BAN ON SOCIAL MEDIA?

For some platforms, sources said, the standard reply has been that they will await instructions from their company headquarters in the US, who in turn on their own will have an "expert assessment" to take a view.

- The Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology (MeitY) had asked the social media platform to abide by the Information Technology (Intermediary Guidelines and Digital Media Ethics Code) Rules, 2021 by May 25, or face strict action.
- Except one Indian social media company, Koo, sources said that none of the top social media intermediaries have appointed a resident grievance officer, a chief compliance officer and a nodal contact person yet.
- Sources said the failure of social media companies to make these appointments in three months has not gone down well with the government.
- With arbitrary suspensions of accounts and inaction over abuses and bigotry on social media platforms, users in India have been persistently complaining against tech giants like Twitter, Facebook and others.

The deadline to comply with the new legal rules meant for big social media platforms, which were issued by the government three months ago, is ended on Tuesday, threatening the operations of the likes of Twitter in India.

According to top official sources, social media platforms such as Twitter, Facebook and others, which were required to abide by the rules notified in the gazette of India on

GOOGLE, YOUTUBE SAID YES TO INDIAN RULES

"We respect India's legislative process and have a long history of responding to government requests to remove content where the content violates the local law or our product policies. We have consistently invested in significant product changes, resources, and personnel to ensure that we're combating illegal content in an effective and fair way, and in order to comply with local laws in the jurisdictions that we operate in," a Google spokesperson said yesterday. Its statement covers all its platforms, including YouTube.

"If social media companies do not obey the rules, they may lose their status and protections as intermediaries and may become liable for criminal action as per the existing laws of India."

February 25 under Intermediary Guidelines and Digital Media Ethics Code Rules, 2021, have failed to comply on many accounts. The government's rules will come into effect from today.

In the latest alleged Congress toolkit controversy, Delhi Police visited Twitter India's local offices in the National Capital Region on Monday after Twitter had marked one of the tweets of BJP spokesperson Sambit Patra as "manipulated media".

Twitter's presumptive judgement has triggered widespread outrage among Indian users across the country. Twitter was yet to speak officially on the May 25 deadline.

Sources said the social media platforms which were required to furnish monthly reports as to how many grievances were filed and settled, have failed to do so. Some of the platforms, sources said, have sought more time of up to six months for furnishing compliance.

WORKING HARD TO MEET INDIAN IT RULES: FACEBOOK

Facebook on Monday said that the company aims to comply with the provisions of the new intermediary guidelines and is working towards it. A Facebook spokesperson said that the company is putting operational processes in place to meet the new IT rules. "We aim to comply with the provisions of the IT rules and continue to discuss a few of the issues which need more engagement with the government. Pursuant to the IT rules, we are working to implement operational processes and improve efficiencies. Facebook remains committed to people's ability to freely and safely express themselves on our platform."

Though most of West Bengal will not face direct effect of the storm, but two districts -- East Midnapore and South 24 Parganas -- will see its impact.

Team Absolute | Kolkata

In an effort to minimise casualties from severe cyclone 'Yaas', expected to make landfall on Wednesday, the West Bengal government on Tuesday said it has relocated more than 9 lakh people to different cyclone centres, schools, colleges, and other government places in the last 24 hours.

Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee said that the state government has created a master plan with three lakh people working directly in relief and rescue work during and after the storm. People particularly in the areas of Digha, Sundarbans, Kakkdwip, Sagar island and other low-lying areas have been shifted to flood centres and different schools. More than 9 lakh people have been evacuated and the process of shifting is still on. Last year we evacuated 10 lakh people. "The force includes 74,000 government officials and employees, and 2 lakh police personnel. Apart from that, teams of the NDRF, SDRF, electricity, and telecom workers have been kept ready for any kind of emergency situation," the Chief Minister added. The Army has also been kept on stand-by.

Patanjali's dairy biz head dies of Covid

Team Absolute | New Delhi

As yoga guru Ramdev continues to stoke controversy with his comments about allopathic medicines and Covid, the head of his Patanjali Ayurveda's dairy business has died due to Covid-related complications. Sunil Bansal, 57, contracted Covid and breathed his last on May 19 in Rajasthan.

Ramdev had sparked an uproar after purportedly calling allopathy a "stupid science". Following the controversy, Ramdev also wrote an open letter on social media on Monday asking the IMA if allopathy offered permanent relief for ailments such as hypertension and diabetes.

In the letter shared on his official Twitter handle, he posed 25 questions to the IMA, which had objected to his video clip running down allopathy treatment for Covid-19. The development comes a day after he was forced to withdraw his statement questioning the efficacy of allopathy medicines. On Bansal's death, Patanjali Ayurveda spokesperson S.K. Tijarawala told reporter: "On May 19, Patanjali Dairy CEO Bansal died due to Covid, which is a big loss to us."

BHARAT BIOTECH EXPECTS WHO APPROVAL FOR COVAXIN BY JULY-SEP

Hyderabad: Bharat Biotech has said on Tuesday that it is expecting regulatory approvals from the World Health Organisation (WHO) for its Covid-19 vaccine Covaxin by July-September 2021. The Hyderabad-based company stated that application for Emergency Use Listing (EUL) has been submitted to WHO, Geneva and regulatory approvals are expected by July-September 2021. It also said regulatory approvals for Covaxin are in process in more than 60 countries including the United States, Brazil and Hungary. "Emergency use authorisations have been obtained in 13 countries with more to follow," it said. Most countries recommend vaccinations against Covid-19. Unvaccinated travellers can travel with negative RT-PCR tests prior to travel, in the absence of any other country specific travel restrictions, it added. Bharat Biotech's statement came out amid reports that people who have taken Covaxin and plan to travel abroad were nervous as it is not in the list of WHO approved vaccines. With countries gearing up to resume travel and tourism, intending travellers from India who have taken Covaxin jabs will be anxiously waiting for Covaxin's approval by WHO.

Priyanka slams removal of shrouds on Ganga banks

"They were not given treatment while they were alive, they did not get dignity in their death and did not find a place in the government data. Now shrouds are being ripped off their bodies. What kind of a cleanliness drive is this? This is showing disrespect to the dead, to the religion and to humanity."

Team Absolute | Lucknow

The Yogi Adityanath government in Uttar Pradesh is now facing flak for removal of saffron shrouds from shallow buried bodies in sand on the banks of rivers in Prayagraj.

Sharing a video clip that showed workers pulling off saffron shrouds from the bodies buried in sand, Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra slammed the government. The state government has come under severe criticism after a large number of bodies were found buried in shallow sand graves or washed up on the Ganga river banks in the state as people found it difficult to bear the expense of such cremation. In Prayagraj, photos showed hundreds of bodies buried in the sand along the banks of Ganga as rain exposed shrouds. The discovery caused panic among people living in nearby areas as many complained that dogs were digging the graves and feeding on the bodies on river banks.

A drone footage, shot by a foreign news agency, showed hundreds of bodies, separated by bamboo sticks and covered with saffron cloth, buried along the banks in Prayagraj.

India reports 1.96L Covid cases, lowest since April 14

Team Absolute | New Delhi

India's daily coronavirus cases fell below 2-lakh mark for the first time since April 14. The country reported 1,96,427 fresh Covid cases on Tuesday and 3,511 fatalities, Union Health and Family Welfare Ministry said.

On April 14, India had recorded 2,00,739 cases. This is for the first time after April 14 that the cases have gone below two-lakh mark.

On Monday, India crossed three-lakh mark of fatalities due to the coronavirus infections, thus becoming world's third country after the US and Brazil to cross three-lakh deaths.

India's overall tally of Covid-19 cases now stands at 2,69,48,874 with 25,86,782 active cases and 3,07,231 deaths so far. In the last 13 days India has recorded over 50,000 deaths.

According to the Health Ministry, a total of 3,26,850 people have been discharged in the last 24 hours, with 2,40,54,861 being cured from Covid till date.

The Health Ministry said that a total of 19,85,38,999 people have been vaccinated so far in the country, including 24,40,236 who were administered vaccines in the last 24 hours.

Mass vaccination during pandemic historical blunder: Nobel laureate

Vaccinating during a pandemic is "unthinkable" and is causing deaths, the winner of the 2008 Nobel Prize for Medicine said.

"The history books will show that, because it is the vaccination that is creating the variants," the report said. Many epidemiologists know it and are "silent" about the problem known as "antibody-dependent enhancement."

Team Absolute | New Delhi

French virologist and Nobel Prize winner Luc Montagnier called mass vaccination against the coronavirus during the pandemic "unthinkable" and a historical blunder that is "creating the variants" and leading to deaths from the disease, LifeSite News reported.

"It's an enormous mistake, isn't it?"

A scientific error as well as a medical error. It is an unacceptable mistake," Montagnier said in an interview translated and published by the RAI

Foundation US. "It is the antibodies produced by the virus that enable an infection to become stronger," he said in an interview with Pierre Barnerias of Hold-Up Media earlier this month.

While variants of viruses can occur naturally, Montagnier said that vaccination is driving the process. "What does the virus do? Does it die or find another solution?" "It is clear that the new variants are created by antibody-mediated selection due to the vaccination." "The new variants are a production and result from the vaccination. You see it in each country, it's the same: in every country deaths follow vaccination," he said, as per the report.

Team Absolute | New Delhi

Accordingly, petrol prices increased by 23 paise per litre to Rs 93.44 per litre and diesel by 25 paise per litre to Rs 84.32 per litre in Delhi.

SC: CBI CAN ACT AGAINST MAMATA, BENGAL MINISTER FOR 'SUBVERTING RULE OF LAW'

Team Absolute | New Delhi

The Supreme Court on Tuesday said that the CBI is free to take action against Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee, her law minister or anyone who attempted to subvert the rule of law.

The apex court was hearing the CBI's appeal challenging the house-arrest of four TMC leaders in the Narada case by the Calcutta High Court.

According to the CBI, the West Bengal chief minister had rushed to its office on May 17 and passed several derogatory and defamatory comments about the probe agency. She sat on dharna for six-long-hours, while an unruly mob continued to swell in an organized way, causing obstruction to the proceedings that were to be carried out by the investigating officer post arrest of the accused persons, the agency said. The CBI added thousands of followers of Trinamool Congress laid siege on the CBI building at Nizam Palace in Kolkata last Monday, constantly trying to disrupt the process of law by engaging in stone pelting. A bench comprising Justices Vineet Saran and B.R. Gavai told Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, representing the CBI, it did not approve of the conduct of the chief minister and law minister in laying siege of the CBI office, and also supporters thronging the trial court.

The bench noted that there is ample remedy in the Constitution to address such situations, and remarked, "We are not here to advise the government or CBI."

The bench told Mehta: "Why should the accused persons be made to suffer because of a dharna by the chief minister and law minister?...Proceed against them if you wish to."

The bench noted it does not appreciate such dharnas by the chief minister to pressurize the agency, but can the accused be made to suffer? The bench said: "We do not like to mix liberty of citizens with whatever illegal acts of politicians. We will not do that."

