Over 120 countries back COP28 UAE Climate and Health Declaration

For Earth's Lives

Signed by 123 countries, the declaration is announced one day ahead of the first ever Health Day at a COP and marks a world first in acknowledging the need for governments to protect communities and prepare healthcare systems to cope with climate-related health impacts such as extreme heat, air pollution and infectious diseases.

The declaration was developed with the support of a number of 'country champions', including Brazil, Malawi, the UK, the US, the Netherlands, Kenya, Fiji, India, Egypt, Sierra Leone, and Germany.

This joint action comes as annual deaths from polluted air hit almost nine million and as 189 million people are exposed to extreme weather-related events each year.

Mumbai | Dubai

Over 120 countries backed the COP28 UAE Declaration on Climate and Health on Saturday, delivering a breakthrough moment for health in climate talks.

The COP28 Presidency joined with the World Health Organization to announce the declaration to accelerate actions to protect people's health from growing climate impacts.

The declaration was announced at the World Climate Action Summit, where world leaders have gathered for the start of the UN Climate Change Conference (COP28) in Dubai.

"The impacts of climate change are already at our door. They have become one of the greatest threats to human health in the 21st century. Governments have now rightly recognized health as a crucial element of climate action," said COP28 President Sultan Al Jaber. He continued "the declaration sends a strong signal that we must reduce global emissions and work together to strengthen our health systems".

"The climate crisis is a health crisis, but for too long, health has been a footnote in climate discussions," said Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus, Director-General, World Health Organization.

"The WHO thanks the UAE for making health a key priority in its COP28 Presidency, and welcomes this declaration, which emphasises the need to build climate-resilient and low-carbon health systems, to protect the health of both planet and people.

"Climate change is increasingly impacting the health and wellbeing of our communities," said Lazarus Chakwera, President of Malawi -- one of the first countries to endorse the declaration. "Malawi has experienced these impacts first-hand -- extreme weather events have displaced tens of thousands of our citizens and sparked infectious disease outbreaks that have killed thousands more. This year, at COP28, we are calling for a bolder path forward that prioritizes investments in health and wellbeing, ensures a just transition away from fossil fuels, and creates a healthier future for all of us."

The declaration covers a range of action areas at the nexus of climate and health, including building more climate-resilient health systems, strengthening cross-sectoral collaboration to reduce emissions and maximize the health benefits of climate action, and increasing finance for climate and health solutions.

Signatories have also committed to incorporate health targets in their national climate plans and improve international collaboration to address the health risks of climate change, including at future COPs.

No new virus behind China pneumonia outbreak: US CDC

Washington | Agencies The recent pneumonia outbreak in China among young children is not caused by any new virus, the US Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), even as Ohio becomes the first US state to report a similar uptick in cases.

Asking the public to not be alarmed over the spike in respiratory illness in China, Director Mandy Cohen said it is related to existing pathogens like Covid, flu, RSV and mycoplasma.

"We believe there is no new or novel pathogen," Cohen said during a House Energy and Commerce Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations hearing. "These are related to existing pathogens -- Covid, flu, RSV and mycoplasma, a bacterium that can infect the lungs."

The surge of respiratory illnesses is so far concentrated in northern China. There have been reports of hospitals being overhauled with sick children.

In a statement, the Warren County Health District reported 142 cases of the illness among children since August. However, officials do not think it is a new respiratory disease, but "rather a large uptick in the number of pneumonia cases normally seen at one time", the statement said.

40% urban Indians would opt for alternative fuel vehicles: Survey

Team Absolute | Mumbai

A new survey has revealed that 40 per cent of urban Indians are ready to embrace alternative fuel cars including plug-in hybrid electric vehicles (PHEV) and fuel-cell electric vehicles (FCEV), claims a new report released here on Wednesday.

The survey, conducted by Growth from Knowledge (GfK)'s Indian Automotive Industry Trends and Outlook indicates that the country's automotive landscape is undergoing a transformative shift with customers desirous of opting for alternative fuel cars, said the company executive Ravi Arya.

While only nine per cent of those surveyed currently own alternative fuel vehicles, 40 per cent plan to purchase such a passenger vehicle in the near future, in the online survey covering 900 people planning to buy a new vehicle in the next one-two years.

Electric vehicles (EVs) appear to be the most coveted alternative engine and for over 55 per cent of the respondents, the advanced technology of EV's would be the primary motivator for their next car purchase.

Another 29 per cent were interested in PHEVs and 25 per cent preferred FCEVs, showing the evolving preferences among consumers for various alternative fuels. However, a significant 58 per cent cited the lack of charging stations as a major concern deterring them from choosing a pure EV. Some 53 per cent expressed disinterest in EVs due to their perceived expense and extended charging times, plus concerns on resale value of their EVs, as per the GfK report.

The shorter driving range of EVs was also a deterrent factor for 43 per cent of the consumers refraining from buying them, though Indians would opt for such full EVs if they could drive them around 335 kms with a full charge and around eight hours to fully charge the battery. Of those surveyed, 30 per cent of the prospective buyers expressed apprehensions on the durability, reliability and overall quality of EVs, and nearly 50 per cent felt the prevailing economic conditions would influence their plans for a new car. Arya said that the GfK report reveals the expectations of urban Indians looking forward to safer and more enjoyable driving experiences with in-vehicle technology and an increasing curiosity towards hybrid vehicles. "This shift is propelled by factors such as advanced technology, fuel savings, environmental friendliness, low running costs (inclusive of tax benefits), extended driving range, established technology, and the accessibility of fast charger stations in local areas. These factors collectively contribute to the escalating inclination of individuals towards the purchase of EVs," Arya said.

An initiative for teachers, of teachers and by teachers

Team Absolute | Prayagraj

The Teachers' Self Care Team (TSCT), a unique initiative launched in 2020 by a group of basic education department teachers during the pandemic to help families of colleagues who died, has so far extended financial support of Rs 35.5 crore to a kin of 137 teachers by contributing Rs 35 per person.

"Due to the absence of pension benefits for teachers entering service after 2005 under the new scheme, families of those who pass away face financial challenges. This also affects their children's studies. We initiated this selfcare scheme to safeguard the future of these families. Whenever a teacher dies, group members, who wish to donate, directly transfer Rs 35 each to the bank account of the family. They upload the receipt of their contribution to TSCT's website as proof of their support. TSCT has over 2 lakh members in UP," said Vivekanand Arya, a teacher of government primary school and TSCT president who started the campaign.

He added that as unlock phase began in 2020, he became aware of numerous colleagues who either passed away or fell ill due to the Covid-19 virus during the lockdown, which inspired him to start the 'selfcare team' on Telegram app.

