Wheat, flour prices soar, expected to remain high till new crop arrives

Team Absolute | New Delhi

In the past one month, prices of wheat and flour have soared by 5 per cent and 4 per cent, respectively, and commodity watchers expect them to remain high till the new crop arrives, which is bad news for the consumers of the two essential commodities.

In the past one year, wheat prices have gone up by 15 per cent, while flour prices have increased by 23 per cent, and with the new crop expected only in April 2023, the prices are expected to remain high, market watchers said.

Owing to the Russia-Ukraine war, global demand for wheat has increased sharply while production has been low, which has led to the spike in prices of the commodity.

As of now, the government has 227 metric tonnes of wheat, which is just 22 tonnes more than the buffer stock norms of 205 metric tonnes. However, if sources are to be believed, the government does not have any plans to sell wheat in the open market or apply stock limit.

Sources also pointed out that the government is monitoring the situation and the inter-ministerial committee will review the prices of wheat this week.

The amendments impose a legal obligation on intermediaries to take reasonable efforts to prevent users from uploading such content.

Bilkis Bano moves SC, challenges premature release of 11 convicts

The premature release of convicts on August 15 set off a huge controversy, with political parties and civil society organisations demanding the decision be rolled back. The convicts, in fact, received a 'heroic welcome' amidst fanfare, triggering controversy.

In the aftermath of their release, several activists and leaders from opposition parties moved the Supreme Court challenging the Gujarat government's decision to set convicts free.

When the matter came up for hearing, the state government in its affidavit told the court that the release of convicts was based on their "good behaviour" and that they had already spent 18 years in jail. It had also told the court that the decision had the approval of the Union home ministry.

Team Absolute | New Delhi

Bilkis Bano has approached the Supreme Court challenging the premature release of 11 convicts who gang-raped her and killed her family members, including her three-old daughter in 2002. She has also sought the review of the Supreme Court's earlier judgment that allowed the Gujarat government to make a decision on the remission of the convicts, LiveLaw reported.

Chief Justice D.Y. Chandrachud said he will look into the matter today, November 30 evening, and decide on the listing of the petitions.

Advocate Shoba Gupta, appearing on behalf of Bano, sought to know from the CJJ if the matter would come up before a bench headed by Justice Ajay Rastogi since he is now part of a constitutional bench hearing Justice Rastogi had earlier authored the verdict that allowed the Gujarat government to consider remission pleas of the convicts, which Bano has opposed. Bano's advocate, Gupta, urged the CJJ that the matter be heard in an open court. To this, CJJ said, "Only court can decide that. The review has to be heard first. Let it come before Justice Rastogi." The convicts walked out of the Godhra sub-jail on August 15, after a Gujarat government panel approved their application for remission of sentence under the state's 1992 remission policy.

In May, a bench led by Justice Rastogi had said that the Gujarat government had the jurisdiction to consider the remission pleas of the convicts since the crime took place in Gujarat. The apex court bench had overturned Gujarat high court's earlier ruling that remission pleas must be considered by the state of Maharashtra since the trial was transferred out of Gujarat.

PUNJAB POLICE CANE-CHARGE PROTESTING FARMERS IN SANGRUR

Chandigarh: Punjab Police on Wednesday cane-charged protesting farmers and farm labourers outside Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann's rented house in Sangrur town. Mann is currently campaigning in Gujarat for the assembly polls.

Tens of thousands of farmers assembled there over their demand, including an increase of minimum daily wages to Rs 700 under the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Act 2005 (MGNREGA), implementing five-marla plot schemes for Dalits and allotment of the third part of common panchayat land on lease to the community.

They were protesting under the flag of Sanjha Mazdoor Morcha, a joint front of eight labour unions.

In the evening, as they marched towards the chief minister's residence, the police resorted to the cane-charge to disperse them.

Satara | Agencies

A fresh row erupted in Maharashtra politics after a Bharatiya Janata Party minister Mangal Prabhat Lodha compared Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj's escape from Agra Fort in 1666 from Mughal clutches with the 2022 political rebellion against the party (Shiv Sena) by Eknath Shinde who later became the Chief Minister.

At a commemoration function atop the historic Pratapgad Fort on Wednesday afternoon, Lodha - a prominent realtor, made the comparison which drew strong reactions from the Opposition Maha Vikas Aghadi allies.

"Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj went out of Agra, so is Shinde. As Aurangzeb had barred the Maharaj, someone also had stopped Shinde. Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj came out for 'Swarajya', Shinde did it for Maharashtra," claimed Lodha.

The BJP minister's comments left CM Shinde and Deputy CM Devendra Fadnis aghast and the large audience virtually speechless, while the Opposition slammed him, with one of the allies launching demonstrations. Nationalist Congress Party (NCP)'s Leader of Opposition Ajit Pawar attacked Lodha, demanding 'control' over people who make such statements even in the presence of the CM.

"These people who keep making such statements must be controlled. After one stumbles, the other becomes cautious. But, it seems there is competition among them. Can Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj ever be compared like this," fumed Pawar. Shiv Sena (UBT) leader and ex-Minister Aditya Thackeray condemned the comparison of Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj with those whom Maharashtra considers as 'gaddaar' (traitors). Congress Legislature Party Leader Balasaheb Thorat said that this has become a trend, with Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj being insulted by the Governor, the BJP spokesperson and now a minister.

"The Chhatrapati is the pride of the state. We strongly condemn the minister's statement. He must apologise for it or the people of the state will never forget it," demanded Thorat.

GANDHIJI, SARDAR PATEL GUJARAT'S PRIDE IN 20TH CENTURY, PM MODI IN 21ST: RAJNATH SINGH

Ahmedabad: Defence Minister Rajnath Singh today said Mahatma Gandhi and Vallabhbhai Patel were the symbols of Gujarat's honour and pride in the 20th Century and Prime Minister Narendra Modi has emerged as the state's "honour and pride" in the 21st Century.

"While Mahatma Gandhi and Sardar Patel were the symbols of Gujarat's honour and pride in the 20th Century, our Prime Minister Narendra Modi has emerged as Gujarat's honour and pride in the 21st Century. And today, foul language is being used by Congress for our PM," he said.

NEW NDTV BOARD APPROVES PRANNOY ROY & RADHIKA ROY'S RESIGNATION

Team Absolute | New Delhi

In a dramatic late night development on Tuesday, the new NDTV board approved the resignations of Prannoy Roy and Radhika Roy as directors of RRPR Holding Private Ltd (RRPR), the promoter group vehicle of New Delhi Television Ltd (NDTV).

This means that the existing and longstanding promoters and management of NDTV has exited the company. The Adani group takeover is thus complete.

The board also appointed Sanjay Pugalia and Senthil Chengalvarayan as directors on RRPR board with immediate effect.