However, the top court

queried CBI, who is more in a position to influence the witnesses, those who were chargesheeted or those who have not been?"

On CBI's contention to move the matter to another state, the bench observed that it may demoralize the High Court.

The top court insisted that Calcutta High Court's five-judge bench was already hearing the matter, and queried CBI whether it would want to withdraw its appeal.

Mehta submitted "it is happening periodically in the state that the CM barges into investigating agency office to help the accused". The bench reiterated, "if chief minister or law minister has taken law into their hands, proceed against them".

However, the CBI withdrew its appeal from the top court.

BJP MLA's aide held in B'loru cash for bed scam, party left red-faced

Team Absolute | Bengaluru

Much to the embarrassment of Karnataka's ruling BJP, a purported close aide of its Bommanahalli MLA Satish Reddy was arrested on Tuesday by the Bengaluru police's Central Crime Branch police in connection with the alleged bed scam - exposed by the ruling party members earlier this month with much fanfare.

On May 4, Bangalore South MP Tejasvi Surya, accompanied by his uncle and Basavangudi MLA, L.S. Subramanya, Bommanahalli MLA Reddy and Chickpet MLA Uday Garudhachar stormed into Bengaluru south Covid war room of the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike to flag the scam.

Surya, who had also read out a list of 17

Muslims working there and questioned their appointment, had alleged that hospitals in Bengaluru "blocked" beds in fake names to make money, at a time when Covid cases were rising in Karnataka. He claimed that officials of the BBMP "colluded" with private nursing homes and hospitals to block beds and allocate them for exorbitant fees.

The CCB police statement said that Babu, 34, a resident of Roopena Agrahara in Bommanahalli, was arrested on Monday evening after his role of blocking beds and selling them at higher price for Covid patients came to light. A senior police officer, who did not want to be identified, said that the arrested is a personal assistant of Bommanahalli MLA Reddy.

Babu's role of blocking beds in BBMP hospital came to light when they examined the CCTV footage of the war room and the statements given by the staff members, the police said.

The Karnataka government had ordered reserving 80 per cent of the beds in the private hospitals for Covid patients. The BBMP was assigned to allot beds for the Covid patients seeking treatment in private hospitals. However, due to the alarming rise in Covid cases, most of the beds were fully occupied even as the demand was growing manifold.

The CCB police has already arrested five people -- Nethravathi, Rohith, Venkat Subba Rao, Manjunath and Punith -- in connection with the case. The sleuths had conducted searches in the war room and obtained technical data. Doctors, who are in charge of each zone war room, had also been questioned.

Cong leaders get notice from Delhi Police in alleged toolkit case

Team Absolute | New Delhi

Two Congress leaders, who filed complaint against BJP leaders, have been served notice by the Delhi Police's Special Cell in connection with alleged toolkit case.

Congress Research Department Chairman Rajeev Gowda and Rohan Gupta, Chairman Social Media department of the party were served notice by the Special Cell on May 21, the day when a similar notice was served to Twitter India.

Speaking to reporter, Gowda said, "We have received a notice from Delhi Police on May 21, and we responded to it on May 22 stating that similar complaint has been filed in Chhattisgarh and police there has registered an FIR there, so we will proceed with the case there."

His remarks came a day after the sleuths of the Special Cell arrived at the offices of Twitter India at Lado Sarai in south Delhi and in Haryana's Gurugram to serve notices. However, the offices of the Twitter were found shut.

Aman Panwar, Advocate for Congress Party in the fake Toolkit case against BJP, told IANS, "First, even though on May 18 itself my clients filed a detailed complaint for the forgery committed by the BJP leaders to spread the fake Toolkit document, the Delhi Police failed to register an FIR."

Panwar said that thereafter my clients approached the Chhattisgarh Police and an FIR has been registered there.

SC stays Rajasthan High Court's 'no arrest' order

Team Absolute | New Delhi

The Supreme Court on Tuesday stayed a Rajasthan High Court order, issuing direction to its Registrar General and district courts not to list pre-arrest bail applications in cases where the maximum jail term is of three years.

A bench of Justices Vineet Saran and B.R. Gavai stayed the single judge's order passed on May 17. The plea filed by the High Court, through its Registrar General, said the single judge, erroneously by a blanket direction, directed not to list pre-arrest bail applications before the High Court as well as the Sessions courts.

"The single judge further erred by passing blanket order directing not to arrest in an offence in which punishment is up to 3 years and the offence is triable by First Class Magistrate. This shall create a situation of lawlessness," said the petition.

Senior advocate Vijay Hansaria, representing the HC's registrar general, challenged the validity of the High Court order, which also gave blanket direction to state DGP not to arrest an accused till July 17, 2021.

The petition, which was supported by the state government, argued that the single judge erred in law by not giving notice to the High Court in administrative side before passing the order affecting the administration of the High Court and the people at large of the Rajasthan. The petition contended that the single judge exceeded his jurisdiction and illegally and erroneously interfered with the exclusive administrative domain of the Chief Justice of the High Court.

PROVIDE VACCINE TO ALL BEFORE CLASS 12 EXAMS: PUNJAB MINISTER

Chandigarh: Punjab School Education Minister Vijay Inder Singla on Tuesday said the Union government should provide required Covid vaccines to all states before taking decisions on examinations of Class 12 students. Conveying the feedback to the Union Education Minister on the behalf of Amarinder Singh-led Punjab government, Singla said there was a dire need of vaccinating the students appearing in the board examinations along with the teachers. The minister said the examinations of only selected and essential subjects may be held in each discipline and question papers may be for exams of lesser duration. He said due consideration may also be given to pre-board examinations and internal assessment.

While raising the concerns of students and parents, Singla said the examinations should not be conducted until the safety of all stakeholders is ensured. He said the Centre should issue directions to all universities and colleges to cope with the time loss of students.

Patna | Agencies

A woman in her early 20s was abducted and gang raped by 4 men in Bihar Saharsa district.

The incident occurred on Monday night when the victim, along with her friend, was returning home from a marriage function on a motorcycle. The four accused spotted them travelling on a deserted road, and intercepted them in a car. They thrashed the victim's friend and kidnapped her in the car near Baluaha canal under Sadar police station. The accused took her to an isolated area in Saharsa and raped her one by one. After committing the crime, the accused threatened her with dire consequences and released her.

The victim reached home in the morning hours and revealed her ordeal to her parents. The victim's parents immediately contacted Sadar police station and filed a written complaint against them. "We have raided the houses of all four accused by four separate teams but managed to arrest only one accused -- Upendra Yadav alias Santosh, a resident of ward 13 in Saharsa," said Santosh Kumar, DSP of Saharsa (Sadar). "We have identified other three accused named Mohamad Hasim, Prabhash Kumar and Vijay Yadav. They are absconding. We have constituted separate teams to

CONG URGES TWITTER TO LABEL 'MANIPULATIVE' ON TWEETS OF 11 MINISTERS

New Delhi: The Congress on Tuesday urged Twitter to affix 'manipulative media' tag to 11 Union Ministers for spreading false and malicious propaganda. Congress Chief spokesperson Randeep Surjewala said, "Urgent need to affix 'Manipulative Media' tags to the tweets of Union Ministers in the Modi Government for spreading false and malicious propaganda." The Congress alleged that the forged Toolkit document is created by certain BJP leaders to gain undue and wrongful political advantage by spreading potentially dangerous, false and fabricated material through their Twitter handles, against the Indian National Congress and its leaders. The Union Ministers against whom Congress wants manipulative media tag include Ravi Shankar Prasad, Smriti Irani and nine others. The congress gave the list of Twitter handles of various Union Ministers along with the specific URLs of the Tweets made by them on May 18.

Domino's India hires global forensic agency to probe hacking

Team Absolute | New Delhi

After a hacker made 13TB data of nearly 18 crore orders of Domino's India with key details public on the Dark Web, Jubilant Foodworks that owns the master franchise for Domino's Pizza in India sent a letter to users on Tuesday, saying that it has hired a global forensic agency to investigate the matter.

Domino's India said it suffered an information security incident on March 24, 2021 wherein its systems were attacked by a hacker.

"We moved quickly to contain the breach and hired an external agency to do an impact assessment. Domino's, as a policy, does not store financial details of users such as complete credit card number, CVV, passwords etc and therefore, no such information was compromised," the company said in the open letter.

Independent cyber security researcher Rajshekh Rajaharia first reported that Domino's India has been hit by a hacker again, after Alon Gal who is CTO of cyber security firm

Hudson Rock, claimed in April that credit card details of nearly 10 lakh people who purchased online on Domino's Pizza India were allegedly being sold for over Rs 4 crore on the Dark Web. According to Rajaharia, data of 18 crore orders from Domino's Pizza in India has now become public, that contains name, email, phone number and even the GPS location of the users.

"We have lodged a formal complaint with the relevant authorities and also filed a complaint with the cyber crime cell, and has hired a global forensic agency to investigate the matter, to try and identify the perpetrators behind the attack," Jubilant Foodworks said.

According to Rajaharia, the same person who earlier hacked financial services company MobiKwik has compromised Domino's India.

"The earlier hacker failed to receive ransom and sold the data to some unknown hacker, who has now posted the 13TB data of Domino's India on the Dark Web," Rajaharia had told reporter.

Delhi HC seeks reply on compensation for Covid victim due to 'medical negligence'

Team Absolute | New Delhi

The Delhi High Court on Tuesday sought response from the National Disaster Management Authority (NDMA) and the Delhi government on a plea seeking compensation for the next of kin of a Covid-19 patient, who allegedly died without getting proper medical attention. In the plea, the family members of the deceased person sought compensation due to the "complete mismanagement" and "criminal negligence" of the authorities. The plea claimed that the victim's oxygen level was very low and his condition was critical, yet the doctor at the hospital did not recommend admission and due to his negligence, the man died while waiting for an ambulance.

A bench of Justices Vipin Sanghi and Jasmeet Singh also asked the Delhi government-run Rao Tula Ram Hospital to respond to the plea. After going through the Supreme Court order, which noted that the authority has fixed minimum ex gratia compensation payable to the next of kin of the deceased on account of the Covid-19 pandemic, the high court made NDMA a party in the petition. Senior advocate Rahul Mehra, appearing for Delhi government, submitted that it is proposing to give ex gratia relief to families of Covid-19 victims and it will be placed before the Cabinet next week. The plea was filed by the parents and wife of Naveen, who died of Covid-19 on the intervening night of April 26-27, allegedly due to doctor's negligence and want of medical attention.

The petitioners, represented through advocates Anuj Chauhan and Anand, submitted that the deceased person's oxygen level was recorded at 60 in the Rao Tula Ram Hospital, yet he was denied medical treatment. The family kept waiting for an ambulance to shift the deceased to another hospital after he was denied admission. The family claimed to have dialled 100 seeking police help and also the Delhi government's cab service, but it did not get any response, even as the patient succumbed to the disease.

The high court asked the Delhi government, the hospital and the NDMA to file counter affidavits on the plea and scheduled the matter for further hearing in July.

