, Bengaluru," ISRO said.

The space agency had earlier posted: "Lander Module payloads ILSA, RAMBHA and ChaSTE are turned ON today (Thursday). Rover mobility operations have commenced. All activities are on schedule. All systems are normal." According to ISRO, on Sunday, the propulsion module payload SHAPE was turned on.

The Chandrayaan-3 spacecraft comprises a propulsion module (weighing 2,148 kg), a lander (1,723.89 kg) and a rover (26 kg).

With the landing, a major portion of the Rs 600 crore Chandrayaan-3 mission has been realised.

The remaining portion is the moon rover moving around and doing the programmed experiments.

According to ISRO, the moon rover has Alpha Particle X-ray Spectrometer (APXS) and Laser Induced Breakdown Spectroscopy (LIBS) for deriving the elemental composition in the vicinity of the landing site.

SURAT POLICE SUMMON MAN FOR CLAIMING TO HAVE DESIGNED CHANDRAYAAN-3

Surat | Agencies

Surat police on Friday summoned a person named Mitul Trivedi for questioning after he claimed to have played a key role in designing Chandrayaan-3, the Indian spacecraft built by the Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) which successfully landed on the South Pole of the moon on Wednesday, making India the first country in the world to reach that region.

Trivedi's bold claims of being the creative force behind ISRO's lunar exploration project were met with skepticism, raising questions about the authenticity of his affiliation to the Indian space agency after he reportedly failed to show any proof of his association with ISRO.

In light of these discrepancies, the Surat Police Commissioner summoned Trivedi on Friday.

Upon reaching the Police Commissioner's office, Trivedi reportedly attempted to provide backing for his assertions by mentioning a contract from ISRO.

However, when faced with probing questions from mediapersons after coming out of the commissioner's office, he chose to evade their queries and made a swift exit.

A resident of from Swati Society on L.P. Savani Road in Surat, Trivedi's claims have sparked both interest and suspicion. The controversy reached its peak when he confidently claimed that he was the mastermind behind the design of Chandrayaan-3. However, the veracity of his claim is being doubted due to lack of substantiated evidence supporting his association with ISRO.

As the details of this intriguing case unfolded, it surfaced that Trivedi had previously declared himself as an ISRO employee, claiming to have played a pivotal role in shaping the design of Chandrayaan-3. His statements included his alleged affiliation with ISRO since 2011 and even a partnership with NASA from 2013 onwards.

However, he lacked official documents to support his claims, and his name is also missing from the agency's payroll. In response to the growing speculation surrounding his assertions, Trivedi had previously stated, "I urge everyone to grant me some time; I am committed to clarifying all the doubts. As soon as the documents are available, I will provide the necessary explanations."

"I firmly believe that actions speak louder than words. If I were pursuing fraudulent intentions, I would certainly not be here facing these questions. My expertise lies in the realm of designing, and I remain closely involved with the Chandrayaan-3 project. I leave it to the discerning public to evaluate my credibility based on the available evidence."

SC seeks response from Centre, states on plea seeking reservation for transgender persons

Team Absolute | New Delhi

The Supreme Court on Friday agreed to examine a plea seeking reservation for transgender persons in public educational institutions and employment.

A bench comprising Chief Justice of India (CJI) D.Y. Chandrachud and Justices J.B. Pardiwala and Manoj Misra issued a notice seeking response from the Centre and all states and Union Territories on the plea filed by a transgender individual from Kerala.

Responding to a similar plea, the Union government had said in July that transgender persons can avail the already earmarked reservations in jobs and educational admissions and there is no separate reservation being provided to them.

In March this year, the Supreme Court had issued a

SC/ST/SEBC communities are already entitled to reservations earmarked for these communities'. Further, it added that any transgender outside the SC/ST/SEBC communities with annual family income of Rs 8 lakh is automatically covered in the EWS category.

In its landmark judgment, the top court had directed the Centre and the state governments to treat transgender persons as "socially and educationally backward classes" and extend all kinds of reservation to them in cases of admission in educational institutions and for public appointments. The historical verdict recognised the "third gender" and granted legal recognition to their gender identity.

Kolkata becomes 3rd Indian city to get air quality early warning system

Kolkata | Agencies

After Delhi and Pune, Kolkata is all set to become the third Indian city to get air quality early warning system (AQEWS) to compute and relay real-time and forecast data on pollution levels in the city, courtesy an initiative by the Indian Institute of Tropical Meteorology (IITM).

Through a dedicated website developed for that purpose, it will be possible to deliver detailed information about the contribution of PM2.5 and PM10 emissions.

According to IITM scientist Sachin Ghude, capturing PM2.5 levels of such unprecedented magnitude is a global rarity.

"We faced considerable challenges in collecting such exceptional data from the city. Our AQEWS relies on pinpoint accuracy, starting with precise weather forecasts as a foundation," he said. He also said that IITM has integrated satellite data on Aerosol Optical Depth (AOD) from an extensive network of 420 air quality monitoring stations across India. "This innovative system holds immense potential as a decision support tool for effective air quality management," he said at the India Clean Air Summit (ICAS) 2023, organised by the Center for Study of Science, Technology and Policy.