It needs to be mentioned that NDTV's promoter firm RRPR Holding had on Monday stated that it had transferred shares constituting 99.5 per cent of its equity capital to Adani group-owned Vishvapradhan Commercial (VCPL), thus completing the official takeover of NDTV by the Adani group.

The transfer of shares will give the Adani group control over a 29.18 per cent stake in NDTV. The open offer, which began on November 22, has seen shareholders tender 5.3 million shares, or 31.78 per cent of the issue size of 16.7 million shares, so far, the exchange data showed. The open offer will close on December 5.

GDP GROWTH HALVED TO 6.3% IN SEP QUARTER OF CURRENT FISCAL

New Delhi: As India's GDP growth halved to 6.3 per cent in the September quarter of the current fiscal from 13.5 per cent in the June quarter, economists said that the fall is in line with broader expectations, including RBI's own forecast. The drastic fall in GDP growth in July-September period was mainly due to moderating of a favourable base effect.

The GDP had expanded by 8.4 per cent in September quarter of 2021-22, according to data released by the National Statistical Office (NSO).

GDP growth was boosted by the performance of private consumption expenditure and gross fixed capital formation, whereas government expenditure displayed a discouraging contraction in Q2 FY2023, on account of the modest de-growth in the Centre's non-interest revenue expenditure. Additionally, net imports nearly doubled as compared to the year-ago period, exerting a drag on the GDP growth. Moreover, discrepancies stood at a 10-quarter high in Q2 FY2023, which suggest substantial revisions in the sectoral growth prints may lie ahead.

'Entities registered as companies to be allowed to provide local news'

The Cable Television Networks Rules, 1994, permit Multi-System Operators (MSOs) to transmit their own programming service, either directly to their own subscribers or through one or more Local Cable Operators.

These own programming services referred to as Platform Services (PS), which also include most 'local-channels', are exclusive programming services being generated at local level offered by MSOs.

All PS channels will be placed together under genre 'Platform Services' in the Electronic Programme Guide (EPG) along with their Maximum Retail Price and option for activation/de-activation of PS as per the applicable orders/directions/regulation(s) of TRAI.

MSOs offering PS, to retain recording of all PS channel programmes for a period of 90 days, said the guidelines.

Team Absolute | New Delhi

Only entities registered as 'companies' will be allowed to provide local news and current affairs, the guidelines issued by the government stated.

As per the guidelines issued by the Ministry of Information and Broadcasting for Platform Services, MSOs (Multi System Operators) not registered as "company" and desirous of providing local news and current affairs are mandatorily required to apply within three months with Ministry of Corporate Affairs for conversion into "company".

The guidelines said that a simple online registration process for PS channels by MSOs is at nominal fees of Rs 1,000 per PS channel. It also said that the total number of permitted PS channels per operator is to be capped at 5 per cent of the total channel carriage capacity.

In accordance to the Rule 6(6) of the Cable Television Networks Rules, 1994; the Ministry of Information and Broadcasting on Wednesday issued the guidelines in respect of 'Platform Services' provided by MSOs in India.

To cater to the need of the local language and culture of the subscribers, the cap on PS channels shall be computed at the level of state/ union territory.

Also, additionally, 2 PS channels shall be permitted at the level of each District to cater to the need of local content at the District level.

Besides, all PS channels will have to carry a caption as 'Platform Services' to distinguish them from the registered TV channels.

The guidelines included that the content of the PS to be exclusive to the platform and is not to be shared directly or indirectly with any other Distribution Platform Operator.

However, sharing of live feeds from the religious places like Temples, Gurudwaras etc., shall be permitted.

GOVT TELLS TELCOS NOT TO INSTALL 5G BASE STATIONS WITHIN 2.1 KM FROM AIRPORTS

Team Absolute | New Delhi

The Department of Telecommunications (DoT) has sent a letter to telecom providers Bharti Airtel, Reliance Jio and Vodafone not to install C-band 5G base stations within the 2.1 km range of Indian airports with immediate effect, as C-Band 5G can create problems with the aircraft's radio (radar) altimeters, which they rely on during takeoff and landing, and to help avoid crashing into mountains.

The DoT letter, seen by IANS, said that the telecom service providers (TSPs) are advised that "in the area 2,100 meters from both ends of runway and 910 meters from centre line of runway of Indian Airports shall have no 5G/IMT base stations in the 3,300-3,670 MHz".

"The base station, nodal or repeater installed in the periphery of 540 metres surrounding the area, the maximum power must be limited to 58 dBm/ MHz in 3,300-3,670 MHz range," the letter said.

Airtel has installed 5G base stations at airports in Nagpur, Bengaluru, New Delhi, Guwahati and Pune, While Jio has installed 5G base stations in the Delhi-NCR area.

According to the DoT letter, the Ministry of Civil Aviation has provided the buffer and safety zone sketch and has requested to ensure mitigation measures while implementing C-band 5G spectrum, in and around the airport areas in view of the safety concerns for operation of aircrafts.

The DoT asked telecom providers to ensure downward tilting of 5G base stations to an extent such that the 5G emissions do not interfere with radio altimeters. The new rule will be applicable till the replacement of all aircraft Radio Altimeters filters is ensured by the DGCA.

"It is expected that the Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) will proactively ensure the above in a time-bound and expeditious manner. DGCA is requested to inform DOT as soon as the above task is complete to enable lifting of the restrictions," read the DoT letter. As high-speed 5G wireless networks roll out across the world, pilots in the US are also reporting frequent problems with the aircraft's radio (radar) altimeters.

According to an analysis of reports by IEEE Spectrum (the world's leading engineering magazine) made to NASA's Aviation Safety Reporting System (ASRS), complaints of malfunctioning and failing altimeters soared after the rollout earlier this year of high-speed 5G wireless networks, which use similar C-band frequencies.

In January this year, at least three flights above Tennessee in the US simultaneously experienced altimeter errors that made it "impossible to maintain assigned altitude", according to one of the pilots.

One jet lost its autopilot completely, and reportedly had fire trucks waiting for it on landing.

According to the report, in February, a passenger plane on approach to the Louis Armstrong International Airport in New Orleans experienced erratic low-altitude warnings as it flew below 1,000 feet.

In March, a commercial jet landing on autopilot at Los Angeles International Airport suddenly went into an aggressive descent just 100 feet above the ground.

All three incidents -- and many more this year -- were linked by pilots to problems with the aircraft's radio altimeters, according to the report.

Condoms, contraceptives found in school bags in B'loru

Team Absolute | Bengaluru

A routine exercise of checking school bags in Bengaluru schools revealed shocking facts of the students being in possession of condoms, contraceptives, cigarettes and whiteners.

