POST-PANDEMIC SPENDING SPIKE MADE HOUSEHOLD SAVINGS DIP TO 5-YR LOW IN 2021-22

SCOURGE OF INFLATION

A high rate of inflation hurts the poor, hits demand for consumer goods and adversely impacts investment demand. High inflation hits the poor people harder as their income is low and they are not able to afford regular consumer items. For savers, optically the interest income rise, but inflation being high, their purchasing power is adversely impacted.

▶ ACCORDING TO A CONSULTANCY FIRM, HIGH INFLATION HAS BEEN THE MAJOR REASON BEHIND FALL IN SAVINGS AND IN ORDER TO INCREASE INVESTMENTS, SAVINGS NEED TO BE ENCOURAGED.

▶ INDIAN HOUSEHOLDS ACCOUNT FOR ABOUT 60 PER CENT OF THE COUNTRY'S SAVINGS, BUT THIS IS FALLING GRADUALLY. LOWER DOMESTIC SAVINGS EXPOSES BORROWERS TO OVERSEAS MARKETS, WEAKENING INDIA'S EXTERNAL POSITION AND RAISING EXTERNAL DEBT.

▶ INDIA'S SAVINGS RATE HAD TOUCHED A 15-YEAR-LOW AS GROSS DOMESTIC SAVINGS STOOD AT 30.9 PER CENT OF GDP IN FY20, DOWN FROM A PEAK OF 34.6 PER CENT IN FY12.

▶ HOUSEHOLD SAVINGS FELL FROM 23 PER CENT OF GDP IN 2012 TO 18 PER CENT IN 2019.

NO SIGNS OF INFLATION COOLING, RATE HIKES PREDICTED

New Delhi: The Reserve Bank of India (RBI), during the last meeting of its monetary policy committee (MPC) on September 30, had hiked repo rates by 50 basis points for the fourth consecutive time since May.

As retail inflation in India continues to remain above the RBI's comfort zone for the past 10 months, analysts feel that more hikes are expected in future.

After four hikes, the RBI has now raised rates by a total 190 basis points since its first unscheduled mid-meeting increase in May. In this scenario, economists expect further hikes by the central bank.

cal years, it was 12 per cent.

Though initially during the lockdowns, people saved their funds, keeping in mind the possibilities of having to spend on healthcare, once the restrictions eased, they went on a spending spree, what economists termed as "revenge spending".

This led to depletion of their savings and a situation arose when spendings exceeded income and there were cases when despite having no jobs, expenditures rose, and savings bore the brunt of this excess or revenge spending, economists explained.

GOVT HIKED DEPOSIT RATES TO TAME INFLATION; BABY STEPS

New Delhi: Concerned over rising inflation, the government, aiming to tame price rise, had hiked interest rate for senior citizen savings scheme by 20 basis points from 7.4 per cent to 7.6 per cent on September 30 through a notification.

The interest rate for Kisan Vikas Patra is now 7 per cent for the maturity period of 123 months, compared to the earlier rate of 6.9 per cent for a maturity period of 124 months.

A three-year time deposit with post offices will now give 5.8 per cent interest compared to 5.5 per cent earlier. For a two-year time deposit, however, the rate hike was only 20 basis points from 5.5 per cent to 5.7 per cent.

Interest rates though were not changed for more popular schemes like Public Provident Fund (where the interest rate is 7.1 per cent), Sukanya Samridhi Yojana (7.6 per cent), savings deposits (4 per cent) and National Savings Certificate (6.8 per cent).

The rates of one-year and five-year term deposits were also kept unchanged at 5.5 per cent and 6.7 per cent, respectively.

All these hikes came into effect from October 1, 2022 and are valid till December 31, 2022. Experts point out that inflation cannot be controlled unless term deposit rates and rates of small savings schemes are not hiked. They add, however, that these are baby steps and these rates need to be hiked on a regular basis to bring about a semblance of sanity on rising inflation.

Team Absolute | New Delhi

In another bone chilling incident similar to the gruesome killing of Shraddha Walkar, the Crime Branch of Delhi Police has arrested a woman and her son for the killing of her husband, chopping his body into 10 pieces and dumping the remains in a New Ashok Nagar drain and near the Ramlila ground in Pandav Nagar.

According to the police, the murder occurred on May 30 and so far, six body parts have been recovered while a search is underway for the missing remains. The accused have been identified as Poonam and her son Deepak.

Sources said that after chopping Anjan Das's body, the duo had stored the body parts in their fridge and started gradually disposing them.

The police said that on June 5, after noticing a foul smell in the Ramlila ground, the police inspected the premises and recovered the human remains.

Yadav went on to say that after the police teams conducted door-to-door verification, the body was finally identified.

Poonam was narrowed down as a suspect after it was revealed that her husband was missing for the last 7 to 8 months and no complaint was also filed.

The CCTV cameras in the neighbourhood showed Deepak walking with a bag in his hand late at night. His mother Poonam was seen following him. They were captured in CCTV cameras several times while disposing off the body remains in plastic bags, said the police. Both were interrogated and they confessed to the crime.

"On interrogation, it was revealed that the mother and son had hatched a conspiracy to kill the victim in March and then on May 30, after giving him sleeping pills mixed in alcohol, the duo stabbed him to death with a knife and dagger, at several vital parts of the body, including the neck," said Yadav.

According to the police, Poonam alleged that her husband had illicit relations and was also eyeing Deepak's wife, adding that he even sold her jewellery.

"Poonam, a native of Bihar was first married to Sukdev Tiwari. However, Sukdev had come to Delhi. Poonam came looking for him but was not able to locate him. After some time, she married Kalu in Delhi and both had a son, Deepak. After Kalu died due to liver failure, she married Anjan Das in 2017," said Yadav. The victim, a resident of Kalyanpuri, used to work as a lift mechanic and had eight children back in Bihar.

'Kasab' jibe on Muslim student lands teacher in trouble

Bengaluru | Agencies

Following a public outcry and internet fury, an engineering college professor in Karnataka has been 'debarred from classes' and a probe ordered into the matter by college authorities, two days after he allegedly addressed one of his students, a Muslim, as 'Kasab' in the classroom. The controversy broke out after a 45-second video showing the student calling out the professor over being called a terrorist, went viral on social media.

The issue reportedly occurred in the Manipal Institute of Technology in Manipal on November 26, the anniversary of the 26/11 Mumbai terror attacks. "Being a Muslim and facing this everyday is not funny," the student can be heard saying angrily in the video which was seemingly recorded by another student in the class.

Even as the contrite professor tried to apologise and mollify him by saying he is like his son, the student refused to relent saying it wasn't funny.

Meanwhile, without divulging details but confirming that the said incident had taken place, the college authorities have said that action has been initiated in the matter.

"The concerned staff has been debarred from classes till the inquiry is over. We would like everybody to know that the institute does not condone this kind of behaviour and this isolated incident will be dealt with in accordance with the laid down policy," the Manipal Institute of Technology stated on Monday.

Shillong | Agencies

In a major political development, three sitting MLAs of Meghalaya, including two from the ruling National People's Party (NPP) resigned from their respective parties and the state assembly on Monday. They are likely to join the BJP soon.

NPP MLAs Benedict R. Marak and Ferlin C.A. Sangma and Trinamool Congress MLA H.M. Shangpliang submitted their resignation to Assembly Speaker, Metbah Lyngdoh.

The state would go to assembly polls along with two other northeastern states -- Tripura and Nagaland -- in February next year. Shangpliang, while talking to the media,

Assam's Dibrugarh University rusticates 18 students for ragging

Dibrugarh (Assam) | Agencies

The authorities at Assam's Dibrugarh University on Monday rusticated at least 18 students for their alleged role in ragging a student who eventually jumped off a two-storey building of the varsity hostel "to save himself from mental and physical harassment". The incident happened on Saturday evening. The harassment meted to the student -- identified as Anand Sharma, an M.Com first semester student, continued till Sunday morning. Sharma was later admitted to a hospital on Sunday afternoon.