It is learnt that in Kolkata, as many as 20 low-cost sensors (LCS) have been installed for this purpose. "LCS data after cross-calibration correctly identified days as being in or out of attainment with the 24th National Ambient Air Quality Standard of 60 µg m⁻³ 91 per cent of the time. The corrected data accurately identifies days with an India scale air quality index of 'poor' or 'worse' 94 per cent of the time.

Cong to contest MP Assembly polls on agenda of state's future: Kamal Nath

Team Absolute | Bhopal

Former Chief Minister and state Congress chief Kamal Nath said on Friday that his party is contesting the Assembly election due later this year only on the agenda of building the 'future of Madhya Pradesh'.

He denied that the Congress contested the Assembly elections on 'Hindutva' agenda, and said that he has only agenda which is to make the future of Madhya Pradesh better. "My only agenda is the future of Madhya Pradesh and nothing else," he said while talking to the media in Morena on Friday.

Responding to the selection of candidates, Kamal Nath said the candidates would be selected on the basis of survey reports only. He said a lot of ticket aspirants have been meeting him every day, but he would pick the candidates who can win the elections.

"Multiple surveys are going on and the selections of candidates would be decided on the basis of reports only. Tickets would be given only to those who can win the elections," Kamal Nath said, however, he did not reveal when the first list of Congress candidates would be announced.

Addressing a rally in Morena, the veteran Congress leader termed BJP's -- 'Jan Darshan Yatra' as 'Jan Sauda Yatra'.

Reiterating "50 per cent commission charges" on the ruling BJP government, Nath said, "Every person in Madhya Pradesh is either a victim of corruption or a witness to it."

Meanwhile, responding to Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan's announcement of making Pandhurna a district (under Chhindwara district), Kamal Nath said that he (CM Chouhan) has been making this announcement for the past 10 years.

"The people of Madhya Pradesh are well aware of the reality of CM Chouhan's promises.

I feel sad after coming to Morena as many big leaders are being neglected here.

Today the Bharatiya Janata Party is taking out not a Jan Darshan Yatra, but a Jan Sauda Yatra," he said while addressing the rally.

BJP's strong Brahmin leader switches over to Cong ahead of MP polls

Team Absolute | Bhopal

A powerful leader BJP Brahmin leader has switched over to Congress ahead of the upcoming Assembly polls in Madhya Pradesh.

As part of its poll strategy, the grand-old party continues to poach and corner the loyalists of Union Minister Jyotiraditya Scindia in Madhya Pradesh.

The latest move has been aimed at Scindia loyalist Govind Singh Rajput -- one among the 22 MLAs who had switched over to the BJP in March 2020. Giving a tough competition to Rajput in his Assembly constituency - Surkhi in Sagar district, the Congress on Thursday pitted one of the most powerful local Brahmin leaders Neeraj Sharma.

Sharma, a wealthy contractor and private bus operator in addition to being a big farmer, reportedly led the motorcade of over 1000 vehicles from his hometown Rahatgarh to Bhopal (around 120 km), before joining the Congress at the state party headquarters.

Just a few hours before Sharma joined the Congress, the Rahatgarh police in Sagar district, lodged a case u/s 353 and 186 IPC (assaulting or using criminal force to deter a public servant from discharging duty) against him and his supporters on Wednesday night on the complaint of RTO-Sagar.

Interestingly, Sharma was in the Congress only till 2009, but owing to growing dominance of Rajput, he joined the BJP and won the Rahatgarh Janpad Panchayat chief polls in 2010 as well as Rahatgarh Nagar Palika polls later. In the 2010 Rahatgarh Janpad Panchayat polls, Sharma defeated Govind Singh Rajput's elder brother Gulab Singh Rajput.

Notably, Govind Singh Rajput who had won Surkhi seat in 2003, 2008 and 2018 as Congress candidate, retained the seat in November 2020 as BJP candidate.

He is the only Scindia loyalist minister in the present BJP government in MP, who holds the same portfolios (revenue and transport) which he held in the previous Kamal Nath government.

Congress also managed to dent one of the oldest BJP families of Satna district of Vindhya region, by taking into fold Devraj Bagri and Vandana Bagri -- the son and daughter-in-law of five times former BJP MLA Late Jugul Kishor Bagri.

plices Badal, Rajesh, Siddhant and Balwant Singh were arrested on Thursday night in connection with a series of thefts in different areas of Indore," Additional Deputy Commissioner of Police Abhinay Vishwakarma told reporters on Friday.

He informed that Baranwala had been arrested in Delhi in 2021 and 18 illegal pistols were recovered from him at that time amid accusation that he was supplying arms to Khalistan supporters.

"The gang tried to break into 15 houses in Indore between August 1 and 20 and was successful in stealing gold and silver coins as well as cash from three of the places," Vishwakarma added.