Incidents such as consuming alcohol, having shots of vodka in schools have become quite common these days. But, what is disturbing is that substances are found, says D. Shashikumar, general secretary of the Associated Managements of Schools in Karnataka (KAMS).

Shashikumar told reporter on Wednesday that this is just the tip of the iceberg. The schools have decided to send these children on a 10-day holiday. The managements have also decided to keep the information confidential and arrange counselling for the students and their parents. The checking was conducted mainly in the schools located on the outskirts of Bengaluru.

The condoms and contraceptives were found in the bags of Class 10 students, both boys and girls. Upon questioning, the students without any hesitation told the teaching staff that they needed to have some fun amid their tight schedule, sources said. The behaviour is also attributed to the isolation period of two years during the Covid pandemic as the children spent most of their time with electronic gadgets.

The parents and school managements conceal these facts fearing getting a bad reputation. There are small children who are drug peddlers. If the matter reaches a high-level committee, we will speak about it, Shashikumar said.

It was a routine exercise taken up by the school managements as per the advice of KAMS. In a meeting these facts were discussed in the interest of students. "I made a submission to the Child Welfare Committee in this regard four days ago but there has been no response," he said.

BS-IV vehicle scam: ED attaches properties worth Rs 22 cr, Ashok Leyland's role being probed

Team Absolute | New Delhi

The Enforcement Directorate (ED) on Wednesday said that it has attached properties worth Rs 22.10 crore of firms in a Prevention of Money Laundering case relating to the BS-IV vehicle scam, and the role of Ashok Leyland was also being probed.

The properties are in the names of firms connected to Diwakar Road Lines and Jatadhara Industries Pvt Ltd. of former Andhra Pradesh TDP MLA J.C. Prabhakar Reddy, and another firm C. Gopal Reddy & Co and family members.

The Supreme Court had in 2017 ordered that vehicles that were not compliant to BS IV emission norms should not be sold in India by any manufacturer or dealer from April 1, 2017, and that the registering authorities were also prohibited.

However, Jatadhara Industries Pvt Ltd (JIPL) and C. Gopal Reddy and Co in contravention to the aforesaid Order purchased BS-III vehicles from

Ashok Leyland Ltd at discount and fraudulently registered the same as BS-IV vehicles by fabricating the invoice copies. Investigation revealed that some of the registrations were done in Nagaland, Karnataka and Andhra Pradesh.

"The ED has gathered evidence in the form of fabricated invoices from RTO authorities in Nagaland and original invoices issued by Ashok Leyland as scrap for some vehicles and established the crime. The crime proceeds generated by owning and selling these vehicles have been quantified as Rs 38.36 crore," the ED said. As a result of the investigation and searches, movable properties to the extent of Rs 6.31 crore consisting of bank balances, cash, jewellery and receivables as well as 68 number of immovable properties to the extent of Rs 15.79 crore belonging to accused and their family members have been attached.

Further investigation was in progress, including the role of Ashok Leyland in the entire scam.

K'TAKA FARMER GETS RS 8.36 FOR SELLING 205 KG ONIONS, RECEIPT GOES VIRAL

Gadag, (Karnataka) : The receipt of a farmer from Karnataka's Gadag district showing that he received only Rs 8.36 after selling 205 kg of onions, has gone viral on social media, prompting netizens to question the state's ruling BJP government over the plight of farmers during its regime. But this is not the story of just one farmer in Gadag. All onion growers in the district are getting less than Rs 10 per their produce in Bengaluru's Yeshwanthpur market.

The farmers travel a 416 km-long distance to reach Bengaluru from Gadag.

In Pavadeppa Hallikeri's case, whose receipt has gone viral, the wholesaler priced the farmer's 205 kg produce at Rs 200 per quintal, deducted Rs 377 for freight charges and another Rs 24 for porter charges.

Another farmer from the district who had gone to the Bengaluru market with 212 kg of onion, got a total of Rs 1,000. But, after deducting the porter commission, transport charge, hamali charges, he only received Rs 10.

The farmers managed to reap a good crop following the incessant rain creating havoc.

But, the crash of prices of the onion crop has devastated the lives of farmers of the entire district, explain locals. The people are demanding that the Minister for Agriculture B.C. Patil, who is also a district in-charge minister of Gadag district, to come forward and help the farmers.

The actress said she was travelling in a jeep licensed by the Forest Department which stuck to the designated 'tourism path', scoffing at reports contending her vehicles driving close to a tigress in the protected areas of the reserve on November 22. Raveena added that she was accompanied on her safari by trained guides and drivers provided by the Forest Department, who are trained to know their boundaries and legalities.

The video which went viral on the social media, shows the safari jeep purportedly near the tigress, camera shutter sounds are audible as also the tigress roaring at them in the sanctuary. Following an uproar, the MP Forest Department authorities ordered a probe on Tuesday (November 29), and all those who were on that safari shall be questioned.

"Once can never predict when and how the tigers will react.... Luckily for us, that we did not take any sudden action, but sat quiet and watched the tigress move on," Raveena said. "We were on the tourism path, which mostly these tigers cross. And Katy the tigress in

Farmers in Ratlam wait for insurance payouts of loss sustain years ago

Team Absolute | Ratlam

In 2018, when heavy rain destroyed his soybean crops, Sunil Patidar of Shivpur was not worried as he had insured his crops under the Pradhan Mantri Fasal Bima Yojana (PMFBY). He filed for mid-seasonal crop loss claim immediately, expecting to use the money for the next crop cycle. Four years on, he still awaits the insurance amount.

"I had taken a loan to sow soybean on my six bighas, but rains destroyed everything. The Patwari (revenue officer) surveyed the place and sent a report to the insurance company. Subsequently, my compensation of Rs 4,500 per bigha was approved. In total, I was to receive Rs 27,000," Sunil tells Reporters. Everything was in order, but the ICICI Bank allegedly misnamed Shivpur village as Sevria while submitting the claims information to the insurance company. Result: Sunil is yet to receive his money.

According to reports, 38 complaints related to the 2020 kharif season remain unresolved till date. Launched by Prime Minister Narendra Modi on January 13, 2016, the scheme aimed at reducing the insurance premium burden on farmers who take loans for their crops, besides protecting them from the vagaries of weather.

A uniform premium of only 2 per cent for all kharif crops and 1.5 per cent for all rabi crops will be paid by the farmers and the remaining premium will be paid by the government, so that the farmers are provided the full sum insured for crop loss in the case of natural calamities. There is no upper limit on government subsidies. Even if the remaining premium is 90 per cent, it will be borne by the government.

Farmers complain that crop loss surveys are not conducted on time. Often, there is a delay in updating information on the insurance portal also. "Floods damaged my soybean crops. Patwari came on time to survey the loss, but the insurance company employee did not reach out for verification. I complained to the tehsildar and he contacted the insurance company. Fifteen days have passed, nothing has happened," says Rameshwar Lal of Sejadvada village.