The accused students have also been expelled from the university hostel. An FIR lodged by the Registrar of the university in the incident mentioned that Sharma was mentally and physically assaulted from 4.30 p.m. on Saturday at Padmanath Gohain Baruah hostel at the campus. The assault continued until 5 a.m. in the morning on Sunday.

An official of the Dibrugarh University said that at around 10.30 a.m. on Sunday, Anand Sharma, in the pretext of going to the bathroom, jumped off the B block of the hostel to save himself from the "extreme mental and physical torture". He sustained serious injuries.

"A few students of the hostel took him to a nearby hospital in critical condition. Later, the varsity authority shifted Sharma to another hospital for advanced treatment," the official added. The university authorities have named accused five in the FIR including a former student of the university in the alleged ragging incident.

Police have detained four accused in this case. But the alumnus Rahul Chetri is still absconding.

Sharma is a student in M.Com's first semester. He is undergoing treatment in ICU at a private hospital in Dibrugarh. The victim's mother Sarita Sharma said: "My son was mentally and physically tortured, forced to drink liquor. He was not allowed to take food. The seniors used to send him for bringing liquor for them. He told me earlier to leave the hostel... I insisted him to stay at the hostel as we cannot afford a rented house. But, I never imagined the such level of torture he was facing at the hostel. The seniors also threatened him not to complain anything to the authority."

However, she claimed that the family earlier lodged a complaint with the university administration but no steps were taken to stop these activities.

Meanwhile, the university students have staged a protest on Monday and demanded stern punishment to the accused students.

SHARMILA'S ARREST, ATTACK ON CONVOY TRIGGER TENSION

Hyderabad | Agencies

Attack on YSR Telangana Party (YSRTP) leader Y. S. Sharmila's convoy allegedly by the supporters of ruling Telangana Rashtra Samithi (TRS) and her subsequent arrest by the police triggered tension during her padyatra in Warangal district on Monday.

Police stopped Sharmila's padyatra and arrested her and YSRTP leaders and workers accompanying her in Chennaraopeta mandal.

YSRTP cadres tried to resist the arrests and raised slogans against the police and the TRS government. The police used mild force to control the situation.

Sharmila, sister of Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister Y. S. Jagan Mohan Reddy, was arrested after she allegedly made certain objectionable comments about TRS MLA P. Sudershan Reddy.

Sharmila wanted to know from police why were they taking her into custody instead of arresting those who attacked her bus.

YSRTP alleged that the bus which Sharmila is using to rest during her ongoing Praja Prasthanam padyatra was attacked and burnt down by the members of the ruling TRS party.

The mob also damaged cars belonging to YSR Telangana Party leaders. The incident happened near Lingagiri village, under Chennaraopeta mandal in Warangal district.

Sharmila was participating in the padyatra on 223rd day when a group of men chanting pro-TRS slogans and hailing KCR, reached the place where the caravan was halted and torched it.

"For the past 223 days, me and my Party leaders and representatives are holding a peaceful Padyatra to highlight the plight of various sections of people in Telangana. Our rising popularity has jolted Chief Minister KCR and his party men, who want to stop me at any cost," she said.

Daughter of former chief minister Y. S. Rajasekhara Reddy said that it is highly unfortunate that some police officers are siding with the ruling party and disrupting 'our efforts to reach the people and raise their issues.' The Praja Prasthanam padyatra has so far crossed 3,500 kms mark, covering 75 Assembly segments in the State. She has covered 1863 villages under 208 mandals and 61 Municipalities along with 4 Municipal Corporations, so far.

A woman died while her husband is fighting for his life after they were set afire by miscreants over a property dispute in Bihar's Begusarai district, an official said on Monday.

According to the official, the victim Sanjay Yadav has a property dispute with one Ramesh Yadav in the village Barihari under Chakia police station in the district.

"We were sitting inside our grocery shop on Sunday, when Ramesh Yadav, along with around half a dozen accomplices, came and doused us in petrol. I somehow rushed out and managed to pull my wife, but she lost consciousness due to severe burn injuries," said Sanjay Yadav.

The neighbours rushed them to the primary health centre in Chakia where the woman succumbed to her injuries.

Vizhinjam Adani Port issue: Situation under control

Team Absolute | Thiruvananthapuram

After tension gripped Vizhinjam port area following the fishermen community's protest against the Adani Group restarting work on a $900 million transhipment port, the situation on Monday eased with police releasing four of the five people it took into custody.

In protest against the police action on Sunday, the local fishing community led by the Latin Catholic Church went on a rampage and attacked the Vizhinjam police station and injured 35 police officials.

In the violence that hit the area, a damage of Rs 85 lakhs has been reported. An FIR against the Archbishop of the Latin Archdiocese of Thiruvananthapuram, Thomas J. Netto, naming him as the first accused had further escalated the tension.

Fifty priests, including Auxiliary Bishop, Christudas, and Vicar General, Eugene Pereria have also been named in the new FIR. Apart from this, the police also registered cases against 3,000 people. Senior priest Eugeine Pereria on Monday told the media that a judicial probe has to be done as some untoward things have now happened. "The protests were going on a peaceful note and suddenly there appears to be some external influences which led to all the acrimony. Priests and women who came to express solidarity with the protesters came under duress. A judicial probe is the need of the hour," said Pereria.

Dismissing the allegations, State Ports Minister Ahamed Devarkovil said the protesters give scant respect to the judiciary, which had asked the protesters to maintain calm and not to disrupt the ongoing works. "The state government has been very considerate and in the numerous talks that we have had with them, they came up with seven demands. We are unable to give them an assurance on one demand seeking free supply of kerosene as it comes from the Centre.

Another demand is they want the ongoing work in the port to be stopped. That's not possible at all," said the Minister. "The protesters are coming up with new demands every now and then with new demands adding to the confusion," he added. The port project was cleared and work began during the fag end of the Oommen Chandy government in 2011-16. When the Ockhi waves hit the port site in 2017, lot of damage was caused, throwing the work into a limbo.

3 GREEN CORRIDORS SET UP TO TRANSPORT ORGANS OF BHOPAL YOUTH

Team Absolute | Bhopal

The family members of a 25-year-old youth in Bhopal, who died in a road accident, has donated his organs which will give new lease of life to six persons.

The organs were sent to Indore and Ahmedabad, for which green corridors were set up from the Siddhanta Hospital to the Raja Bhoj Airport by Bhopal police on Monday afternoon.

The youth, Anmol Jain, met with a road accident in Bhopal on November 17 following which he was rushed to the Narmada Hospital in a critical state. Later he was shifted to Siddhanta Hospital, where the doctors declared him brain dead on Sunday after a week's treatment. Anshul Taran from Siddhanta Hospital said that Anmol had received injuries on his head and there was hardly 15 per cent chance of his survival. In the last seven days, the doctors tried their best but his condition continued to deteriorate. He could survive for one week despite multiple injuries because he was young and healthy.

"Being a doctor, I knew that there was very little chance of his survival because of the serious nature of his injuries. We knew that Anmol being a healthy person, his organs could give new lease of life to others. So I discussed the matter with the senior doctors of the hospital, who said it would be good if the parents agree to donate his body.

"After Anmol was declared brain dead, I spoke to Anmol's sister and she agreed with my thought. Then I spoke to Anmol's father, Abhishek Jain, who said if the organs are functional, they should be donated," said Taran, who happens to be a cousin of the deceased.

Subsequently, the process to donate organs was initiated, for which some mandatory procedures had to be followed. A request proposal was sent to Bhopal's organ society for fulfilling the procedures after which the operational process was done at Siddhanta Hospital on Monday.

According to Taran, Anmol's eyes were sent to Gandhi Medical College in Bhopal, while one of his kidneys was kept at Siddhanta Hospital. The second kidney was given to Chirayu Hospital in Bhopal. His liver was sent to Chirayu Hospital in Indore, while the heart was sent to SIMS hospital in Ahmedabad.

