SC stays NGT order imposing Rs 1,200 crore fine on Maha govt

Team Absolute | New Delhi

The Supreme Court on Tuesday stayed a decision passed by the National Green Tribunal (NGT) requiring the state of Maharashtra to pay a compensation of Rs 1,200 crore for improper solid and liquid waste management.

A bench presided over by Chief Justice of India D.Y. Chandrachud and comprising Justices J.B. Pardiwala and Manoj Misra, issued notice on an appeal filed by the Maharashtra government and stayed the operation of the impugned order issued by the NGT in the meantime.

In an order passed in September last year, a bench headed by Chairperson Justice Adarsh Kumar Goel and comprising Justice Sudhir Agarwal and expert member Dr. A. Senthil Vel of the green tribunal determined a liability of Rs 12,000 crore to be deposited in a separate ring-fenced account within two months for restoration of environment.

The Tribunal also dismissed the review plea saying that the "review application does not put forward any tangible ground and is a mere expression of inability to pay compensation."

IFFI 2023: Persian film 'Endless Borders' wins Golden Peacock; 'Kantara' bags Special Jury Award

Panaji | Agencies

Persian film 'Endless Borders' by Abbas Amini has bagged the Golden Peacock for Best Film at the 54th International Film Festival of India (IFFI) that concluded here on Tuesday.

An emotionally-charged narrative set against the backdrop of an Iranian teacher's odyssey amid the turmoil ignited by the rise of the Taliban in Afghanistan, the film intricately delves into the complexities of prejudice, moral dilemmas, and forbidden love.

The jury praised the film's ability to transcend physical and emotional borders, lauding director Abbas Amini's courageous storytelling.

In a citation, the jury said, "The film is about how complicated physical borders might be yet nothing can be more complicated than the emotional and moral borders that you impose upon yourself. Film festivals, after all, are about crossing borders and in the case of this film, the director has crossed political borders at the cost of his own freedom."

Best Actor (male) for his nuanced acting in 'Endless Borders', while Melanie Thierry was awarded Silver Peacock for Best Actor (Female) for her seamless expression of a wide spectrum of emotions in 'Party of Fools'.

Acclaimed filmmaker Shekhar Kapur, the Jury Chairperson, said that every film was taken seriously while judging them for the coveted awards.

"It is so difficult to make a film. You have a script, nobody wants to listen to your script... then you get someone to listen to your script... then we say where the money is going to come from, then you find money and work for years trying to get a film made. So every film deserves all the attention," Kapur said, highlighting how important it is to take every film seriously.

"Why is the film festival important? In the context of what is happening in the world right now... It is very important to tell our stories, because our stories are who we are... and if you tell our stories to people and they listen to our stories across borders, then people will understand each other. Films ultimately tell you who you are, what your culture is," he said, adding that one needs to find human beings in every story and share the stories through platforms like IFFI.

Speaking on the occasion, Chief Minister Pramod Sawant said the response to IFFI has been overwhelming, with thousands of delegates participating in it. "With the lush green forests, rivers and waterfalls, Goa is a filmmaker's paradise. When it comes to film locations, we have got a streamline system for film shootings and hassle-free permits," he said.

ISRAEL'S GROUND OPERATION TO MOVE SOUTH IN GAZA

Team Absolute | New Delhi

The Israel Defense Forces (IDF) plans to extend its ground operation to southern Gaza, having nearly cleared overground Hamas military infrastructure in the enclave's north, an Israeli military official said on Tuesday.

On a day of the Israel-Hamas truce that halted fire and allowed the exchange of some Israeli citizens taken hostage by Hamas for Palestinian prisoners, and the passage of humanitarian aid into war-ravaged Gaza, the official said the IDF could launch the ground raids in the south any time after the fighting resumes. He did not give details.

"The north is more or less clear," Colonel Avichai Zafrani, the defence attaché at the Israeli Embassy in Delhi, told reporters of Hamas' military infrastructure on the ground in Gaza, adding that tunnels were being searched.

According to Zafrani, Hamas' two main operations in the coastal enclave were in or under the Al-Shifa Hospital, the largest medical facility in the Gaza Strip, located in the north, and in Khan Younis, a city in the south.