The petitioners also sought the court's direction to the authorities to bring on record whether oxygen was available at hospital on April 26.

CM CHOUHAN ANNOUNCES UNLOCK FROM JUNE 1

Chairing a cabinet meeting, Chouhan said, "We will start the process of unlocking in the state from June 1 but Covid testing will also continue so that no Covid-infected person becomes a carrier of the infection."

Team Absolute | Bhopal

Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan has said the process of unlocking will start in the state from June 1 for which a team of ministers will be formed.

Chairing a cabinet meeting, Chouhan said, "We will start the process of unlocking in the state from June 1 but Covid testing will also continue so that no Covid-infected person becomes a carrier of the infection."

He said we have to be prepared well in advance to stop the third wave of the pandemic. We have to follow Covid-appropriate behaviour and encourage others to follow it as well as trust the medical system, he added.

"A team of ministers will be formed to assess the process of unlocking. This team will be in touch with the scientists and decide how we will lift the lockdown."

Referring to the opposition to the vaccines at many places, Chouhan said a vaccination campaign committee would be formed to create awareness among the people. We cannot eliminate coronavirus completely unless there is full public support behind the government. Therefore, at the lower level the Covid Crisis Management Committee will be involved in assessing the process of unlocking the state, he added.

All cabinet ministers must visit the districts under their charge each day and concentrate on managing them at the block level. There should be a meeting of the Crisis Management Committee of every village and ward and they must decide how to unlock the state. This will involve the people and will encourage them to follow Covid-appropriate behaviour, the Chief Minister added.

A 'Janata curfew' has been imposed till May 31 to curb the spread of Covid-19 in the state. There are five districts which have been exempted from the Janata curfew while the lockdown will be relaxed from June 1 across all districts.

State govt aims at 0% corona positivity rate by May 31

Chouhan has said the Covid management strategy implemented for prevention and controlling the infection is turning out to be a success. Public participation played an important role in this direction. The spread of Covid-19 is slowly reducing.

Team Absolute | Bhopal

The Covid-19 situation in Madhya Pradesh is improving gradually as the positivity rate in the state has reached below 10 per cent across all districts. The state government has, however, set a target to further bring the positivity rate to zero by May 31.

A meeting with a core group set up for controlling Covid-19 in the presence of Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan said the state's positivity rate was 3.9 per cent on Monday. Indore's positivity rate was 8.1 per cent while that of Bhopal was 7.6 per cent.

Chouhan has said the Covid management strategy implemented for prevention and controlling the infection is turning out to be a success. Public participation played an important role in this direction. The spread of Covid-19 is slowly reducing.

Those villages and gram panchayats which will be completely free from the infection, the public representatives or members of the Covid Crisis Management Committee would declare them Covid-free. The Disaster Management Committees which performed well would be rewarded on August 15, he added.

The Chief Minister said the campaign to eradicate Covid-19 must continue so that people with symptoms of Covid-19 are identified and appropriate treatment could be provided to them. Chouhan said the 'Corona curfew' should be strictly followed till May 31 so that zero per cent positivity rate could be achieved.

Citizens can avoid contracting the infection by following Covid-appropriate behaviour. The pandemic will still remain while economic activities will also remain operational with necessary precautions. Micro containment zones must be created.

YOUTH VOLUNTEERS ENCOURAGING RURAL PEOPLE TO GET VACCINATED

Team Absolute | Dhar

To overcome vaccine hesitancy among the rural population, a non-government organisation 'Youth For Children' has launched a door-to-door campaign across all villages in Dhar district of Madhya Pradesh.

This youth group has been spreading awareness among the common people encouraging them to get themselves vaccinated as it is the only potent weapon to combat coronavirus.

Nalchha village in Dhar district is a tribal dominated area and the people living here fear coronavirus infection but are still not ready for vaccination.

There are various misconceptions among people here. To prepare the tribal population for vaccination, the volunteers of 'Youth for Children' have been visiting the village.

The volunteers are going door-to-door in every village to check the oxygen level of the people, distributing face masks as well as spreading awareness to frequently wash their hands. They have been encouraging people to get vaccinated and their efforts are yielding positive results as people are now getting vaccinated.

The villagers are being advised not to panic in case of a fever, cough or common cold and must consult an auxiliary nurse midwife (ANM) or a doctor. They must take the medicine at the right time, receive two vaccination doses and take special care of their children along with their eating habits.

The 'Youth for Children' team visited the fields in Malipura, Kimapura and Bhibarkhedha as well as 'Chaupals' to spread awareness among people about following Covid-19 protocols and discussed the benefits of vaccination with them.

Gayatri Parmar of 'Youth for Children' said she is engaged in the vaccination campaign with the cooperation of Dhar Collector Alok Singh, Anil Gulati of UNICEF and Dr Arora of Nalchha Health Department. Along with the team of Seva Bharati and state Health Department, the volunteers are trying to change the outlook of the people towards vaccination. A doctor Mahesh Yadav says that people are now coming forward for vaccination.

Former MLA Vivek Pandit, who heads a state committee on tribal welfare, has appealed to the Maharashtra government to administer anti-influenza vaccine to all children below the age of five years in the state's tribal region before the upcoming monsoon season. Talking to reporters on Monday, he said health experts have indicated that the during the rainy season, the influenza, also known as the common flu, may spread among children. The country is already facing the COVID-19 crisis, he noted. Pandit said he has written a letter to Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray, urging that children below the age of five years be administered the vaccine against influenza in all tehsils and district collectors be made the monitoring authority. He said the poor tribals cannot afford the anti-influenza vaccines, which are priced between Rs 1,500 and Rs 2,000.

Therefore, the government should undertake a drive to administer the vaccines to all children free of cost before the commencement of the monsoon season, he said.

Give wide publicity to free mucormycosis treatment for poor: HC to Maharashtra

The bench also asked the state to restrain the private hospitals from charging "astronomical bills" to mucormycosis patients.

Team Absolute | Mumbai

The Maharashtra government on Monday told the Bombay High Court's Aurangabad bench that treatment of mucormycosis or black fungus infection is now covered under the Mahatma Jotiba Phule Jan Arogya Yojana (MJPAY) and the Pradhan Mantri Jan Arogya Yojana (PMJAY) for eligible underprivileged beneficiaries at selected hospitals.

The bench then directed the state government to give "wide publicity" to its decision so that poor, illiterate/semi-literate people and those living in remote and tribal areas will be benefited from the scheme. It also asked the state to restrain the private hospitals from charging "astronomical bills" to mucormycosis patients and ensure that the cost of treatment and daily consumption of antifungal medicines is monitored. "This would prevent unscrupulous elements (hospitals) from fleecing poor people by overcharging for the treatment of mucormycosis. Needless to say, the list of hospitals identified for such treatment and through which the medicines would be made available should also be given wide publicity so that patients do not land in the wrong hospital for availing treatment," the HC noted in its order. The state said 130 hospitals across Maharashtra have been identified to treat the infection and 1,000 more facilities would be empanelled. Also, 19 medical and surgical packages have been identified for treatment of mucormycosis under the MJPAY, it added. A division bench of Justice

Ravindra V Ghuge and Justice Bhalchandra U Debadwar was hearing a suo motu PIL, based on media reports, to address issues of funeral rites of Covid-19 patients, shortage of medical oxygen supply and black marketing of remdesivir among others.

The state government further said that antifungal medicines required for treatment of the ailment will be made available "free of cost" to patients admitted in pre-identified hospitals.

The HC will hear the PIL next on Tuesday.

Third Maharashtra village achieves 'zero-Covid' status this month

Initially, barely 3 or 4 Covid-19 cases were detected in the village after which the Gram Panchayat and Health Department launched a full-fledged drive to test the families of the infectees, suspects and symptomatic patients were immediately isolated.

After the success of Hivare Bazaar, another small village in Ahmednagar, Bhojare Khurd has achieved 'zero-Covid' status after practicing isolation and other Covid-appropriate behavior, officials said here on Tuesday.

The development comes close on the heels of Nanded's Bhoji village earning the Centre's laurels after its 6,000-strong population managed to isolate the coronavirus and notched success as the country is battling the second wave of the pandemic. Bhojare Khurd, with 1,500 people, on the outskirts of Ahmednagar town is located in a hilly, drought-hit region of the otherwise prosperous and green district. A majority of the villagers are migrants working in Mumbai, Pune and other big cities, but after the lockdowns were imposed many chose to return home. Initially, barely 3 or 4 Covid-19 cases were detected in the village after which the Gram Panchayat and Health Department launched a full-fledged drive to test the families of the infectees, suspects and symptomatic patients were immediately isolated. Not wanting to become scourge-hit, the villagers resolved to keep themselves safe and the village itself free of the virus with a series of initiatives. Accordingly, all families were checked regularly with the help of ASHA and Anganwadi workers, any found infected were immediately isolated and other treatment was continued. "If they were found with symptoms of fever, cough or fatigue, they were subjected to Antigen tests and quarantined," said Dr. Savita Kute, the village medico involved in the effort. The village authorities also launched a widespread awareness campaign at the temple loudspeakers to convey Covid-appropriate behaviour daily in the morning and evening, they were informed about the disease, how to take care of self and families, stressing on wearing masks, physical distancing, washing hands, hygiene, regular checkups, etc, said Dr. Kute. In fact, after the state-wide lockdown was announced last month, Bhojare Khurd Gram Panchayat implemented its own 'Gaon Band' campaign to prevent any further spread of the virus, said the Sarpanch Rajendra Ambekar. "The suspected persons were persuaded to stay at the isolation centre in the village which helped break the virus chain and now we have become a 'Corona-free' village. If other villages adopt our village's examples, they can also quickly drive away the virus," said Ambekar.

Why personal hygiene matters in summers?

Team Absolute | New Delhi

Two in three adolescents are not practising appropriate hand hygiene, a shocking recent global study involving University of Queensland researchers has found. The Covid-19 pandemic has highlighted the conclusive role of sanitation and hygiene, be it physical, oral or sexual hygiene, in our personal lives once again. The personal care industry has been very vocal about men's intimate hygiene in the recent past, says Sarthak Taneja, Co-Founder, Skin Elements, adding that maintaining body hygiene is equally important for both the sexes, especially the genitals. Personal and intimate hygiene, especially in high temperatures, is not just crucial for comfort and freshness all day long, but to keep sexual and dermatological health concerns at bay. "Intimate care during summers is an essential addition to the daily hygiene check of your body. Not only does it keep your sensitive areas away from pathogens like bacteria and fungus, it also keeps them sweat-free." As the temperature increases, the hot and humid weather can accelerate intimate discomfort and even genital infection in both the sexes. Therefore, specialists suggest not to wear body fitted clothes as they can impact the ventilation around your genitals and become a favourable environment for bacteria and yeast to grow. Hygiene care products such as intimate washes, chafing products and even wipes are very useful during summers. They help in keeping the area clean, dry, and fresh. Sweat becomes apparent in this scorching hot weather. If you are fortunate enough, you may perspire less otherwise it can generate an awful scent," says Taneja.