Notably, three green corridors were set up in the city for the timely transfer of the organs from the hospital. One green corridor was set up to Chirayu Hospital, and another corridor for Indore. One route was set up till Bhopal airport to send the organ to Ahmedabad. The deceased person's elder brother, Aditya Jain, said that it was Anmol's desire that his organs be donated. "We are proud that people will get a new lease of life because of our Anmol," Aditya said.

The Congress leader, however, said he would not want to create any controversy by making any comment on this particular issue, he said, and added, "What I can say is that both Ashok Gehlot and Sachin Pilot are assets for the Congress."

Notably, the Bharat Jodo Yatra, which is in Madhya Pradesh right now, will enter Rajasthan on December 4, as per the schedule. While responding to the Congress MLAs who shifted to the BJP that had resulted in the collapse of Kamal Nath government in 2020, Gandhi said they should not be given a place in the party again and are not trustable.

FIR BECAME A POLITICAL WEAPON FROM THE VIDEO OF BHARAT JODO YATRA

Team Absolute | Bhopal

An alleged video of former Congress National President Rahul Gandhi's Bharat Jodo Yatra passing through state has created a stir in politics and now FIR has become a political weapon. Congress and BJP have filed cases against each other. A video went viral on November 25 during Rahul Gandhi's BJY. Slogans of 'Pakistan Zindabad' were allegedly heard in this video. Now both the political parties Congress and BJP have come face to face regarding this video and reports have been lodged in the police station against the heads of each other's media department.

After the video went viral, the first report was lodged by the Congress in Raipur, the capital of Chhattisgarh. There, this report has been lodged by the Law Cell of the Congress, in which it has been said that BJP's media in-charge of MP Lokendra Parashar tried to provoke, conspire, incite riots by tampering with the video of Rahul Gandhi's Yatra. Parashar is accused of retweeting a doctored video in which the slogan of Pakistan Zindabad has been added.

On the one hand, while a complaint was lodged by the Congress against Parashar, in the police station, on the other hand, a case has been registered in Bhopal, against Congress' state media in-charge Piyush Babele and IT department head Abhay Tiwari were lodged.

BJP spokesperson Pankaj Chaturvedi and co-media in-charge Narendra Shivaji Patel have lodged this complaint with the crime branch, stating that Congress's Rahul Gandhi, Priyanka Gandhi, Kamal Nath and the entire Congress party have organized the Bharat Jodo Yatra in the entire country. Anti-national acts are being done and slogans of Pakistan Zindabad are being raised during the yatra so that the public peace of the country can be disturbed.

Political analysts believe that assembly elections are going to be held in the state next year and both the political parties realize that it is not very easy for them to win the next elections, so no one should hold back from trying political tactics.

The gang has also committed gold robberies in Dhanbad, Agra, Howrah and other places in the country, he said.

Giving the tribute to father of the Constitution, the Scheduled Castes Front of BJP organized a "Constitution Gaurav Yatra" on the occasion of Constitution Day. The march started from Baba Saheb Ambedkar's birthplace MHOW on Sunday morning and culminated at the BJP State Office, where CM attended the closing ceremony, where other leaders were also present. BJP Scheduled Caste Front's state minister and March coordinator, Baljit Singh Chauhan informed that the March was flagged off by sanitation workers from MHOW in the morning with about 800 workers and 200 cars. The procession, carrying a tableau of Baba Saheb Ambedkar writing the constitution, passed through Indore, Dewas and Sehore on the way finally culminating in Bhopal. Along with this, a beautiful picture of PM Modi saluting the Constitution was also the centre of attraction in the yatra with a pancharth of Baba Saheb Ambedkar and many other works shown by the central government.

He added that the rally was organized to create the awareness among people about the Indian Constitution, which governs the Indian democracy and educated them that it is the holy scripture of the world's largest democracy.

BJP State President VD Sharma said, "Constitution Day is a very important day for all of us and Constitution Gaurav Yatra shows the respect, youth have towards the Constitution and Babasaheb Ambedkar.

One gets goosebumps thinking about the incidents, Babasaheb Ambedkar passed through. Not only India remembers Babasaheb, but the whole world praises him. Babasaheb, after facing so much disdain in the society, firmly decided to end this discrimination in the society. The copy of constitution clearly shows the big heart and mind of Babasaheb. Today, if the credit for India's unity and integrity goes to anyone, it is Babasaheb."

MP FOREST MINISTER'S AFRICA TOUR BEFORE CHEETAH TRANSLOCATION UNDER SCANNER

Team Absolute | Bhopal

Nearly three months after eight cheetahs were successfully transported from Namibia and released by Prime Minister Narendra Modi on his birthday (September 17) at Kuno National Park (KNP) in Sheopur district, a controversy has arisen over a tour by state forest minister Kunwar Vijay Shah and two senior officials to Tanzania and South Africa in August. The project translocation of cheetahs, which was processed and completed under the supervision of the Centre, but, state forest minister Kunwar Vijay Shah and two senior officials' Tanzania (East Africa) and South Africa tour in August (around one month before eight the cheetahs were transported from Namibia) still remains a puzzle here in Madhya Pradesh. Vijay Shah was accompanied by senior forest department officials, including chief of forest -- R.K. Gupta, Principal Chief Conservator of Forest, and Shubhranjan Sen, Additional Principal Chief Conservator of Forests of Madhya Pradesh.

A Right to Information (RTI) reply available revealed that the 10-day long study tour has cost Rs 35 lakh to the state government, which was more than double from an estimated amount for the same tour. Documents revealed that the proposal for study tour was made in April and had estimated that it would cost around Rs 15 lakh. Out of total expenses (around Rs 35 lakh) on so-called study tour, Rs 31,71,500 were spent on air tickets, accommodation and local visiting.

Madhya Pradesh based wildlife activist Ajay Dube claimed he sought the details of the 'study report'. "If it was a study tour, then why that study report was not made public domain, the first question arises? Dube said.

Dube further said, "Besides all these, this tour is also questionable because translocation of cheetahs was the Centre sponsored project with Indian Oil funds under CSR (corporate social responsibility). And, more importantly, the Supreme Court (SC) is monitoring this project. They (MP government) claimed it was a tourism project tour, then questions arise, why even after 90 days of the visit, no development took place on translocation of African cheetahs. It was against the SC's guidelines for the cheetah translocation project and I am going to file a petition in the issue," Ajay Dube added.

He further claimed that the MP government has no role in this cheetahs translocation project, except that cheetahs were released at Kuno National Park, then why MP's forest minister and officials were on study tour in Africa? "If they really did some study, then that study report should be in the public domain," Dube asked.

Contrary to that, Principal Chief Conservator of Forest, R.K. Gupta, who was one of the officials on the study tour with MP forest minister Shah, while talking he claimed that the study report has already been submitted to Madhya Pradesh Wildlife Society. "It was a study tour and the study report was submitted within one or two weeks after coming from Africa. It is a mandatory procedure to follow and it was done," Gupta added. Reporter also tried to seek a reply from MP Forest Minister Kunwar Vijay Shah on this matter; however, calls were not answered.

PRESIDENT RAISES ISSUE OF OVERCROWDING IN PRISONS

President Droupadi Murmu on Saturday raised the issue of overcrowding in prisons and emphasised that there is a need to do something for the poor people in jails. "It is said that jails are getting overcrowded and there is a need to set up more jails," the President said. "Are we moving towards development? What is the need to set up more jails? We need to reduce their numbers. Poor people incarcerated for many years for petty crimes need help," Murmu said. She pointed out that people are even jailed for slapping somebody or for some other minor offence, while there are people who do many things, even kill others, but are roaming free. The event was attended by the Chief Justice of India, D.Y. Chandrachud, Law Minister Kiren Rijiju, Attorney General of India R. Venkataramani, Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, judges of the Supreme Court and members of the Bar. The President emphasised that there are poor people in the prisons and there is a need to do something for them. "You need to do something for these people. Who are these people in jail? They do not know the fundamental rights or the fundamental duties," Murmu said, as she recommended decongesting the jails. The President said that people do not act to release their family members, who are languishing in jails, as they feel that they would have to sell their utensils and property. The President said the legislature, the executive and the judiciary need to have "one thinking" for the country and its people, adding that checks and balances need to be there, but somewhere "we need to work together". "Our job is to think about people (poor undertrials languishing in jails). We all have to think and come out with some way... I am leaving it all on you," she said.