Gyan Devi, a beneficiary from Pilibhit, echoed the sentiment of many recipients, expressing gratitude for the Rs 52 lakh assistance she received between November 16 and

November 26 after her husband died on July 1 this year. "While it can't bring back my husband, but it will secure the future of my children," she said.

Arya said TSCT aims to launch another welfare scheme called Kanya Dhan Yojana in which all 2 lakh members would contribute Rs 10 each towards the marriage of teachers' daughters, aiming to generate a significant fund of Rs 20 lakh.

Furqan Hashmi, TSCT state coordinator, said, "The membership is free and the group offers an option for an annual contribution of Rs 50 from each member. These contributions will not only sustain the group's operational expenses but also facilitate crucial aid, such as financial assistance of up to Rs 50,000 for medical treatment in case of accidents.

World No.1 para-archer, Sheetal Devi has her aim set on Paris Paralympics next year

Team Absolute | New Delhi

As the clock ticks down for the Paralympic Summer Games in Paris in 2024, World No.1 para-archer Sheetal Devi is now focused on repeating her gold medal-winning performance of the Asian Para Games at next year's mega event.

"I have my eyes on the Paris Paralympics. I am putting all efforts to ensure that the Indian flag flies high on the podium and I bring back as many medals as possible," she said.

Sheetal Devi's story is one of fierce grit and determination, but many are still unaware of her incredible journey about how she took up archery and emerged as a champion athlete.

The young archer from Jammu and Kashmir, who bagged two gold medals and a silver at the recent Asian Para Games in Hangzhou, China, is the biggest example and flagbearer of the positive impact of the journey of para-sportspersons on society.

"Until a couple of years back I had not even stepped out of Jammu and Kashmir. It feels a little overwhelming when I go around representing India in different countries. I handle those moments calmly and ensure I hit the bullseye," the archer commented while reminiscing how as a 14-year-old she came in touch in 2021 with Being You, a Bangalore-based storytelling startup.

Coming in contact with Being You, which focuses on documenting and celebrating human stories as they believe that positive stories inspire individuals and society, which changed her life completely.

When Sheetal realised that the prosthetics didn't work for her, she and her family had left all hope. That is when she saw the stories of para-athletes Sharath Gaekwad and Shekhar Naik from the book - Being You: Against All Odds, written by Preethi, which got her all inspired.

"With the help of GoSports, we reached out to sports physio Srikanth Iyengar, and he recognised her sublime core strength, which she had developed while regularly climbing trees in her village and that is how it was decided that she should take up archery," Preethi added.

The 16-year-old has achieved a lot in the last two years, and it is just the beginning of a massive success journey that no one possibly ever imagined for her.

The para-archer's journey took flight as she started to clinch victories in national and international competitions, culminating in a stellar performance at the Asian Para Games 2023, where she secured two gold and one silver medal.

Already the No.1 para archer in the world after terrific performances in recent tournaments, Sheetal aims to bring more laurels to the country.

Sheetal will continue to train for the forthcoming competitions at the Mata Vaishnodevi Shrine Board Sports Complex in Katra, which has constantly supported the para archer since she took up the sport. Keeping the funds going has always been a formidable task.

As she has already started preparing for the Paralympics, her focus now is on following her training regime.

Sheetal recently unveiled the cover page of the second edition of 'Being You: Against All Odds' by Being You founder Preethi, the same book that inspired her to take up the sport.

Arnold Schwarzenegger meets Israeli survivors of Hamas attack

Los Angeles | Agencies

Hollywood star Arnold Schwarzenegger spoke out against Hamas attack on Israel and met with the survivors and their families.

The former governor of California got emotional as he condemned the October 7 attacks, saying it's unlike anything he's ever seen and offering his support for Israel, reports tmz.com.

He met with family members of Israeli hostages who are still being held by Hamas in Gaza presenting them with bronze eagle statues.

After the meeting, Schwarzenegger said he's looking to spread peace because it's more powerful than hate and anger.

A 14-year-old Ella Shani was among the survivors traveling from Israel to Santa Monica to meet Schwarzenegger. She recounted how her father was killed on October 7 by Hamas at Kibbutz Beeri, and how her 16-year-old cousin Amit Shani was kidnapped.

Ella says her cousin was hiding in a safe room in his home when Hamas set the place on fire and broke down the door. She says Amit and two other Israeli men from a neighboring house were ordered into a car, kidnapped and taken to Gaza.

As Ella spoke for about 30 minutes, Schwarzenegger teared up and they hugged in the end. He also showed her some of his cool movie memorabilia, like a robot head from 'Terminator'.

The meeting was organised by the Museum of Tolerance Jerusalem, Schwarzenegger has partnered with the museum for years.

A bowl of yoghurt daily may help boost mental health

New York | Agencies

Yoghurt is not only good for your gut, but could lift your mood as well, according to a study.

Researchers at the University of Virginia School of Medicine have discovered how Lactobacillus, a bacterium found in fermented foods and yoghurt, helps the body manage stress and may help prevent depression and anxiety.

The study, published in the journal Brain, Behavior, and Immunity, opens the door to new therapies to treat anxiety, depression and other mental health conditions.

The discovery is notable because it pinpoints the role of Lactobacillus, separating it from all the other microorganisms that naturally live in and on our bodies, said Alban Gaultier, researcher at the varsity. The team took an innovative approach to focus on Lactobacilli in specific.

Prior research from Gaultier's lab suggested that the bacteria could reverse depression in lab mice -- a hugely promising finding.

But the researchers needed to understand how.

Gaultier and his team decided to continue their depression research using a collection of bacteria, known as "Altered Schaedler Flora," which includes two strains of Lactobacillus and six other bacterial strains.

With this rarely used bacterial community, the team was able to create mice both with and without Lactobacillus, circumventing the need for antibiotics.

The results explain exactly how Lactobacilli influences behaviour, and how a lack of the bacteria can worsen depression and anxiety.

Lactobacilli in the family Lactobacillaceae maintain the levels of an immune mediator called interferon gamma that regulates the body's response to stress and helps stave off depression.

Ensure no further construction takes place adjacent to Ganga: SC to Bihar govt

Team Absolute | New Delhi

The Supreme Court has ordered the Bihar government to ensure that no further construction takes place adjacent to river Ganga, particularly in and around Patna.

"The state shall report to this court the progress in getting the unauthorised structures removed by filing an affidavit. Such affidavit shall be filed by the Chief Secretary of Bihar," directed a bench of Justices Aniruddha Bose and Augustine George Masi.

The bench also noted that the state government has identified 213 unauthorised constructions adjacent to river Ganga in and around Patna, and steps have been taken to remove these encroachments or constructions.