During interrogation, the accused told the police that they sold the coins to a jeweller, the police officer said, adding that their claim is being verified.

Police said Baranwala and his gang members claimed to manufacture locks and keys, but instead made pistols and supplied them across the country. "Investigations revealed that the gang had supplied arms to the dreaded gangsters of Uttar Pradesh, Punjab and Haryana," Vishwakarma said.

Land only to domicile landless in J&K

The J&K government has issued detailed guidelines through the revenue department that makes allotment of land permissible to only the domicile landless citizens of the UT. The guidelines permit the allotment of land measuring 5 marlas (1/4th of a Kanal) to the domicile landless people in J&K. Lt Governor Manoj Sinha had launched the land to landless scheme in July this year even as political parties in the Valley questioned the move alleging that the same was intended to bring in outsiders to change the demography of the UT. As per the the guidelines issued by the Revenue Department, the UT administration has accorded sanction to the allotment of 5 marlas of state land on lease basis to landless and PMAY beneficiaries. The category of people, out of the Rural Development Department's permanent waiting list of 2018-19, eligible for the scheme include those residing on state land, forest land, 'rakhs' and farms. It also includes people in possession of custodian land, and those residing on land already allotted by the government near Dachigam Park for agricultural purposes, where construction is not permitted. The lease shall be for a period of 40 years, extendable further for a period of another 40 years, subject to the fulfilment of all formalities/norms. If a beneficiary fails to build a house on the allotted land within a period of two years, such lease shall be cancelled forthwith, the order said. Locally-designed floating farm programme in Sundarbans wins $100,000 at GEF Assembly

Vishal Gulati

Community programme on locally-designed floating farms, run by the South Asian nature Forum for Environment (SAFE) and supported by the Adaptation Fund, for flood-stricken communities in the Sundarbans region is among 23 civil society organisations selected by the Global Environment Facility (GEF) for the Inclusive GEF Assembly Challenge Program.

The programme is a novel initiative reflecting commitment to support and elevate community-driven climate and nature projects and the unique contributions of indigenous peoples, women, girls, and young people across the GEF partnership.

The winning projects were announced during the GEF Assembly, a once-every-four-year gathering of 185 countries taking place this week in Vancouver, Canada.

Each awardee will receive a grant of up to $100,000 and gain access to networking, training, and knowledge exchange opportunities through the GEF, a family of funds that finances international efforts to address biodiversity loss, pollution, and climate change.

The winning organisations will be celebrated during the assembly's Partnership Forum and will share their experiences in a number of panels and sessions throughout the week, reflecting the GEF's focus on supporting environmental action and results through a "whole of society" approach.

SAFE's initiative is designed to naturalise hydroponic float-farming and integrated aquaculture as an adaptive, climate-resilient agricultural method for vulnerable communities in coastal South Asia.

It is designed not only to improve people's nutrition and food and livelihood security, but to create opportunities for agro-business entrepreneurship.

Emission-less regenerative farming in float-farm growbags with recycled organic soil-mix is supported by solar desalination and micro-irrigation systems.

The 23 winners were chosen from nearly 600 applications, by a selection panel made up of the GEF's CSO Network, Scientific and Technical Advisory Panel, Indigenous Peoples' Advisory Group, and Gender Partnership, as well as youth representatives linked to international environmental conventions.

They span 26 countries including Antigua and Barbuda, Belize, Bolivia, Cameroon, China, Colombia, Costa Rica, Congo, Ecuador, Haiti, India, Kenya, Kiribati, Madagascar, Mexico, Nigeria, Peru, Sierra Leone, Somalia, South Africa, South Sudan, St Vincent and the Grenadines, Tanzania, Thailand, Tunisia, and Uganda.

The winning initiatives include a project applying the Maasai peoples' indigenous knowledge for climate resilience in Tanzania; an effort to mobilise rural youth in Costa Rica to preserve biodiversity; activities to bring together women and girls to protect coastlines in Antigua and Barbuda; and a project aiming to empower marginalised and vulnerable groups in Thailand to adapt to climate change.

Esther Morenikeji Emmanuel of U-recycle Initiative Africa, one of the winning groups, said support from the Inclusive GEF Assembly Challenge Program would help expand the organisation's efforts to reduce plastic waste in Nigeria.

"If you want to see change, you have to start small in the areas where you can have a direct impact," she said. "It is also easy to begin taking action locally because you can see the issues so clearly."

Tom Bui, Canada's representative on the GEF Council, welcomed the Inclusive GEF Assembly Challenge Program as a cornerstone of the gathering in Vancouver where a record number of civil society representatives are sharing their perspectives and priorities, on the stage and at the table.

"The only way we can achieve lasting transformational change to safeguard a livable planet is by listening to each other," he said. "We need to embrace our differences and tap the rich diversity of views existing in all societies. This programme does this by celebrating our unsung environmental heroes."