BIS MOVES IN ON FRAUD PRODUCT REVIEWS: MUST INCLUDE FILMS

Vinod Mirani

You want to buy some product and when you visit its website, there are a number of reviews related to it, mostly adorned with four or five stars. Do you trust the four or five stars? How do you know if these reviews and stars are genuine? You don't, you have no way of knowing if they represent genuine feedback about the product. Also, you have no way of finding out if the people who posted the reviews really exist or have been created for the job, or have a vested interest in the product. In the good old days, when there was no internet, you went to your trusted vendor in the bazaar to buy what you wanted. Local traders and vendors built a reputation and repeat customers were his five-star ratings. Now you love to buy online, sitting in the comfort of your home. Also, in the good old fashion days, if a newspaper or a magazine published an article promoting a product, a professional person, a service provider, just about anything the publication did not endorse, the page carried a disclaimer with the four letters ADVT in one corner of the material published. The Bureau of Indian Standards (BIS) wants a similar system to be in place in e-commerce businesses. Rarely do you find the letters ADVT in most publications plugging a product or service, except a few that still have a conscience as well as the interest of readers in mind. Most of them let it pass off as part of the editorial content. The reason is that there are no regular checks on what thousands of print publications and online portals carry, and with the volume of social media platforms, tracking has become well nigh impossible. Actually, the burden of bringing frauds or misinformation to light is on the public, especially the aggrieved ones who grumble about fraud but never report it. Certain influential and affluent publishing houses have devised special sections to accommodate, promote and cash in on those products that need unabashed paid plugs or promotions. The sections are so named that if you are smart enough, you are not expected to take the matter printed in them seriously. They are called advertorials or promotional sections. Looks like the Bureau of Indian Standards (BIS) has caught up with these fraudulent practices carried out blatantly without any fear of action. And the Bureau is not wasting time implementing its decision to bring order to this exploitation of the consumer. Starting November 25, all those promoting or sponsoring a product or a service against payment will have to describe it as such. Portals that offer food delivery, travel or ticketing services will no longer be able to publish paid reviews about their product or service and, in case it is done, such reviews will have to carry a disclosure of being a paid review. Not complying with the BIS directives will invite action against the Consumer Protection Act. How does this move by the BIS matter to the film industry? The BIS' move to stop such fraudulent acts include fake reviews by independent third-party entities. This is what happens on a regular basis, unabashedly, in the case of film reviews posted on social media. The one who posts false reports, reviews and box-office collection numbers does not need to apply his mind. He simply posts what is drafted by the PR person concerned. Some film critics have become touts of filmmakers and the deal is that their posts in favour of a film earns them a few thousand. This is a grand fraud played on the moviegoer who falls prey to the publicity, not knowing that they are paid reviews.

Though the frauds regarding paid movie reviews are not mentioned specifically, I am sure the definition of fraudulent reviews and posts on e-commerce platforms and social media also covers this aspect. After all, a movie is a consumer product and a fraud is a fraud anywhere.

No Joyride For Joyland

Many years ago, a prominent daily newspaper carried a column where For and Against views were sought from two sides. The theme was whether India and Pakistan should get into a joint venture to produce films. Not strangely, as things work in our profession, the side I chose was already committed to the Pakistani representative, a lady filmmaker. I was left to debate against her point of view which was that India should enter into joint ventures to produce films with Pakistan. Why? My stand was that the Indian film industry was thriving and had no need for a Pakistani co-production. Also, it was not our job to promote or prop up the Pakistani film industry with joint productions. For most of its life, the Pakistani cinema chains have survived on Indian films when they are not banned in Pakistan off and on. So, by promoting the Pakistani film industry, should we compromise our own interests? My final summation was that if Pakistani filmmakers really wanted to join hands, they had better start with their counterparts in our Punjab. After all, Punjabi is a language spoken on both sides. Also, our Punjabi industry was comatose in those days, and both made loud and crude films. Pakistan still makes such crude films full of gore and violence and they are lapped up by the audience. Imagine, 'The Legend Of Maula Jatt', a remake of the 1979 film, 'Maula Jatt', was the biggest Pakistani hit in Pakistan as well as in the overseas market, where it is matching the box-office figures of Indian films such as 'RRR'. If the original was a huge hit, the 2022 version is even a bigger hit. No wonder, in that country, a contemporary new film, 'Joyland', has to struggle even to get a decent release. The film is about a married man falling in love with a transgender dancer.

Pakistan is not ready for such a theme. To think that the film has won awards at various international festivals and is Pakistan's nomination for the Oscars does not help. The film has fallen prey first to the fear of mullahs and now to politics. A mutilated version (thanks to the Censors in Pakistan) has been released in all provinces except Punjab, which is controlled by the PTI (Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf) headed by the country's deposed Prime Minister, Imran Khan. Whereas India has one censor certification authority with regional offices serving the other language film industries, Pakistan has five, each independent of the other. Pakistan is no country for creativity and it had better stick to making 'Maula Jatt' kind of films. Because the audience there still loves what it loved in 1979. Malala Yousafzai has lent her name to 'Joyland' and while Pakistan is proud to have a Nobel Prize winner of Pakistani origin, her endorsement of the film carries no weight.

'A4 REVOLUTION' IN CHINA

BLANK SHEETS OF PAPER HAVE BECOME ICONIC IN PROTESTS

Beijing | Agencies
Blank sheets of paper have become an iconic item during the protests, which many now refer to as "white paper revolution", "blank sheet revolution" or "A4 revolution", as per reports. During various demonstrations across the country, people were seen holding a blank sheet of paper. Some say it's a way to avoid censorship. In a viral video said to be from Saturday, a woman in the Communication University of Nanjing held a blank piece of paper before an unidentified man took it away, BBC reported. In another video from last that night, dozens of more students were seen on the campus holding pieces of white paper, standing in silence. Similar scenes occurred in other major cities over the weekend. "There was definitely nothing on the paper, but we know what's on there," a woman who participated at protests in Shanghai on Saturday night told the BBC. Paper maker Shanghai M&G Stationary has denied rumours that it has taken all A4 papers off shelves for national security reasons. Blank pieces of paper have become a symbol of defiance for protesters in China, especially among students at uni-

Zelensky warns against new Russian strikes

Kiev | Agencies
After last week's large-scale Russian attack that disconnected Ukraine's all four nuclear power plants and other major power facilities from the grid, President Volodymyr Zelensky warned that Moscow is "preparing new strikes" and the coming days "may be difficult". In his nightly video address to the nation on Sunday, he said: "We understand that terrorists are preparing new strikes and as long as they have missiles, they won't stop." The upcoming week can be as hard as the one that passes. Our Defence Forces are preparing. The whole state is preparing. We work out all scenarios, including with partners. "Zelensky also urged the people to "please pay attention to the air alerts during the week". He further as of Sunday evening, most regions in Ukraine were having only rolling power cuts, adding that "the situation is under the control of the energy authorities". The President noted that the situation at the front remains "very difficult", especially in the Donetsk region. The latest warning comes days after Russia launched another large-scale missile attack on Ukraine's critical infrastructure on November 23, which also led to the deaths of 10 people. Ukraine's anti-aircraft defence systems shot down 51 out of 70 Russian cruise missiles and five kamikaze drones, Ukrayinska Pravda reported. The attack resulted in temporary power outages at all nuclear power plants and most thermal and hydroelectric power plants, while power transmission facilities were also damaged. Due to the widespread power outage, water and heat supply to households was also interrupted. The continued Russian attacks have damaged almost half of Ukraine's energy system and millions of people are without power as temperatures drop for winter. Blackouts, both scheduled and unscheduled, have become common in many parts of Ukraine, as Russia aims regular waves of missile attacks at parts of the energy infrastructure. At least seven people were killed and more than 20 million others were left without electricity on November 8 when Russia carried out over a 100 missile strikes in what is believed to be Moscow's biggest wave of missile strikes since the invasion began on February 24.

