'Can't fold hands and sit because it's an economic policy', SC on DeMo

► THE TOP COURT WAS HEARING PETITIONS CHALLENGING THE CENTRE'S DECISION TO DEMONETISE CURRENCY NOTES OF RS 500 AND RS 1,000 IN 2016.

Team Absolute | New Delhi

The Supreme Court on Tuesday, while hearing petitions challenging the Centre's demonetisation move in 2016, said that it cannot fold its hands and sit because it is an economic policy.

Senior advocate Jaideep Gupta, representing the Reserve Bank of India, submitted before the bench that the objective of the demonetisation policy was to curb black money and fake currencies, adding that not a single bank suffered losses.

Gupta submitted that there is no challenge to the decision on constitutional grounds, and therefore, the proportionality principle should only be applied to the extent, which the Attorney General's note also suggested that there should be a nexus between the objective and the method. He added that beyond that it will be against the run of play, as far as economic policy decisions are concerned, and being an economic policy measure, the court will not review the decision.

Justice Nagarathna said the court will not go into the merits of the decision to implement demonetisation, but it can always go into the manner it was taken, and the two things are totally different. In the daylight hear-

“Just because it is an economic policy, the court cannot fold its hands and sit. Merits of the decision, it is for the government to decide in its wisdom as it knows what is best for the people, but while taking that decision, what was the material on record, or the relevant considerations...”

ing, the RBI's counsel informed the bench that ample opportunities were given to people to exchange their notes. Senior advocate P. Chidambaram submitted that the RBI

New Delhi: The Supreme Court on Tuesday asked the Centre to ensure that food grains under the National Food Security Act (NFSA) reach the last person.

The bench noted that nobody should go to sleep empty stomach is our culture. The top court was hearing a matter connected with the plight of migrant workers during the Covid pandemic.

Emphasising that it's government's duty to ensure food grains under NFSA reach the last person, the bench said, "We are not saying that Centre is not doing anything, the Union of India has ensured food grains to people during Covid. At the same time, we have to see it continues." The bench directed the Centre to submit a fresh chart with the number of migrant and unorganised sector workers registered on eShram portal. After hearing arguments, the bench scheduled the matter for further hearing on December 8.

'TO WHAT EXTENT OUR MORALITY HAS GONE DOWN NOW!'

New Delhi: The Supreme Court said on Tuesday "to what extent our morality has gone down now!" while directing the listing of a plea next year by Goa Congress leader Girish Chodankar challenging the Bombay High Court order, which junked a plea seeking disqualification of 12 members of the Goa Legislative Assembly for defecting from Congress and Maharashtra Gomantak Party (MGP) to the BJP in 2019.

A counsel, representing the petitioner, urged the bench to adjourn the matter, as his senior was in another court.

The bench queried, "since the next election has already taken place, has this not become infructuous?"

When the matter was called for hearing after 3.30 p.m., the petitioner's counsel requested the court to schedule the matter for hearing on Wednesday, adding that this is an important matter.

Justice Shah said: "To what extent our morality has gone down now!" The bench scheduled the matter for hearing next year, so that it can consider the legal questions.

fact that in 1946 and 1978, the central bank opposed demonetisation and resorted to plenary power of the legislature. During the hearing, the apex court also inquired into the number of members present in the RBI's Central Board meeting, which decided to make the recommendation regarding demonetisation in 2016.

Gupta agreed to provide the necessary information.

RUPEE HAS DONE RELATIVELY WELL, SAYS WORLD BANK ECONOMIST

New Delhi: The rupee has done relatively better in 2022 compared to other emerging markets, World Bank economist Dhruv Sharma said on Tuesday.

In the last one year, the rupee has depreciated by around 10 per cent and though it may sound like a huge figure, compared to other emerging economies, India has not done badly, said Sharma on the occasion of the release of World Bank's India Development Update, which upgraded GDP growth to 6.9 per cent from the earlier 6.5 per cent.

Continuous hike of key rates by the US Fed has led to the strengthening of dollar at the rupee's expense.

In the last one month, the rupee has hit a low of 83 against the dollar and has been hovering in the range of 82.

Lakhimpur Kheri | Agencies

Ashish Mishra, son of Union minister Ajay Mishra, will now be tried for the murder of four farmers and a journalist during a protest in Lakhimpur Kheri last year against the now-repealed farm laws. A court in Lakhimpur Kheri framed charges against him and the other accused on Tuesday and announced that the trial will begin on December 16. This comes a day after the court rejected Mishra's discharge petition. The police charge sheet has accused Mishra of murder.

It is alleged that he was in an SUV that ran over four farmers and a journalist during a protest march in Lakhimpur Kheri on October 3 last year. Ashish Mishra was arrested days after the farmers' deaths, following an intervention by the Supreme Court. The Allahabad High Court granted him bail in February, raising questions on the police investigation. Violence, harassment at work affect nearly 23% of people globally: ILO

► THE MOST COMMON REASONS GIVEN FOR NON-DISCLOSURE WERE "WASTE OF TIME" AND "FEAR FOR THEIR REPUTATION". THE SURVEY FOUND, ADDING THAT WOMEN WERE MORE LIKELY TO SHARE THEIR EXPERIENCES THAN MEN (60.7 PER CENT COMPARED TO 50.1 PER CENT).

► GLOBALLY, 17.9 PER CENT OF EMPLOYED MEN AND WOMEN SAID THEY HAD EXPERIENCED PSYCHOLOGICAL VIOLENCE AND HARASSMENT IN THEIR WORKING LIFE, AND 8.5 PER CENT HAD FACED PHYSICAL VIOLENCE AND HARASSMENT, WITH MORE MEN THAN WOMEN EXPERIENCING THIS.