GEF CEO and Chairperson Carlos Manuel Rodriguez said: "Global environmental challenges affect us all, but their impacts are almost entirely locally felt. It is our privilege to celebrate and fund these locally-designed, locally-led remedies for climate resilience, coastline protection, biodiversity conservation, and more."

"The Inclusive GEF Assembly Challenge Program is a concrete example of our focus on supporting civil society and lifting up the voices and innovations of indigenous peoples, women, youth, and others who have been historically under-represented in international environmental financing and policy," Rodriguez added.

Pappachan, Moon, Chandrayaan, a ret'd Navy Capt recalls

Amid euphoria over the successful landing of Chandrayaan-3 mission's Lander Module on the Moon's surface, spotting 80-year-old Pappachan -- a newspaper agent -- walk past his house in the sleepy town of Kunnammtham in Pathanamthitta district, transported retired Naval Captain Ramesh Babu to 1969 when Neil Armstrong made the historic landing on the Moon.

Babu said while watching Chandrayaan-3 make a glorious touchdown on the moon last evening, his mind wandered back in time to July 1969 when Neil Armstrong took that "baby step" that has finally made India take this "giant leap".

"The news of Armstrong's landing on the moon arrived a day after through Pappachan, our newspaper agent in the village. As an eight-year-old I was a wee bit anxious (what if the fellow falls off the moon to land on me?), as an excited Pappachan waved the newspaper and announced that man had landed on the moon," recalled Babu.

"This morning around 7.30 a.m, Pappachan was spotted limping and passing by my house and taking me back in time -- 54 years back. Even though he continues to eke out his living from the agent's commission, he said the old age has taken a toll on him and he is unable to exert much. He has entrusted a person to do it and after paying him Rs 2500, he takes Rs 1000," added Babu.

Pappachan, who for long has been the darling in his village for six decades, the distance that he cycled to deliver newspapers would probably take him even beyond the Moon.

"Over the years, though several newspaper agents have come up here, riding motorcycles, practically driving Pappachan out of business, none of them has been as loyal as him. He ensured that the paper reached us without fail, every single day. He would inform us of opportunities like entrance exams, job vacancies etc that the paper carried. That way, he has launched many successful lives in the village, including mine. He would also ensure that the paper reported weddings, deaths and other important occurrences in the village," said Babu.

With the passage of time and technology taking precedence, the morning newspaper is no longer a keenly awaited commodity, but still some like Babu subscribe to newspapers only for Pappachan in the village.

Trump frontrunner despite Milwaukee debate as he plans media focus on him with surrender in Atlanta

T.N. Ashok | Washington

Former US President Donald Trump has scored a double whammy against eight of his rivals in the GOP race for nominations by first releasing a taped interview five minutes before the debate and he hopes to garner all limelight in the media with his announced surrender before the Atlanta courts in his fourth indictment on election interference.

While media houses are working at a furious pace to collate the numbers on the Milwaukee debate on how many people watched the debate live.

Even as most American voters would digest the debate via online clips that would be pushed out by the debaters and the media, media reports said.

As of now, Trump leads with 53 per cent backing from supporters and Florida Governor Ron DeSantis with 16 per cent and surprisingly political novice Indian-American billionaire Vivek Ramaswamy with 11 per cent over all others in the polls. MO News, which provides a digest of the morning news online to readers in the country, said given Trump continues to dominate in early state polls, the question is whether any of the eight alternatives did enough to convince GOP primary voters that they should switch their allegiances?

The former President remained pretty unscathed and none of the candidates, except Chris Christie, really made a case to voters as to why they should stop supporting Trump. Both burly Christie and slim-fit Ramaswamy were booed by the audiences on their views.

Both Ramaswamy and Nikki Haley seem set to get some momentum from Wednesday night's debate from the respective wings of the party.

Its everyone's guess that Trump will remain in the driver's seat.

With media circus in the offing later in the day, attention will quickly be back on Trump today as he formally surrenders to authorities in Georgia, where he was most recently indicted.

China activates emergency response to flooding in 13 regions

Beijing | Agencies

China's Ministry of Water Resources on Friday activated a level-IV emergency response to flooding in 13 provincial-level regions. The regions are Jiangsu, Anhui, Shandong, Henan, Hubei, Hunan, Chongqing, Sichuan, Guizhou, Yunnan, Tibet, Shaanxi and Gansu, Xinhua news agency quoted the Ministry as saying.

From Friday to Sunday, heavy rain will sharply increase water levels in rivers including parts of the Yangtze and Huaihe rivers, the Ministry said, adding that some small and medium-sized rivers in affected areas may see floods exceeding warning levels.

It urged relevant water conservancy departments to closely monitor rain situations and strengthen early warning, with focus on ensuring the safety of reservoirs and the prevention of mountain torrents and floods in small and medium-sized rivers.

Russia claims to destroy 42 Ukrainian drones over Crimea

Moscow | Agencies

The Russian Defence Ministry on Friday claimed to have destroyed 42 Ukrainian drones over Crimea, the latest in a series of recent reported attacks by Kiev on the occupied Peninsula.