The matter will be next taken up for hearing on February 5. The plea filed by a Patna-based resident said that in several areas of the floodplain, all residential buildings and houses are digging borewells without any permission or approval from the concerned authorities. The state agencies, instead of acting against such illegal constructions and encroachments, were providing them electricity connection, the plea stated. "Over a massive 520 acres of ecologically sensitive Ganga floodplains, stretching from Nauzer Ghat to Nurpur Ghat in Patna, have been usurped," said the special leave petition filed through advocate Akash Vashishtha, adding that a clean Ganga is vital and essential to meet the drinking and domestic water needs of 5.5 lakh population of Patna. Earlier, the National Green Tribunal had dismissed the appellant's application saying that it was bereft of particulars of the violations and the violators.

NO BREAKTHROUGH IN MANIPUR BANK LOOT, MASSIVE SEARCH ON

Imphal | Agencies

Two day after the Rs 18.85 crore bank robbery, no breakthrough was achieved even as the security forces continued their massive operations on Saturday to nab the armed gang which looted the cash from a Punjab National Bank (PNB) branch in Manipur's Ukhrul town.

A senior police officer on Saturday said that Inspector General and Deputy Inspector General rank Police officers have been entrusted with the task to arrest the robbers who have looted the money at gunpoint on Thursday.

Unidentified masked armed gang of ten persons looted Rs 18.85 crore from PNB Ukhrul branch when the bank employees were counting the amount after the day's transaction.

Immediately after the incident, the senior Manipur Police officers rushed to the hill district and are stationed there till now supervising the search operations.

The investigation officer summoned the bank officials and the Manipur Rifles personnel, who guard the bank branch, for their statement.

Meanwhile, Manipur Chief Minister N. Biren Singh strongly condemned the incident and assured that the robbers would be nabbed at the earliest. Police, quoting eyewitnesses, said that 10 heavily-armed unidentified masked men reportedly carrying sophisticated weapons stormed into the PNB bank branch situated in Viewland-I in Ukhrul town just before the evening and looted Rs 18.85 crore.

"The security personnel and bank staff were tied with ropes at gunpoint and locked inside the store and washrooms by the armed men who fled with the cash," a police official told reporter.

This is the first time such a daring incident has happened in Ukhrul town since the ethnic violence broke out in Manipur seven months ago.

A sum of Rs one crore was looted by the armed gang from an Axis Bank branch at Manipur's Churachandpur in July.

Adhir's letter on Ethics Committee proceedings against Mahua draws flak in Bengal Congress

Kolkata | Agencies

Congress president in West Bengal, Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury's letter to Lok Sabha speaker Om Birla seeking a review of the functioning of Parliament's Ethics Committee on the issue of proceedings of against Trinamool Congress MP Mahua Moitra in the alleged cash-for query scam, has drawn flak from a section of the party's state leadership.

Posting Chowdhury's letter on his social media account, state Congress leader and Calcutta High Court counsel Koustav Bagchi ridiculed Chowdhury but did not directly name him.

Bagchi has also questioned whether from now Congress workers in West Bengal should start describing "thieves as monks". "Today we are describing Mahua Moitra as a nun. Tomorrow we might do the same for Abhishek Banerjee and Mamata Banerjee. Congress workers should start practising to address thieves as monks from today only. Let us start the process with Purnima Kandu, the widow of slain Tapan Kandu," Bagchi wrote.

On March 13 last year, Congress leader in Purulia district Tapan Kandu was murdered while he was having an evening walk with his wife, Purnima Kandu.

The CBI started a probe in the matter following an order from the Calcutta

High Court. This is not the first time that Bagchi had been at loggerheads with Chowdhury on the issue of Trinamool Congress. In August this year, Bagchi threw an open challenge towards Congress high-command to dare to take disciplinary action against him, for constantly opposing Trinamool Congress, which is a part of the INDIA opposition alliance.

He also said that he has noticed that lately a section of the state Congress leaders are going soft towards Trinamool Congress. "This is not a satisfactory signal for the state Congress. Grassroots level Congress workers will never accept any kind of understanding with Trinamool Congress. I am in 100 per cent agreement with them. My commitment is towards my party and grassroots level workers and not towards any leader," he had said then.

STATE MUST SIDE WITH THE WEAKER POPULATION: CJI DY CHANDRACHUD

New Delhi: Chief Justice of India (CJI) DY Chandrachud on Saturday said that for all citizens to feel free in a democracy, the State must side with the weaker population which may be a numerical or a social minority.

CJI Chandrachud said that democracy requires a constant dialogue between differing opinions and civil society organisations to fulfil the aspirations of the people. "The beauty of a democracy is the sense of moral status with which all citizens can participate in a country and the consensus in its decision making. In a democracy the majority will have its way but the minority must have its say," he said.

CJI Chandrachud added that the democracy is premised on the recognition that there is no natural source of authority that can exercise power over individuals and people are presumptively free and equal.

"Merely because a body is elected does not ensure that it acts in the best interest of those who it governs. Democracy is messy, and imperfect but inherent in it are the postulates of justice, liberty, equality, and fraternity," he said speaking at the Justice Keshav Chandra Dhulia Memorial Essay Competition at the Forest Research Institute, Dehradun.

CJI Chandrachud said that "participative democracy simply entails a democracy that operates on and promotes deliberation", adding that if a democracy cannot safeguard discourse around the needs of all its people, it falls short of its promise.

Counting of votes will be held on Sunday in assembly polls in Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan, Chhattisgarh and Telangana in what is seen as a semi-final contest ahead of the general elections in less than six months.

The Congress, which is in power in Rajasthan and Chhattisgarh, and the BJP, which is ruling Madhya Pradesh, are locked in a straight fight in these three states, while K Chandrashekar Rao-led Bharat Rashtra Samithi (BRS) is hoping for a hat-trick in Telangana.

Pollsters have been divided on the outcome, with quite a few exit polls putting the BJP ahead in Madhya Pradesh and giving it an edge in Rajasthan while predicting that Congress has an advantage in Telangana and Chhattisgarh. Starting with postal ballots, counting will commence at 8 am amid tight security for 230 seats in Madhya Pradesh, 90 seats in Chhattisgarh, 119 seats in Telangana and 199 seats in Rajasthan as polling on one seat in the desert state was put off due to the death of a candidate.

A three-tier security arrangement has been put in place and only people holding valid passes will be allowed to enter the counting centres, election officials said. After wresting Karnataka from the BJP in May, the Congress is eyeing Madhya Pradesh and Telangana and is hoping to retain power in Rajasthan and Chhattisgarh. An impressive performance in these polls will boost the party's standing in the opposition

INDIA alliance which has been formed to take on the BJP in the 2024 Lok Sabha elections.

The BJP is seeking to replicate the winning streak of Gujarat, where it has been ruling since 1998, in Madhya Pradesh with four-time Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan hoping to form government again. The party is also keen to win back Rajasthan and Chhattisgarh as it seeks to regain its hold in the Hindi heartland states ahead of the Lok Sabha polls.