"We staged a dharna at the Collectorate under the banner of Bhartiya Kisan Sangh. That did get us an extension in 2020 from March 1 to March 10 to make an online portal entry. But even then, the insurance amount was not received," the farmers say.

Acknowledging that 38 farmers in the district have lodged a complaint with the CM helpline, he says the amounts were not received mostly due to closure of bank accounts. "In such cases, banks return the amount to the insurance company. We are making efforts to get the money back." Farmers, however, say there is a need to decentralise the functioning of insurance companies by launching offices or help centres at the local level.

CLIMATE CHANGE WARRIORS ON AN ASSERTIVE STREAK

Asad Mirza

After successfully getting a Loss and Damage Fund established, the climate change warriors have also launched legal actions against unresponsive governments.

It seems that Climate Change is now gaining real traction and importance for the common people more and more, but our politicians are not ready to take any notice of these changes, which are going to have immeasurable negative impact on the lives of billions of people across the globe.

Besides calls for wealthier nations to provide compensation to underdeveloped countries to cover the costs of severe damage and losses, citizens of some countries have also initiated legal proceedings against their governments for inadequately addressing the climate change fallout.

The month of November saw two environment-related incidents taking place. First, at the latest COP summit at Sharm El-Sheikh in Egypt, termed as 'Africa's COP', the voice of the most-vulnerable and most-affected countries was heard with an agreement to establish a loss and damage facility.

However, progress is still snail-paced in terms of raising ambitions to curb greenhouse gas emissions. Leaders attempted to keep that goal alive at the Egypt conference, but did not increase calls to reduce carbon emissions.

November also saw hundreds of activists, including Greta Thunberg, marching through the streets of Stockholm to a court to file a lawsuit against the Swedish government for what they claim is insufficient climate action.

Lawsuit by Swedish citizens

Over 600 young activists signed an 87-page document, which would serve as the foundation for the lawsuit, which was filed in the Stockholm District Court.

They want the court to rule that the country's climate policies violate the human rights of its citizens. According to Anton Foley, spokesman for the youth-led initiative Aurora, which prepared and filed the lawsuit, Sweden has never treated the climate crisis as a crisis. Sweden is failing to fulfil its responsibilities and is breaking the law.

Earlier, in one of the most high-profile cases, Germany's highest court ruled last year that the government's climate targets must be adjusted to avoid undue burden on the young. The German government responded by pushing back its target for net zero emissions by five years to 2045 and laying out more ambitious near and medium-term steps to achieve that goal.

What emerges from this is that people all across the world are increasingly becoming aware of the damages wrought by the Climate Change, and also understanding that who is the main culprit for unleashing this catastrophe, in pursuance of greed and lucre.

What is loss and damage?

The Alliance of Small Island States at international climate negotiations in Geneva in 1991, first introduced the concept of loss and damage, but it was not seriously considered again until 2013 at the COP-19 climate conference in Warsaw, Poland. The Warsaw International Mechanism for Loss and Damage was created with the aim of enhancing knowledge of the issue and finding ways to approach it. There has been little progress since then. The Glasgow COP, last year rejected a proposal made by members of the G-77 group of over a hundred developing countries and China for a formal loss and damage financial facility. Instead, in a bureaucratic manner, the Glasgow Dialogue was established for further discussion on the issue and its funding. Critics have described the dialogue as "an excuse to delay further action." It seems as if the rich countries are dragging their feet on financing any such endeavour.

While historically, between 1751 and 2017, the US, the European countries and the UK were responsible for 47 per cent of cumulative carbon dioxide emissions, as compared to just 6 per cent from the entire African and South American continents. Yet, the culprits have been slow to make financial contributions to ease the impact on the most affected countries. In 2010, Global North nations agreed to pledge $100 billion annually by 2020 to help developing countries adapt to the impacts of climate change. But according to the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), which tracks funding, in 2020 wealthy countries pledged just over $83 billion. That was a 4 per cent increase on the previous year, but it still falls short of the agreed amount.

What's the impediment?

Though in principle, developed nations acknowledge the need to address loss and damage, some amongst them argue for financing through existing climate funds, insurance schemes and humanitarian aid. Their reluctance is reflected in the European Union's briefing, for example, which said that it was "open to discussing L&D (loss and damage) as a topic but hesitant about creating a dedicated L&D fund".

Former British Prime Minister and WHO ambassador for global health financing, Gordon Brown has realistically opined that the announcement of the new initiative -- the global loss and damage fund -- to right historical wrongs by compensating climate-hit developing countries, might be a good feel factor but the real question is whether the developed world will really loosen its purse strings?

This breakthrough, he says, brought back memories of another initiative, the 100 billion pounds a year agreed at the 2009 Copenhagen climate summit to help poor countries mitigate the effects of the climate crisis. Brown says further that that money has never fully materialised. If 13 years' experience of the 100 billion pounds fund that never was is anything to go by, eulogies of praise will soon turn into allegations of betrayal. Far from the loss and damage fund narrowing the credibility gap on climate action, it is likely to bridge nothing if money fails to flow from rich to poor.

What is needed, however, is not less but more aid to help developing countries tackle the dramatic consequences of an unprecedented series of crises. Indeed, developing countries, unlike advanced economies, had no fiscal, monetary, or social space at the onset of these crises, to raise the issue.

One key priority for the global community should be not only to increase aid but also to make it much greener to help developing countries tackle the challenge of climate adaptation in an effective manner. Green aid encompasses financial and technical assistance to governments and direct investments in projects in both mitigation and adaptation to climate change.

PROTESTERS TURN STREETS INTO WARZONES IN CHINESE CITY

London | Agencies

Protesters screamed as they threw glass bottles at scores of riot police in China, as demonstrators continue to defy President Xi Jinping's brutal Communist regime and his disastrous zero-Covid policies, media reported.

The sound of shouts and the smashing of glass pierced the night air in the southern Chinese city of Guangzhou, as the defiant and frustrated protesters clashed with riot police carrying shields.

Hundreds of riot police, seen wearing hazmat suits for the first time, advanced towards the protesters and were seen dragging the screaming protesters away to unknown locations in dystopian scenes. The violent protests mark some of the strongest dissent China has seen for over 30 years - but despite Beijing cracking down on protesters with ruthless violence, demonstrators are still defiantly turning out on the streets and fighting back against Xi's officials, Daily Mail reported. There have been violent protests in China before - but these protests, which have extended from Beijing to Shanghai, are different because they are spontaneous, nation-wide and directed at the central government. The protests mark the most overt threat against Xi's government and his brutal Communist regime since he took power 10 years ago, Daily Mail reported. In Guangzhou, angry protesters threw anything they could find - including glass bottles - at the police officers, who covered under their riot shields. The violent clashes prompted a fierce rebuke, with officers dragging screaming protesters away to unknown locations. Earlier on Tuesday night, locals shopping in a market watched on as a steady stream of riot police officers marched in formation through the streets of Guangzhou. The arrival of hundreds of riot police escalated tensions in the city and video shows demonstrators throwing glass bottles at the officials in chaotic and violent scenes.