In a social media post, the Ministry said that nine of the drones were shot down and the remaining 33 were jammed by electronic warfare equipment and crashed without reaching their targets, CNN reported.

"Overnight, an attempt by the Kyiv regime to carry out terrorist attacks using unmanned aerial vehicles on Russian Federation territory has been thwarted," the post added.

The Ministry also claimed that Ukraine had launched an upgraded S-200 air defence complex missile that was detected and shot down by Russian forces over the Kaluga region southwest of Moscow.

Ukraine is yet to comment on the developments. Russia's claims came a day after Ukraine carried out what appeared to be one of its most complex and ambitious operations to date against Russian military facilities in Crimea, involving Ukrainian special forces landing on the western shore of the peninsula to attack Russian units.

Ukrainian officials have repeatedly vowed to restore Kiev's rule in Crimea, which was illegally annexed by Russia in 2014. In recent weeks, Ukraine has stepped up drone attacks in the area, including the key Kerch Bridge that links the peninsula to mainland Russia.

Norway joins Denmark, Netherlands to donate F-16s to Ukraine

Oslo | Agencies

Norway has become the third European nation after Denmark and the Netherlands to pledge to provide Ukraine with F-16 fighter jets.

"We are planning to donate Norwegian F-16 fighter jets to Ukraine, and will provide further details about the donation, numbers and time frame for delivery in due course," CNN quoted Prime Minister Jonas Gahr Store as saying on Thursday. Norway had first announced its plans to support the training of Ukrainian personnel on F-16 fighter jets in May.

"Norway is supporting Ukraine in its efforts to build a modern air defense system. This is both important and necessary," the Prime Minister added. Also on Thursday, Norway said that it will be donating anti-aircraft missiles and de-mining sets to Ukraine, as well as 1.5 billion NOK ($140.5 million) to secure gas and electricity supply in the country.

This brings the total value of Norway's support over five years to 75 billion NOK, a statement on the government website said.

Last week, a US State Department spokesman had announced that Washington approved the transfer of American-made F-16 fighter jets from Denmark and the Netherlands to Kiev as soon as Ukrainian pilots are fully trained to operate them. Denmark and the Netherlands have taken the lead in preparing a program to train Ukrainian pilots on the American jet, but the US is still working with other countries to see who may provide F-16s to the Ukrainian Air Force.

While the Dutch are thought to have about 24 operational F-16s which are scheduled to be taken out of service and replaced by more advanced war planes, Denmark is also planning an upgrade of its fleet of some 30 F-16s.

An 11-member coalition of Ukraine's allies in the West is due to start training Ukrainian pilots later this month and they are expected to be ready next year. Ukraine is believed to have dozens of combat aircraft -- mostly MiGs -- all dating from the Soviet era.

Wildfires force evacuation in US town amid extreme drought, heat

Washington | Agencies

Amid an ongoing drought and extreme heat, raging wildfires have prompted the evacuation of residents of a town in the US state of Louisiana, authorities said.

The evacuation order for Merryville town was issued by the Beauregard Parish Sheriff's Office Thursday evening, saying the fire could reach the town limits within hours, CNN reported citing the Louisiana State Police.

Merryville has a population of about 1,200 people, sheriff's office spokesperson Shannon Burgess told CNN.

The town is located just east of the state border with Texas, about 120 miles northeast of Houston.

For residents who need transportation out, buses have been made available at the Merryville town hall, the sheriff's office said. "We had buses immediately headed that way," Burgess said, adding that a shelter has been opened at the First Methodist Church in DeRidder, northeast of Merryville.

Earlier this week, there were almost 350 wildfires burning in the state, CNN quoted Mike Steele, communications director at the Louisiana Governor's Office of Homeland Security and Emergency Preparedness, as saying.

Every parish in the state is under a red flag warning, according to the National Weather Service.

State emergency operations centers were activated on Wednesday morning to help battle the blazes.

As of Thursday, more than 10,000 acres have burned in Beauregard Parish.

Lake Charles, around 40 miles southeast of Merryville, has seen temperatures over 37 degrees Celsius every day since August 18 and temperatures over 35 degrees since June 29.

55 DAYS AFTER NCP BREAKUP, SHARAD PAWAR CLAIMS 'NO SPLIT'

Quaid Najmi | Pune

Nationalist Congress Party (NCP) President Sharad Pawar on Friday again set Maharashtra politics in a flutter by claiming that his party has "not split" -- 55 days after the breakaway group led by his nephew Ajit Pawar walked out to join the state government.

"Ajit Pawar is our leader and he has taken a different route... Just because of that there is no reason to call it a split," said the 83-year-old NCP supremo while interacting with mediapersons.

Sharad Pawar said that the party is still united and all the leaders who have adopted a separate path "are also ours". "What is a split? When a large section of the party is separated at the national level, which is not the case here (in NCP). Some people have left taking a differing stance. Its their right in a democracy... There is no need to call it a split because of that," he explained.