BJP vs Congress as votes to be counted in 4 states

MADHYA PRADESH

The counting for 230 assembly seats in MP will be held at 52 district headquarters, officials said. As many as 2,533 candidates are in contention, including political bigwigs like Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan and his predecessor and rival Kamal Nath, in a poll that was largely a bipolar battle between the ruling BJP and the opposition Congress. Chouhan claimed his party would retain power with a "huge majority", while state Congress chief Kamal Nath said he had "complete confidence" in the voters of the state. Of the 230 seats, 47 are reserved for Scheduled Tribes and 35 for Scheduled Castes. Besides CM Chouhan (from Budhni seat) and state Congress president Nath (Chhindwara), the EVMS will also decide the fate of three BJP Union ministers - Narendra Singh Tomar, Prahlad Patel and Faggan Singh Kulaste. It will also decide the political fortunes of BJP general secretary Kailash Vijaywargiya who contested from Indore-1 and three Lok Sabha MPs of the saffron party - Rakesh Singh, Ganesh Singh and Riti Pathak.

RAJASTHAN

Over 1800 candidates are in contention in 199 seats in Rajasthan where power has alternated between Congress and BJP every five years in the last three decades. "The counting of ballot papers will start at 8 pm. As many as 979 tables have been arranged for the counting of ballot papers across the state. Strong rooms will be opened in the presence of observers, candidates and their representatives," Chief Electoral Officer Praveen Gupta said. Gupta said that the counting of votes in EVM machines will begin at 8.30 am.

CHHATTISGARH

Tight security arrangements have been made in all counting centres in the state's 33 districts, including the ones affected by Left Wing Extremism (LWE), officials said.

"The counting of postal ballots will begin at 8 am. Half an hour after the postal ballots are counted, the process of counting votes from the EVMs will begin. "A total of 90 returning officers, 416 assistant returning officers, 4596 counting personnel and 1698 micro-observers have been appointed for carrying out the counting process smoothly," Chhattisgarh Chief Electoral Officer Reena Baba Saheb Kangale said at a press conference. A total of 1,181 candidates are in the fray, including Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel, Deputy Chief Minister TS Singh Deo (both from Congress) and former CM Raman Singh of the Bharatiya Janata Party. Patan seat, represented by Baghel, is witnessing a triangular contest with BJP fielding the chief minister's distant nephew and Lok Sabha MP Vijay Baghel. Amit Jogi, Janata Congress Chhattisgarh (J) state president and son of former CM late Ajit Jogi, is also in the fray from Patan.

TELANGANA

As many as 2,290 contestants are in the fray in the elections, including BRS supremo Chandrasekhar Rao, his minister-son KT Rama Rao, TPCC president A Revanth Reddy and BJP Lok Sabha members Bandi Sanjay Kumar, D Arvind and Soyam Babu Rao. The BRS has fielded candidates in all 119 seats while the Congress gave one seat to its ally CPI. The BJP and Janasena contested 111 and 8 seats respectively in a pre-poll pact. The Asaduddin Owaisi-led AIMIM has put up candidates in nine segments in the city. Several segments witnessed triangular contests making them keenly watched ones. Chief Minister K Chandrasekar Rao is contesting from two segments - Gajwel and Kamareddy. In a post on X, BRS working president K T Rama Rao had earlier said, "After a long time had a peaceful sleep. Exit polls can take a hike. Exact polls will give us good news." Dismissing some exit-poll surveys that suggested that the ruling BRS will fall short of a majority in the Assembly polls, Rama Rao had said the Chandrasekar Rao-led dispensation will return to power with over 70 seats.

Team Absolute | Bhopal

Former Chief Minister and Rajya Sabha MP Digvijaya Singh on Saturday denied the possibility of "horse-trading" in Madhya Pradesh, if the Congress is voted to power on Sunday.

The former Chief Minister said, "We have no Scindia (Jyotiraditya) and no traitor in the Congress now." On the eve of vote counting scheduled for Sunday, the Congress leader told the press that the Congress was confident of returning to power by unseating the Shivraj Singh Chouhan-led BJP Government in Madhya Pradesh.

He said, "Tomorrow we will know where CM Shivraj

Singh Chouhan stands. We will win more than 130 seats, not less than that in Madhya Pradesh."

The Congress has been targeting Jyotiraditya Scindia for leaving the party and defecting to the BJP, by calling him a "traitor" during poll campaigns, which has often led to a war of words between top politicians in Madhya Pradesh.

Scindia had toppled the Kamal Nath-led Congress Government by shifting to the BJP in March 2020.

"We Are Not Alone in This Universe": Analysts cite unknown origin of Peruvian Mummies

Peru | Agencies

Adding to the enigma surrounding the "non-human" mummified remains discovered in Peru, a recent DNA analysis revealed that 30% of its genetic makeup is not from any known species. This startling finding, presented by controversial journalist and UFO enthusiast Jose Jaime Maussan, has fueled speculation about the origins of these mysterious remains.

According to the Daily Star, the world was shocked and baffled in equal measures when two miniature corpses were unveiled by controversial Mexican journalist Jaime Maussan. He claimed that they were centuries-old alien corpses found in Peru, with the latter country starting legal proceedings against Maussan for allegedly stealing them from the country. The journalist and Mexican researchers, affirming authenticity, stated that mummies with three toes displayed 30% DNA unrelated to known species. He said, "This is the first time extraterrestrial life has been presented in this manner. We have a clear example of non-human specimens unrelated to any known species on our planet. The public has the right to know about non-human technology and beings. This reality unites humanity rather than dividing us. We are not alone in this vast universe; we should embrace this truth."

These specimens do not belong to our terrestrial evolution. They were not creatures discovered after a UFO crash. Instead, they were found in diatom mines and later transformed into fossilised mummies."

Gold prices soar to lifetime high in India

Team Absolute | Mumbai

Gold prices rose to a lifetime high in India amid the peak wedding season and rising international rates of the precious metal.

Chennai led the charge with the price soaring to Rs 64,530 per 10 gm for 24 carat gold in morning trade.

The price of the precious metal in Mumbai, Delhi, Bengaluru and Kolkata was hovering at Rs 63,760 per 10 gm, which was Rs 810 higher than the previous day.

Gold prices in the international market have also shot up to a seven-month high as spot prices gained 1.6 per cent to $2,069.10 per ounce on Friday. India imports a large quantity of gold and rising global prices have a direct impact on the domestic market. Gold prices have been rising in the global market as the dollar has continued to depreciate against a basket of major currencies and is currently close to a three-month low which makes gold cheaper to buy in other foreign currencies. There are also growing expectations that the Federal Reserve is likely to cut rates in the coming months.