► ACCORDING TO THE SURVEY, 6.3 PER CENT OF THE RESPONDENTS REPORTED FACING SEXUAL VIOLENCE AND HARASSMENT, WITH WOMEN BEING PARTICULARLY EXPOSED.

The survey, titled 'Experiences of Violence and Harassment at Work: A global first survey', published on Monday, found that only half of victims worldwide had disclosed their experiences to someone else, and often only after they had suffered more than one form of violence and harassment, reports Xinhua news agency.

Geneva | Agencies

More than one in five people (almost 23 per cent) in employment worldwide have experienced violence and harassment at work, whether physical, psychological or sexual, according to a recent survey conducted by the International Labour Organization (ILO) and its partners. The groups that the survey found most likely to be affected by different types of violence and harassment included youth, migrant workers, and salaried women and men.

Young women were twice as likely as young men to have faced sexual violence and harassment, and migrant women were almost twice as likely as non-migrant women to report sexual violence and harassment. More than three out of five victims said they had experienced violence and harassment at work multiple times, and for the majority, the most recent incident took place within the last five years. The ILO recommends that countries extend and update mechanisms to effectively prevent and manage violence and harassment in the world of work, increase awareness in this regard, and at the same time enhance the capacity of institutions at all levels to deliver effective prevention, remediation and support, to build people's trust in justice and ensure victims are supported.

The survey is based on interviews conducted in 2021 with nearly 75,000 employed individuals aged 15 years or older in 121 countries and territories.

NO OF UNICORNS DROP TO 85 IN INDIA AS VALUATIONS ERODE AMID GLOBAL TURMOIL

Team Absolute | New Delhi

The number of unicorns (with the $1 billion valuation and above) in India has dropped to 85 from more than 100 just a couple of months ago, as most startups have shed a significant share of their valuations while investors stay back amid the prevailing global economic turmoil.

According to data compiled by Finbold, the US has the highest number of unicorns at 704 while China comes a distant second with 243 unicorns (as of November this year).

Despite the general market conditions, several regions are leading in the number of unicorns or private companies valued at least $1 billion.

"The United Kingdom ranks fourth with 56, while Germany ranks fifth with 36 unicorns. Indeed, the US has at least double the number of unicorns compared to both China and India combined," according to the report.

In May this year, India welcomed its 100th unicorn, which was Bengaluru-based neobank platform Open that raised fresh funds as part of its Series D round, taking its valuation to $1 billion.

Indian startups raised more than $42 billion across 1,583 deals in 2021 and the country saw 42 unicorns last year, taking the number to 86.

In the first half of 2022, India added 14 new unicorns, according to the Hurun Global Unicorn Index 2022, as the funding winter hit the startup ecosystem which has only gone worse with thousands of employees being asked to go.

The startup ecosystem's funding winter could last another 12 to 18 months.

Only two startups in India, Shiprocket and OneCard, attained unicorn status (valuation $1 billion and above) in the July-September period, mirroring a global trend in decline in the number of new unicorns, a PwC India report showed.

According to the Finbold report, Elon Musk's space company SpaceX ranks top in the US with a valuation of $127 billion, while payment firm Stripe ranks second at $95 billion.

Instacart ranks third, valued at $39 billion, followed by Databrick's $38 billion valuation. Meanwhile, gaming company Epic Games ranks fifth at $31.5 billion.

"The US dominance over China can be linked to the Asian country's stringent laws on the private sector. With a robust private sector led by the tech industry, the government moved to curtail the powers of such entities. In this case, there is a widespread fear of companies accelerating their growth, with venture capitalists remaining sceptical," the report mentioned.

Notably, with the $1 billion valuation, most companies still depend on external funding while attempting to work out a profitable model.

Critics have, for instance, stated that attaining unicorn status without profitability might be considered a fad.

"It is worth noting that unicorns are now prime candidates for Initial Public Offering (IPO). However, the possibility of launching an IPO will likely depend on the state of the economy.

Notably, the stock market remains depressed, with most companies losing a big chunk of their valuations," the report said.

Karnataka is considered as the gateway for the saffron party to south India. The Assembly polls are scheduled to be held within four months in the state. The party high command is likely to make swift changes in the party in the view of its gains in the elections.

The party leaders will take calls on the post of the President of the party in the state. Present incumbent Nalin Kumar Kateel has completed the term and he is hoping to continue. Union Minister Shobha Karandlaje, National General Secretary and BJP MLA C.T. Ravi's names are doing rounds for the post. The party is expected to take a firm decision regarding the future role of BJP Central Committee member B.S. Yediyurappa's son party Vice President B.Y. Vijayendra. Introducing 10 new faces in the state cabinet. The sources also claim that the State In-charge of BJP Arun Singh may also be changed.

The Congress party is also seeing strong chances of attaining power through internal surveys. AICC former president Sonia Gandhi came down to Karnataka and participated in Bharat Jodi Yatra in the same background. The party State President D.K. Shivakumar and Opposition leader Siddaramaiah are vying with each other to project themselves as CM candidates.

On the other hand, the JD (S) party is putting all its might to become a king maker in the formation of the next government. BJP, which had never attained a simple majority in state Assembly elections, is hoping to achieve this time, without having to indulge in operation lotus to attain power.

the constitutional crisis prevailing in the state since September 25."

Vivek Agnihotri tenders unconditional apology to Delhi HC for tweets against Justice S Muralidhar

Team Absolute | New Delhi

Filmmaker Vivek Agnihotri on Tuesday apologised to the high court here for his tweets against Justice S. Muralidhar, who is current Chief Justice of Orissa HC and was a former Delhi HC judge.

An affidavit to that effect was filed by Agnihotri withdrawing his statement against the judge and tendering his apology.