As the utterances fuelled speculation, a senior party leader explained that Sharad Pawar's statement was with reference to the lack of legislative recognition to the Ajit Pawar-led group.

"The legislative group has yet to be recognised by the Speaker, unlike the case of the Eknath Shinde precedent... We have already informed the legislature and the Election Commission on the same. Hence, there is no justification to term it a 'split' till the legislative status is cleared," the leader, preferring anonymity, told correspondent.

Incidentally, Sharad Pawar's ugly googly came a day after his daughter and NCP Working President Supriya Sule also took a similar stand, and her cousin, MLA Rohit Pawar also adopted the same stance on Friday.

"The NCP National President is Sharad Pawar Saheb, Maharashtra President is Jayant Patil. Ajit Pawar is also a senior legislator and leader of our party and we are all working together," declared Sule.

Arguing that there was no "split", Sule said they have made a representation in the matter of Ajit Pawar to the Maharashtra Assembly Speaker and the latter's reply is awaited.

The sudden spate of statements -- made sporadically in the past seven weeks -- ignited the political atmosphere in the state, coming a week before the national opposition alliance INDIA's third conclave scheduled to take place in Pune on August 31-September 1.

Maha Vikas Aghadi allies Congress's Leader of Opposition (Assembly) Vijay Wadettiwar and Shiv Sena (UBT)'s Leader of Opposition (Council) Ambadas Danve frowned at the Pawar clan statements saying "they confuse the people and the MVA workers".

The ruling alliance BJP leaders like state chief Chandrashekhar Bawankule, Sudhir Mungantiwar, Pravin Darekar and others said that "(Sharad) Pawar's statements imply that he is fully supporting Prime Minister Narendra Modi's developmental policies, akin to Ajit Pawar".

The NCP has also rejected theories that Pawar senior's statements could create confusion in the party's rank and file, and also drive a wedge in the INDIA alliance, reiterating that the party is very much part of the national opposition group.

The breakaway NCP faction of Ajit Pawar has been claiming since July 1 that there's "no split" and Sharad Pawar continues to be their leader.

On at least two occasions, Ajit Pawar and his supporters had visited Sharad Pawar to pay their respects and "seek his blessings and guidance".

INDIA alliance to make major change in communication strategy to take on NDA in 2024 LS polls

Team Absolute | Mumbai

With almost eight months left for the crucial 2024 Lok Sabha elections, the Indian National Developmental Inclusive Alliance (INDIA) will be bringing several changes in the communication strategy to take on the BJP-led National Democratic Alliance (NDA).

According to sources in the INDIA alliance, the changes in the communication strategy of the opposition parties have been taken in view of the aggressive campaigning that will be held by the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP)-led NDA.

The source said that in view of the Lok Sabha elections, the INDIA alliance parties instead of focusing on the main media platforms will be focusing on the alternative media to increase their reach in the far flung and remote areas of the country.

The source said that this has been done to communicate in much better way to the voters as they do not get enough screen space on televisions.

The source also said that as the INDIA alliance partners have not much resources like the BJP, so it will also lower their cost for advertisements and publicity. The source further said that a sub-committee will also be formed to coordinate the spokespersons of the INDIA alliance to take on the spokespersons of the NDA in the debate shows on televisions.

The source further said that there will be a separate team of the national and regional level spokespersons of the INDIA alliance to take on the BJP.

And even the strategy of the national and the regional level spokespersons will be different.

The source said that the national spokespersons of the INDIA alliance will focus completely on the national issues and have a clear line on national issues, while the regional spokespersons will set the narrative by highlighting the failures of the BJP in dealing with the region level issues on televisions and through press conferences.

The source said that a joint meeting of the national and regional spokespersons will take place in the coming days to decide the strategy.

However, senior leaders of the INDIA alliance members remained tight-lipped on the issue.

The third meeting of the INDIA alliance is all set to take place in Maharashtra's Mumbai on August 31 and September 1. The INDIA alliance partners had already met twice in Bihar's Patna on June 23 and in Karnataka's Bengaluru on July 18 and 19.

Maha cops nab 2 Gujarat men with fake currency notes of Rs 50L face value

Team Absolute | Navi Mumbai

The Navi Mumbai Police have arrested two persons, hailing from neighbouring Gujarat, here and seized fake Indian currency notes with a face value of around Rs 50,00,000 from their possession, officials said on Friday.

Senior Police Inspector Rajeev Shejval of Kharghar Police Station informed IANS that both the accused shall be produced before a Magistrate Court later today for remand, and further investigations are underway.

Following a tip-off, a team of Kharghar Police Station kept a close watch on the duo from Bhuj town in Kutch district and caught them late on Thursday night.

A search of the accused revealed cash of over Rs 1 lakh of genuine currency and more than 9,980 fake currency notes of Rs 500 denomination.

Though appearing to be similar to the real currency notes, the fake notes had no serial numbers and are printed with 'Children Bank of India', and having a total face value of nearly Rs 49.90 lakh, confirming the fraud.