Expectations of low interest rates makes financial instruments less attractive for investors compared to gold which is considered a safe investment.

The demand for gold in the domestic market remains firm amid the marriage season as the precious metal is gifted to brides and grooms in large quantities.

Maha sweet revenge: Man gifts 'helicopter ride' to brother elected Dy Sarpanch

Quaid Najmi | Sangli (Maharashtra)

Elated after his brother was elected Upa-Sarpanch (Deputy Headman) of Kargani village, a Haryana businessman decided to give him a unique gift - a helicopter joy-ride of 20 minutes over their village.

The event also marked the end of a 20-year-old 'vow-cum-sweet revenge' against their sister who had "betrayed" the family by voting against a cousin for the post of Sarpanch then.

Ankush D. Khilare, 37, who runs the Mahalaxmi Hallmark Centre in Hisar, Haryana, was virtually on cloud nine when he heard that his elder brother Sahebrao D. Khilar, 50, a Nationalist Congress Party (Sharad Pawar) leader, who got elected as the new Deputy Sarpanch of their village in Nov. 2023.

Ankush rushed from Haryana to his native place here this week and on a cool Thursday (Nov. 30) afternoon sponsored his two older siblings - Sahebrao and Hindurao - for a memorable flight over the Kargani village, surroundings, and most importantly, circum-ambulating the famed Lord Ram Temple here as 'thanksgiving'.

Almost the entire village, along with a beaming Ankush, remained present to witness the unique helicopter celebrations - the flying machine never seen by most of the 15,000-folks - and billed as an unprecedented event in the state's local politics.

Ankush recalled that 20 years ago in the Kargani Sarpanch elections, his elder sister and the then Gram Panchayat Member, Shalana Karande, 39, of the Shiv Sena (Eknath Shinde group now) had cast her decisive vote to topple her own cousin, the late Duryodhan Khilare and ruined his opportunity to become the powerful village head.

"Our father Dnyanu Khilare was furious and the family broke all relations with Shalana Karande. She was barred from entering her 'maika' (parental home) and not invited to any family events or functions for 20 years," said Ankush.

At that time, the teenage Ankush took an oath before his father that "whenever anybody from the Khilare family becomes a Sarpanch or Upa-Sarpanch", he would announce it to the entire region with a helicopter ride.

"Finally, after two decades, I could fulfil my vow and take the family's vengeance against my own sister for her political treachery. However, my father has still not forgiven her and the ban on her continues," Ankush told correspondents.

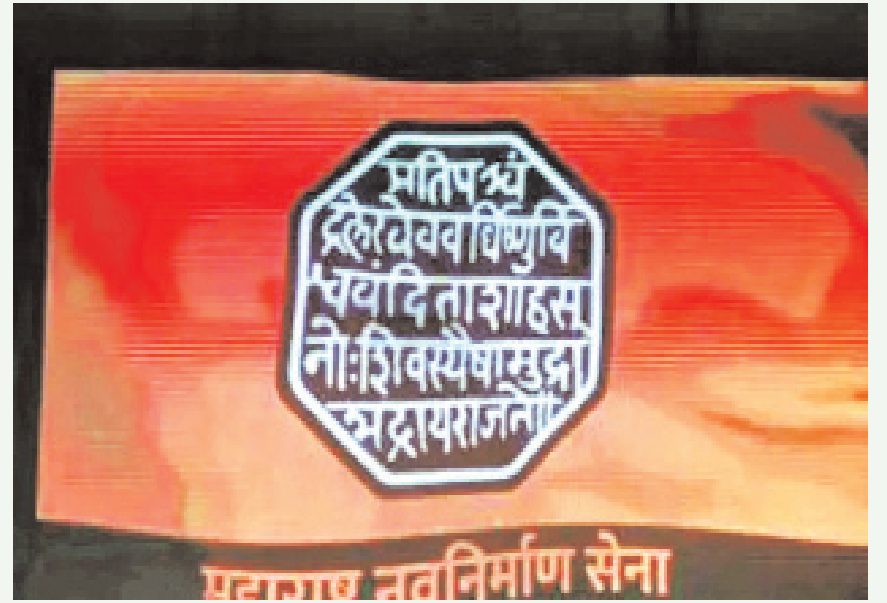

Through some businessmen friends, Ankush managed to hire out the chopper from a Pune company and the 20-minute ride burnt a Rs 100,000 hole in his pocket, but he smiled and said "it was worth every rupee".

For the momentous occasion, the entire Khilare clan - father Dnyanu, mother Bana, brothers Sahebrao and Hindurao, another sister Lata, and uncles and aunts plus their grandchildren, were present in full strength to cheer at the family event, with excitement levels running sky-high as the chopper gracefully flew over around the village and its temple.

A farmer, Rajendra Patil from an adjoining village said the locals were open-mouthed seeing the helicopter noisily whirring over the region and some delirious kids clapped joyously and even tried to 'chase' it on the ground before it disappeared.

"It has become a hot topic in the entire district now... people discuss and debate the memorable event in groups in the village square, at bus stops and in the fields..." gushed Patil.

MNS workers charged for damaging shops over Marathi signboards

Team Absolute | Pune

A police official revealed on Saturday that the local Maharashtra Navnirman Sena unit (MNS) president and party members are facing charges by the police for allegedly causing damage to shops that do not have Marathi signboards.

The MNS protested on Friday in several locations in Pune, including Tilak Road and JM Road, to draw attention to the lack of Marathi signs in several stores. Social media was flooded with videos of the protests.

The English signage of numerous stores, including those that carried international brands, was vandalised and stones were thrown by supporters of Raj

Thackeray's party during the demonstrations.

According to the official statement, nine people including the head of the city unit, Sainath Babar are mentioned in the case under section 143 for unlawful assembly, in addition to other pertinent provisions of the Mumbai Police Act and the Indian Penal Code.

Meanwhile, Raj Thackeray, the leader of the Maharashtra Navnirman Sena (MNS), spoke with Chief Minister Eknath Shinde on Saturday about issues pertaining to toll collecting and the existence of Marathi signboards at businesses throughout the state, stated a report.

The report cited a statement issued by the chief minister's office (CMO) saying that the meeting took place at Varsha, the chief minister's official residence.

Thackeray had recently criticised the state government for allegedly disobeying a Supreme Court order requiring Marathi signboards to be displayed in stores and other facilities. He said that the ruling coalition was only making token gestures towards Hindutva and Marathi issues.

The Supreme Court had already given store owners two months, ending on November 25, to install Marathi signboards.

If they didn't, they would have to pay a daily fine of Rs 2,000. The MNS had previously expressed concerns with the state's toll-collection policies.