A division bench of Justices Siddharth Mridul and Talwant Singh deferred the hearing after recording Agnihotri's submission that he shall remain present personally in court for the hearing on March 16, 2023, to tender his apology. "We are asking him (Agnihotri) to remain present because he is the contemnor. Does he have any difficulty if he has to express remorse in person? The remorse cannot always be expressed by way of an affidavit," the bench said. Agnihotri had put out tweets alleging bias against Justice Muralidhar. Pursuant to the tweets, contempt of court proceedings were initiated against the director. Agnihotri's tweets were regarding the judge granting relief to activist Gautam Navlakha in the Bhima Koregaon case. In September, the court had decided to proceed ex-parte against Agnihotri. Post which, he filed an affidavit expressing apology. Agnihotri had mentioned in his affidavit that he himself had deleted his tweets against the judge. However, the Amicus Curiae Senior Advocate Arvind Nigam pointed out that it could be the social media platform which deleted the tweets and not Agnihotri himself.

10 MORE STEPWELLS TO BE TAKEN UP FOR RESTORATION IN HYDERABAD

Hyderabad | Agencies

After successfully restoring 17th century stepwell at Bansilalpet, the government of Telangana plans to take up restoration of 10 more stepwells.

Arvind Kumar, special chief secretary, urban development, announced on Tuesday that they plan to take up 10 more stepwells for restoration in the next four months.

The restored stepwell in Bansilalpet area of Secunderabad was unveiled on Monday. Minister for municipal administration and urban development K.T. Rama Rao inaugurated the restored stepwell.

The state government completed restoration of the stepwell which was in dilapidated condition and filled with garbage.

The stepwell was once served drinking water needs of the locality, but later was neglected to turn into a garbage dump. The revived stepwell will prevent inundation and improve the groundwater levels.

The urban development authorities plan to turn it into a tourist attraction and a cultural centre.

After hard work of more than a one year, the stepwell was restored by various departments in partnership with organisations like Rainwater Project, Gandipet Welfare Society and the local community.

Meanwhile, restoration of Bansilalpet stepwell has been awarded for sustainable revitalization of traditional rain water harvesting at Big 5 construction impact awards by the United Arab Emirates' ministry of energy and infrastructure. The restoration work involved clearing 3,900 metric tonnes of garbage and debris from the stepwell. The same was cleared with 863 truck trips. Various departments and NGOs spent Rs 10 crore on the restoration project.

As part of the project, a museum, a cafeteria and amphitheatre have come up at the site.

The award for restoration of Bansilalpet stepwell is the second major recognition for restoration initiatives in Hyderabad.

Last month, Unesco recognised the conservation of six stepwells (Baolis) at Qutb Shahi Tombs with the 2022 award of distinction. Aga Khan Trust for Culture (AKTC) restored six historic stepwells at the world's largest royal necropolis.

KTC in association with the heritage department of Telangana and Quli Qutb Shah Urban Development Authority (QQSUDA) took up restoration and it was supported by the US Ambassadors Fund for Cultural Preservation (AFCP) and the TATA Trusts.

The project was funded by AFCP to the tune of $112,560 and a few months ago, six restored stepwells were inaugurated.

Sharad Pawar warns Karnataka Chief Minister of repercussions

BORDER SKIRMISHES

BLAMING BOMMAI WHILE REFERRING TO THE ATTACKS ON VEHICLES IN THE BORDER AREAS, PAWAR CALLED FOR AN URGENT AND AMICABLE SOLUTION TO THE ISSUE BY THE CHIEF MINISTERS OF BOTH THE STATES. THE NCP SUPREMO PLAYED BOMMAI'S STATEMENTS STAKING CLAIM TO MORE VILLAGES FROM MAHARASHTRA, AND CONTINUOUSLY TALKING ON THE TICKLISH ISSUE WHICH HAS FLARED UP SENTIMENTS IN THE BOUNDARY DISTRICTS.

Team Absolute | Mumbai

As stray incidents of violence were reported in some areas along the Maharashtra-Karnataka border, Nationalist Congress Party (NCP) president Sharad Pawar said that "an atmosphere of fear" has been created in the boundary villages owing to the statements of Karnataka Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, here on Tuesday.

As per reports, stones were pelted at some trucks and private vehicles coming to Maharashtra near a toll-post in Belgaum allegedly by some activists of Kannada Rakshana Vedike, which evoked protests in this state.

In retaliation, supporters of Shiv Sena (UBT) smeared black and saffron paint on buses from Karnataka and a group of activists said they would go to the border areas soon to express solidarity with the Marathi-speaking population there.

Giving an ultimatum to Bommai, Pawar said if the disturbed situation is not brought under control within 48 hours, then he would be compelled to visit the affected areas.

"Maharashtra has maintained restraint for so long, but people will not keep quiet... if these attacks don't halt within 48 hours, we will have to take a different stand. Then the Karnataka CM will be responsible for the consequences," Pawar said.

The senior politician urged both Bommai and Maharashtra CM Eknath Shinde to sit and hammer out the issue with proper coordination to prevent the situation from escalating.

Condemning the violence in Belgaum on Tuesday, Pawar urged the Maharashtra MPs -- who are planning to meet Union Home Minister Amit Shah -- to convey that if anybody attempts to take the law in their hands, then the Centre shall be blamed.

VIOLENCE IN BELAGAVI; OVER 100 DETAINED

Bengaluru: The protests by Kannada activists around the issue of border row between Maharashtra and Karnataka took a violent turn on Tuesday after trucks bearing Maharashtra registration number plates were attacked by an angry mob.

The Karnataka police took president of Karnataka Rakshana Vedike, Narayana Gowda, and hundreds of workers into custody following the violence.

According to the police, the activists who had arrived from various districts across the state had hurled stones at five trucks moving towards Maharashtra.