The riot police were seen tightly bunched together, with rows of officers protecting themselves from the incoming onslaught of glass with their see-through shields. In the video, people could be seen screaming and shouting in frustration at the brutal crackdown against protesters who are demonstrating against Xi's zero-Covid policy which has seen millions placed under strict lockdowns for months, Daily Mail reported.

Putin is failing in his brutal war of aggression: NATO chief

Bucharest | Agencies

NATO Secretary General Jens Stoltenberg said that Russian President Vladimir Putin is "failing in his brutal war of aggression" in Ukraine and is "responding with more brutality".

He made the statement on Tuesday while attending a forum in the Romanian capital of Bucharest. In his opening remarks, Stoltenberg said that in response to Russia's full-fledged invasion of Ukraine, "we are raising the readiness of our troops".

"We have doubled the number of NATO battlegroups from four to eight, including one in Romania, led by France," he said.

The Secretary General stressed that NATO allies and the alliance are not a party to the conflict in Ukraine, "but we are providing unprecedented support" to Kiev for as long as it takes.

"Because Ukraine is a nation that has the right to self-defence, a right which is enshrined in the UN Charter."

According to the NATO chief, Putin is trying to "weaponise winter".

"To force Ukrainians to freeze or flee. He is trying to break the will of the brave Ukrainian people. And to divide all of us who support them." Stoltenberg went on to say that NATO and its allies have made additional pledges to the alliance's Comprehensive Assistance Package for Ukraine which will fund urgent non-lethal support, including fuel and generators, as well as help fix critical energy infrastructure badly damaged by massive Russian missile and drone strikes.

"We realise that it is extremely important that President Putin is not able to win in Ukraine. That will be a tragedy for Ukraine, but it will also make the world more dangerous and much more vulnerable," he added.

Later at a press conference with the NATO chief also in Bucharest, Ukrainian Foreign Minister Dmytro Kuleba said the last time he met senior officials of the alliance, his three words were "weapons, weapons, weapons".

'US WORKING TO IMPROVE EARLY WARNING SYSTEM AGAINST N.KOREAN MISSILE LAUNCHES'

Washington: The US is working to further improve its missile warning system, the commander of US Space Command has said, following a barrage of North Korean missile tests that included multiple intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) launches.

"We are looking at how we integrate a sensor architecture that gives us as much warning as possible in terms of any type of missile activity out of North Korea," Gen James Dickinson said on Tuesday in a webinar hosted by the Mitchell Institute for Aerospace Studies, a Washington-based research organisation.

Dickinson said the Space Command is currently working to integrate existing US assets into "an architecture where we can provide both the US and our allies and partners as much advanced warning as possible", adding, "We are also looking at how we can incorporate commercial sensors in the same respect."

His remarks come after a recent series of North Korean missile launches, Yonhap news agency reported. Pyongyang fired over 30 ballistic missiles since late September, also conducting its 10th ICBM test of the year on November 18.

Since the start of the year, the North launched an annual record of 63 ballistic missiles, far exceeding the previous record of 25 in 2019.

United Nation's envoy warns of dangerous escalation in Syria

United Nations | Agencies

UN Special Envoy for Syria Geir Pedersen has warned of a dangerous escalation in the war-torn Arab nation.

"In repeated briefings, I have warned of the dangers of military escalation in Syria. I am here in person today to tell you that escalatory dynamics are indeed taking place, and this is worrying and dangerous," he told the Security Council in a briefing on Tuesday.

For many months there has been a slow increase in mutual strikes between the Syrian Democratic Forces (SDF) on one side, and Turkey and armed opposition groups on the other, across northern Syria and with violence spilling over into Turkish territory, he said.

On November 20, a week after the bombing in Istanbul, which Turkey attributed to the Kurdish People's Protection Units (YPG) in and the Kurdistan Workers Party (PKK) -- a claim that the SDF denied -- Turkey launched what it called the "Claw-Sword Air Operation".

There were also reports of SDF strikes on Turkish forces and armed opposition-controlled areas and inside of Turkish territory, said Pedersen.

dwellers will be exempted from flood-like situations during rainy days. There are 309 major canals in Mumbai, their length is about 290 km. Along with this, and there are 508 small canals, whose length is 605 km. With this decision of BMC, on the one hand, electricity can be generated; on the other hand, the problem of smell will also be relieved. This project was proposed about 6 years ago, which has now received the green signal.

“In November 2016, the then Corporator Dilip Patel had made this proposal. In the proposal given 6 years ago, it was said that a large number of people live in the vicinity of these open drains. They have to face foul smell. Due to the dumping of garbage in the drains, the surrounding areas get submerged during the rains. If solar panels are installed on these small and big drains, then the stench will also go away and green energy will also be generated. There is a plan to install solar panels on the drains with RCC slabs on them. The official informed that the meeting was held twice on this proposal. After which it got approved.

COPS HUNT FOR MAN WHO STALK-CHASED MINOR GIRLS IN BOSS' MERCEDES

Team Absolute | Mumbai

The Amboli Police have launched a manhunt to track down an absconder, who along with his friend, had stalk-chased two minor schoolgirls in their boss' Mercedes car last weekend in Andheri west, an official said here on Wednesday. "We have already arrested one person and have formed a special team to track down the other missing accused... He will be nabbed soon," Amboli Police Station Senior Police Inspector Bandopant D. Bansode said. The shocking incident occurred last Saturday afternoon on the Apna Bazar Lane towards the busy main thoroughfare, Veera Desai Road, when the two 15-year-old girls were returning home from a tuition class. On seeing them, the duo -- Salman Qureshi and Zeeshan -- started teasing them, passing vulgar comments and making lewd gestures, alarming them.

The petrified girls immediately hailed an autorickshaw to rush home when the undeterred duo in the Mercedes gave a hot chase to the three-wheeler for nearly half an hour, even attempting to intercept it at times.

At one point, when the autorickshaw got mired in a traffic snarl, Qureshi hopped out of the car and chucked a note with his phone number on one of the girl's lap. After the harrowing experience, the girls managed to reach home and the father of one, who feared possible kidnap and harm to them, complained to the Amboli Police Station. Moving swiftly, the Amboli Police managed to track down Qureshi and is on lookout to catch Zeeshan, who may have fled to his home-state Uttar Pradesh. Qureshi has been booked under various sections of the Indian Penal Code and Protection of Children from Sexual Offences, and further probe was on, said Bansode. The two working in a garment shop, had taken their boss' car for a joyride when the incident occurred. The incident sparked fresh concerns on social media and among parents, but the police earned laurels for their prompt action in the matter.