Importance of Nutricosmetics

Team Absolute | New Delhi

Health is wealth, and healthy skin could be a self-explanatory display for itself. According to Stephen Defelice, any food or part of a food that provides medical or health benefits could be defined as Nutraceuticals. He coined the term 'Nutraceuticals' from the words 'nutrition' and 'pharmaceutical'. This coined term also gave birth to a new derivation known as Nutricosmetics. As stated by Anunciato and da Rocha Filho in the year 2012 and Pearson, 2018, Nutricosmetics can be described "as the consumption of food or oral supplements to produce an appearance benefits, and are also called "beauty pills", "beauty from within", and even "oral cosmetics". The beauty industry today has seen a fierce growth which has led to hyper-awareness about aging, pigmentation, and skincare. Nutricosmetics are generally available as supplements containing molecules such as collagen, omega fatty acids, peptides, vitamins, proteins, etc. They are usually available as over-the-counter products. Sunlight (UV radiation), Infrared light, and a persons' cellular metabolism creates 'reactive oxygen species or ROS'. These ROS in turn lead to oxidation of DNA, proteins, and fats in ones' body and lead to skin aging. However, the body also produces antioxidants that can combat these ROS. Although results from some studies remain controversial in the literature, the main and generally accepted antioxidants include elements such as -- Vitamins, where Vitamin C is found in raw red and green peppers, oranges, acerola, grapefruits, kiwi, strawberries, broccoli, and brussels sprouts. Vitamin E is found in nuts, seeds, vegetables, corn, soy, and margarine. The consumption of both has shown a reduction in the damage on skin due to UV rays. Carotenoids also provide UV protection. They are obtained from vegetable sources and are usually present in orange, red, and yellow foods, and are not synthesised in our body. These include -- Beta-carotene, Lutein, Zeaxanthin, and Lycopene. Where Beta-carotene is a precursor of vitamin A and can inhibit free radicals and UV damage, Lutein and Zeaxanthin also protect against UV damage, and have antioxidant properties. Lycopene is found in tomatoes and provides some degree of photoprotection, and can reduce UV damage. Polyphenols include Curcumin, Tea polyphenols, Grape polyphenols, have antioxidant and anti-inflammatory properties to protect the skin. Minerals like Copper help in skin rejuvenation and involve in the formation of Collagen, whereas Zinc is anti-inflammatory and protects against UV radiation. Selenium on the other hand protects cellular DNA damage Omegas including Omega3 and Omega6 are found in canola oil, cold-water fish, nuts, and seeds. They are anti-inflammatory and help in the structural stability of cells. Collagen has already proven its efficiency on skin properties. The most common way to obtain collagen is through nutritional supplements, namely fish collagen hydrolysates. However, the regular consumption of fruit and vegetables, rich in biologically active ingredients has been pointed to as one of the best strategies against skin ageing. Nowadays, beauty can no longer be dissociated from health and consumers consider nutrition an important pillar in skin beauty. A study in Thailand compared the efficacy of a combined nutraceutical (containing the combination of soy isoflavones, chaste berry, black cohosh, and primrose oil) on volunteers. The placebo effect took 12 weeks to start showing effects. The volunteers receiving the nutraceutical significantly improved skin elasticity, skin roughness, and wrinkles; yet no visible effect on pigmentation, skin hydration was noticed.

The 'Graphic Travelogues Culinary', a project by the Goethe Institut, uses ingredients to serve the most flavour-some dish that will feed your soul, nourish your mind, and delight your palate. The immersive project presents travel experiences of artists from India, Bangladesh and Germany. Stories of travel and food are documented on this globally accessible platform, facilitating intercultural experiences through comics and graphic novels. As travel blogs become increasingly popular, garnering millions of hits every second -- it taps the potential of comics to engage with graphic travel blogs on social media. According to Goethe Institut, GT Culinary is a one of its kind expedition where professional chefs and avid travel bloggers from different cultures and cities come together for a tryst with gastronomy, travel, and comics. Through vivid experiences and resulting sketches, the project demonstrates graphic cooking and delivers the most amazing recipes artistically. At the forefront of the culinary journey are teams comprising a chef or an influencer and an illustrator that give life to the cooking, exploring and illustrating aspects of the project. It also urges the public to follow the teams' cookery and artistic expedition and see the world through their eyes -- from shopping for ingredients to preparing the dish step by step in times when physical travel seems like a distant reality. The website gives an interesting sneak peek into Team India: "The famous Indian blogger-duo Delhi FunDos has seen that food of a region reflects the local culture, the life-philosophy of the people. With illustrator Krutika Susarla, they embark on the GT #Culinary journey together in Delhi. The adventure begins at a Bengali market in Mini Kolkata. There they shop for Shukto and Methi Chicken -- one dish from Punjab, and one from Bengal." Team Germany (Berlin Biryani) consists of cjege Felicitas Then, Chef and food blogger; and Alexandra Klobouk, Author and culture and content Illustrator. Whereas Team Bangladesh (Fried Loitla Fish) consists of Sameera Hussain Wadood, Chef; and Sayeef Mahmud, Illustrator. Safurat Balogun, Project Manager and Head of Library Services, Goethe-Institut/Max Mueller Bhavan, New Delhi, says, "When we launched Graphic Travelogues last year in the middle of the pandemic, we imagined that the next phase of the project would include bringing artists together through residencies. We quickly realised that it couldn't happen anytime soon so we had to brainstorm alternatives. This is how Graphic Travelogues #Culinary was born. Food, travel and comics -- is what we are holding on to this year to bring together the finest chefs, travel bloggers and comic artists for a unique culinary adventure. Three cities, three teams, three recipes -- one experience." The culinary and artistic journey can be accessed at www.goethe.de/India/graphictravelogues/culinary.

MARIANNE FAITHFULL WAS UPSET TO KNOW THAT BOB DYLAN TORE POEM HE WROTE ON HER

Los Angeles | Agencies

Singer-songwriter Marianne Faithfull says she was upset when she got to know that Bob Dylan tore a poem that he wrote about her after she did not reciprocate to his advances. However, she says the two moved on from there and became friends.

"I first met Bob at the Savoy in 1965. There's a clip of me and Joan Baez singing 'As Tears Go By' in the hotel room while Bob is hammering away on a typewriter. Later when I turned him down, he told me that it had been a poem about me, but he'd torn it up. I was so upset, but we got over that and have been friends for 56 years. I really like him," she said, according to a report in femalefirst.co.uk.

She has also spoken about her favourite Dylan song, "It's all over now, baby blue".

"I think 'It's all over now, baby blue' is about those times in life where you just have to say, 'okay, we tried, it didn't work', but it's a much sleeker way of saying it. It's very loving, but obviously it's all over. I don't really know why I love it so much but I've been in many situations where I would have liked to have time stop and have a band playing and sing that song to people. I've recorded it twice. The second time, I'd had more experiences and really felt it. I love the way his songs change octaves," she told The Guardian newspaper.

EDITOR'S SPECS

Health care workers are in danger

The study, published in ERJ Open Research, included a total of 2,063 health care staff, who were tested for antibodies against Covid-19, between May and September 2020. The presence of these antibodies is a very accurate indication that someone has been infected with

HEALTH CARE WORKERS WERE THREE TIMES MORE LIKELY TO BECOME INFECTED DURING THE COVID-19 PANDEMIC COMPARED TO THE GENERAL POPULATION, ACCORDING TO A STUDY. AROUND ONE IN FIVE OF WORKERS WHO WERE INFECTED WERE ASYMPTOMATIC AND UNAWARE THEY HAD COVID-19.

Covid-19. The blood tests showed that 14.5 per cent of the health care workers had been infected. This is more than three times higher than the proportion of people infected in the local population. The highest rates of infections among the workers were in dentistry (26 per cent), health care assistants (23.3 per cent) and hospital porters (22.2 per cent). The rate among administrative staff was the same as that of doctors (21.1 per cent). About 18.7 per cent did not think they ever had Covid-19 and were completely asymptomatic. The researchers say this is important since people without symptoms are likely to go to work and could potentially infect other people. "A lot of attention during the pandemic has been around PPE for doctors and nurses but we found that dentists, health care assistants and porters were the staff most likely to test positive," said lead researcher Professor James Chalmers, a consultant respiratory physician from the University of Dundee, UK. However, health care workers who had been infected were very unlikely to contract Covid-19 a second time in the following six months, the study showed. In the months following their blood tests, 39 workers developed a symptomatic Covid-19 infection, but only one of these was a worker who had previously tested positive. This equates to an 85 per cent reduction in risk, which is similar to the protection provided by Covid-19 vaccines. "This is really good news for people who have already had Covid-19, as it means the chances of a second infection are very low," Chalmers said. The team hopes to continue the research to see how long immunity lasts and how vaccination affects infections among health care workers.

The Powerful message of Buddha for a healthy world

Lalit Garg

Gautama Buddha is an illuminator, his birth anniversary is celebrated as Buddha Purnima, his attainment of knowledge was fulfilled on the full moon night and his 'Nirvana Day' was also accomplished on the full moon day. That's why Buddha has lightened up the human race. It was the day when Buddha was born, got knowledge, sacrificed the body and attained salvation. Buddha is also called 'Tathagata', which means to attain the ultimate truth through the practice of enlightenment. Two and a half thousand years ago, the knowledge which he imbibed, the preaching of that knowledge which he shared among his followers, the relevance of that message still has significance in today's time and it has a solution to cope up with this pandemic. Whether the grief is of corona epidemic or any other sorrow; the negative impact of both cannot ruin the integrity of humans. For this, he gave the mantra of 'Appo Deepo Bhava', that is, to become light yourself, one cannot reach the destination through the other's support. Self realization is important.

Buddha Purnima is an important day not only for the followers of Buddhism but also for the entire human race. Buddha became the most popular Indian spiritual saint, social-reformer, spiritual teacher with his high values and knowledge. He touched the hearts of not only many effective personalities but also the common people and brought positive changes in their lives. We can also call him the person and ideologue along with the spiritual revolution. His ideologies are not only a reflection of his revolutionary personality, but also an inspiration of intense sarcasm and change on religious, social distortions and blind people, which changed the life direction of innumerable human beings. His inspirations have problem solving ability in this tough time of pandemic. He preached about 'sorrow prevention' and said that this world is full of sorrows, but the end of sorrows is possible; which he called Nirvana.

Siddhartha was the prince of Kapilavastu before becoming a monk. In search of peace, he left home at the age of 27, leaving the royal life. While traveling, Siddhartha reached Sarnath near Kashi, where he converted into a monk. Here he meditated hard under the Bodhi tree in Bodhi Gaya. After rigorous penance, Siddhartha attained enlightenment, and he came to be known as the great monk Gautama Buddha. With his knowledge he lit up the whole world. When Buddha saw the people of his era engulfed in ignorance about religious-social, spiritual and other sacrificial rituals, found ordinary people in ignorance in the name of religion, saw women being humiliated, and atrocities against Shudras, he felt pity.

