SCIENTIFIC FEAT: SUN WILL APPLY 'TILAK' ON LORD RAM ON RAM NAVAMI IN AYODHYA

Ayodhya Agencies

n each Ram Navami, the Sun will do the 'tilak' of the idol of Ram Lalla installed in the sanctum sanctorum of the Ram temple in Ayodhya.

This scientific feat will be achieved with the aid of sunlight, mirrors, and lenses, all thanks to the scientists at Roorkee's Central Building Research Institute (CBRI) who have crafted a unique system for the newly-constructed Ram temple.

The first display is scheduled for Ram Navami on March 29, marking Ram's birth anniversary according to the Hindu lunar calendar.

The project - 'Surya Rashmiyon Ka Tilak' (anointment by sun rays) - is a mechanical system requiring no electricity or battery and is made exclusively using brass instead of iron or steel.

SK Panigrahi, the Chief Scientist and principal investigator of the project, said, "We used only brass in making our manually-operated system."

noon for three to four minutes on Ram The circular 'tilak', measuring 75 mm, will grace Lord Ram's forehead at Navami in the Chaitra month, using sunlight redirected by the system. This arrangement is planned only for the occasion of Ram Navami every

The optomechanical system, set to be installed on the temple's third floor, incorporates high-quality mirrors (M1 and M2), a lens (L1), and vertical piping with lenses (L2 and L3) fixed at specific angles. Ground floor components include mirrors (M3 & M4) and a lens (L4). Panigrahi said, "Sunlight falls on M1, travels through L1, M2, L1, L2, M3 (installed outside the garbhagriha), and finally on M4, bringing a 'tilak' on the forehead of the idol.

The Bengaluru-based Optics & Allied Engineering Pvt Ltd has handled the fabrication of mirrors, lenses, and tilt mechanism for the temple at no cost. The Indian Institute of Astrophysics provided consultancy to CBRI for the optical design.

The CBRI team developed the mechanism to adapt to the changing position of the Sun in the sky on Ram Navami.

Banerjee himself confirmed the development, saying that he was overwhelmed that the Vice President personally had a telephonic conversation with his wife where he conveyed his blessings to the entire Banerjee family. Banerjee also confirmed the dinner invitation from Dhankhar to him and his wife. The three-time Trinamool MP from Sreerampore constituency in Hooghly district sparked off

he Delhi Police on Thursday resumed arguments on whether to frame charges against BJP MP and former Wrestling Federation of India (WFI) chief Brij Bhushan Sharan Singh in an alleged sexual harassment case lodged by six women

The police presented thier submissions before Additional Chief Metropolitan Magistrate Priyanka Rajpoot, claiming that there is sufficient prima facie evidence to proceed with trial against Singh and coaccused Vinod Tomar, suspended Assistant Secretary of the WFI.

Singh was granted exemption from personal appearance for the day.

The court will continue hearing the case on Saturday. The fresh hearing stemmed from the transfer of Additional Chief Metropolitan Magistrate Harjeet Singh Jaspal of the Rouse Avenue Court, who had previously presided over the case.

As the predecessor judge had already heard extensive arguments, the court had, during the last hearing, stressed the need for a fresh hearing, especially on the framing of charges.

The matter was at the stage of clarification before an order could be reserved when the transfer occurred.Earlier, the Delhi Police had filed written arguments presenting their stand as to whether to frame charges against Singh. ACMM Jaspal had handed the copy of the arguments to the counsels of the accused and the complainant.Advocate Harsh Bora, representing the complainants, had earlier filed written rguments . On October 30 last year, the court had granted three weeks to the counsels in the case to file their written arguments, and had stressed before the parties that the arguments shall be concluded in a systematic manner.

Singh's counsel had filed the written arguments on November 22, 2023.

The BJP MP had earlier questioned the jurisdiction of Delhi court trying a sexual harassment case against him lodged by six women wrestlers, claiming that there was no action or consequence which happened in India. The prosecution, however, had said that the act of sexual harassment of the victims was a continuing offence, as it did not stop at any particular time.

Delhi Police had also told the court that Singh never missed an opportunity to sexually harass women wrestlers, adding that there is sufficient evidence to frame charges against him and proceed with the trial.

Madhya Pradesh

Team Absolute Bhopa

team of researchers at the Indian Institute of Science Education and Research (IISER) Bhopal has developed an effective photocatalyst -- a substance that absorbs a wide range of solar energy and light -- to quicken chemical processes in laboratories and industries.

This new, sustainable development contributes to harnessing a renewable energy source for detoxifying harmful substances such as chemical warfare agents

Chemical warfare agents include mustard gas simulants like '2chloroethyl ethyl sulfide' (CEES) and nerve agents, which are highly poisonous chemicals that affect a person's nervous system.

This research represents a significant advancement in the field of photocatalysis -- a process where a substance (a photocatalyst) is used to change the rate of a chemical reaction when exposed to light.

While many different types of photocatalysts are used in various industries for effective light harvesting, they all suffer from a drawback in that they only absorb UV or high-energy parts of light

But the novel photocatalyst called 'UC-POP-Au' displays remarkable strength and catalytic efficiency as it making it a more potent catalyst during chemical processes. "The current investigation unveils a absorbs the entire spectrum of light, novel direction in the development of advanced light-harvesting porous organic polymer nanocomposite materials, showing potential applications in designing smart protective coatings against chemical warfare agents under natural sunlight conditions," said Prof. Abhijit Patra, Department of Chemistry, IISER Bhopal.