He said caches of arms and ammunition, including anti-tank explosive devices and mines, were found in the hospital area, under which tunnels exist that had been used by Hamas; and that a tunnel shaft had been found near an amusement park and a rocket launcher near a mosque.

"The government had given the IDF two objectives - one was to eliminate Hamas, and, two, to get the hostages released," Zafrani said. The Palestinian militant group that attacked Israel on October 7 has been hit hard through Israeli airstrikes, ground raids and naval blockades.

"Hamas is under pressure" and wants to negotiate a ceasefire longer than the present pause, Zafrani said.

By the time of filing of this report, 51 Israeli hostages, including with dual citizenship, and 20 foreign hostages, mostly Thai farm workers in Israel, had been released by Hamas, as part of a swap deal for 150 Palestinian prisoners in Israel.

An estimated 168 hostages still remain in captivity, be it with Hamas or another Palestinian militant outfit that had entered Israel on October 7. When asked where the civilians of Gaza would seek shelter when the IDF carries out raids in the south, Zafrani said a related plan would be announced. Earlier in the war, which is now in its eighth week, tens of thousands fled their homes in the north to take refuge in camps, schools and other makeshift accommodation in the south. They, along with Gazans in the south, will likely have to relocate again soon. But it is not clear yet where the humanitarian shelters will be put up once Israel's southern ground offensive begins.

'Don't be so narrow-minded': SC dismisses plea seeking ban on employing Pakistani artistes

New Delhi: The Supreme Court on Tuesday dismissed a plea seeking a complete ban on Indian citizens, companies, firms and associations from employing any Pakistani artistes.

At the very outset, a bench of Justices Sanjiv Khanna and S.V.N. Bhatti indicated its disinclination to entertain the special leave petition saying that the counsel appearing on petitioner's behalf should not press it.

"We are not inclined to interfere with the impugned judgment and hence, the special leave petition is dismissed," the bench ordered, remarking that the petitioner should not be so narrow-minded in his thinking.

In October, the Bombay High Court had dismissed the public interest litigation (PIL) filed by Faazil Anwar Qureshi - who claimed to be cine worker, artist, lyricist and film producer - saying that the reliefs sought in the plea are retrograde step in promoting cultural harmony, unity and peace, and have no merit.

It had said that resolutions or notices passed by a non-statutory association announcing a total ban on Pakistani actors and artistes working in film industry cannot be sought to be translated in the statutory notifications to be issued by the Central and state authorities.

"We may further state here these bans and such threats, if true, would agitate against the fundamental right guaranteed under Articles 19 (1) (a), 19 (1) (g) and 21 of the Constitution of India and therefore, they would be manifestly illegal," a bench of Justices Sunil B. Shukre and Firdosh P. Pooniwalla had said. It had noted that the cricket World Cup being held in India, the Pakistan team is taking part and this has happened only because of appreciable positive steps taken by the government in the interest of overall peace and harmony in consonance with Article 51 of the Constitution, which seeks to promote international peace and security.

CM Eknath Shinde has ordered an assessment of crop losses caused by unseasonal rain

Maharashtra Chief Minister Eknath Shinde has ordered an assessment of crop losses caused by unseasonal rain in Maharashtra and payment of compensation to affected farmers.

"Authorities have been directed to conduct the panchama of the damaged crops and affected farmers should be paid adequate compensation," CM Shinde said.

"This is the government of farmers and workers. The government will always stand behind these classes," the chief minister said, reported the PTI.

Notably, Shiv Sena (UBT) leader Uddhav Thackeray had on Tuesday targeted CM Eknath Shinde for campaigning in poll-bound Telangana even though farmers in Maharashtra are suffering due to unseasonal rains.

He said preliminary information suggests that nearly 1 lakh hectares of land under cultivation in Marathwada, Vidarbha and north Maharashtra regions was affected due to unseasonal rains over the last three to four days.

Meanwhile, CM Eknath Shinde said that Gadchiroli district in Maharashtra and Naxal-hit areas in the region are transforming.

"Instead of giving jobs, we want to create job-givers. I am satisfied that Balasaheb Thackeray's dream of Maharashtra becoming a job-giver is finally coming to fruition," he said.

The chief minister said Naxalism cannot be crushed only by the bullet and underlined the need to create development opportunities for the people living in the affected region.