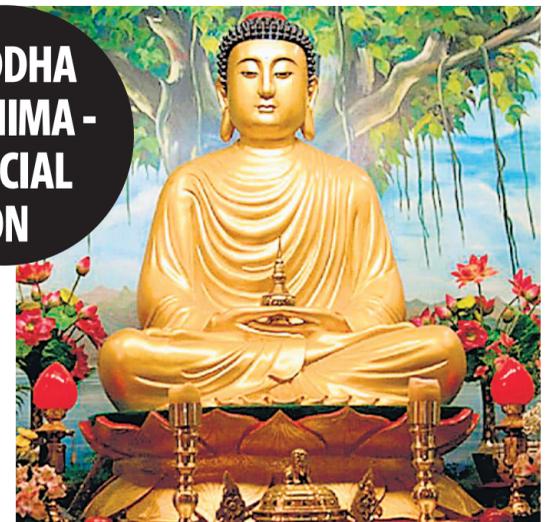

He himself took the fast for the attainment of the first knowledge and, after wandering in the forests for years, did penance and enlightened the soul with knowledge. The enlightenment and light with which he has lived each moment of his life is an important chapter in the history of the Indian sage tradition. He himself received the light of truth, lived an inspiring life and then raised the voice against the evils in the public. The efforts he made to elevate folk life are amazing and surprising. Expressing the essence of his knowledge, he said that there is a reason for every grief. The most important reason for the Corona epidemic being so widespread on the world stage is human ignorance, indulgent lifestyle, indiscipline and perverted food. Buddha says that in the core of the things in which people seek happiness, sorrow ultimately comes out of grief. Presently, even in the transition phase of the Corona crisis, the person who finds himself drowned in pleasures, convenience and narcotics in search of happiness, the end of it is sure to be more sad and painful. Therefore, it is important for a person to make his lifestyle eco-friendly and intoxicated.

In this way, by becoming a monk, Gautam Buddha paid more attention to social welfare than to get himself trapped in the fruitless disputes of the soul and the divine. His teachings became the means of liberating human beings from sorrow and suffering, as well as inspiring the solution of social and worldly problems, which have their own special place in making life beautiful and transmitting honorable values in public opinion. This is the reason that his words started coming into the understanding of the people easily. While Mahatma Buddha propagated the ten pupils with non-violence while adopting the middle Way, people found them easily connected to his words. He believed that if a man conquers his desires, he can attain nirvana. Thus he attacked the priesthood and established the importance of the person.

Gautama Buddha practiced Buddhism and very efficiently organized Buddhist monks and developed a sense of unity among them in a democratic form. Its doctrine of non-violence and compassion was so intriguing that after two thousand years, Emperor Ashoka, influenced by it, accepted Buddhism and stopped the wars. In this way, Buddhism crossed the boundaries of the country and spread its light to every corner of the world. Even today, the humanistic, intellectual and populist hypotheses of this religion cannot be denied and through them a strong system of discrimination can be attacked. This Buddhism is able to provide peace and well-being to the grieved, afflicted and restless humanity even in the Corona crisis. It is developing religious unity in the mind of the people by attacking high, low, discrimination, casteism. It has an important role in paving the way for the development of art, literature and culture by creating an environment of world peace and mutual brotherhood.

Mahatma Buddha was the pinnacle of the social revolution.

His philosophy is not only a philosophy of non-violence and compassion, but a philosophy of revolution. Not only did he enforce the pilgrimage culture but he also created new values and standards for an advanced and healthy society. He not only gave the right direction to progressive ideas, but he broke the stagnation in them and heralded a new revolution. Buddha said - hurry up and do great deeds as soon as possible, otherwise sins overlap the good deeds. It is a great expectation of the present era to highlight his contribution in the context of social revolution. Only by doing this will we be able to build a healthy society. The Buddha preached an egalitarian society. Asymmetry arises where there is attachment and malice. A person wanders in the corridors of inequality to nurture his selfishness, display ego, degrade others, and grab power and property. The Buddha made himself alone, empty, before coming among the people, before sharing his life experiences, before performing rigorous penance and knowing the truth of life. Then he said, do not let anything inside you pollute the inner world. Look neither bad, nor listen bad, nor say bad. This is the message of emptiness, the path to happiness, peace and good health. He spoke of 'Appo Deepo Bhava' - becoming your own lamp. Because, surrounded by day-night resolutions-choices, happiness-sorrow, joy and sorrow, scorching in the anxiety of tomorrow, carrying the load of stress, how can the mind be empty in such a situation? How can it be balanced? How can it be grasped? How to be able to get rid of corona? The practice of living in the present is necessary to cope with these conditions. Neither the memory of the past nor the worry of the future. One, who learns to live today, must understand that he has attained the meaning of human life and only a society made of such human beings can be balanced, healthy and equitable. There is a need to introduce the teachings of Mahatma Buddha in life for the liberation of corona and building a balanced society. It's a need of time to establish Buddhism qualities among the masses. Do not limit Buddha in only preaching, but make Buddha a part of life, shape your life with Buddhism culture.

PANCHAYAT RESULTS HOLD KEY TO UP BJP MLAS' TICKETS IN 2022

Legislators, in whose constituencies the party has performed poorly in the recent panchayat elections, may end up losing their tickets in the upcoming assembly elections in 2022.

According to party sources, the BJP leadership sees the party's defeat in panchayat elections as a direct consequence of the poor performance of the legislators.

"This means that more than 50 per cent of the legislators could be changed.

"The party lost in places like Ayodhya, Mathura and Kashi which are known as our strongholds and there can be no explanation for this other than the inadequacies of our legislators," said a senior party functionary.

The BJP, for the first time, had declared a list of candidates for the 3,050 zila panchayat ward member seats. It claims to have won over 900 seats, which means BJP-backed candidates have lost more than 2,000 seats.

BJP legislators, on the other hand, blame the Covid anger against the Yogi Adityanath government for the panchayat defeat.

"The Covid management at the ground level has been deplorable and bureaucrats have ensured that medical care does not reach the common man. The chief minister's best efforts have been diluted by the officers. Why blame us when even the low-ranking officers do not listen to elected representatives," said a senior party MLA.

The party leadership is also said to be upset over the fact that its legislators and MPs have done precious little to dilute the anger of farmers over farm laws.

"We have been repeatedly asking the MPs and MLAs to reach out to farmers and explain the farm laws to them so that they do not get carried away by opposition propaganda. But, it appears, that most of them did not step out of their homes, citing the pandemic," the functionary said.

Meanwhile, speculations of a cabinet reshuffle in the state have begun after a recent meeting between the chief minister and bureaucrat-turned-MLC Arvind Kumar Sharma, who is known as a close confidant of the Prime Minister.

Reports of Sharma's induction into the council of ministers have been doing the round ever since he joined the BJP in January and was made member of the UP legislative council.

However, party sources, said that there was no chance of a major cabinet reshuffle at the moment since the first priority of the party and the government was to combat the Covid and black fungus infections.

Moreover, there seems to be a strong difference of opinion between the chief minister and central leaders over names of those who are to be dropped from the ministry and those who are to be included.

"However, one or two ministers may be inducted into the cabinet," the party functionary said, indicating that Arvind Sharma could be given a cabinet berth in near future.

MARITIME MILITIA GIVE CHINA THE EDGE IN SOUTH CHINA SEA

Prof. Carl Schuster

The threat to the US has come from China in response to the joint military exercise carried out by the US, Japan, Australia, and France last week amidst tension in the East China Sea. Tension is also mounting in the South China Sea with the Philippines refusing to withdraw vessels from the disputed territory.

China's Maritime Militia are very often a party in these disputes due to its bullying tactics along the maritime boundary with Philippines, Vietnam, and Japan. The People's Armed Forces Maritime Militia (PAFMM) of China owes its origin to the Communist Party's 1950 consolidation of people's militia groups comprising mainly fishermen and coastal workers of China.

Its initial role was confined to keeping a close eye on People's Republic of China (PRC)'s coastal waters and reporting any suspected activities to the Chinese Army (PLA). These militia were recruited, trained, and equipped by the party's Bureau of Aquatic Products, which authorize former PLA officers [TSI] to train and direct the militias' operations.

These militia groups operated very close to the maritime boundary till the 1960s. However, their activities started expanding in subsequent years. They started bullying South Vietnamese fishermen in Paracel and Spratly islands in the late 1960s. Their first major victory came in January 1974 when they seized South Vietnam's Paracel Islands. They engaged the

According to reports, China recently warned the United States that it will face defeat if the two superpowers go to war. This warning is a testimony to what China thinks about its military might.

South Vietnam Naval unit with 400 militia troops and captured the islands. This island remained with China ever since. The PAFMM have been leading the PRC's bullying in the East and South China Sea from the early 1980s. They threaten the Vietnamese and Filipino fishing ships, which are small, slow, and less robust. The militia threatens these fishing boats with small arms and attacks them with high pressure water cannons, very often sinking them. This is particularly true for Vietnamese fishing vehicles. The Chinese Coast Guards are often seen helping these militia groups in their nefarious activities. In fact, due to the early gains by this militia unit, China built 'fishing shelters' to protect their fishermen in the Spratly islands. Their activities increased further after the US Navy pulled out of the Philippines in 1994. With the help of the PLA, the PAFMM isolated all the neighbouring countries and captured Mischief Reef and Scarborough Shoal. This compelled the US to follow a proactive strategy and support the Philippines in the South China Sea.

Despite all these activities by PAFMM, the Chinese government headed by Chairman Xi Jinping has never accepted any link between PAFMM and China's military. They claim that they are fishermen. This enables the PRC to deny any involvement of the Chinese government in these scuffles. The PAFMM do not regularly use firearms or other military weapons so their actions cannot be called an 'act of war' which might trigger retaliation. It may also compel Manila to seek US support under the US-Philippine Mutual Defence Treaty. That is why the US calls PRC's actions 'Grey Zone Operations', which means they are acts of aggression, but fall short of military actions that would risk triggering a military response.

The PAFMM still continues with its activities in the East and South China Sea. For occupying an uninhabited island, the PAFMM does the initial seizure posing as fishermen. When other countries confront them with their Coast Guards or other law enforcement agencies, they find themselves confronting an armed militia, which is fully backed by China's Coast Guard or Navy. The situation can escalate into a full-fledged war if the other party insists on vacating the island.

Such is the highhandedness of China that when an International Arbitration held the Chinese occupation illegal, it refused to abide by the judgment saying all nations should

'respect' international law.

At the time of the real war PAFMM may shift to supporting roles like defensive mining. They did this during the PLA Navy exercise in 2014. They would act as one of the many eyes of the fleet, land militia troops in remote areas or covertly land troops before the actual war starts.

A unit of the People's Armed Forces, PAFMM operates under direct military command for carrying out state-sponsored activities. Although they are locally supported but report to the head of China's military -- Commander-in-Chief Xi Jinping.