They climbed on to the trucks and shouted slogans against Maharashtra politicians. They also plucked out the registration plates and painted the vehicles black.

The protesters climbed on police vehicles with Kannada flags and raised slogans.

The activists have planned a big procession and rally in Belagavi city and also wanted to prevent the entry of Maharashtra ministers. As Maharashtra ministers called off their visit, the police in Karnataka, prevented the Kannada activists from entering Belagavi city to maintain law and order. Belagavi city has a large number of Marathi speaking population. BJP general secretary and legislator C.T. Ravi said Maharashtra will not get an inch of land from Karnataka.

Sena (UBT) activists paint Karnataka buses with "Jai Maharashtra" in Pune

Pune | Agencies

Amid a simmering border dispute between Maharashtra and Karnataka, activists of the Uddhav Thackeray-led Shiv Sena faction on Tuesday sprayed black and orange paints on at least three Karnataka state transport buses in Swargate area of Pune city.

They also wrote "Jai Maharashtra" on these buses. A local leader of Shiv Sena (Uddhav Balasaheb Thackeray) faction confirmed they painted the buses.

Workers of the Shiv Sena (UBT) faction sprayed at least two-three buses of Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC) with black paint. They also used an orange spray to write "Jai Maharashtra" on these buses.

"We have detained four to five people who painted the buses," a police officer said.

The border issue dates back to 1957 after the reorganisation of states on linguistic lines.

Maharashtra laid claim to Belagavi, which was part of the erstwhile Bombay Presidency as it has a sizable Marathi-speaking population. It also laid claim to 814 Marathi-speaking villages which are currently part of Karnataka.

Belagavi district administration in Karnataka on Monday issued orders barring entry of the two Maharashtra ministers and leaders to the city. Prohibitory orders were issued under section 144 of CrPC, barring their entry, besides that of an MP, who are members of the Maharashtra High Power Committee on the Border Dispute.

Karnataka Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai recently sought a merger of "Kannada-speaking" areas in Maharashtra's Akalkot and Solapur and had also said some villages in Jat taluka in Sangli district wanted to join the southern state.

The Uddhav Thackeray-led faction of the Shiv Sena on Tuesday told the Supreme Court that a "completely unconstitutional government is being run" in Maharashtra.

A bench of Chief Justice DY Chandrachud and Justice PS Narasimha said it will hear a batch of petitions on the Maharashtra political crisis on January 13 as it will not be possible for the five-judge Constitution bench to sit next week, which will be for miscellaneous matters.

It said, "In next week it won't be possible to take up the matter as it will be a miscellaneous week. It will not be possible for five-judges to sit in a constitution bench during next week. We will take up the matter on January 13, 2023."

said that on January 13, it will take up the matter.

Kamat requested the court to at least keep the matters for directions and hearing may commence on January 13.

The bench said, "Yes, we will commence the hearing on that day."

On November 1, the top court had said that it will hear the batch of pleas on the Maharashtra political crisis filed by the Shiv Sena factions led by Thackeray and Eknath Shinde on November 29, when it is likely to issue some directions.

The five-judge bench headed by the CJI had asked both the parties to file their written submissions and a joint compilation on the issues to be adjudicated by the constitution bench.

On August 23, a three-judge bench of the top court headed by then chief justice N V Ramana had formulated several questions of law and referred to a five-judge bench the petitions filed by the factions raising several constitutional questions related to defection, merger and disqualification.

The top court had ordered the listing of petitions before the constitution bench and directed the Election Commission not to pass any orders on the Shinde faction's plea that it be considered the real Shiv Sena and granted the party's poll symbol.

It had said the batch of petitions raise important constitutional issues relating to the 10th schedule of the Constitution pertaining to disqualification, power of the Speaker and Governor and judicial review.

Ex-Maha Minister Malik still possesses "Tainted Property": special Court

Team Absolute | Mumbai

Former Maharashtra minister Nawab Malik "is in continuous possession of tainted property" through a firm, owned by his family, a special court held while denying him bail last week in an alleged money laundering case linked to a land deal in which fugitive gangster Dawood Ibrahim and his aides were involved.

Prima facie, there was evidence to indicate that there was a "conspiracy" between Hasina Parkar (Ibrahim's sister), Salim Patel (alleged associate of Ibrahim), and Malik to grab the land owned by Munira Plumber and her mother Mariyum Goawala, said R N Rokade, special judge for cases under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA).

The judge rejected Malik's bail plea on November 30. A detailed order was made available on Tuesday.

The Enforcement Directorate arrested Nationalist Congress Party (NCP) leader Malik in February this year.

He is in judicial custody and currently undergoing treatment at a private hospital in Mumbai. The court in its order said, "Having regard to the statements recorded under Section 50 of the PMLA pertaining to the conspiracy for usurpation/acquisition of prime property - Goawala Compound - and the material collected during the investigation, I am inclined to hold that the applicant is in continuous possession of the tainted property through Solidus Investments Private Limited." Solidus Investments company is owned by the family members of Malik.

The judge said considering the role attributed to the applicant (Malik) and the prima facie material placed on record, he was of the considered view that the applicant failed to "satisfy twin conditions for enlargement on bail" as per provisions of the PMLA.

The court held that "prima facie, there is evidence to indicate that there was a conspiracy" between the dead Hasina Parkar, Salim Patel, and Malik to grab the land owned by Munira Plumber and her mother Mariyum Goawala. The court further said having regard to the entire gamut of the circumstances and transactions entered into by Salim Patel and the applicant, it was of the "considered view that the Enforcement Directorate is justified in invoking provisions of the PMLA."