Queried on recent incidents of Naxalite violence in Gadchiroli district, the chief minister said the C60 commando force has proved to be very effective.

"Naxalism menace in Gadchiroli is almost over. They are not getting new recruits, forcing the remaining cadres to shift their base to neighbouring Chhattisgarh," he added.

Meanwhile, Union minister Kapil Patil on Tuesday urged the chief minister to expedite the assessment of the damage caused to crops by rain and hailstorms in the Bhiwandi Lok Sabha constituency.

In a letter addressed to the chief minister, Patil said crops in Bhiwandi, Shahapur, Murbad and Wada talukas have suffered heavy losses and the paddy thrashing work was also affected.

He urged the CM to order relief for the affected farmers and due compensation.

Uddhav Thackeray hit out at Chief Minister Eknath Shinde over his visit to Telangana for poll campaigning Shiv Sena (UBT) leader Uddhav Thackeray on Tuesday hit out at Maharashtra Chief Minister Eknath Shinde over his visit to neighbouring Telangana for poll campaigning amid losses faced by farmers in his home state due to unseasonal rains.

Addressing a news conference, Uddhav Thackeray demanded that a cabinet meeting be held immediately to discuss the issue and farmers be given assistance at the earliest.

He said six people have lost their lives due to unseasonal rains in the state, while 100 cattle have also perished.

Grape and onion cultivators in Maharashtra have also been affected by the unseasonal rains, the former chief minister said, reported PTI.

"When the MeT department had alerted about unseasonal rains in advance, what did the state cabinet do?" he asked.

Thackeray said a preliminary information he has received suggests that nearly 1 lakh hectare of land under cultivation in Marathwada, Vidarbha and north Maharashtra was affected due to unseasonal rains since last three-four days.

"There is no government in Maharashtra as everyone is busy in campaigning. It is time to change the government," Thackeray said,

"A person who does not bother about his own house (state) and goes to another state to campaign for another party is not fit to run the government and he has no right to be in power," the Sena (UBT) leader claimed.

Shinde visited Telangana on Tuesday to campaign for the BJP. The assembly polls in Telangana are scheduled on November 30.

The Shinde-led Shiv Sena and the BJP are allies in Maharashtra.

"The chief minister who cannot handle his own house and is peeping into homes of others cannot give justice to the state," Thackeray said.

Deputy CMs Devendra Fadnis and Ajit Pawar are also "missing in action," he claimed.

Thackeray also targeted the ruling BJP saying while it is busy distributing "revdis" (doles) in other states, what has it done for Maharashtra.

A woman Agniveer Logistics trainee from Kerala reportedly died by committing suicide at a women's hostel in Malvani area of Malad west, a police officer said here on Tuesday.

The woman, identified as Aparna V Nair, 20, was undergoing her navy training at the INS Hamla in Malad, and she may have resorted to the ultimate step owing to personal reasons, said an Investigating Officer.

Taking strong cognisance of the incident, the Indian Navy has ordered an inquiry.

"Regret to inform the unfortunate incident of the unnatural death of Aparna V Nair, Agniveer Logistics (F&A), 20, at INS Hamla, Mumbai on Nov. 27. An enquiry has been ordered to investigate the incident. Indian Navy extends heartfelt condolences to the bereaved family," said an official statement.

ther investigations are on into the motive behind the incident.

According to her roommate who returned to the room around 10.30 am on Monday, Nair apparently failed to respond to repeated knocks at the door.

She was rushed to a nearby hospital where she was declared dead on admission and later the police were summoned for the probe.

Police said Nair had arrived in Mumbai around two weeks ago for training and was living in a nearby private women's hostel along with a couple of dozen other girls.

Congress slams Maha CM for 'abandoning' farmers, demands immediate aid

Team Absolute | Mumbai

The Congress on Tuesday demanded immediate aid for the lakhs of farmers reeling under the severe crop losses owing to the recent spell of unseasonal rains that lashed large parts of the state in the past few days. State party President Nana Patole and Leader of Opposition Vijay Wadettiwar have called upon Chief Minister Eknath Shinde to disburse urgent assistance of Rs 25,000 per acre for non-irrigated crops and Rs 50,000/acre for irrigated crops as immediate relief to the farmers.