AUS FACING DISASTROUS SUMMER OF EXTREME WEATHER EVENTS

Canberra: Australia's climate council on Monday warned that the nation is facing a disastrous summer of extreme weather events. In a report, the council and Emergency Leaders for Climate Action (ELCA) identified floods, cyclones and outbreaks of the mosquito-borne Japanese encephalitis virus as major risks faced by Australians through the summer, reports Xinhua news agency. The report said climate change has rendered Australia's disaster planning not fit for purpose, calling for a boost in resilience funding and a national disaster strategy. "There is nothing natural about these disasters, they are being unleashed on Australians by decades of reliance on fossil fuels," Lesley Hughes, a leading climate scientist and author of the report, told local media. "These same companies are enjoying billions in public subsidies. It's high time we end fossil fuel subsidies and use the savings to create a climate disaster fund so we can help communities deal with the fallout of compounding and worsening disasters," said Lesley. Most of Australia has received higher than average rainfall in 2022 due to a La Nina event while the country is not expecting a severe bushfire season. However, wet weather has created ideal breeding conditions for mosquitoes and not allowed the east coast to recover from catastrophic flooding through winter and spring. The report found that weather-related disasters cost Australia A$35 billion in the 2010s, more than the previous two decades combined. Disasters have cost the state of Queensland more than A$30 billion since 1970, significantly more than any other state or territory.

Seoul | Agencies
South Korea on Monday approved a mass production plan for light armed helicopters (LAH) to replace decrepit choppers, the country's arms procurement agency said. The 5.75-trillion-won ($4.3 billion) plan was endorsed to produce the homegrown LAH from 2022 through 2031, Xinhua news agency reported, citing the Defense Acquisition Program Administration (DAPA). The domestically-developed LAH will replace the military's aging fleet of 500MD and AH-1S Cobra attack helicopters. According to Yonhap news agency, the DAPA would sign a deal with Korea Aerospace Industries Co., South Korea's sole aircraft manufacturer, later this year for the mass production that is likely to begin early next year. The first batch of the LAH could be deployed in late 2024, Yonhap reported citing an unnamed DAPA official. Plans were also approved to locally develop a 130 mm guided-rocket system from 2022 to 2033 and a 155 mm precision-guided artillery munition from 2024 to 2036. A 3.3-trillion-won (2.5 billion dollars) plan was also endorsed to purchase heavy attack helicopters from abroad from 2023 to 2028.

Syria retrieves 35,000 stolen artifacts during 11-yr war: Official

Damascus | Agencies
Around 35,000 stolen Syrian artifacts have been retrieved by the authorities since the beginning of the 11-year war in Syria, an antiquities official. Firas Dadoukh, Director of Cultural Relations and Head of the Professional Development Department at the Directorate of Antiquities and Museums, on Sunday said that the retrieved artifacts have been restored with the help of local communities and relevant authorities. Speaking at the sideline of an exhibition of recovered archaeological treasures at the Syrian national museum, Dadoukh added that a large portion of the retrieved pieces have already gone through a process of identification -- calculating the age of each piece and validating its authenticity -- before going through a rehabilitation work to prepare it for display at the museum, Xinhua news agency reported. Laila Al-Sammak, the curator of the Museum of Ancient Syrian Antiquities, told Xinhua that most of the plundered pieces belong to the northern region, particularly in areas controlled by the rebels. She said that the Syrian army has managed to confiscate many pieces and prevented their smuggling outside the country. "In fact, the war on Syria was a war on the Syrian heritage in order to destroy the Syrian identity, which is known for its originality and greatness," she added. The exhibition of the retrieved treasures will last for two months from November 24.

CLAIMING 'MISINTERPRETATION', CHASTENED RAMDEV REPENTS SLUR ON WOMEN

Team Absolute | Mumbai

Three days after his sexist comments on women ignited a massive row, Yoga guru, Swami Ramdev tamerly expressed regrets and apologised for his remarks, officials said here on Monday. Ramdev has sent an email to this effect to the Maharashtra State Commission for Women Chairperson Rupali Chakankar, in response to her missive of Friday demanding an explanation for his utterances within 72 hours. Confirming the development, the MSCW head informed that Ramdev has sent the response to her, expressing both regrets and tendering an apology, but also claiming that his remarks were allegedly twisted out of context.

gathering, largely comprising females: "Women look good in saris, they look great in salwar suits and in my view, they look good even if they don't wear anything."

The blatant statements rocked the state with calls to "slap, kick, tonsure" Ramdev and threats to storm his next programme, from various quarters in Maharashtra and other parts of India. Furious senior leaders of various parties, including Sanjay Raut, Dr. Manisha Kayande, Kishore Tiwari, Mahesh Tapase, farmers, feminists or women activists like Trupti Desai, Aparna Malikar, and others pounced on Ramdev, seeking an unconditional apology, booking him for degrading womenfolk and other demands, even as the MSCW slapped a notice. In his reply to the MSCW within the deadline period, Ramdev contended he has not flouted any rules of the state panel, and has always campaigned at the global level to help women get dignity and equality in all spheres. "I have also supported, encouraged various policies of the government like 'Beti Bachao, Beti Padhao', and worked with several organisations to strengthen these initiatives. I categorically state that I have not insulted any women nor had any intentions to do so," Ramdev wrote.

He added that the (Thane) programme was themed for women's empowerment but video clips of his comments of a few seconds from the hour-long speech were purportedly 'twisted' out of context to convey a wrong impression.

"I have the highest regards for Mother and mother-power... The comment on attire was meant for 'simple clothes'. If it has hurt anybody's sentiments, I deeply regret the same. I also apologise to them for causing any distress," said Ramdev. MSCW officials hinted that it would treat the matter as 'closed' but if they received any fresh complaints against the Yoga guru, the women's panel would not hesitate to launch a full-fledged investigation.

Stop maligning national icons, MNS chief Raj Thackeray tells Congress and BJP

Team Absolute | Mumbai

Maharashtra Navnirman Sena (MNS) president Raj Thackeray asked the Congress and BJP to stop maligning national icons like V D Savarkar and Jawaharlal Nehru and instead focus on important issues facing the country. Addressing party workers at a convention here, Thackeray said criticising national heroes who fought for Independence was unwarranted as everyone has "positive and negative aspects".

"Does Rahul Gandhi have the stature to talk ill about Savarkar who was sentenced to 50 years of rigorous imprisonment? There is something called strategy to come out of prison. How can it be termed as surrender or mercy? He asked. Gandhi had stoked a row by claiming Savarkar had written mercy petitions to the British from the Andaman cellular jail. "The BJP has been maligning Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru and this should stop. There are important issues facing the country which should be addressed to. You will not benefit by criticising national heroes who had fought for Independence. Everyone has positive and negative aspects. There is no need to highlight the negative side now," the MNS chief said.

Meanwhile, the Congress hit back at Thackeray saying the people have lost faith in him as he keeps changing his political stand.

Thackeray also criticised Maharashtra Governor Bhagat Singh Koshiyari over his remarks about Chhatrapati Shivaji and accused him of being "anti-Marathi" who insulted the 17th Century king.

Mumbai Congress president Bhai Jagtap said, "Thackeray had no right to criticise Rahul Gandhi. Forget India, Thackeray may not have seen the whole of Maharashtra. MNS as a political party is finished. He (Thackeray) mimicked Rahul in his speech, but he (Thackeray) is giving a voice over in movies these days. The MNS chief was upset at the huge response Rahul Gandhi's Yatra".