Liquor ban: Harakiri for Nitish Kumar

In a dry state Bihar, deaths due to spurious liquor seems to be becoming a regular affair. However, rolling back the decision of liquor ban in the state may politically turn suicidal for the Nitish government and the JD(U). Every time deaths due to spurious liquor is reported in the state, leaders of opposition parties as well as intellectuals jump the gun to target the Chief Minister. With everyone -- except government officials -- claiming that liquor is easily available in the state, the question arises why a stringent law is ineffective in Bihar. One of the reasons is the ineffectiveness of law enforcement agencies. Also, on several occasions, it has been seen that the police and the excise department teams have faced stiff resistance from local people. Even, sometimes they (officials) become victims of it. Such a situation has big implications for any government. If the policies are not made according to the expectation of common people, the law will succumb and the same thing is happening with liquor prohibition law in Bihar. For Nitish Kumar, the liquor prohibition in the state has become an issue of prestige. If he rolls back the law, it would backfire his own party in the next election. The opposition leaders are aware of this fact and thus they raise the issue aggressively every time a liquor tragedy takes place in the state. Political strategist Prashant Kishor has went a step ahead to corner the Nitish government and has claimed that the state exchequer is losing Rs 20,000 crore every year (due to liquor ban) and the Nitish government has put additional burden on common people to cover the loss. The ban on liquor is also hurting the vote bank of Nitish Kumar-led JD-U as his government also imposed a ban on tari as well.

GOVT MUST NOT FORGET WHY AMBEDKAR LET ART 124 (2) BE AS IT IS

Kumar Mihir

Article 124(2) of the Constitution lays down that "Every Judge of the Supreme Court shall be appointed by the President by warrant under his hand and seal after consultation with such of the Judges of the Supreme Court and of the High Courts in the States as the President may deem necessary for the purpose and shall hold office until he attains the age of sixty five years: Provided that in the case of appointment of a Judge other than the Chief Justice, the Chief Justice of India shall always be consulted."

When this Article was being debated in the Constituent Assembly, the phrase "shall always be consulted" was discussed extensively and Dr B.R. Ambedkar had stated: "There can be no difference of opinion in the house that our Judiciary must both be independent of the Executive and must also be competent in itself. The draft article steers middle course. It does not make the President the supreme and absolute authority in the matter of making appointments. It does not also import the influence of the Legislature. The provision in the Article is that there should be consultation of persons who are ex-hypothesi well-qualified to give proper advice in matters of this sort, and my judgment is that this sort of provision may be regarded as sufficient for the moment."

In the early years of our republic, there were hardly any controversy regarding the appointment process. Between 1970 and 1980, however, questions regarding independence of our judiciary started to be raised especially in view of regular tussle between the central government and Supreme Court and the flash point came in 1980 on the issue of transfer of judges from one high court to the other, when the Supreme Court in S. P. Gupta vs Union of India (known as the First Judges case) recognised the primacy of the president and also held that the word "consultation" in Article 124 does not mean concurrence.

Justice P.N. Bhagwati however, expressed his dissatisfaction with the then existing mode of appointment of judges in India in which the authority to select judges has exclusively been vested 'in a single individual' (the President) whose choice 'may be incorrect or inadequate' and 'may also sometimes be imperceptibly influenced by extraneous or irrelevant considerations.'

Therefore, he proposed that there must be a collegium to make recommendation to the President in regard to appointment of a Supreme Court or high court judge. The recommending authority should be more broad-based and there should be consultation with wider interests.

In 1993, a nine-judge bench of the Supreme Court in Supreme Court Advocates on Record Association vs Union of India (Second Judges Case) revisited the constitutional scheme of appointment of judges and overruled the majority view in the First Judges Case, giving primacy to President in the matter of appointment of Judges to superior courts.

It was held that the opinion given by the Chief Justice in the consultative process had to be formed taking into account the views of the two senior most judges of the Supreme Court. This would ensure that the opinion of the Chief Justice of India was not merely his individual opinion, but an opinion formed collectively by a body of men at the apex level in the judiciary.

It was also added that the Chief Justice of India is expected to take into account the views of his colleagues in the Supreme Court who are likely to be conversant with the affairs of the concerned high court.

The Chief Justice of India may also ascertain the views of one or more senior judges of that high court whose opinion, according to the Chief Justice of India, is likely to be significant in the formation of his opinion.

This was followed by a presidential reference in 1998 (Third Judges case) wherein the procedural requirement of the collegium system were laid down and the number of senior-most judges of the Supreme Court as the member of the Collegium was increased from two to four.

In 2014, the Constitution was amended by the Constitution (99th Amendment) Act 2014 and a National Judicial Appointments Commission and consequently, the National Judicial Appointments Commission Act, 2014 was enacted.

The validity of both the constitutional amendment and the Act were challenged by the Supreme Court Advocates on Record Association and the Supreme Court with a 4:1 majority declared the Constitution (99th Amendment) Act 2014 and the National Judicial Appointments Commission Act, 2014 unconstitutional and void and held that the system of appointment of judges to the Supreme Court and High Court through the Collegium system will be operative.

In view of all this, the phrase "shall always be consulted" has been judicially held to mean that the consultation shall be as per the recommendations of the Collegium and in terms of Article 141 of the Constitution, the said position remains the law unless the parliament exercises its authority and changes the position.

The constant criticism of the collegium system by higher functionaries in the Government and repeated attempts to somehow throttle the recommendations of the Collegium by delaying the appointments therefore is uncalled-for, especially when the collegium system is what the existing law prescribes.

One of the major grounds on which collegium system is criticised is that the constitution does not provide for collegium at all and it is basically a system of judges appointing judges which cannot be countenanced at all. The critics, however, forget that a number of doctrines and concepts have crept in our constitution subsequently through the judgments of the Supreme Court which was made the final arbiter of the constitution by our founding fathers.