Will track travel route to uncover death on bus : Nerul police

Team Absolute | Mumbai

The Nerul police will track the route taken by the 22-year-old woman who died while travelling from Goa to Mumbai in a bus. Cops will check all the major points where the bus had stopped and then go on to Goa to investigate the matter. The inspector (crime) at Nerul police station is handling the case. Tamina Alem, a Malwani resident, died on the bus on Sunday. She was allegedly coming to Mumbai from Goa with her friend after she sustained injuries while learning to ride a scooter on Friday. Forensic experts have concluded that the primary reason behind her death is a head injury. Her viscera have been reserved for histopathological analysis. Senior Inspector Tanaji Bhagat of Nerul police station said, "The primary cause of the death mentioned by the forensic expert is head injury. It is hard to believe that her friend was unaware of the injury. Her mother has told us that she had spoken to Alem the morning of the day she died." "We need to conduct a more detailed investigation. We have to reverse track the bus route and check CCTV camera footage wherever the bus stopped. If necessary, a team can be sent to Goa for further investigation," said Bhagat. The bus driver and the cleaner, in their statement, said the woman was fine when she boarded the bus, but fell unconscious when the bus stopped at Kohinoor Hotel in Satara. Alem's friend Sachin Kittu, who had gone down to get tea, had asked the driver to take the bus to a hospital, but he refused. They allegedly also had a fight, but the bus driver and cleaner denied beating up Kittu, said a police source.

The Vishnu Nagar police on Monday were moved by the actions of an underprivileged woman who turned in her son on learning he had snatched a gold chain from an 85-year-old. The police, who had been examining CCTV footage of the incident, were startled when the accused's mother not only helped identify him but also took the cops to her home to nab him. The senior citizen, Kamala Choudhary, ventured out for a walk around 7.30 am on Monday. When she reached Devi Chowk, Dombivli West, a young man emerged from behind, snatched her mangalsutra which is worth Rs 40,000 and fled. Choudhary, who sustained an injury on her leg, approached the Vishnu Nagar police station at 11.30 am to register a complaint against the snatcher.

After examining footage from CCTV cameras along Choudhary's route, the police zeroed in on a person in a yellow shirt and Capri pants. Choudhary confirmed that he was the perpetrator. The cops then circulated the footage across police stations. "We formed a team to track down the accused and during the investigation, a person revealed that he was a Phule Nagar resident. When the cops reached the locality, they came across an elderly woman, Tanibai Raju Waghri, around 5.30 pm. When the cops showed her the footage, she immediately identified the man as her son Kanu," said Pandharinath Bhalerao, senior inspector, Vishnu Nagar police station. "Our team was dumbstruck when Tanibai asked why we were inquiring about Kanu. The cops replied that had he met with an accident, but she said he was at home.

The cops then broke it to her that he had snatched a mangalsutra, which infuriated her. She immediately took the cops to her home," Bhalerao added. Kanu, 30, told the cops that his wife had undergone surgery a couple of months ago, which exhausted his savings of Rs 40,000. "His flower business had apparently been hampered due to the lockdown and he decided to snatch chains to make ends meet," said a police officer. The cops have recovered the mangalsutra while Waghri has been sent to police custody by a court. Tanibai said, "It's true that we are in need of money, but should this drive someone to commit crime? I was shocked to learn that my son had snatched the mangalsutra of an elderly woman, causing her injuries. It is really unfortunate. I can't say anything else."

PRAKASH AMBEDKAR ASKS UDDHAV-LED SENA TO CLARIFY STAND ON ALLIANCE WITH MVA

Team Absolute | Mumbai

Vanchit Bahujan Aghadi (VBA) leader Prakash Ambedkar on Tuesday asked the Uddhav Thackeray-led Shiv Sena to clarify whether there would be an alliance between the VBA and Maha Vikas Aghadi (MVA). The Thackeray faction of the Shiv Sena is in talks with the VBA for a tie-up, but the former is already a constituent of the Maha Vikas Aghadi (MVA) coalition which includes the Nationalist Congress Party and Congress. We want Uddhav Thackeray-led Shiv Sena to clarify whether there will be an alliance of the MVA and VBA for future elections, or whether VBA and Sena will have a separate political alliance. Our earlier talks took place on a positive note, and now we have come to a stage where the VBA is keen on finding out the Sena's outlook towards us, Ambedkar's outfit said in a statement. VBA leaders and Subhash Desai of the Shiv Sena have held two rounds of meetings so far and both sides are positive on forming an alliance ahead of elections, it added. Prakash Ambedkar is the grandson of late Dr B R Ambedkar.

Mumbai court relies on DNA test report, sentences man to 20-year imprisonment for raping step-daughter

Team Absolute | Mumbai

A special court in Mumbai has relied on a DNA test report and sentenced a 41-year-old man to 20 years' imprisonment for repeatedly raping his 16-year-old step-daughter since 2019 and impregnating her, even the victim turned hostile during the case trial. Special Judge Anis Khan, designated to hear cases related to the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act, in the order passed on Tuesday said in such peculiar circumstances, DNA tests are an effective tool for investigation as well as to establish the proof of guilt of the accused. "The DNA report clearly indicates the accused was the biological father of the foetus of the victim girl," the court said in the order, a copy of which was made available on Wednesday. "It is, indeed, sad that a very serious and heinous offence has been committed by a step-father on his step-daughter who is a child below 18 years," it said.

Merely because the victim and her mother have turned hostile does not mean it would lead the prosecution case to fail, the court said. As per the prosecution, the accused had been raping the girl since October 2019. In June 2020, the girl informed about the offence to her mother following which a police complaint was lodged.

During a medical examination, it was revealed the girl was 16 weeks pregnant. The pregnancy was later terminated. During the trial, the victim and her mother turned hostile. The court in its judgement said the victim and her mother in their statements before the court claimed the accused was the only earning member of their family and hence they want to forgive him and bring him out of jail. "The statement given by the victim is sufficient to prove she is under emotional pressure from her mother and hence has denied the incidents," the court noted. "In these peculiar circumstances, DNA tests are an effective tool for investigation as well as to establish the proof of guilt of the accused. In the present case, the DNA test has proved that the accused and the victim were the biological parents of the foetus," the court said. The procedure of collection of blood samples, submission of the same to a lab and further analysis was done properly and hence the final DNA report has to be accepted, the court said.