The exact number of fishing vessels possessed by PAFMM is not known, but estimates put the figure at around 350, out of which 225 are deployed in the South China Sea. Their vessel hulls are made up of reinforced steel, which are very strong. On the other hand, most of the other fishing vessels in the South China Sea are made of wood or other lighter materials. The PAFMM vessels are faster, which puts them at an advantageous position in an encounter.

They can 'bump' the enemy's vessel at will with little risk of damaging their own strong hull.

Most of the fishermen from other countries are unarmed, but PAFMM vessels have small arms and, in some cases, Rocket Propelled Grenades (RPG) and machine guns. They are rarely used but are available on the vessels.

The PAFMM vessels have water cannons mounted above the pilot house. They aim the spray at the other vessels' pilot house to blind the crew, but sometimes they aim it at the engine exhaust. Cold sea water hitting a hot engine tends to damage the engine, leaving the craft non-functional in the water. The PAFMM vessel can then do what it wants -- bump, ram or just leave. China places greater importance to claims on the South China Sea because of its strategic location. The political and strategic payoff is bigger in the South China Sea compared to the East China Sea and the risks and operational difficulties are less. The South China Sea is easier to dominate. The PAFMM base in Sanya is closer to the disputed territories in the South China Sea than the PAFMM base in Guangzhou to the Senkaku. They must pass through Taiwan to reach Senkaku.

The PRC's military bases and airfields are closer to the disputed territory in the South China Sea than they are from the US bases in Japan. The East China Sea is not strategically located. The US and Chinese bases are equidistant from Senkaku. Also, Japan's Coast Guard is stronger than those of Vietnam and the Philippines, China's main target in the South China Sea. The PAFMM gets greater support in the South China Sea from the Chinese military establishments compared to the East China Sea.

China wants to dominate the South China Sea because that would give Beijing strategic advantage against Taiwan and Japan, before risking a conflict over the Senkaku. Xi always goes for an easy target that he believes can be achieved with minimal risk and costs. Traditional thought in Chinese military believes in isolating the enemy and establishing an advantageous geo-political and military superiority before engaging in a war. Also, the best leader is the one who achieves 'victory' without fighting. China has secured much of the South China Sea and is using the PAFMM to expand its control without firing a shot. It has worked so far. However, doing that around the Senkaku may prove to be difficult and expensive.

UN stresses need to ensure safety, security of peacekeepers

United Nations | Agencies

The UN Security Council (UNSC) has stressed the need to ensure the safety and security of peacekeepers, while expressing grave concerns about threats and targeted attacks and condemned all acts of violence against the personnel, which may constitute war crimes.

In a statement on Monday, the UNSC expressed deep appreciation for all personnel in peacekeeping operations for their extraordinary efforts in the face of the Covid-19 pandemic and its consequences. Xinhua news agency reported. It also stressed the importance to ensure that missions are adequately resourced and all peacekeepers in the field are willing, capable and equipped effectively and safely to implement their mandate. The UNSC emphasised the need for troop- and police-contributing countries to ensure that all peacekeepers in the field are equipped, informed and trained to mitigate the threat posed by landmines, explosive remnants of war and improvised explosive devices. The Security Council asked the Secretary-General to continue to take all appropriate measures to improve the safety and security of peacekeeping personnel, including by strengthening the situational awareness of peacekeeping missions and their front-line peacekeepers.

The Council noted ongoing work to better integrate the use of new technologies for the purposes of increasing safety and security, improving situational awareness, enhancing field support and facilitating substantive mandate implementation.

Since January 1, 2021, 15 peacekeepers have lost their lives due to malicious acts.

US JOURNO DETAINED AT YANGON AIRPORT SHORTLY BEFORE DEPARTURE

We do not know why Danny Fenster was detained and have not been able to contact him since this morning. We are concerned for his well-being and call for his immediate release. Our priorities right now are to make sure he is safe and to provide him with whatever assistance he needs," the statement said.

Yangon | Agencies

Authorities in Myanmar detained an American journalist, an employee at a local English-language publication, at the Yangon airport shortly before boarding a flight back home, according to his employer on Tuesday.

Danny Fenster, 37, has been taken to prison, dpa news agency quoted his employer, Frontier Myanmar, as saying in a statement.

The charges against Fenster are unknown. "We do not know why

Danny Fenster had worked at the newspaper since August 2020 and that he had been on his way to the US for personal reasons. The military leaders of Myanmar have cracked down hard on anyone they view as an opponent ever since grabbing power in February. There have been reports of more than 5,400 detentions since the start of their rules, including of many journalists. Many reporters have already fled the country, though foreign correspondents had been viewed as enjoying a degree of protection. "This unlawful restriction of a foreign journalist's freedom of movement is the latest grave threat to press freedom in Myanmar," read a statement from the US-based Committee to Protect Journalists.

ETHIOPIA SLAMS US MOVE TO IMPOSE VISA CURBS ON OFFICIALS

Addis Ababa | Agencies

On Sunday, Secretary of State Antony Blinken announced the visa restrictions for any current or former Ethiopian or Eritrean government officials, members of the security forces, or other individuals responsible for, or complicit in, undermining resolution of the crisis in Tigray, reports Xinhua news agency.

The Ethiopian government has slammed the decision by the US administration to impose visa restrictions on officials in connection with the conflict in the East African country conflict-hit Tigray region.

In response, the Ethiopian Ministry of Foreign Affairs said in a statement on Monday that the decision came at a time when the government has been engaging positively and constructively with the US administration on issues of common concern.

It said the attempt by the US administration to meddle in its internal affairs, is not only inappropriate but also completely unacceptable.

"Ethiopia should not be told how to run and manage its internal affairs," the statement issued by the Ministry said. Noting that Ethiopia attaches great importance to its historic and friendly relationship with the US, the Ministry stressed that the implications of the visa restrictions and other related measures taken earlier will seriously undermine the two countries' longstanding and important bilateral relations.

The latest decision by the US is said to be in addition to its previous decisions to restrict economic and security assistance to the East African country.

The Ethiopian government further warned that such measures would affect the two countries' relations.

"If such a resolve to meddle in our internal affairs and undermining the century-old bilateral ties continues unabated, the government of Ethiopia will be forced to re-assess its relations with the US, which might have implications beyond our bilateral relationship," the Ministry stressed.

It, however, added that it will not be deterred by the decision and will continue its relentless efforts to overcome current challenges and lead the country on the path of lasting peace and prosperity.

Fighting that erupted in November last year between the Tigray People's Liberation Front, which used to rule the region, and the Ethiopian National Defense Forces has left thousands of people dead and caused immense losses.

Afghanistan vows to ensure security of foreign missions

Kabul | Agencies

The Afghan government is committed to ensuring safety and security of foreign organisations and diplomatic missions, the Foreign Ministry here said on Tuesday following Australia's announcement to close its embassy in Kabul.

"Based on the international laws and conventions, and within the framework of agreements with friendly countries, the Afghan government remains obligated to ensure the security of diplomatic missions and the safety of diplomatic and consular representatives," the Ministry said in a statement.

The statement came after Australia decided to close its embassy in Kabul amid increasingly uncertain security situation. "We hope, as mentioned in the Australian government statement, that this measure will be temporary, and Australia will soon resume its permanent presence in Afghanistan," the Ministry added. Australia's embassy building will close on Friday, with officials in future visiting Afghanistan from a post elsewhere in the region, Prime Minister Scott Morrison and Foreign Minister Marise Payne said in a joint statement.

The government said Australia would revert to diplomats using visiting accreditation for relations with Afghanistan, as was the case before the Kabul embassy opened in 2006, dpa news agency reported.

"It is Australia's expectation that this measure will be temporary and that we will resume a permanent presence in Kabul once circumstances permit," the statement read. Canberra cited the "increasingly uncertain security environment" that has come with the imminent departure of international forces and said the government had been advised security arrangements could not be provided to support an ongoing diplomatic presence.

The move "does not alter our commitment to Afghanistan or its people", Payne and Morrison said.

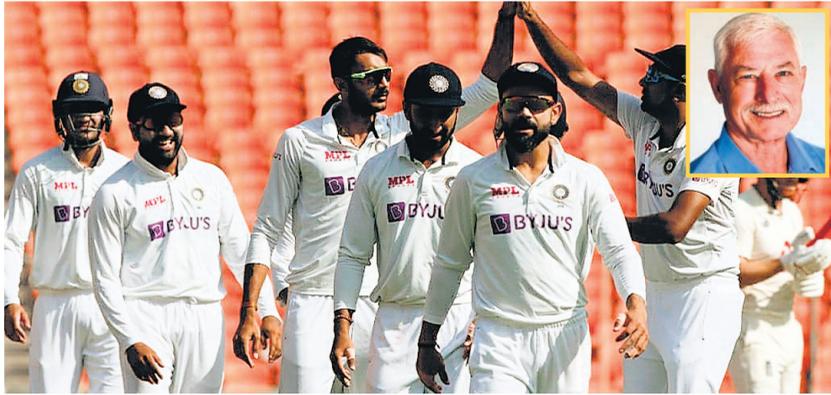

Afghanistan is in a state of uncertainty after US President Joe Biden announced that American troops will pull out from the country by September 11, 2021 after almost 20 years. NATO agreed to follow suit. Almost 10,000 NATO soldiers from the Resolute Support training mission, including 2,500 soldiers from the US and around 1,100 from Germany, the two biggest contingents, are due to leave the country.

INDIA'S PERFORMANCES HAVE KEPT TEST CRICKET ALIVE: HADLEE

Auckland | Agencies

Cricket needs India due to the revenue it generates and also strides it has made in test cricket that has kept longest format of the game alive, said former New Zealand all-rounder Richard Hadlee. "There is no doubt India produces a lot of revenue for cricket. Without India, the face of world cricket would be very different, therefore cricket needs India," said Hadlee, who formed a world-class quartet of all-rounders in 1970s and 1980s along with Imran Khan, Kapil Dev and Ian Botham. "But India has also made an outstanding contribution to Test cricket -- like in all formats. Their Test performances in Australia were outstanding despite that 36 all out blip. They bounced back superbly, and Test cricket came alive again. So many youngsters came into the team and performed. It showed the great depth of talented players India have in all formats." Hadlee added while speaking to the Times of India. The 69-year-old said neither New Zealand nor India will start favourites in WTC final since the match is being played on a neutral venue. Hadlee said adapting to conditions will be key and the fact the match is being played in England will provide help to swing bowlers and make batting a bit difficult if the bowlers find some help. "It all comes down as to who is better prepared and who adapts better to English conditions the quickest. The weather may also play a part and if it is cold, that will favour New Zealand. The Dukes ball will suit both team's fast bowlers. It will be an interesting game to watch. Too difficult to call a winner at this stage."

'PRESSURE TO WIN JUSTIFIES KOHLI'S ON-FIELD AGGRESSION'

Virat Kohli's on-field aggression is justified as it helps in unsettling opposition, a tactic necessary for India skipper since he faces enormous pressure to win from fans, said former New Zealand all-rounder Richard Hadlee. "I see Virat as being a very passionate and competitive cricketer with a strong desire for himself and the team to succeed. The pressure and expectations on him to 'win' is enormous. There are millions of Indian fans who idolise him which puts great pressure on him. Virat is responsible for ensuring that Indian cricket remains competitive and be one of the best teams in the world."