The police suspect that the duo - identified as Usman D. Saha, 40 and Abdul H. Turk, 41 - planned to circulate them in the markets to dupe unsuspecting people.

The accused Saha and Turk have been charged under various Indian Penal Code sections, and the sleuths are probing on to find out where the fake notes were printed or acquired from, identify their associates and nexus in Gujarat and Maharashtra and since how long the counterfeit currency racket is being perpetrated.

10-YR-OLD MUMBAI BOY BECOMES WORLD'S YOUNGEST PADI-CERTIFIED SCUBA DIVER

Team Absolute | Mumbai

In a significant achievement, a city student has become the world's youngest PADI-certified Junior Open Water Diver, a day after his 10th birthday, his family members said on Friday. The boy, Dwit A. Nandu, studying in Class 4 in St. Francis D'Assisi High School, celebrated his 10th birthday on Thursday (August 24) and the new laurel was proclaimed on Friday at Temple Adventures, Pondicherry, said his joyous father Dr. Amit Nandu, who is a professor of Accountancy in H.R. College of Commerce & Economics. Scuba Diving is regulated by the Australia-based Professional Association of Dive Instructors (PADI), working in 186 countries, and it issues certification to divers which make them qualified to dive around the world.

The first level certification is called 'Junior Open Water Diver' (12 metres), followed by 'Open Water Diver', then 'Advanced Open Water Diver' (30 metres), 'Deep Diver' (40 metres), and then the professional 'tech-diver' categories for greater depths.

"As per PADI rules, the minimum age for a certified diver is 10 years. At 10 years one can begin the course and then get certified. Dwit's 10th Birthday was on 24 August. He had started preparing for the course well in advance and he completed it today, creating a world record," gushed Dr Nandu. He explained that the rigorous course involved learning advanced swimming, ability to swim 200 meters without any aid or support, studying five modules, cracking a written exam based on them, finishing confined water training in a swimming pool and then completing four open water dives. For the past one year, Dwit was immersed deep in the preparations for his global record, undergoing swimming coaching at a club in Borivali, then for the PADI-certified Temple Adventures diving centre in Pondicherry.

In a certificate issued by the instructor Riyas Jalal, the East Coast Watersports Pvt Ltd said: "Dwit has completed his Scuba Diver Course on his 10th birthday on 24 August, 2023, diving to the depth of 40 feet and finished his PADI Junior Open Water Diver Course on 25 August, 2023 around 0800 hrs. Thus, he attained the position of youngest Junior Open Water Diver in the world by completing the course at the age of 10 years and 18 hours."

Incidentally, scuba diving practically runs in the family for years with Dr. Nandu himself a Certified Deep Diver, his elder son Jinay, 21 - studying at IIT Bombay -- is an Advanced Open Water Diver, and now Dwit has become a world record-holder Junior Open Water Diver (12 metres). The divers' family is looked after by Charmi Nandu, a former banker turned housewife, who ensures her sons, Jinay and Dwit, are on their toes both -- academically and in the diving arena.

Sun Mission Is fine, centre should also focus on onion issue: Team Uddhav

Team Absolute | Mumbai

The Shiv Sena (UBT) on Friday said the Narendra Modi government can send a mission to the Sun, but it should first focus on the onion issue in the country or else the ruling party will not even realise that their 2024 Lok Sabha endeavour will go haywire.

In an editorial in Shiv Sena (UBT) mouthpiece Saamana, the party slammed the Centre's decision to impose 40 per cent export duty on onion. "The people (of the country) are being engaged in new missions like Moon Mission, Sun Mission and Venus Mission. Mission Sun is all fine, but it is very much essential that the onion issue in the state stabilises," the editorial said.

Nashik, Ahmednagar and Pune districts of Maharashtra are known for their onion produce. A section of farmers have been protesting against the Centre's decision to impose a 40 per cent import duty on onion.

"You do send a mission to the Sun, but before that you should ensure the onion issue is settled or else your mission to 2024 (Lok Sabha polls) will go haywire and you will not even realise it," he said.

Scripting history, the ISRO's Chandrayaan-3 landed on the Moon on Wednesday.

The Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) has also planned missions to the Sun, Venus and the Gaganyaan mission which aims to send Indian astronauts to Low Earth Orbit.

MUMBAI TRAIN FIRING: COURT DENIES PERMISSION FOR NARCO TESTS, SAYS TO REMAIN SILENT IS FUNDAMENTAL RIGHT

Team Absolute | Mumbai

A magistrate's court in Mumbai has denied permission to subject dismissed Railway Protection Force (RPF) constable Chetansinh Chaudhary, accused of shooting four people on a moving train, to narco tests. The court's reasoning is based on the principle that an accused person's right to remain silent is a fundamental right and cannot be violated.

The court's order, issued on August 11, emphasizes that an accused cannot be forced to undergo narco tests, brain mapping, or polygraph tests solely for the purpose of "smooth investigation." The Government Railway Police (GRP) had requested permission from the Borivali magistrate court to conduct these tests on Chaudhary.