MAHARASHTRA-KARNATAKA BORDER ROW

COORDINATING MINISTERS TO VISIT BELGAUM ON DEC 3, HOLD TALKS

Team Absolute | Mumbai

Maharashtra ministers Chandrakant Patil and Shambhuraj Desai will meet activists of the Madhyavarti Maharashtra Ekikaran Samiti in Belgaum on December 3 and hold talks with them on the decades-old border dispute with Karnataka.

Patil and Desai have been appointed as the coordinating ministers for the border row with a mandate to coordinate with the legal team regarding the court case on the border dispute between the two states. Taking to Twitter, Patil said there was a demand from the Madhyavarti Maharashtra Ekikaran Samiti to hold discussions on the border issue.

Accordingly, coordinating Minister Shambhuraj Desai and I will visit Belgaum on December 3 and hold discussions. Let's meet up.

Discussions surely will lead to a way; the minister tweeted with a letter from the Samiti seeking a meeting with him and Desai.

As per a recent government resolution, the ministers will be responsible for coordination with the Samiti that roots for merging of the Marathi-speaking areas in Karnataka with the state.

Patil and Desai will also look into the problems faced by residents of 865 villages in Karnataka over which the Maharashtra government has staked its claim in this decades old issue, the resolution said.

Patil is a senior state BJP leader, while Desai is a member of the Balasahebanchi Shiv Sena faction of the Shiv Sena. Both hail from western Maharashtra.

This is a fight for Maharashtra's pride, says Aaditya Thackeray

Mumbai: Wading into the Maharashtra-Karnataka border row, Yuva Sena chief and former state minister Aaditya Thackeray dubbed the Karnataka chief minister's remarks as a "scripted move". This, he said, was done to divert public ire from the controversy sparked by the recent remarks on Maratha King Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj made by Maharashtra Governor Bhagat Singh Koshiyari and BJP spokesperson Sudhanshu Trivedi. Thackeray Junior, speaking at a party function in Borivli on Saturday, said that one should see the timing of a statement made by Karnataka Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai claiming rights on a few villages from Maharashtra's Sangli and Solapur districts. "Recently a BJP leader [Trivedi] and Maharashtra governor made derogatory remarks against Maratha King Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj.

Admirers and followers of the great Maratha King in Maharashtra and across the globe are upset with such derogatory statements. Aware of escalating public ire on this issue, a section of people have consciously raked up Maharashtra-Karnataka border row to divert the public attention from the controversy over Shivaji Maharaj remarks," Thackeray said. The issues, however, served as an opportunity to corner the Shinde-Fadnis government. In view of this, Aaditya Thackeray urged all political parties to oppose the derogatory remarks against the Maratha warrior as well as Karnataka CM's claim. "Both the issues-insulting our idol and territorial claims made by the Karnataka CM-are against Maharashtra. All should come together as this fight is about Maharashtra's pride," said the grandson of late Sena founder Bal Thackeray.

NMMC CUTS 850 ILLEGAL WATER CONNECTIONS

Team Absolute | Mumbai

The Navi Mumbai Municipal Corporation has been cracking down on unauthorised water connections. The civic body has cut around 850 such connections this month and has launched a survey of housing societies that are consuming more water than required. According to a civic official, there were complaints of low-pressure water supply in some parts of the city. "When our officials visited these areas, they found some illegal connections. Subsequently, the NMMC cut nearly 850 of them," he stated. Sanjay Desai, city engineer of NMMC, said action would also be taken in societies where water is misused. The civic authority has warned 700 housing societies that are allegedly misusing or consuming extra water. The official said, "At some places, we found booster pumps and that most of the societies were using potable water for gardening and washing cars. We have warned them that if they do not stop wasting potable water, we will make their water bills steeper. "Water is supplied to Navi Mumbai residents at the rate of Rs 4.35 per thousand litres. NMMC officials and staff visited Vashi, Turbhe, Kopar Khairane, Ghansoli and Airoli. They found unauthorised connections mainly in gaothans and slums. Eighty booster pumps have been seized. Sanjay Gurav, a Mumbai-based civic activist, said, "All municipal corporations should take strict action against the wastage of water. There is always a shortage of water in South Mumbai's chawls. However, water is being wasted in many parts of Mumbai. The situation is similar in other cities. Therefore, all civic authorities should take this kind of action."

Money laundering case: Special court grants bail to ex-Maha minister Anil Deshmukh's son

Mumbai | Agencies

Former Maharashtra Home Minister Anil Deshmukh's son Hrishikesh Deshmukh on Monday appeared before a special court here in connection with a money laundering case and was granted bail.

A special court designated to hear cases related to the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) recorded his appearance and then granted him bail. The court had in February this year issued summons to Hrishikesh after the Enforcement Directorate (ED) submitted its complaint (chargesheet) in the case.

Hrishikesh was arraigned as an accused in the chargesheet. After appearing before the court, Hrishikesh filed an application through his advocate Aniket Nikam requesting the court to accept his appearance and grant him bail.

In his application, Hrishikesh pointed out that the accusations in the ED's case were confined to the alleged acts of omission and commission by his father in his capacity as the then home minister from January 2020 to April 2021.

The plea cited that Anil Deshmukh had already been granted bail in the case by the Bombay High Court. The ED began its probe against Anil Deshmukh after the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) registered a case against him over allegations of extortion made by former Mumbai police commissioner Param Bir Singh. The probe agency claimed that the former minister had misused his official position and collected Rs 4.70 crore from various bars and restaurants in Mumbai.

The money was channelled to Nagpur-based Shri Sai Shikshan Sansthan, an educational trust controlled by the Deshmukh family, it alleged.

Although Anil Deshmukh has been granted bail in this case, he continues to remain in jail in the case lodged against him by the CBI on corruption charges.

Los Angeles | Agencies

Hollywood star Nicole Kidman received a warm welcome on Broadway Saturday evening when she made an appearance at a performance of Hugh Jackman's 'The Music Man' revival.

During an auction for the charity Broadway Cares/Equity Fights AIDS, Kidman made her presence known when she bid a hefty sum of $100,000 for a hat signed by Jackman, reports.

Jackman shared a video of the meeting on Twitter, thanking his fellow Australian thespian for her support.

"I love you. I love Broadway. And I love what they do, Broadway Cares, but I also want to say this show is extraordinary," Kidman said, taking the microphone after approaching the stage at the Winter Garden Theatre.

"I've known Nic for almost 30 years. I've worked with her. I can tell you this is not a surprise to me. She is one of the most generous souls I know," Jackman said. "You're a beautiful person. I love you. Thank you."

According to the reports, Kidman's shouted bid of $100,000 drew an enthused response from the crowd, leading Jackman to joke "I just want to be clear, this is not Australian dollars." (Under current conversion rates, Kidman's bid amounts to $148,744 Australian dollars.)

The 'Music Man' cast had been raising funds for Broadway Cares/Equity Fights AIDS at the conclusion of recent performances.

"Ms Kidman's remarkable support of Broadway Cares/Equity Fights AIDS on Saturday night was wonderful to see and her extraordinary generosity will be deeply appreciated by the entire Broadway community," Kate Horton, producer of 'The Music Man', shared in a statement.

"Donations made at 'The Music Man', all across Broadway, Off-Broadway and at national touring productions will provide meals and medication, health care and hope this holiday season," Viola noted.

Emma Corrin bats for gender-neutral award categories

Los Angeles | Agencies

English actress Emma Corrin, who played Diana Frances Spencer, Princess of Wales in Season 4 of the streaming series 'The Crown', has called for genderless categories at major entertainment awards shows, as per the reports. The actress shared the above sentiment in an interview. In particular, Corrin, who identifies as non-binary as she uses they/them pronouns, noted that nominations for best actor and best actress should be merged into one, gender-neutral category. According to reports, Corrin has earned praise for their supporting performance in Michael Grandage's new period drama 'My Policeman' but the actress shares that they feel discomfort at the prospect of campaigning in a gendered category. "It's difficult for me at the moment trying to justify in my head being non-binary and being nominated in female categories," Corrin told a news channel. "When it comes to categories, do we need to make it specific as to whether you're being nominated for a female role or a male role?"