Air India launches robotic-enabled eco-friendly, water-saver aircraft cleaner

Team Absolute | Mumbai

Air India has launched an environment-friendly automated aircraft interior washing and nearly dry cleaning system that will save around 75,000 litres of water per aircraft annually, an official said here on Saturday.

The device, 'Aerowash' has multiple modern features like robotic micro-fibre brush drum for cleaning and uses a nearly waterless process that considerably enhances efficiency in functioning plus making it more sustainable. For each narrow-body aircraft, the 'Aerowash' can save upto 30,000 litres of water and upto 75,000 litres per wide-body aircraft annually.

With a fleet augmentation going on in full swing at Air India the total quantity of cleaning water likely to be saved in future is enormous and boost its green drive. "The modern system of cleaning reinforces our dedication to efficiency, sustainability, and pioneering advancements at par with industry-best practices. The 'Aerowash' ensures not only better maintenance of our aircraft but will also contribute to a greener environment in sync with the Tata group's commitment towards more sustainable ways of doing business," said S.K. Dash, Chief Technical Officer, Air

India. He added that aircraft cleaning is a critical aspect of maintenance and relies on time-consuming, resource-intensive and manual engagement. However, automated cleaning is not only time-efficient and sustainable, but it also reduces aerodynamic drag caused due to the accumulation of dirt, dust or grime, ultimately reducing the aircraft weight. This, in turn, results in enhanced fuel efficiency in the long run while bringing down carbon footprint, safeguards against structural damage, prevents corrosion, and results in extending the lifespan of the aircraft, Dash added. The superior quality of cleaning will not only enhance the appearance of the aircraft but also ensure a better cleaning by covering even critical areas of the aircraft like the crown, elevator or rudder, the official said.

IDBI Trusteeship now files appeal against Subhash Chandra in NCLAT

Team Absolute | Mumbai

In the continuing saga replete with many twists and turns, IDBI Trusteeship Services Limited (ITSL) has now filed an appeal at the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal (NCLAT) against Essel Group Chairperson Subhash Chandra, challenging the order of the National Company Law Tribunal Mumbai which gave a go-ahead to the Zee Entertainment Enterprises Limited (ZEEL) and Sony merger.

The appeal challenges the National Company Law Tribunal Mumbai order rejecting IDBI trustee's objection to the merger.

The grounds being that Chandra had executed a personal guarantee on June 25, 2019, in favour of IDBI Trusteeship (for the benefit of Franklin Templeton) guaranteeing the repayment obligations towards the debentures.

"Chandra has purportedly failed to comply with his obligations under the personal guarantee," they said. The trusteeship claimed Rs 535 crore from Chandra, saying he failed to comply with his obligations under the personal guarantee, and thus he is a creditor.

"IDBI Trusteeship is admittedly not a creditor of Zee. It has no contractual or legal privity with Zee. Therefore, it has no locus to object to the present scheme," Zee responded.

The hearing was deferred as the case was transferred to the bench of Chairperson Ashok Bhushan of NCLAT.

IDBI Trusteeship told the NCLAT that it is the debenture trustee of 425 debentures issued by Essel Infraprojects Limited (EIL) in favour of certain schemes managed by Franklin Templeton Asset Management (India) Pvt. Ltd.

"Have Sex, Or Lose Work": How a Mumbai man raped Mexican DJ xfor years

Team Absolute | Mumbai

The Mumbai police have arrested a man for allegedly repeatedly raping a 31-year-old Mexican woman disc jockey (DJ), an official said on Saturday.

The 35-year-old accused, who also works as a DJ, was arrested on Friday after the victim lodged a complaint against him last week, the official of Bandra police station said.

As per the complaint, the accused raped the woman on several occasions since 2019.

The woman currently lives in Mumbai and the accused is her manager, he said.

"The woman said in her complaint that she met the accused through social media in 2017. He allegedly sexually assaulted her at his home in Bandra in July 2019, after which he raped her on multiple occasions," the police official said.

"The woman said that the accused used to force himself on her by threatening to kick her out of an assignment if she refused. He also allegedly blackmailed her through some of her intimate pictures," he said.

The victim complained that the accused used to send inappropriate pictures to her. Despite getting married to another woman in 2020, he kept on texting her sexually explicit things and making sexual demands from her, he added.

Based on her complaint, the police filed a case under Indian Penal Code (IPC) sections 376 (rape), 377 (unnatural sex), 354 (assault or criminal force to woman with intent to outrage her modesty) and 506 (criminal intimidation) against the accused, the official said, adding that further investigation is underway.

ED registers money laundering probe for alleged oxygen plant fraud in Mumbai

Team Absolute | Mumbai

The Enforcement Directorate (ED) has registered a money laundering case linked to a purported scam involving the installation of oxygen plants in hospitals during the Covid-19 pandemic, police told to a news agency on Saturday.

According to the report, on November 24, the Economic Offences Wing (EOW) allegedly arrested contractor Romil Chheda from M/s Highway Construction Company for allegedly causing the Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation (BMC) to suffer a loss of Rs 6 crore. About this fraud case involving Chheda, the Enforcement Department (ED) began action on Friday under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA).

He was assigned to set up oxygen facilities in two large Covid-19 centres and nine hospitals run by BMC, even though he was said to have no prior experience with such projects, the report added. At Byculla's municipal workshop and oxygen plants, which are situated at civic-run hospitals like V N Desai, Dr Babasaheb Ambedkar, GTB, Kasturba, BYL Nair, R N Cooper, K B Bhabha, KEM, and ATMG Sion, malpractice took place between April 2021 and January 2022, the report further stated.

Preliminary inquiries indicate that local authorities may have disregarded eligibility requirements in contract awarding. The BMC lost Rs 6 crore as a result of the oxygen plants not being finished in the allotted time. The agreement called for a 30-day completion window or a weekly fine of 1% for delays.

Even though Chheda was fined Rs 3.16 crore for his delays, more investigation showed that BMC officials should have enforced penalties of an extra Rs 6 crore from him. The EOW has filed a complaint against officials from Chheda and BMC for several crimes, including inflicting unlawful loss, defrauding, and forgery.

Sections of the Indian Penal Code under which they were booked are 418 (cheating knowing that wrongful loss may ensue), 465 (Forgery for purpose of cheating), 471 (fraud), 218 (Public servant framing incorrect record), 120 (B) (conspiracy) and 34 (common intention). Chheda was recently arrested as a part of EOW's broader investigation into various Covid-19-related scams. Reportedly, the EOW is also investigating the kichdi scam, body bag scam and jumbo centre scam. The EOW sources had previously told mid-day that Chheda's influence to secure BMC contracts through political connections, including his ties to Suraj Chavan, who is Aaditya Thackeray's aide, is under scrutiny in the aforementioned scams. Over the past five years, Chheda has reportedly obtained several BMC contracts, some of which were acquired through power of attorney.