Thus, when the Supreme Court interprets and holds that "Chief Justice of India shall always be consulted" will mean that instead of one person, a collegium of the Chief Justice and 4 senior most judges shall be consulted and their recommendations shall be given primacy, there is nothing wrong with the same.

Further, the Constituent Assembly itself had debated different modes of appointment in higher judiciary prevalent in different countries and chose to adopt the existing mode being the most suitable as per the conditions prevalent in our country in order to ensure complete separation of power and independence of judiciary.

Any attempt therefore to roll back the system adopted by our founding fathers will have a direct impact on the independence of the judiciary.

Instead of criticising and adopting an adversarial approach, the executive and judiciary will have to work together to ensure adequate and diverse class representation in the collegium system and at the same time make sure that most meritorious and competent advocates are appointed in the higher judiciary on a timely basis.

Both sides will have to understand that this constant tug of war and unrestrained and uncalled-for criticism of the collegium system in this age of social media is only hampering and scandalising the judiciary which is the cornerstone of Rule of Law.

Bogota | Agencies

At least 33 people were killed due to a landslide that buried vehicles along a highway in Colombia, Interior Minister Alfonso Prada said.

The landslide that occurred on Sunday buried a bus carrying passengers from Cali to Condoto, along with a car and a motorcycle on the Pereira-Quibdo Highway in the western-central department of Risaralda, reports Xinhua news agency.

"We have identified 33 deceased people, including three minors. We have rescued nine people, four of them are currently in critical condition," Prada said on Monday.

In the wake of the landslide, authorities plan to declare a nationwide maximum alert to prepare for weather-related disasters amid a cold wave that is expected to continue for several more months, said Prada.

President Gustavo Petro has ordered a National Unified Command Post to be installed in the capital Bogota by Tuesday at the latest to determine the state of the roadways under adverse weather conditions, he said.

Risaralda Governor Victor Manuel Tamayo told reporters the highway where the accident occurred is in poor condition, complicating efforts to find survivors and retrieve the bodies of the victims.

N.Korea orders artillery firing to protest live-fire drills

Seoul | Agencies

North Korea's military said on Tuesday that it has ordered artillery firing into the sea in response to live-fire drills between South Korea and the US near the inter-Korean border.

The General Staff of the Korean People's Army (KPA) said it detected the South Korean military's firing of artillery from multiple rocket launchers and howitzers in frontline areas from around 9.15 a.m. following similar military actions on Monday, according to a statement carried by Pyongyang's official Korean Central News Agency (KCNA).

"We immediately ordered frontline artillery units to launch artillery firing into the sea to issue a strong warning," Yonhap News Agency quoted a KPA General Staff spokesperson as saying in the KCNA statement.

The official called on the South to immediately stop "provocative" military actions.

The North appears to be referring to live-fire drills being conducted between South Korea and the US at border units in Cheorwon County, 71 km northeast of Seoul.

The warning shots came a day after North Korea fired some 130 artillery shells into eastern and western maritime "buffer zones" to protest the allies' live-fire exercise.

Ukraine hit by 8th wave of Russian strikes

Kiev | Agencies

Ukraine has been hit by the latest barrage of Russian missiles, marking the eighth time since the strikes first began on October 10.

In his nightly video address to the nation, President Volodymyr Zelensky late Monday said that four people were killed and technicians have been working to stabilise the energy system.

According to the President, Russia launched at least 70 missiles earlier on Monday and "most of them were shot down", Ukrayinska Pravda reported. He also noted that energy companies immediately started working on restoring power and efforts were underway in Odesa, Zaporizhzhia and Kharkiv regions. As of Monday night, the regions of Vinnytsia, Kiev, Zhytomyr, Dnipropetrovsk, Odesa, Khmelnytskyi and Cherkasy have been the hardest-hit by the power cuts, the President said, adding there were electricity outages in Moldova as well.

"This proves once again that Russia's ability to carry out such massive terrorist attacks is a threat not only to Ukraine, but to our entire region, at least... That is why stopping terror is a joint task," he said. The Ukrainian Air Force claimed that it shot down 60 missiles over the regions of Kiev, Poltava and Dnipropetrovsk.

As a result of the strikes, two infrastructure facilities in Odesa region were damaged.

Since Russia began its large-scale, co-ordinated attacks on Ukraine's power grid on October 10, around half of the country's energy infrastructure has been damaged, leaving millions of Ukrainians disconnected from electricity just as winter temperatures dropped below zero.

BJP may use Hindutva card ahead of 2023 polls in MP

Team Absolute | Bhopal

Hindutva' has undoubtedly been a key tool of polarisation in the politics of the BJP, but it had very little impact in MP, be it pre-demolition or post-demolition Babri Masjid. However, the relentless attempts at polarisation indicate that the moderate system of governance would be a thing of the past now, and the Hindutva card would come to the fore in the assembly elections in 2023.

When the Babri Masjid was demolished in Uttar Pradesh, the BJP was in power in MP. After a short interval of President's rule, elections were held in 1993 and the Sundarlal Patwa-led BJP government was voted out of power. The Digvijaya Singh-led Congress ruled the state for the next 10 years, following the rules of moderate governance.

More importantly, present Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan, who is a member of the right-wing (RSS), did not allow communalism to flourish in Madhya Pradesh and ruled the state with a moderate governance system. His governance gave him the image of the 'moderate face of RSS', and his liberal governance system not only ensured the longest rule of the BJP in the state but also strengthened the party. Senior journalist N. K. Singh, who has been a close observer of Madhya Pradesh's politics for around four decades, said the state had been the stronghold of the right wing for the last several decades, but the BJP became stronger under the leadership of Chief Minister Chouhan.