Wadettiwar told mediapersons that the standing crops on over 100,000-hectares have been razed due to the heavy rains and hailstorms that pounded many regions in the state, raising big questions on the viability of the Rabi crop season.

Similarly, in a letter to the Chief Minister, Patole pointed out that this year, the farmers have been at the receiving end of nature's fury, battling one crisis after another.

While the Kharif (monsoon) season was wiped off due to a prolonged dry spell, while the Rabi (winter) season is practically written off owing to the unseasonal interest of the farming community. "The government is misleading by claiming it has sought Rs 2,500 crore as aid from the Centre. Then who is the guardian of the state farmers? The situation has come to a stage when the tillers are offering to sell off their body organs to rid themselves of loans/debts," said Wadettiwar sharply.

Patole and Wadettiwar also said that the crop insurance companies should expedite disbursement of compensation to the farmers on priority.

"While Rs 7,000 crore was given to crop insurance companies, the Agriculture Minister is saying that these companies will provide Rs 1,800-crore, then where is the remaining money going?" asked Wadettiwar.

The Congress leaders said the government should not "abandon" the farmers who are the life-givers to the nation and this is the time to extend a helping hand to them when they are facing a crisis of survival.

Maharashtra may begin screening arrivals at international airports

Officials from the state's public health department have said that if the need arises, Maharashtra may begin screening arrivals at international airports as a precautionary measure, in light of the rising cases of respiratory illness in China. A meeting of all state-level and central-level health officials, along with representatives from the World Health Organization and doctors from the All India Institute of Medical Sciences (AIIMS), was held in this regard on Sunday. One of the points of discussion was the possibility of increasing disease surveillance at airports.

"There is no written communication or guidelines regarding the same but checking for fever and keeping an eye out for unusual symptoms at airports was discussed in the meeting," said Dr Dilip Salunkhe, a medical officer with the state's public health department. According to Dr Salunkhe, the health department has issued an advisory to private hospitals in the state. "We have already asked them to update their infrastructure and alert us to any unusual cases. Apart from this, we have ready government-run infrastructure that was set up when COVID-19 was on the rise," he said. It is noteworthy that the state has not reported any unusual cases so far. The meeting was held on the same day the Centre, in a letter, asked the states to review hospital preparedness in case a situation similar to that in China arises in India, while clarifying that there was no need to be alarmed.

Recently, northern parts of China reported a rise in respiratory illness predominantly attributed to usual causes like Influenza, Mycoplasma pneumoniae, SARS-CoV-2, etc. This surge has largely impacted children, leaving many hospitalised.

"All states and Union Territories have been advised to implement the 'Operational Guidelines for Revised Surveillance Strategy in the context of COVID-19,' shared earlier this year, which provides for integrated surveillance of respiratory pathogens presenting as cases of influenza-like illness (ILI) and severe acute respiratory illness (SARI)," the Union Health Ministry said in a statement on Sunday.

The 26-year-old star has gained huge success with her Kylie Cosmetics brand but her mother Kris Jenner initially warned her that the venture could easily flop.

"Proving people wrong was a challenge, but so was building it from the ground up. It was me and my mom and we never made a make-up line. We didn't know where to start. We didn't have anyone helping us. And my mom thought I was going to be stuck with lip kits in my garage for the rest of my life," Kylie told Interview magazine, reports aceshowbiz.com.

"I think we ordered 5,000 of each colour; that was the minimum. And she was like, 'You better be ready, Kylie, because you might have a lot of lip kits in your garage for the rest of your life, so you better love these colours'."

Kylie initially found it "hard" to get her brand off the ground.

However, she's also relished the challenge of growing her company.

Kylie, who founded her business back in 2014, shared: "Then it broke in two seconds, and that's when we were like, 'Okay, how do we do this? How do we make these faster and better?'"

"We got in my mom's car and drove all over California and visited all these factories. Finding the best manufacturer was difficult. We were a new company, so growing in front of a lot of people was hard. You don't have room to make mistakes. But it wasn't a bad thing."

"It was so successful and it was the best time of my life."

I don't even want to say where it was because I think he will still fire me like decades later.