Evan Peters explained the arduous prep he did for the notorious serial killer

Los Angeles | Agencies

Actor Evan Peters, who plays Jeffrey Dahmer in Netflix's hugely successful 'DAHMER - Monster: The Jeffrey Dahmer Story', explained the arduous prep he did to portray the notorious serial killer. The actor plays Dahmer in Ryan Murphy's 'DAHMER - Monster: The Jeffrey Dahmer Story', and while the series has garnered its fair share of criticism, Peters' visceral performance has been widely praised. In a conversation with Murphy and the series' ensemble cast, released on November 28, Peters detailed the arduous work that went into capturing Dahmer's ominous essence.

"He has such a distinct voice, and that dialect," Peters said.

"I worked with dialect coaches and then created this 45-minute audio composite that I listened to every day to stay in the accent, but also to really get into the mindset for the day and all the scenes we were shooting. I tried to attempt to understand what he was thinking and going through. I just tried to stay in it because it was too hard to go in and out of it."

Murphy pointed to a 1994 Dahmer interview, the only network television interview Dahmer ever granted, that Murphy personally suggested as inspiration.

Peters said he "watched as much as I could," which also included courtroom footage of Dahmer. However, it was more than just the voice that Peters focused on.

"I studied how he moved," he said. "He had a very straight back. He didn't move his arms when he walked."

In fact, Peters took things into his own hands literally. Murphy revealed that Peters actually wore lead weights around his hands to work on Dahmer's distinct posture. "In the beginning it was important for me to get how that felt," Peters said. "As we were shooting, I let that go. In the beginning I wore wardrobe's shoes, jeans and glasses. I had a cigarette in my hand at all times, just trying to get all of these external second-nature so I wasn't thinking about it when we were shooting."

Joe Pesci sustained "serious burns" while filming a scene

Los Angeles | Agencies

Actor Joe Pesci sustained "serious burns" on his head while filming a scene where his hat was set on fire in 'Home Alone 2: Lost in New York'. The star reprised his role as criminal Harry in the 1992 sequel and while he had a body double for the "real heavy stunts", the actor still suffered various injuries as a result of the pranks played on his character, including having his hat set on fire by Macaulay Culkin's Kevin McCallister, reports.

Pesci said: "In addition to the expected bumps, bruises, and general pains that you would associate with that particular type of physical humour, I did sustain serious burns to the top of my head during the scene where Harry's hat is set on fire."

"I was fortunate enough to have professional stuntmen do the real heavy stunts."

Pesci deliberately kept his distance from Macaulay on the set of the 'Home Alone' films in order to "maintain the integrity" of their relationship on screen.

He told: "I remember Macaulay as being a really sweet kid and, even at his age, very professional. I intentionally limited my interactions with him to preserve the dynamic between his character, Kevin, and my character Harry."

"(I did not) want it to come across on the screen that we were in any way friendly. I wanted to maintain the integrity of the adversarial relationship."

The 'Goodfellas' actor thinks it is unlikely he will reprise the role of 'Harry' again in the future because he doesn't think any new film could recreate the "innocence" of the originals.

He said: "While you never say never, I think that it would be difficult to replicate not only the success but also the overall innocence of the originals. It's a different time now; attitudes and priorities have changed in 30 years."

Samuel L. Jackson reacts to Quentin Tarantino's slamming of Marvel films

Los Angeles | Agencies

The debate around the impact of Marvel on Hollywood continues to swirl. Now 'Pulp Fiction' actor Samuel L. Jackson is weighing in on Quentin Tarantino's opinion that Marvel actors are "not movie stars." Jackson recently appeared on 'The View' alongside his wife LaTanya Richardson Jackson to discuss the Broadway revival of August Wilson's 'The Piano Lesson', which LaTanya directed and in which Samuel stars. During the interview, Samuel was asked for his take on the debate regarding frequent collaborator Tarantino, who recently said on the '2 Bears, 1 Cave' podcast that movie stars have disappeared due to the "Marvel-isation of Hollywood." "It takes an actor to be those particular characters, and the sign of movie stardom has always been, what, asses in seats?" Samuel said during his appearance. "What are we talking about?" Samuel, who plays Marvel character Nick Fury in the MCU and has also starred in several of Tarantino's movies, referenced the late Chadwick Boseman as a definitive "movie star" from the Marvel era. "That's not a big controversy for me to know that apparently these actors are movie stars," he said on 'The View'. "Chadwick Boseman is Black Panther. You can't refute that, and he's a movie star."

IND V NZ 3RD ODI

Rain forces match to be called off, New Zealand win series 1-0

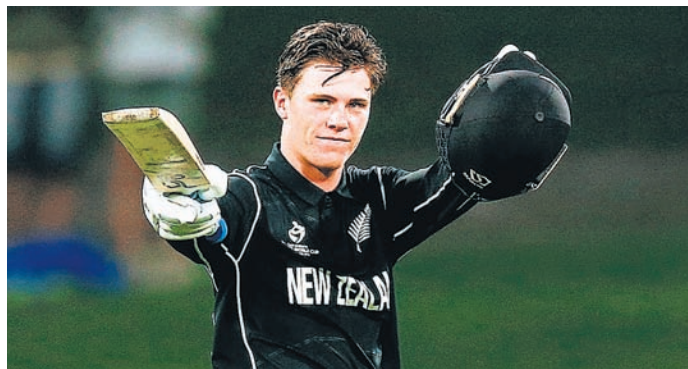

Christchurch | Agencies

Finn Allen and Devon Conway had a 97-run opening stand to get New Zealand's chase of 220 against India start on a bright note. Pacer Umran Malik broke it by taking out Allen, but rain forced the third and final ODI between India and New Zealand at Hagley Oval on Wednesday to be called off.

When rain arrived, New Zealand was at 104/1 in 18 overs and DLS calculations showed that they were ahead by 50 runs. But to constitute a full match, 20 overs were needed to be completed in the second innings. But with rain washing out the prospect of playing out remaining two overs for a result, New Zealand clinched the series 1-0.

Allen got his fifty when he hit a flat-batted six over long-off off Washington Sundar. After pulling Malik through fine leg in the 17th over, Allen tried to reach out to a short ball, but toe-ended the cut to cover, ending the 97-run opening partnership as he fell for 57.

Shreyas Iyer also played a handy knock of 49 as rest of the batters struggled and perished to a disciplined bowling show by New Zealand. For the hosts, Daryl Mitchell being used as the fifth bowler was a master-stroke, picking 3/25 in his seven overs.

Suryakumar Yadav edged off Milne to slip and when Iyer miscued his loft off Lockie Ferguson, India were in a real spot of bother. It increased when Deepak Hooda fell while trying to take on a short ball, leaving India at 141/6.

But Sundar went about his innings with flick and gentle push past mid-on to collect a brace of boundaries. As Southee erred in his line, he was quick to pounce on it to place the pull through mid-wicket.