He pointed out that the Digvijaya Singh-led Congress was voted out of power in 2003, not because of the Hindutva card of the BJP but because of the incompetence and growing corruption in the government. "The BJP lost the 2018 assembly polls due to incompetence and the growing corruption. The Congress wasn't strong enough to defeat the BJP because factionalism was rife among its top leaders. The BJP lost the elections because it could not handle the increasing graph of unemployment, corruption. The Congress got the benefit of anti-incumbency," Singh added.

Political observers also believe that Chouhan was forced to change his style of governance and was made to follow the Centre's agenda, but after the local bodies election outcome, he seems to have come back on his old track.

Police teams formed to arrest author after row over book at Indore Law College

Team Absolute | Bhopal

Madhya Pradesh Police have constituted teams to arrest the author of a controversial book against whom a case was registered last week, state Home Minister Narottam Mishra said on Tuesday.

Following a complaint and protest by the Akhil Bharatiya Vidyarthi Parishad (ABVP), the Indore police on Saturday registered an FIR against the author and the publisher of the book 'Collective Violence and Criminal Justice System', which has been taught at a government-run college in Indore, along with its principal and a professor.

The case was registered on charges of promoting enmity between different groups and hurting religious feelings, police earlier said.

"Police teams have been formed to arrest author Dr Farhat Khan and the publisher of the controversial book... We will also write a letter to the department concerned to withdraw the doctorate degree of Dr Farhat

Khan," Mishra told reporters in Bhopal in reply to a question.

The ABVP has alleged the book contains very objectionable content against the Hindu community and the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS), which encourages religious fundamentalism. According to police officials, the case against Khan and others was registered under various Indian Penal Code Sections, including 153-A (promoting enmity between different groups on grounds of religion, race, place of birth, residence) and 295-A (deliberate and malicious acts, intended to outrage religious feelings of any class by insulting its religion or religious beliefs. On Monday, Indore's government law college principal Dr Inam-Ur-Rahman said he was assigned the post in 2019 and the controversial book was bought in 2014.

"I have nothing to do with its placement in the library. The FIR against me is unfortunate. I have been booked but not the library head," he said.

The last holdouts of Kuno: Taking the forest out of the Sahariyas

"We were born in the forest, and we would like to die here," say the Sahariya tribal people of two villages in Sheopur district that are in the process of resettlement due to the much-talked-about cheetah project in Kuno National Park.

Team Absolute | Sheopur

Ever since the release of cheetahs brought from Namibia into the park on September 17, the State forest department has been taking steps to relocate both Bagcha, which falls under the park area, and Jahangarh, which lies in the buffer zone. Outside the buffer zone, a further 557 sq km has been newly demarcated as an eco-sensitive zone where people may continue to live but with restrictions on industries and land use.

As many as 216 families in Bagcha will be shifted to Rampura, located around 50 km away, where compensatory agricultural lands measuring not more than five acres each and places to build houses have been identified. However, things are bleak for the 70 families in Jahangarh as there is no provision to provide land for land while resettling people in the buffer zone. They will instead get a compensation of Rs 15 lakh, specifically for land purchase. Confirming that the officials have visited Jahangarh multiple times to convince them, Shyamabai Janmed, a Sahariya woman, says the forest department first told them that they could shift to Raghunathpur. "But when we checked out the place, the residents there said they were not willing to part with their agricultural lands. So where will we go?"

Later, the authorities directed the villagers to Chanipura, but the fact remains that Chanipura gram sabha is yet to give its consent, which is mandatory to buy land there.

As tribal people see trees as abodes of gods, conservation of forests is a given for them. "Where there are no tribals, the forest cover is decreasing. We are the ones who protect trees. Outsiders just come and cut them down to make settlements," Mukesh Kanhai of Jahangarh says. The tribal population also conserves the region's biodiversity as they rely on local crops, wild fruits, seeds, tubers and roots to meet their nutrition needs. "The tribals are equally important for the forest as much as the forest is necessary for the tribals," says Harimohan of Mahatma Gandhi Seva Ashram, Sheopur. "I can predict the weather by looking at the cloud cover and wind speed. However, our future seems difficult to predict. I do not know when the officials will come to throw us out," laments Gulubai Ganpat of Jahangarh.

Ochhapura Deputy Ranger Raju Barber says relocation is imperative as cheetahs need a rather large home range. The forest also has leopards and bears.

ELIZABETH TAYLOR'S DIAMOND WAS OWNED BY EX-WIFE OF A NAZI

Los Angeles | Agencies

One of actress Elizabeth Taylor's diamonds was owned by the ex-wife of former Nazi war criminal Alfred Krupp. Actor Richard Burton, who married and divorced the actress twice, bought the Asscher-cut stone for $305,000 in 1968, and it's now been revealed that the diamond was nicknamed the Krupp as it was once owned by Vera Krupp, the former wife of Nazi war criminal Alfred Krupp. In extracts from Kate Andersen Brower's book 'Elizabeth Taylor: The Grit and Glamour of an Icon', which is being serialised in The Times newspaper, Ward Landrigan, the head of Sotheby's jewellery department, says: "After an auction I always took my staff over to the bar next door from our New York office, and we were sitting there having a drink and it came on the radio that Elizabeth Taylor had bought the diamond. I said, 'Oh man, that's so cool!'" "About 20 minutes later someone came over from the office and said, 'Elizabeth wants the diamond now.' I said, 'Where is she?' They said, 'She's in London. Her people have booked you on a flight. Go.'" Taylor also pointed out the irony of her owning a former Nazi's diamond, after she converted to Judaism in 1959. She joked: "When it came up for auction in the late 1960s, I thought how perfect it would be if a nice Jewish girl like me were to own it." Despite the diamond's price and history, it did not impress the late Princess Margaret when she and Elizabeth met at a party in London. Margaret said: "My dear, that ring is positively vulgar." However, Taylor had the last laugh when the royal had a change of heart and wanted to try it on. The Hollywood icon replied: "Of course. Not quite so vulgar now, is it?"