Today will be a day of joy for some, a day of mourning for many in Bhopal

Sundeeep

Pouranik | Bhopal

For the people of Bhopal, the capital of Madhya Pradesh, Sunday will bring both sorrow and joy. While a large part of the population will be observing December 3 as a day of mourning and protests, for a few others it will be a day of celebration, as while for others, it may be a day of celebration.

While political parties will be busy watching the counting of votes for the just-concluded Assembly elections in the state, others will be busy remembering India's biggest industrial disaster that took place in the wee hours of December 3, 1984, when toxic gas leaked from the Union Carbide plant and claimed the lives of thousands of people.

Not only this, the leak resulted in a large number of survivors living with the lasting effects of the gas on their bodies. Even newborns were affected by it and many were born with deformities and mental and physical illnesses.

Even after decades, the victims of the gas tragedy continue to struggle for their rights and basic amenities.

On December 3, these individuals not only mourn the loss of their loved ones, but also raise their voices demanding punishment for the culprits.

On this day, the entire city of Bhopal remains in a somber mood and people recall the night when the toxic gas leaked from the Union Carbide plant. Those who survived India's biggest industrial disaster till date recount stories that send shivers down the spine of listeners.

The victims describe how on that night, the streets were strewn with bodies as if leaves had fallen from a tree in autumn. Simultaneously, cries of those who lay dying and of the bereaved echoed in the air, as they were forced to leave their loved ones and flee the city in order to save their lives.

Those affected by the tragedy come together to grieve on December 3 and gather on the streets to share their stories and discuss the state of their health.

However, this year, December 3 will be a bit different for some people in Bhopal as the results of the Assembly elections will be declared.

While the losers will give vent to their frustration, the winners will no doubt make a huge celebration out of it. Discussions will revolve around the formation of a new government and plans for the future. According to sources, the families of the Bhopal gas tragedy victims tried to get the counting date changed as December 3 is considered inauspicious, but the Election Commission did not pay heed to their pleas.

On this day, the two facets of life will be starkly visible in Bhopal and neighbouring areas. On one side, there are people who have been surrounded by adversity for years, while on the other side, there will be a faction welcoming their political victory.

Cong believes people voted for a change in MP, BJP's expectation high from women voters

Team Absolute | Bhopal

The result for the Madhya Pradesh Assembly elections, where both the national parties - the Congress and BJP are engaged in a close political battle, will be announced on Sunday.

The Congress contested the election highlighting the "scams" that came to the fore for nearly two decades of BJP's rule.

The Congress leaders believe that people voted for a change and will give absolute majority to the grand-old party for a stable government.

The Congress workers guided by two veteran leaders - state unit head Kamal Nath and two-time former Chief Minister Digvijaya Singh seem more confident.

Congress workers seem more confident with the fact that many of BJP's stalwarts, including the Union Ministers, have close contest against the Congress in their respective assembly constituencies.

Several BJP leaders, who have won three-four consecutive elections in the past, have faced tough contests this time.

The Congress leaders and workers said that the party will win between 130-140 seats. Their expectations are high also because the party is expecting to come out with the maximum number of seats this time in the regions where, in 2018, it was decimated to the single digit - for instance in Vindhya and Bhopal regions.

The exit polls for Madhya Pradesh that was released on November 30 has surprised not just the people associated with the BJP and Congress but common people also. The Congress leadership, however, said the 'exit poll' is an attempt by the BJP to build pressure on election officers during counting of votes. In a video message after exit polls were released, Madhya Pradesh Congress president Kamal Nath claimed the "BJP has lost the election."

Appealing party workers to stay focused on their work (counting), Kamal Nath said, "Some exit polls were designed to mount pressure on the officials by creating a false impression that the BJP was returning to power. It also aims to demoralise the Congress workers before counting. But this conspiracy is not going to fructify."

On the other hand, the BJP also believes that people have voted for the development done by the double-engine government. The BJP's expectation is higher because of the 'Ladli Behna Yojana' - a women centric cash scheme launched by Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan.

BJP president J. P. Nadda's visit to Gwalior and offering prayers at the temple in Datia on Friday has created a buzz in the political circles.

Union Minister Jyotiraditya Scindia, Chief Minister Chouhan, Madhya Pradesh Home Minister Narottam Mishra accompanied Nadda during his visit to Gwalior. There is buzz that Nadda's sudden visit ahead of the counting in Madhya Pradesh may be for a consensus on Chief Minister's post, if the BJP is voted to power on December 3.

Congratulations flex to Kamal Nath installed in the capital

Team Absolute | Bhopal

A day before the counting of votes in the capital Bhopal, flex cards were seen congratulating the victory of State Congress President and former Chief Minister Kamal Nath. Flex congratulating Kamal Nath on his victory has brought heat in the political corridors of the state. It is understood that the increasing and decreasing figures of exit polls in Madhya Pradesh Assembly elections are pointing towards Congress getting complete majority. Kanye West has no plans to return to US after reuniting with wife Bianca

Los Angeles | Agencies

Rapper Kanye West seems to be having a great time in Dubai after reuniting with his new wife Bianca Censori, and has no plans to return to the US. The couple have been seen partying with friends at a pop-up fashion event, with Kanye also spotted enjoying a night out at a club, reports Mirror.co.uk.

Before their current trip, Kanye and Bianca also grabbed headlines as they travelled around Europe.

As they continue to enjoy a lavish holiday, a source has claimed the couple have no plans to return to the US anytime soon. This comes despite them having an apartment in America and Kanye's Yeezy headquarters being located in Los Angeles.

'Ye has loved being out of LA, he's never been a huge fan of the city and has no immediate plans to return, despite having a place here and his Yeezy HQ. Bianca has spent time back in Australia and they're getting back on track and planning what to do for the holidays,' a source said, quoted by Mirror.co.uk.

Speaking to The Sun, the source added that Bianca and Kanye are planning to return to Italy in a few weeks. The couple spent a lot of time there earlier this year, with Bianca causing a stir for her very revealing holiday outfits. She also made headlines after she was caught in a compromising position with her husband while on a boat in Italy. It's believed the couple will be staying in Italy for Christmas. The source said Kanye will be hoping for his ex-wife Kim Kardashian to fly their children out so he can spend some time with them.

However, they admitted it's "up in the air at the minute".

Kanye shares four children with his ex-wife -- North, Saint, Chicago and Psalm.

The source explained: "He hasn't had all four children in a while, so it may just be the older ones, who are always accompanied by Kim's security and a nanny, but he does want to see them."