He was also aided by Chahar hitting Mitchell for two huge sixes, though he holed out to him. Sundar was serene in his front-foot drive off Ferguson and then smartly moved across to sweep past short fine leg off Mitchell Santner.

Brief Scores: India 219 all out in 47.3 overs (Washington Sundar 51, Shreyas Iyer 49; Daryl Mitchell 3/25, Adam Milne 3/57) against New Zealand 104/1 in 18 overs (Finn Allen 57, Devon Conway 38 not out; Umran Malik 1/31), match abandoned due to rain.

Hockey series: India beat Australia by 4-3

Adelaide | Agencies

The Indian men's hockey team broke its 12-match winless streak against world No. 1 Australia with a 4-3 victory in the third game to stay alive in the five-match Test series at the Mate Stadium, here on Wednesday.

This was India's 13th win over Australia in 65 hockey matches and their first since 2016.

It was Mandeep Singh who set up Akashdeep Singh to score the winner for India while other goals were scored by Harmanpreet Singh (12'), Abhishek (47') and Shamsher Singh (57'). For Australia, Jack Welch (25), Aran Zaleski (32') and Nathan Ephraums (59') scored.

After emphasizing on strong defensive structure on the eve of the match, India captain Harmanpreet Singh ensured his team followed it with perfection as they impressed with their one-on-one defence to contain the Australian forwardline who have shown rambling form so far in this five-match series.

Harmanpreet Singh, who has been in great form, was on target with a powerful drag flick that went past Johan Durst at lightning speed. This was Harmanpreet's fourth goal of the tour.

Australia had a chance to level the score early in the second quarter when they were awarded a PC after India's foot-foul in the circle. But experienced India goalie PR Sreejesh was on-point with his saves. He first blocked Jeremy Hayward's drag flick and then stopped two more shots on goal along with his wingman Suresh supporting him.

However, Australia didn't let go of the opportunity when they won their second PC in the 25th minute. Though Sreejesh did well to block Hayward's flick, Welch nicked the ball past him on rebound.

Australia furthered their scoreline at the start of the third quarter through a well-executed PC scored by Aran Zaleski in the 32nd minute. However, India remained calm in their pursuit and continued to hold on to the momentum - taking the match down to the wire as has been the trend in the previous two matches.

New Delhi | Agencies

Maharashtra, Saurashtra reached the final of the Vijay Hazare Trophy after registering wins over Assam, Karnataka in their respective semifinals on Wednesday.

Maharashtra vs Assam
Fighting knocks from Swarupam Purkayastha (95), Sibsanar Roy (78) and Rishav Das (53) went in vain as Maharashtra overcame Assam by 12 runs in Ahmedabad to book a spot in the final. Rajvardhan Hangargekar had an impressive spell, finishing with 4 for 65. Riding on Rituraj Gaikwad's 168 and Ankit Bawne's 110, Maharashtra posted a formidable 350/7 in 50 overs. In reply, Assam threatened to chase it down, but they faltered in the end and were eventually restricted to 338/8.

Put into bat, Maharashtra lost the wicket of Rahul Tripathi early but Gaikwad and Satyajit Bachhav stitched a useful partnership to build a steady platform. Following Bachhav's dismissal, Gaikwad joined hands with Bawne to put on a 207-run stand for the third wicket.

In reply, Rishav Das's half-century led Assam's run-chase despite Maharashtra bagging regular wickets. But his wicket in the 16th over left Assam at 103/4 and with rebuilding to do.

Karnataka vs Saurashtra
In the other semi-final in Ahmedabad, Jaydev Unadkat's four-wicket haul, Jay Gohil's 61 and Prerak Mankad's all-round contribution led Saurashtra to the summit clash. Having bowled out Karnataka for 171, Saurashtra reached the target in 36.2 overs to reach the final of the Vijay Hazare Trophy for the first time since their victorious 2008 season.

After opting to bowl first, Saurashtra reduced Karnataka to 47 for 4, with Unadkat and Prerak Mankad bagging two wickets apiece. Skipper Mayank Agarwal and former captain Manish Pandey were both dismissed cheaply and it was R Samarth's knock of 88 which kept the scoreboard ticking until he became the eighth to depart.

In reply, Saurashtra lost both their openers -- Harvik Desai and Sheldon Jackson -- for ducks but Gohil and Samarth Vyas stitched a 75-run partnership to make things steady for their team.

The makers of 'Govinda Naam Mera' have released another romantic track, 'Bana Sharabi' featuring Vicky Kaushal and Kiara Advani.

The Bollywood stars talk about their latest track sung by Jubin Nautiyal, lyrics, and composition by Tanishk Bagchi.

Vicky says: "Bana Sharabi' is that beautiful and soothing melody which makes you want to hear it on a loop. While shooting as well, Kiara and I enjoyed listening to the song so much. Jubin and Tanishk have sung this beautiful composition, making it magical. I hope that as much as the listeners have appreciated 'Bijli', they should now get ready to fall in love with 'Bana Sharabi' and the upcoming songs from the album as well."

Kiara also has fun while shooting for the romantic composition with Vicky and she has all hopes from the track that the audience will enjoy listening to it.

Kiara adds: "Bana Sharabi is a special song, it has such a vibrant and contemporary feel to it. Tanishk's composition and writing for the song along with Jubin's voice have made it what it is now, the ideal love ballad that everyone is going to love! I truly hope our fans love it as much as we do."

IT WAS JUST FUN: VARUN ON KRITI-PRABHAS DATING 'RUMOUR'

Actress Kriti Sanon has finally opened up about her dating rumours with her 'Adipurush' co-star Prabhas. She called it "absolutely baseless" and also schooled co-star Varun Dhawan for adding fuel to such reports.

This all began on the sets of celebrity dance show 'Jhalak Dikhla Jaa', when Varun spoke to filmmaker Karan Johar about names of a few eligible single women from the Hindi film industry. Varun avoided Kriti's name from the list and when KJo asked why, he replied: "Kriti ka naam isiliye nahi tha kyunki Kriti ka naam kisi ke dil me hai. Ek aadmi hai jo Mumbai me nahi hai, vo iss waqt shooting kar raha hai Deepika (Padukone) ke saath."

Kriti took to Instagram to shut down the rumours.

She wrote: "It's neither pyaar, nor PR.. our Bhediya just went a little too wild on a reality show. And his fun banter lead to some Howl-arious rumours." Kriti added: "Before some portal announces my wedding date-let me burst your bubble. The rumours are ABSOLUTELY baseless!"

She also put a 'fake news' sticker. Reposting Kriti's Instagram Story, Varun also clarified. "Huys UI had ur fun but it's just fun and stuff the channels have edited to have fun we took it as humour dont let ur imagination run so wild," Varun wrote.