ROBERT DOWNEY JR. REACTS TO QUENTIN TARANTINO'S MARVEL CRITICISM

Chadwick Boseman is Black Panther, Captain America is the star, or Thor is the star but they are not movie stars

Los Angeles | Agencies

Actor Robert Downey Jr. has spoken up on the most recent attack at Marvel Cinematic Universe by filmmaker Quentin Tarantino. In an interview about the Netflix documentary about his father Robert Downey Sr., the 'Iron Man' actor fought back at Quentin Tarantino's claims that Marvel actors "are not movie stars." "I think our opinions on these matters say a lot about us. I think that we are in a time and place that I unwittingly contributed to, where IP has taken precedence over principle and personality. But it's a double-edged sword," he said. The 57-year-old further stressed that things evolved over time and one must embrace the change. Downey Jr. was asked what he misses the most about being the centre of the Marvel Universe. He responded: "What I miss most? Being in the trenches with Kevin Feige throughout; the beginning with Jon Favreau, it's like a beautiful dream now; the middle, with Shane Black on 'Iron Man 3', we'd just had Exton and shot it mostly in Wilmington, NC," Downey said. "It was idyllic and subversive. And 'The End', when I realised I'd made so many close friends in the MCU cast, and the Russo Brothers helping me embrace Tony's arc." Tarantino criticised the Marvelisation of Hollywood during his appearance on '2 Bears, 1 Cave' podcast last month. "You have all these actors who have become famous playing these characters," he said. "But they're not movie stars. Right? Captain America is the star. Or Thor is the star. I mean, I'm not the first person to say that. I think that's been said a zillion times... But it's like, you know, it's these franchise characters that become a star. Pushing back on his pal and frequent collaborator's criticism, he said, "It takes an actor to be those particular characters, and the sign of movie stardom has always been, what, asses in seats? What are we talking about?" The 57-year-old added, "That's not a big controversy for me to know that apparently these actors are movie stars. Chadwick Boseman is Black Panther. You can't refute that, and he's a movie star."

Actor Ashton Kutcher was desperate to "reclaim his health" after losing his vision when he was diagnosed with a rare autoimmune disease. The star waged a year-long battle with the autoimmune disease vasculitis in 2019 which left him unable to see, hear or walk and explained that he just "woke up one day" with an array of problems. He said: "I woke up one day and was having vision issues, could hardly see. Knocked out my hearing, which threw off my equilibrium, my balance and I couldn't walk. I had vasculitis that you're very very aware. There's a standard you become accustomed to in your life, like being able to see clearly. And then suddenly you can't see, like you have this occlusion and you can't see. And then, like, 'Why are you not f talking louder because I can't hear you?' You want to reclaim the health that you once had!" The 'Dude, Where's My Car?' actor, who managed to complete a marathon in New York City last month, went on to explain that he now has a mental attitude towards life since he made a full recovery which enables him to keep going. Speaking on the premiere episode of Paramount+'s new health series, 'The Checkup with Dr. David Agus', he added: "Part of it is this mental thing I have around achieving a full comeback from waking up at the hospital. I was unable to walk and I was like, wait a second, if I can go from not being able to walk to running a marathon in a three-year span, then I can let that be a part of the past and be like, 'I'm back. I'm good.'"

MAJOR BLOW TO PAKISTAN'S WORLD TEST CHAMPIONSHIP FINAL HOPES AFTER LOSS TO ENGLAND

Rawalpindi | Agencies

Pakistan's 74-run loss to Ben Stokes' England in the opening Test here on Monday has severely jeopardised the hosts' chances of securing a World Test Championship (WTC) final berth. Pakistan were placed fifth in the ICC World Test Championship standings, but had a realistic chance of making the final because of the five home Tests against England and New Zealand. However, a below-par performance on the final day at the Rawalpindi Cricket Stadium saw them lose their position of strength. While England are virtually out of contention to reach the WTC final, the loss is a significant blow to Pakistan. Wins for Australia and India in their respective series' would see Pakistan miss out. Pakistan's loss also puts India in control to reach the WTC final given that they can now secure their place even if they lose one of the Tests against Australia at home, provided they sweep Bangladesh, reports ICC. If Australia win the remaining Test against West Indies and at least two Tests against South Africa, they would still be well placed to make the final.

She says: "When I was offered the role, my first notion was to gain as much knowledge about the character that I would be portraying. I took my time, pondered over it, and started with my research."

out about her fears and how she tries to overcome them one step at a time.

In a conversation with her manager Ekta, where she asks if Malaika was dodging a movie script because of her fear of acting.

Malaika says, "I am not dodging it... I am just not sure. Honestly, it's not the fear of acting, but more about the discomfort I feel in mouthing dialogues. Standing up in front of people and actually being comfortable about emoting with dialogues is something I have always been a little apprehensive about. I get a little nervous about it... So that's probably why I shy away from it."

She adds: "Over the years there have been loads of scripts that I have seen and read but somewhere I've always stayed away. Well, that's another fear of mine. Even in school, I used to hate when I had to mug up something and say it in public."

"I thought it was the most daunting task. I felt there was so much pressure, that it would make me feel very uneasy. I couldn't eat, sleep or do anything if I had to learn something. So this fear of mine has just always been there."

Talking about the same, she said, "This song is about getting cheated by a guy which is totally relatable to many because it's going on in the society quite a lot and I have experienced it personally too. Most importantly, I shot the song in the US as I literally waited for the fall season to shoot this music video inspired by the song 'Tumhi Dekho Na (KANK)'. I just love the fall season and I made up my mind that I'm going to shoot one of my songs in America during Autumn."