'BUMRAH VULNERABLE TO INJURIES'

Jasprit fits into the unorthodox bowling category with virtually no run up to the crease. His technique, in some ways, defies belief but has proved to be a highly effective one. He is what I call a shoulder or strength bowler with all his power and pace coming from the final part of his action as he releases the ball."

Japan could call up military doctors, nurses to help at Olympics

Tokyo | Agencies

Japan could call up military doctors and nurses from its Self-Defence Forces to help at this year's Tokyo Olympics, defence minister Nobuo Kishi said in parliament on Tuesday.

Kishi said that his house has received a request to assist with the Games organisers, DPA reports.

The armed forces have started to operate the vaccination centres in Tokyo and Osaka this week to help speed up Japan's extremely slow vaccination process just two months ahead of the planned start of the postponed Olympics.

According to Olympics organisers, up to 230 doctors as well as 310 nurses will be needed daily at the Games. So far, around 80 per cent of the required number of medical staff has been secured, they said.

Local organisers and the International Olympic Committee (IOC) insist the Games can go ahead safely despite Japan fighting a fourth wave of the pandemic and Tokyo being continually placed in states of emergency -- the latest extending to the end of this month.

Tokyo 2020 coordination commission chair John Coates pointed out that more than 80 per cent of the residents of the Olympic village will have been vaccinated by the time of the Games.

Foreign fans will not be permitted to attend the Games, which were delayed from last year, while the numbers attending from federations, sponsors and media have been cut.

A recent survey conducted by the Kyodo news agency showed that 72 per cent of those polled in Japan want the Olympics cancelled or rescheduled due to the pandemic.

Dravid never asked me to curb my natural game: Shaw

Team Absolute | New Delhi

Rahul Dravid advised Prithvi Shaw to stick to his natural style of batting, which is aggressive, and not copy the former India captain's manner which included restraint. "It was exceptional. We had toured for about two years (before the 2018 under-19 World Cup) with Rahul sir. He knew that he was different from us but he never forced us to be like him. Temperament is important but he never asked me to change anything, he used to tell me to play my natural game because he knew that if I play the powerplay overs, it becomes difficult to dismiss me," Shaw said on Cricbuzz. Dravid was also head coach of India team that won the under-19 World Cup in 2018 with Shaw as captain.

The right-handed opener said that while Dravid ran a tight ship and insisted on discipline, he was also friendly. "When there was Rahul sir, you had to be disciplined. There was a bit of a fear of him as well but off the field he was very friendly with us," said Shaw.

SHOAB WAS THE FASTEST BOWLER I EVER FACED: CLARKE

Sydney | Agencies

Former Australia captain Michael Clarke called Pakistan's Shoaib Akhtar the fastest bowler he ever faced. Clarke, who played 115 Tests, 345 ODIs and 34 T20is in a 12-year international career, said Shoaib could deliver at a speed of 160 kmph. "Shoaib Akhtar was the fastest I faced. He could bowl 160 [kmph]. Different type of bowler, who could bowl quick for three overs. Flintoff was quick for 12 overs. Lee was quick. Shoaib was quicker. Shaun Tait, Mitchell Johnson, Brett Lee and Jason Gillespie were fast. But Shoaib Akhtar was the fastest," Clarke said on the Uncensored Podcast.

Clarke also praised former Australia spinner Shane Warne for drawing a line between off-field and on-field activities. "He would always leave the things happening off the field, off the field. Generally, Warne would have a smoke as he was walking onto the ground. He will try to hide it somewhere. And when he finished his smoke and put it out, he knew that it was game time. He crossed that line and whatever he had going off the field, he would leave it there, go and do his stuff on the field and when he came back, he knew it was still going to be there," Clarke said.

Challenge awaits Panghal, Krishan in Asian boxing

Dubai | Agencies

India's Olympic-bound boxers Amit Panghal, Vikas Krishan and Ashish Kumar have a tough challenge ahead when they play their quarter-finals in ASBC Asian Championships here on Wednesday.

World Championships silver-medallist and defending champion Panghal will face stiff competition from Mongolia's Kharkhuu Enkhmandakh in 52kg category. When the duo last met, at Asian Olympic Qualifiers in Amman last year, the Indian had to dig deep into his energy reserves to win the bout.

Krishan, the 2010 Guangzhou Asian Games champion, will square off against Iran's Moslem Malamir in 69kg, while Ashish Kumar (75kg), who clinched silver in the last edition of the event, and Narender (+91kg) will also be up against powerful opponents from Kazakhstan.

While Ashish will play World Championships and Asian Games silver-medallist Abilkhon Amankul, Narender is set to fight two-time World Championships silver-medallist Kamshybek Kunkabayev, who is also aiming for his third successive medal at the Asian championships. Current national champion, Punjab boxer Varinder Singh (60kg), is the other Indian boxer who will be looking to confirm a medal as he will take on Jere Cruz of Philippines in light-weight last-eight bout.

A few tweaks still required before Olympics: Nilakanta Sharma

Bengaluru | Agencies

Indian men's hockey team midfielder Nilakanta Sharma said on Tuesday that the team still needed to improve on executing the short passes and maintaining possession for longer periods.

The 26-year-old from Manipur, who is currently training with the national team at the Sports Authority of India's (SAI) centre in Bengaluru for the Olympics, felt that only a "few tweaks" were required before India begin its Tokyo campaign in July. "I think we can improve on executing our short passes and maintaining possession for a longer period. If we keep the ball with us for a longer period of time, then we can create more opportunities to score. However, everyone in the team is playing well. We just have to make a few tweaks here and there," said Sharma, who has played 57 matches for the national side.

Sharma added that the team's preparations for this year's Olympics were in full swing. He said that the team was confident about achieving its goals in Tokyo. "The Olympics is not far away. Our preparations for the big event are going on in full swing. Everyone is confident and if we play to our potential, we can certainly make history in Tokyo. It's all about peaking at the right time and that will be our main focus once the Olympics get underway," said Sharma, who was a member of the team that won the junior World Cup at Lucknow in 2016. Sharma said he was fortunate to get the opportunity to play alongside captain Manpreet Singh.

"It's been a great journey with the Indian team so far. We have seen a lot of highs and I feel we can do even better in the coming years. I have been very lucky to have the chance of playing alongside a player like Manpreet Singh in the mid-field. "I have learnt a lot from him. And there's a lot more to learn from him. I really want to take my game to the next level this year as it's an important year for us," he said.

INDIA'S GDP MAY GROW FASTER THAN ESTIMATED IN Q4 BUT FY22 GROWTH MAY FALTER

The good news is that the country's GDP is expected at faster pace than expected in January-March quarter of 2021 as a pick up in economy activity during the period of fading pandemic surge has resulted in higher than expected output from various sectors.

But the bad news is that Covid 2.0 and continuing lockdowns in various parts of the country may push all hopes of faster economic recovery in FY22 downwards with GDP only managing to grow in single digit this year rather than high double digit growth projected earlier.

As per an Ecowrap report prepared by a research team from SBI headed by banks group chief economic adviser Soumya Kanti Ghosh, GDP growth for Q4 (FY21) would be around 1.3% (with downward bias) as against NSO projection of a negative -1%.

With this, the report has projected that GDP decline for the full year would now be around 7.3% (compared to our earlier prediction of - 7.4%).

"However, due to renewed lockdowns in almost all states since April, 21 owing to rise in infections, we believe that real GDP growth for FY22 would be in single digits as against our earlier forecast of 10.4%," the SBI Ecowrap report said.

The report's assertion on higher Q4 growth has also been based on corporate performance during the period. It said that corporate results so far also reinforce the fact that Q4 growth would be much better than the Q3 growth. The corporate GVA of 625 companies has expanded by 62.04% in Q4 as compared to 12.98% growth in Q3 (of 4164 companies).

"However the entire projection for Q4 FY21 is dependent on how much the past data will be revised by NSO. Past experience on data revision indicates that apart from providing data for Q4 NSO also revises quarterly data for present/previous fiscal year and annual GDP estimate," Ecowrap report said.

Though the country-wise real GDP data indicates that the situation has improved over one year (after battling from second/third wave of Covid-19), most of the countries are still in recession and their Q1 2021 (or Q4 FY21) real GDP growth was in contraction mode. The decline of average real GDP for 24 countries has improved from 2.9% in Q4 2020 to a decline of 0.3% in Q1 2021. Very few countries exited recession in Q1 2021 with contraction ranging from (-)6.1% (UK) to 18.3% (China).

Interestingly, had India's growth rate crossed 1.7% in Q4FY21, India would have been the second fastest growing country after China in terms of GDP growth, and going by Ecowrap reports estimate of 1.3% GDP growth, India would still be the 5th fastest growing country amongst 25 countries (that have released their GDP numbers so far).

"We hope for such optimism in terms of Covid-19 numbers and vaccination soon," the report said.

Indian equities resilient amid 2nd Covid wave on fall in daily cases

Team Absolute | Mumbai

Even as the country goes through a severe second wave of Covid-19 the stock market has been largely resilient. A report by Kotak Institutional Equities said that the resilience can be attributed to the decline in daily confirmed cases of Covid-19 and the eventual possibility of reopening of lockdowns across states.

It noted that the disconnect between the human tragedy and the markets largely comes on the back of difference in the behaviour, which for humans is emotional and for the markets is clinical.

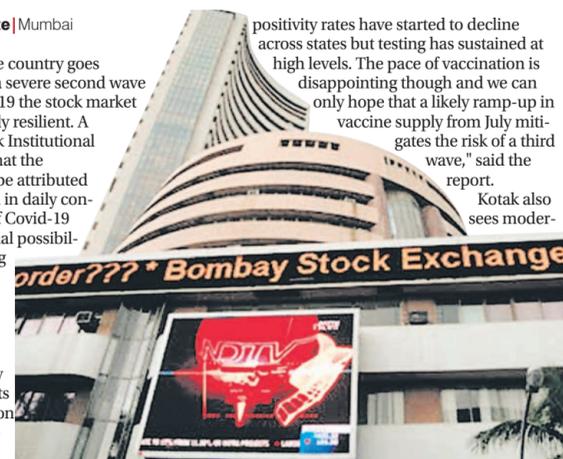

"The resilience of the broad market and 'rotation' among sectors are not surprising in the context of declining confirmed daily and overall active Covid-19 cases and (2) likely gradual easing of restrictions across states over the next few weeks," it said.

The market has been quite rational over the past few weeks displaying both resilience and rotation. India's Covid-19 daily confirmed and overall active cases have declined sharply over the past 1-2 weeks in many states, which may set the stage for easing of lockdown restrictions across states.

"We draw comfort from the fact that (1) positivity rates have started to decline across states but testing has sustained at high levels. The pace of vaccination is disappointing though and we can only hope that a likely ramp-up in vaccine supply from July mitigates the risk of a third wave," said the report.