"I hope for a future in which that happens," Corrin continued, speaking on the prospect of gender-neutral categories. "It's about everyone being able to feel acknowledged and represented." Source adds that Corrin received an Emmy nomination last year on 'The Crown' for outstanding lead actress, though that came while the actor was still accepting she/her pronouns. "You can discuss awards and the representation there, but really the conversation needs to be about having more representation in the material itself, in the content that we are seeing for non-binary people, for queer people, for trans people, because then I think that will change a lot," Corrin said. She added: "When those parts come up, meaning more people and more actors are playing those roles, then I think there will be more of an urgency with which these questions will be addressed."

Dwayne Johnson convinced makers to onboard Henry Cavill

Los Angeles | Agencies

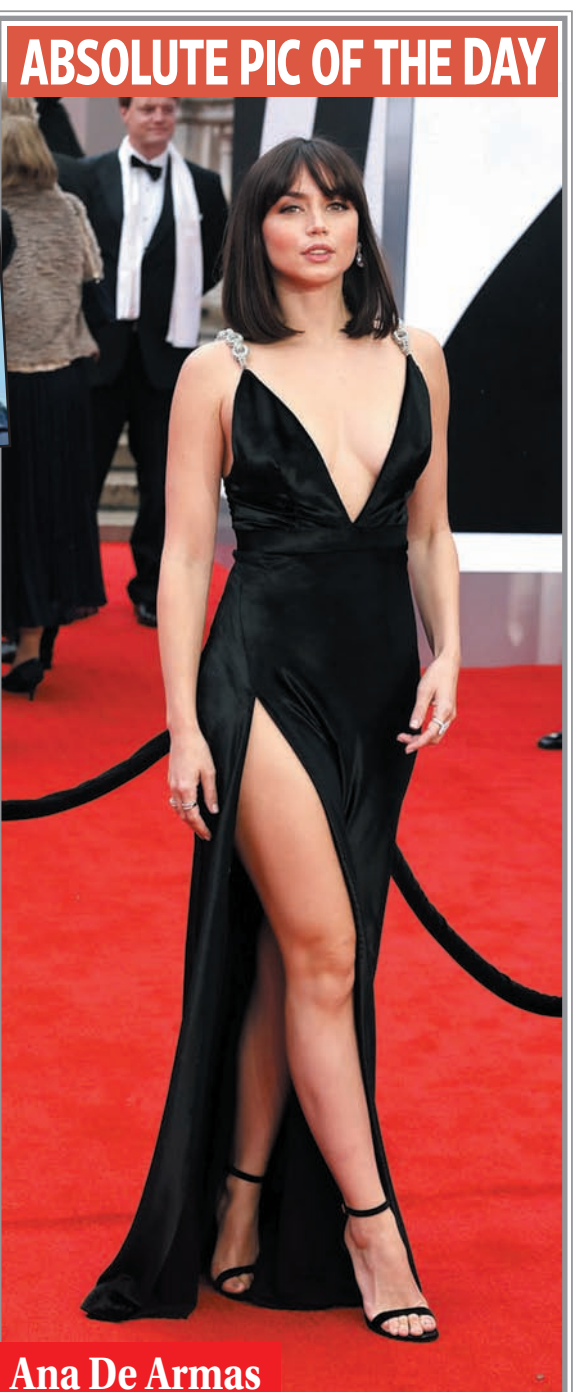

Dwayne Johnson, who is celebrating the success of 'Black Adam', fought hard for Henry Cavill's cameo as Superman as Warner Bros was not initially keen on bringing back the actor. In a video posted on Twitter, the DC star said that he wanted to establish 'Black Adam' "as the most powerful, unstoppable force in the DC universe," reports. To manage the latter, Johnson said: "We have to bring back the most powerful, unstoppable force of all time in any universe. And you guys know who I'm talking about? Of course, that is Superman. And that's Henry Cavill." According to the reports, Johnson then revealed that the studio "inexplicably and inexcusably" did not want to bring back Cavill but he was not going to take no for an answer and his team got to work. "This has been years in the making regarding bringing Henry Cavill back and years of strategic conversations and we were not going to take no for an answer," he said. "There was no way, there's no viable logical way that you can attempt to build out the DC Universe without the most powerful force and the greatest superhero of all time sitting on the sidelines. It's impossible to do," he added. Johnson continued: "It all comes back to where Superman you have to have Superman in the mix. So that's why we fought hard to bring Superman back, Henry Cavill, and there was no other Superman, by the way, to bring back Henry Cavill is our generation Superman and in my opinion, the greatest Superman. And I mean that respectfully to the other actors, especially Christopher Reeve, but the greatest Superman of all time." Reports notes that with Cavill back in the DC Universe, the 'Black Adam' star said that they can "now build out the DC Universe, properly, strategically and smartly." Johnson also pointed out that since the film came out, the "hierarchy of power in the DC Universe has changed and, of course, now we have new leadership at DC and at Warner Bros."

GHANA BEAT SOUTH KOREA 3-2 IN A THRILLER

Doha | Agencies

Defender Mohammed Salisu and midfielder Mohammed Kudus gave Ghana a surprise 2-0 lead over South Korea at halftime in Monday's Group H match as the African nation bid to keep their World Cup hopes alive. Against the run of play, Ghana went ahead in the 24th minute when Salisu struck from close range after South Korea failed to clear a free kick and 10 minutes later Kudus doubled the lead with a glancing header. South Korea pulled one back. Cho had to tweak his body low to head the ball into the Ghana net just before a defender's boot was about to clear it away in the 58th min. Valiant effort. Another goal for Cho Gue-Sung in the 61st min. This time Cho headed home a high ball from the edge of the six yard box into the back of the Ghana net.

Kudus doubled the lead for Ghana with a fine header from close range. Jordan Ayew whipped a delightful cross from the left into the South Korea penalty area and Kudus got the faintest of touches with his forehead on the edge of the six-yard box to guide the ball into the Korea net in the 34th min.

Salisu broke the deadlock at Education City stadium to give Ghana the lead in the 24th minute.

CAMEROON RALLY TO HOLD SERBIA IN SIX-GOAL THRILLER

Doha (Qatar) Cameroon came back from a two-goal deficit to force a 3-3 draw with Serbia in a FIFA World Cup Group G thriller at the Al Janoub Stadium here on Monday. With the draw, arguably the most exciting game of the World Cup in Qatar so far, Cameroon kept their hopes alive of reaching the World Cup last 16 Stage.

Jean-Charles Castelot opened the scoring in the 29th minute for Cameroon. Thereafter, two quick goals from Strahinja Pavlovic and Sergej Milinkovic-Savic just before the break, in injury stoppage time, saw Serbia head into half-time with a 2-1 lead. Mitrovic then added a third in the 53rd minute as Serbia appeared to be cruising to victory with a 3-1 lead against their name.

But Cameroon had other ideas and staged a remarkable second-half comeback. The Indomitable Lions bounced back, scoring twice to level. Substitute Vincent Aboubakar scored an outrageous lob that was initially ruled offside until VAR intervened to award the goal for Cameroon in the 63rd minute. Two minutes later, Aboubakar drove down the right and passed it to Eric Maxim Choupo-Moting who equalized to make it 3-3. But all eyes will be on the Switzerland-Brazil tie which takes place today with the winner qualifying for the next stage, having won their respective first round matches against Cameroon and Serbia respectively.