He further mentioned, "He literally threatens me that if I ever put a photograph of his and mine that we take every Diwali. But like, he told me, 'Meri shaadi ho rahi hai, there are 18 people attending. If word gets out of this wedding, I will be you. The only person who will open his mouth is you, if I see there is a mention of this wedding in any publication at that time newspapers were still dominating'. I was so hyper and hysterical."

"I had to lie to my mother, we had a release, it was April 2014, I will never forget it, '2 States' was releasing. I had to abandon my movie release, tell everybody I have an event in Manchester, for some reason made it up. But everyone was like 'On release weekend, why are you going to Manchester?' I was like, 'I have to go, I have to go,' KJo added.

Film-maker and actor Rishab Shetty on Tuesday said that being nominated for the Golden Peacock Award is a proud moment for the 'Kantara' team.

He was interacting with the media on the sidelines of the 54th International Film Festival of India (IFFI) in Goa.

Representing the vibrant and dynamic Kannada film industry, his widely celebrated feature Kantara, of which he is the director, actor and writer, is one of the three Indian films to make it to this year's list of 15 exceptional films competing for the prestigious Golden Peacock award at IFFI 54.

"Kantara" is a 150 mins long Kannada masterpiece that has taken the audiences and critics by storm ever since its release last year. A spell-binding tribute to culture and folklore, Kantara weaves magic as it portrays the complex and dynamic conflict between man and nature, through the magical medium of dance and emotion. "The audience connected with Kantara because it is a story rooted in the culture of Bharat," said Shetty.

"The audience took the film to where it is today, truly making it their own," he further added.

"I belong to this tradition, I believe in this ritual and I worship this God. We took care that we do not hurt anybody's emotion and made sure that there was no damage to the culture or community," he elaborated.

Speaking about Kannada cinema, Rishab Shetty spoke about the OTT challenge where platforms are still apprehensive about Kannada audiences and are not open to Kannada films yet, causing critical losses in the industry.

"Cinema has given us so much, we must give back to Kannada cinema," asserted Shetty. He firmly believes that content in Indian cinema today has truly gone global. "At present, there is a revolution underway-good content is widely accepted overcoming the language barriers," Shetty expressed.

Megastar Amitabh Bachchan, who is the host of the quiz based reality show 'Kaun Banega Crorepati 15', was left amazed by a 13-year-old contestant, after hearing his business idea, and said India's future is becoming bright.

In the episode 76 of the knowledge based show, host Big B welcomed Namish Chopra, an eighth grade student, from Hyderabad, Telangana to the hot seat. Reading Namish's report card, Amitabh said: "Ambition - I want to be a successful businessman. You think this way at just 13 years of age. I couldn't even tie my shoelaces when I was 13 years old. How could you...? What business do you plan to do?"

The little boy went on to say, "Sir, my business idea is to have a shoe company. The name of the company would be 'Boot Ace'. For me, Ace stands for the three addressable markets for my company or my business."

"The first one is the armed forces. Many soldiers in the armed forces face the problem of unbearable leg, knee and back pain as they have to carry heavy boots. They keep walking wearing those boots and frequent different places which worsens their condition. So my company has thought of an idea. We should find a solution for them. We must make shoes for them which are durable, comfortable and long-lasting and it solves their problems," shared Namish.

The contestant further added: "Sir, I want to tell you something. All of us know your birthday is on October 11. My birthday is also on October 11."

The contestant further said: "The army protects the common people of their country. So my second addressable market is the common man. We may take the example of our farmers. They work in fields and they face similar problems. Their legs, knees and back pain. I have the same idea for them as well. We must make comforting shoes for them which are long-lasting and durable."

"The next market is the elite class. The elite class includes businessmen and Gen Z. They want to customise their shoes and make their shoes more comfortable. So my idea is in case they buy shoes from my company, they could change the colour of their shoes via an app or via AI," shared Namish.

The contestant said: "This was one of the reasons for coming to KBC. I want to use the winning amount for my education and to fund my business."

Listening to the business plan of the young boy, the 81-year-old actor was left speechless, and said: "We are proud of you. You are the upcoming generation of India. India's future is becoming bright."

The contestant further added: "Sir, I want to tell you something. All of us know your birthday is on October 11. My birthday is also on October 11."