Kotak also sees moderate economic impact of the current lockdowns in many states in the first half of FY22 and recovery from the second half.

It said that there are two differences between the economic impact of the current lockdowns in states over April-May 2021 and the national lockdown in March-May 2020. First one being the lower overall economic impact of the second wave given partial nature of lockdowns with no restrictions on manufacturing and limited restrictions on services and also, staggered nature of lockdowns across states. Further, it noted that the second wave has made higher impact on rural India in relation to the first wave. Rural India was largely unaffected in the first wave.

BARCLAYS AGAIN LOWERS INDIA'S FY22 GROWTH FORECAST

Mumbai: As India battles the severe second wave of Covid-19 and the states undergo lockdowns, Barclays has cut its growth estimate for India for the current financial year to 9.2 per cent. Its earlier estimate was 10 per cent.

"We reduce our baseline FY2021-22 GDP growth forecast again, lowering it to 9.2 per cent y/y from 10 per cent earlier, and 11 per cent before the outbreak of the second wave," it said in a report. It noted that although India's second Covid-19 wave has started to recede, the related economic costs have been larger owing to the more stringent lockdowns implemented to contain the outbreak.

Parts of the country are still experiencing an increase in new cases. However, the overall situation appears to be coming under control, reducing burden on the country's healthcare infrastructure, it said. "In our view, this bodes well for a gradual reopening, but only with a lag," it said.

According to the brokerage the economic costs of the recent surge in cases are rising rapidly. After a reasonably stable April, the economy experienced a sharp decline in activity in May, as is evident in high frequency data.

"While we continue to believe the lockdowns will last only until end of June 2021, in our new base case, we now estimate economic losses of $74 billion, all of it contained in Q2 21 (April-June)." At the same time, it observed that India's vaccination programme has slowed significantly, given persistent supply constraints and logistical challenges. Although the government has provided greater flexibility for states to set their own vaccine strategies, problems persist and supply is only expected to improve in Q3 21. The slow vaccination drive may pose medium-term risks to growth, especially if the country experiences a third wave of Covid-19 cases, said the brokerage report.

In a more pessimistic scenario in which the country is hit by a third wave of Covid-19, Barclays estimates that the economic costs could rise by at least a further $42.6 billion, assuming another round of similarly stringent lockdowns are imposed for eight weeks.

Under this pessimistic, "bear case" scenario, it estimates that the GDP growth would be lowered by a further 150 basis points, dragging FY2021-22 growth down to 7.7 per cent on a year-on-year basis.

ICEA hails recent amendments to IGCR rules, seeks further changes

Team Absolute | New Delhi

Lauding the recent changes to the Import of Goods at Concessional Rate of Duty (IGCR) Rules, 2017, the India Cellular & Electronics Association (ICEA) has sought further changes to the rules on a urgent basis.

In a statement, the industry body said that the entire electronics sector, especially the mobile phone industry, is encouraged with the amended rules notified in the IGCR rules to boost trade facilitation. ICEA Chairman Pankaj Mohindroo said: "We welcome the clarifications on end use manufacturing in the complex customs rules in the Budget 2021 amendments issued in February 2021. The recently notified CBIC circular will create the necessary confidence in industry and boost the ecosystem for electronics manufacturing." The amended rules have simplified the procedure which will boost manufacturing. ICEA's GST Taskforce &

Indirect Tax Committee Chairman Bibhash Deb, noting that the amendments would go a long way in the ease of doing business, however, suggested few more changes to the norms. "There are a couple of amendments that have been overlooked and should also be taken into consideration to benefit the manufacturing fraternity," Deb said.

He said that the timeline for re-export or clearance for home consumption needs to be extended to 12 months from the current six months.

Movement of goods from one plant to another should be allowed, as inter-unit transfer is extremely important for manufacturers as they have more than one manufacturing unit and on clearance of capital goods, the interest payable should not be included since the goods are cleared on depreciated value, Deb suggested.

He was also of the view that the "SION" norms for the goods imported under IGCR Rule should be defined.

High commodity prices to impact auto, consumer staple sectors

The adverse impact on auto, consumer, durables margins would be counterbalanced by an earnings uptick in the metals, cement, oil and gas sectors. The IT sector, which constitutes 15 per cent of the Nifty weight, is broadly insulated from commodity inflation.

Commodity prices have been an upswing of late amid the surge in Covid-19 cases, and this is likely to impact auto, consumer staples and durables sectors, according to a report by Motilal Oswal Financial Services.

The report noted that with the uncertainty in the demand environment, it would be difficult for companies to pass on the rise in commodity costs.

"The auto, consumer staples, and durables sectors would be highly impacted in such a scenario," it said.

In banking, it said that debt deleveraging by corporates has further impacted credit growth. As per the Motilal Oswal report, the uptick in inflation could signal the end of the monetary easing cycle, which has aided the steady decline in funding cost for the system, thus driving healthy margins. However, the adverse impact on auto, consumer, durables margins would be counterbalanced by an earnings uptick in the metals, cement, oil and gas sectors. The IT sector, which constitutes 15 per cent of the Nifty weight, is broadly insulated from commodity inflation.

"Earnings in the non-Nifty, non-commodity basket may be adversely impacted given the weak demand backdrop in the economy due to widespread lockdowns," it said.

Covid-19 has sparked innovation across consumer industries: Accenture Research

The Covid-19 pandemic has changed the way people live, work and socialise, accelerating demand for innovation, as retailers, consumer goods, and travel companies shift from reacting to the crisis to reinventing products and services, according to findings of a new global survey from Accenture.

people in 19 countries including more than 500 people in India, supports Accenture's previous findings that many changes in behaviour will likely be long-term.

"The past year has been a tough one for consumers and consumer-facing industries. Evolving consumer preferences and behaviours have led to huge demand fluctuation, making it imperative for consumer goods and retail companies to stay agile and resilient. As companies shift from reaction to reinvention, they need to harness digital's full potential across the value chain at speed and scale," said Anurag Gupta, managing director and lead - Strategy & Consulting, Accenture in India.

Covid-19 has led to compressed transformation, with companies simultaneously transforming multiple parts of the enterprise and reskilling people in what previously would have been longer-term step-by-step programmes. Many consumer-facing companies have re-platformed their businesses in the cloud, addressed cost pressures, and continued to build resilience and security, putting the infrastructure in place to enable innovation and position them for future success. Manish Gupta, managing director and lead for Products practice, Accenture in India said, "To succeed in a post-pandemic economy, companies need to digitally reinvent themselves and strategically invest in technology, people and supply chains. Adoption of digital technologies such as cloud, artificial intelligence, advanced analytics, combined with a well-defined purpose, can help companies to not only reach out to consumers in innovative ways but also adapt faster to the evolving market demands."

The pandemic forced a rapid shift to employees working from home, with many expressing that they want flexibility in how and where they work moving forward. More than 87% of respondents in India said they would like to occasionally work from a "third space" - a location other than their home or place of employment. This highlights a potential opportunity to grow revenue for the hospitality and retail industries.

The desire to work from a "third space" is accompanied by a shift in attitudes towards business travel. Nearly 57% of respondents in India said they have no business travel plans post-pandemic, or they intend to cut previous business travel by half. How long this view will hold firm remains to be seen, but the current outlook indicates that the return to travel will resume principally within the leisure market, pushing the industry to adapt and become even more efficient to make up for lost income.

Not only do people think some of their work habits and travel plans have likely permanently changed, many also think their shopping habits have evolved for the long haul. The latest research supports Accenture's previously released findings that the dramatic rise in e-commerce is likely to remain or accelerate further. For instance, the proportion of online purchases for products such as food, home decor, fashion, and luxury goods by previously infrequent e-commerce users - defined as those who used online channels for less than 25% of purchases prior to the outbreak - has increased 667% since the outbreak in India.

Madhuri said as a producer and director Yash Chopra was "very professional". "What I liked most about him was he would let the artistes free to do their bit. Kailash Kher: I laugh when I think of how much my voice had been rejected

Singer Kailash Kher is a household name today, but he looks back to recall his share of ups and downs during his early years in the music industry.

Kher says the music industry was headed by MBAs and corporates at the time he joined it, and he recalls how they would give an appointment after months of waiting, only to reject you instantly.

"India was changing 15 to 20 years back, and corporates and MBAs were deciding everything. You can come with degrees from London, Oxford or Stanford, but the practical world is different. They would make us wait for six months for an appointment. Then we would get a meeting and in that meeting they would say this kind of voice will not work," he tells IANS.

The singer says he would often be left dejected and would question who were they to decide what works and what doesn't.

"I used to think that they don't know about voice and voice culture, and they have a command to decide on which voice to select. It is for their satisfaction," he recalls.

However, he laughs when he looks back at the time because he would go on to become well known thanks to the voice they rejected.

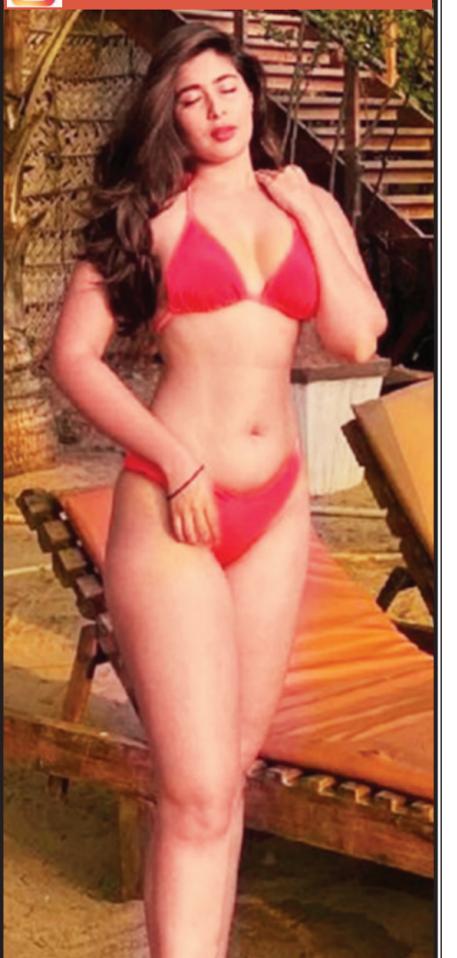

"But then when the same voice came, people said what a soulful voice, a divine voice! I laugh when I think of how much my voice had been rejected," he says.

The singer goes on to talk about the politics in the music industry.

"In films, too, there is politics, there are less songs but the supply is a lot. Where there is demand and supply, there is politics for sure. For example, they will make a newcomer sing a song but you get to know that the record company owner wants someone else to sing, and you are replaced. Actually, the way things should work is that if you have been called, whether you are old or new, and made to sing and they have praised you, that should have value. It should not be that after six months you get to know that someone else is singing. People make fun of you at home and in society," he says.

"For someone like me, this didn't matter, because I had not come to sing in films," concludes Kher, who is currently a mentor on the music reality show Indian Pro Music League.