He is currently in judicial custody, lodged in a jail in neighbouring Thane district. The prosecution had said that he was accused of committing a serious offence and to complete the investigation, narco and other tests were necessary.

Chaudhary's lawyers Surendra Landage, Amit

Mishra and Jaywant Patil opposed the application, saying that narco tests are a violation of fundamental rights and cannot be conducted if an accused does not consent to undergoing them. The court said in the order that the accused was, admittedly, arrested in connection with a heinous crime.

Referring to a Supreme Court judgement, the magistrate noted, "If we minutely go through the entire judgment, it clearly reveals that only in external circumstances, that too with the consent of the accused, a test can be conducted. Miley Cyrus called the song a tribute to who we were, are and will eventually be.

Detailing the song's meaning, the singer said: "This song is about honouring who we've been, loving who we are and celebrating who we will become. I feel proud when reflecting on my past and optimistic when thinking about the future. I am grateful to my loyal fans who make my dreams a reality daily. I am sincerely thankful for the stability of your steadfast support. This song is for you."

The music video which features Cyrus in some different outfits changes tone with each subsequent outfit, all the while the song becomes increasingly bleak and Miley becomes more emotional and teary eyed on screen.

"So, we could see each other and as she was dancing it just made me cry, it made me laugh, it brought up so many real emotions and I think it's really letting people into true emotion, which I don't feel we get to see very much these days," she added.

Celebrating the release of 'Used To Be Young', Miley went on to share several stories and insights from the many chapters of her life within the TV special event 'Endless Summer Vacation: Continued (Backyard Sessions)'. Shania Twain

SAYS SHE FELT UNCOMFORTABLE WITH HER FEMININITY AS A TEEN

Los Angeles | Agencies

In a weird twist, actress-singer Shania Twain has said that she didn't enjoy being a "female" during her teenage years, and was uncomfortable with her femininity.

According to Aceshowbiz, the 57-year old singer-actress' life was changed by a group of male friends, who helped liberate her and ultimately inspired her to write 'Man! I Feel Like a Woman!', her 1999 hit single.

"When I was in my late teens, I was sharing an apartment with friends. They were all going to college, and I would stay home during the day and write songs. But Thursday, Friday and Saturday, we would all go to the gay bars together," Shania told The Messenger.

She continued: "All the guys in our group would wear make-up, and they would help me - I didn't know how to wear make-up. I dressed more like a boy. I didn't love being female. I didn't love being undressed by men with their eyes and stuff like that. It just made me uncomfortable, so I down-dressed my body, and I didn't enjoy my femininity."

"But the guys would dress me up, and they would put make-up on me, and we would share this experience together. And then I would go to clubs, and I felt safe there. I could shake my body around and feel good about being female, and it was liberating. I wasn't self-conscious about it," she added.

Shania explained that 'Man! I Feel Like a Woman!' was a reflection of the journey she's been through. She said: "When I wrote 'Man! I Feel Like a Woman!' I reflected back on how sad it was that it had taken me so long to embrace my curves, and reject the sexism and embrace, for the first time, a confidence in being female. That's why it was such a statement - not just 'I Feel Like a Woman', but 'Man! I Feel Like a Woman!' and I love it and I'm enjoying it and I'm wearing it well."

'I HAVE TRIED TO PROJECT WOMEN VERY DIFFERENTLY THROUGH MY FILMS': RANI MUKERJI

Team Absolute | Mumbai

As her film 'Mardaani' clocked nine years in Hindi cinema, actress Rani Mukerji has spoken about the franchise and said that she has tried to project women very differently through her films.

In the 'Mardaani' franchise, Rani essays the character of a cop Shivani Shivaji Roy. In the first installment, the actress works hard to uncover a Delhi-based child trafficking cartel.

Rani said: "I'm very proud of the Mardaani franchise. As an actor, I have tried to project women very differently through my films. I realised I could contribute towards showcasing women as real agents of change for society to look at."

She added: "I have tried to show women as ambitious, self-reliant, courageous, go-getters who are uncompromising, feisty and upright individuals."

"Mardaani' fits into my vision for women in cinema aptly and because of this synergy, I think I have been able to give 200 per cent to this character."

Rani feels there is a lot of similarity between her 'Mardaani' character, Shivani Shivaji Roy and how she is in real life.

Rani said: "Shivani and I are the same. There is no difference. I have never let anyone tell me how to lead my life and I have fought all my battles by myself. Shivani Shivaji Roy is exactly the same."

"Maybe this is why people love the franchise and my character so much because I'm actually playing myself through this cop."

The 'Mardaani' franchise is truly a game-changer for Indian cinema. It subverts gender-norms and shows how a woman can deliver huge box office hits all by herself and commander a franchise that keeps growing with time!

"Mardaani franchise is quite a glass-ceiling shattering one as it's a blockbuster franchise with a woman as the lead. I hope the success of this franchise will help in many more films being made with women at the forefront," she says.