FULLKRUG'S STRIKE HELPS GERMANY TO 1-1 DRAW WITH SPAIN

Al Khor (Qatar) Substitute Niclas Fullkrug's goal seven minutes from end helped Germany to a 1-1 draw against Spain in a FIFA World Cup Group E match at Al Bayt Stadium in Al Khor, Qatar, on Sunday evening. The close range strike gave the Germans the first point of the competition having lost their first match to Japan 2-1. Fullkrug, who is playing his first-ever World Cup, came from the bench to the rescue with a fine turn and finish to level in the 83rd minute, smashing home a loose ball inside the box. The goal by Werder Bremen striker cancelled out the 62nd minute strike by Spanish substitute Alvaro Morata, who beat his marker Niklas Sule and flicked the ball in at the near post past goalkeeper Manuel Neuer following a low cross from Jordi Alba to give Spain the lead. The one-all draw has left the group still wide open with Spain needing just a point against Japan to qualify for the knockouts. A win will guarantee them top spot. Germany stays bottom for now, but they can jump to second and qualify for the next phase if they beat Costa Rica and Japan lose to Spain. However, it gets a little bit trickier for Germany if Spain and Japan draw. If Japan draw it would come down to goal difference or goals scored by Germany and Japan.

VIJAY HAZARE TROPHY

Team Absolute | Ahmedabad

Right-handed opener Ruturaj Gaikwad on Monday hit a mind-boggling seven sixes in an over, the first time it's happened in List A cricket, while on the way to smashing 220 not out for Maharashtra in a Vijay Hazare Trophy quarterfinal match against Uttar Pradesh at the Narendra Modi Stadium B Ground in Ahmedabad.

Gaikwad, who is captaining Maharashtra in the match, achieved this feat in the 49th over of the innings. The over was bowled by Uttar Pradesh's left-arm spinner Shiva Singh, operating from around the wicket. Gaikwad smashed sixes over deep mid-wicket, straight down the ground, and deep square leg.

Shiva then went in with a change in the trajectory, but the result was the same as Gaikwad smashed consecutive sixes over the long-off fence. A no-ball was signalled and Gaikwad smacked the ball from Shiva over long-on for another six, also getting the right-handed batter his maiden double century in List A cricket in 153 balls. For the last ball, Shiva went for over the wicket angle, but it made no difference as Gaikwad sent it soaring over deep mid-wicket to take 43 runs. Gaikwad eventually finished on 220 not out off 159 balls, with ten fours and 16 sixes, as Maharashtra made 330/5 in their 50 overs, as 58 runs came off the last two overs.

Gaikwad taking 43 runs from that over off Shiva made it to the record books as the most expensive over in List A cricket, equalling the combined effort of Brett Hampton and Joe Carter, off Willem Ludick, for Northern Districts against Central Districts in a Ford Trophy game in New Zealand in 2018.

He also became the first Indian batter to make 43 runs off an over in List-A cricket.

KARNATAKA BEAT PUNJAB, SAURASHTRA DEFEAT TAMIL NADU; SET UP SEMIFINAL MEETING

Ahmedabad | Karnataka opener R Samarth slammed a match-winning half-century to help his side beat Punjab by four wickets in the first quarterfinal of Narendra Modi Stadium Ground 'A'. They will now meet Saurashtra in the semifinal, which entered the last four stages on the back of Chirag Jani's all-round performance toppling Tamil Nadu by 44 runs at the GS Patel Stadium in Nadiad on Monday. With the wins in quarterfinals, Karnataka and Saurashtra will now meet in the semifinals, touted to be a clash of the heavy-weights. For Punjab, opener and all-rounder Abhishek Sharma hit a brilliant century, a 123-ball 109, laced with 12 fours and two sixes. He was the lone as rest of the recognised batters failed to fire, though Anmol Malhotra (29) and Sanvir Singh (39) did chip in with some handy contributions. In reply, Karnataka skipper Mayank Agarwal was out for just one run by Siddharth Kaul. But Samarth scored 71 off 106 balls, hitting five fours and added crucial partnerships of 51 and 58 with Nikin Jose (29) and Manish Pandey (35). In the other quarterfinal, Jani was the star for Saurashtra, hammering 52 not out off 31 deliveries and then claimed four wickets to send Tamil Nadu out of the tournament. Apart from him, Harvik Desai (78-ball 61) and Arpit Vasavada (49-ball 51) hit half-centuries, while Jay Gohil, Samarth Vyas, Prerak Mankad, and Jaydev Unadkat made contributions with the bat. For Tamil Nadu, Sai Kishore and M Mohammed took two wickets each, while Sandeep Warrier, M Siddharth and B Aparajith had a wicket apiece. In the chase of 294, Tamil Nadu lost their in-form openers Sai Sudharsan and N Jagadeesan inside first seven overs and could never recover from that. Aparajith and Dinesh Karthik, coming in for an injured Shahrulkh Khan, failed to get a big score. Baba Indrajith (69-ball 53) and Sai Kishore (92-ball 74) put up some fight through a 113-run stand for Tamil Nadu. But after the duo fell, Tamil Nadu's resistance was falling and despite Sanjay Yadav and R Sonu Yadav getting a pair of 20s, they were bowled out for 249 in 48 overs.

PODCASTS ARE AN EXTENSION TO MY CRAFT:
POOJA GOR

Team Absolute | Mumbai

Pooja Gor, who is currently part of the podcast 'I Can't Hear You', spoke about doing an audio series for the first time. She said: "My first audio experience was on radio. I remember my grandparents used to listen to the radio a lot and then my mother and grandmother used to request a change in station. It had a great impact in my life. In fact there was a time in my life when I wanted to become a radio jockey. I am glad that now I am part of 'I Can't Hear You'. Podcasts are an extension to my craft."

She shares about the differences between dubbing and podcasts: "As actor, we are enacting a scene according to the script with audio and video. And while dubbing you just have to replicate the emotions. Video plays a huge role there." "In podcasts you have to do everything with your voice only. I feel with every medium, the challenges are new. You need to learn a new way to adjust to that format. While doing this podcast I have learnt when you breathe between words that also can be an expression."

Silence is also a tool in podcasts." In 'I Can't Hear You' Pooja is playing a character called Dhvani who is an Acoustic Scientist. As an actor, voice is a big tool and Pooja talks about the two voices that have impacted her life. "Two voices which are very powerful in our industry are Amitabh Bachchan and Amrish Puri. No one can match their voices." On the work front, Pooja is looking forward to her next project, the Netflix series 'Guns & Gulaabs', which is a comedy crime thriller. "I am eagerly waiting for its release," Gor said, signing off. "It's an entertaining series. Currently television is in a zone where experimental stuff is not happening. Internet personality Uorfi Javed took on popular writer Chetan Bhagat as a result of a comment made by the latter in which he called her a "distraction" for boys. Although Bhagat later clarified that he'd been quoted out of context, Uorfi went after him, all guns blazing.

After drawing attention of her followers to the allegations against Bhagat, Uorfi reacted to the author's comment: "Guys, let's not forget how so many women accused him during #MeToo case!!" She added that men like Bhagat only blame women and said there was no need to drag her into the conversation and make comments on the kind of clothes she chooses to wear. "Men like him will always blame women than accept their own shortcomings!! Just because you are a pervert does not mean it is the girl's fault or what she is wearing!" Uorfi said.

"Unnecessarily dragging me into a conversation, commenting on how my clothes are distracting young boys is such a fed thing to say! You messaging young girls isn't a distraction for them, though?" she continued.

TV actress Yukti Kapoor, who is known for her role of SHO Karishma Singh in the popular sitcom 'Maddam Sir', said that it is important for actors to maintain their fitness, which helps their overall health. Yukti begins her day by having a glass of methi (fenugreek) water. She then works out, beginning with planks for 10 minutes followed by 10-12 minutes of yoga practice.

She shared: "Fitness plays a very crucial role in my life. Acting as a profession, on the other hand, requires long hours of non-stop shooting with no clear idea of when one would get free in the day. During days when I am on set and I am informed that there is some time for the shot to be set up, I make it a point to utilise that time for a relaxing yoga session." She spoke further: "There are effective yoga asanas that not only help you relax, but also benefit your body. I also make sure to meditate for 15-20 minutes on set, which helps me to regain my calm and inner peace. This is about being present with myself, mind and body. During long shooting days, this 'me time' allows me to recharge my body and continue positively the rest of the day."