Raipur | Agencies

The in-form middle-order batter Rinku Singh said eating good food and lifting heavy weights in the gym is the secret behind his 100-metre long six during the fourth T20I against Australia in Raipur on Friday night. At the Shaheed Veer Narayan Singh International Stadium, Rinku slammed a 29-ball 46 and put on a crucial 56-run stand for the fifth wicket with Jitesh Sharma, who chipped in with a quick 19-ball 35. The duo's clean striking meant India made 174/9 in 20 overs, which was enough to seal a 20-run win. "Aapko pata hi hai apke saath gym hi karta hun (You know it, I train with you in the gym). I eat good food and I like lifting weights in the gym and it helps me generate power (for shots) naturally. I have been playing in the IPL for five to six years. I try to keep myself calm while having confidence and backing myself," Rinku told Jitesh Sharma in a video posted on BCCL.TV.

On the other hand, Jitesh admitted he was a bit nervous while batting as he was playing an international match in India for the first time and thanked Rinku for keeping him calm during their critical partnership.

"I played my last match for India in China during the Asian Games, and it was against Afghanistan. It felt really good to play in India and that too in front of such a big crowd at home. The best thing about this game was my partnership with you, which I thoroughly enjoyed."

"I was under pressure, but you looked pretty calm. I want to thank you for keeping me calm as well. You kept telling me that we need to stick around and build a partnership," he concluded.

India have taken an unassailable 3-1 lead in the ongoing five-match T20I series against Australia and will play the fifth and final game at the M. Chinnaswamy Stadium in Bengaluru on Sunday.

Gatti's late winner sends Juve past Monza in Serie A

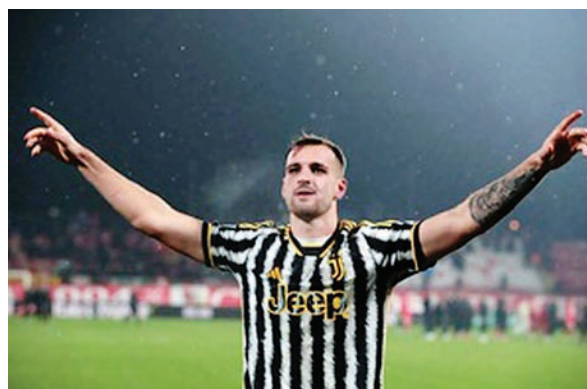

Rome | Agencies

Federico Gatti's last-gasp winner helped Juventus register a dramatic 2-1 away victory over Monza in Serie A, with Adrien Rabiot scoring one and setting up another.

Kartik Aaryan only finalised for 'Bhool Bhulaiyaa 3', others yet to be confirmed

Team Absolute | Mumbai

The pre-production on the third installment of the horror-comedy franchise 'Bhool Bhulaiyaa' is underway. It was reported that the acclaimed actress Tabu has walked out of the film. However, there's little truth to this as the only name to be finalised on the cast list is that of Bollywood star Kartik Aaryan.

'Bhool Bhulaiyaa 2', which released in 2022, was a major commercial success. The film was directed by Anees Bazmee and was a sequel to Akshay Kumar's 2007 film 'Bhool Bhulaiyaa'.

Kartik essayed the role of Rooh Baba in the film sequel which saw Tabu in dual roles.

Well placed source shared that other talents will be locked only after the script is finalised.

The source said, "The only actor to be confirmed is Kartik Aaryan as Rooh Baba and no other actors has been confirmed as of yet."

It was also reported that Tabu wasn't keen on taking up the role offered to her despite being offered a hefty sum but the real picture is far from what has been claimed.

The source further mentioned, "After finalising the story, they will be getting actors on board as the script demands, currently few names of actors are doing rounds which are not confirmed as we are yet to zero down on actors."

'Bhool Bhulaiyaa 2' turned out to be a major commercial success and furthered Kartik's stardom.

Meanwhile, Kartik was last seen in 'Satyaprem Ki Katha' which turned out to be a box office hit. He will be next seen in Kabir Khan's biographical film 'Chandu Champion'. Apart from that, he is also doing a film with Karan Johar which will be directed by Sandeep Modi. The yet-untitled epic war drama is expected to go on the floors in 2024.

'Creators may find it amusing, consequences saddening': Himanshi on deepfake videos

Team Absolute | New Delhi

After a video of actress Rashmika Mandanna's face was used in a deepfake video, conversations have been going on around the same. Actress and singer Himanshi Khurana, shares her thoughts on deep fakes, and said her concerns about such technologies. Himanshi said: "Creating fake videos just for the sake of it can significantly impact someone's mental health and tarnish their image. While the creators may find it amusing, the consequences are genuinely saddening. Even with widespread education, such videos continue to go viral, highlighting the need for awareness and responsible use of technology."

"It's disheartening to witness such incidents not only involving celebrities but also affecting ordinary individuals."

Himanshi added: "Big celebrities' videos become viral easily, such things are inappropriate and they get views because of such big celebrities."

"The technology is for good use to reach everyone and give something new for our future generation but we're using it inappropriately which is not good. No one has the right to make such videos and get it viral."

The actress said that due to societal judgements, women are more likely to become targets of something like a deepfake.

"Female actors are often more vulnerable to targeting due to a perceived fear that male actors might take decisive action if subjected to similar treatment."

"This could be attributed to societal judgements, where women are seen as easier targets for online harassment, as their videos tend to go viral more frequently, making them more lucrative and susceptible to exploitation."

Ranveer Singh addresses criticism he faced for stepping into role of Don

Team Absolute | Mumbai

Bollywood star Ranveer Singh, who is set to essay the role of Hindi cinema's iconic character of Don in his upcoming film 'Don 3', has spoken up on the criticism that he received even before he started working on the film. Ranveer, who was recently honoured at the Red Sea Film Festival, was subjected to online criticism for stepping into the role which was portrayed by Bollywood megastar Shah Rukh Khan in Farhan Akhtar directed 'Don' franchise, a role which was originally portrayed by the veteran megastar Amitabh Bachchan in the 1978 film which was penned by Farhan's father Javed Akhtar in association with Salim Khan - the father of Salman Khan as the duo Salim-Javed.

Addressing the flak that he received for taking the baton forward, Ranveer said, quoted by Deadline: "I'm hoping to make Don my own and give it my spin, my interpretation. It is the handing over of the baton of one of the most loved and revered franchises of Hindi cinema. The significance of that is not lost on me. When the announcement was made, as expected, it came with its share of skepticism."

He further mentioned as he went on to draw parallels with the criticism that Daniel Craig received when he stepped into the role of cinema's one of the most iconic characters, James Bond.

Ranveer shared: "But throughout the history of cinema, this has happened. Even as recently as perhaps when the Bond franchise changed hands and they announced Daniel Craig as the new Bond, it came with its fair share of scepticism. So, this is only natural."