This composite material has integrated near-infrared absorbing upconversion nanoparticles and visible light absorbing gold nanoparticles with UV rays absorbing conjugated porous organic polymer (POP).

The use of upconversion and gold nanoparticles enhances the chemical reaction so drastically.

"We have developed an innovative design approach that involves the integration of plasmonic and upconversion nanoparticles with a conjugated porous organic polymer, which opens up new vistas towards artificial light harvesting," Patra said.

The findings are published in the peer-reviewed journal Angewandte Chemie. To test the applicability of this photocatalyst, the team coated a small piece of cotton cloth with the UC-POP-Au under direct sunlight to detoxify mustard gas simulant, a popular chemical warfare agent. Displaying excellent performance compared to a regular polymer-based photocatalyst, the UC-POP-Au significantly expedited photocatalysis.

The photocatalyst is also reusable and can be used five times over. No significant change in the catalytic activity was observed during multiple uses, unlike some other catalysts, which can not be collected and reused. The team suggests that UC-POP-Au can also be used for creating personal protective equipment and has high application potential as promising materials for various other industries beyond the detoxification of chemical warfare agents ongress leader Rahul Gandhi's second edition of yatra, which has been renamed as 'Bharat Jodo Nyay Yatra' on Thursday, will cover around 700 kilometres across nine districts in Madhya Pradesh in one week.

As per the details shared by MP Congress office, the yatra is scheduled to kick-start on January 14 from Manipur and will conclude in Maharashtra on March 20.

'Bharat Jodo Yatra' that started from Kanyakumari and concluded in Kashmir last year, had covered more than 1300 kilometres in Madhya Pradesh.

The Congress state unit had organised 17 sub-yatras from different parts of the state.

'Bharat Jodo Yatra' passed through Madhya Pradesh few months before the assembly elections in the state. However, it failed to make an impact as the Congress, which was thinking of coming back to power, could win only 66 seats in the elections held in December, 2023.

Earllier in the day, Congress General Secretary Jairam Ramesh said that the march will now be called 'Bharat Jodo Nyay Yatra'. "In the meeting of all general secretaries, in-charges, PCC chiefs and CLP leaders, it was felt that the 'Bharat Jodo Yatra' has become a brand that is embedded in minds of people. We should not lose it," Ramesh said, referring to the padyatra carried out by Rahul in September, 2022 from Kanyakumari to Srinagar in January 2023," he added.

fter the formation of government in Madhya Pradesh, Dr. With the Mohan Yadav led government, the special focus of the BJP organization is on the tribal vote bank. This has become clear from the first meeting of the Council of Ministers held in Jabalpur.

The tribal class, which has 22 percent votes, has special importance in the politics of the state. This is the reason whether the ruling BJP or the opposition Congress, both leave no stone unturned to woo this class.

After the huge success in the assembly elections, BJP has started trying to strengthen its penetration among this class in view of the Lok Sabha elections. As per information, Shubham Raghuvanshi was attacked by knives by a group of youth during the 'prabhat pheri' (procession) around 07.30 a.m. in Indore's Mhow.

When Shubham, along with his friend Krishna Prajapati (29), was participating in the procession, they entered into an argument with another group, after which Shubham was stabbed in stomach multiple times.

The accused persons also hit Krishna when he tried to save his friend. As Shubham collapsed on the ground, he

s the world rolls over to a new year, the global security scenario is likely to continue with the trends that had shown up earlier. The rise of 'proxy wars' as a combat in which terrorism was used as the weapon, expansion of security to embrace new national and global dimensions, viability of bilateral and multilateral relations in a multi-polar order, drift of the world towards a new Cold War on the horizon due to the steady rise of China as a potential superpower rivalling the US and the appearance of India as a world power serving the cause of global peace and economic development while facing a hostile Sino-Pak axis, are the more significant of these trends.

India's strategy of achieving self-dependence in the spheres of both defence and economic growth and handling international relations with the freedom to determine who our friends and adversaries are at a given point in time is working out well and sustaining the image of this country for its voice of sanity on the ongoing geopolitical developments and the challenges of human-centric economic growth.

India has the ongoing need for an extremely watchful security set-up, effective diplomacy and constant capacity building, to deal with what was an uncertain world situation marred by military conflicts in Eastern Europe and West Asia.

Fortunately, the far-sighted Prime Minister Narendra Modi aided by an extremely competent National Security Advisor, had ensured all of that.

In an era where open warfare had yielded to 'covert' offensives, the forces of Defence and Security have to combine to produce integral and effective responses like what has been achieved in J&K in the context of the ongoing cross-border terrorism desperately pushed there by Pakistan on the strength of elements recruited through indoctrination in the name of Jehad.

Collaboration of China with Pakistan on matters relating to Kashmir had become intense following the abrogation of Article 370 of the Constitution by the Parliament in 2019 and the validation of that act by the Supreme Court can be expected to lead to stepping up of covert operations by these two hostile neighbours against India.

India, however, is well prepared to deal with them on LAC and LoC, on the marine front as well as on international forums.

Punjab is another border state where the adversaries would attempt to revive militancy in some form or the other -- possibly through the narcotic route. The use of Chinese drones for dropping arms and drugs in the border districts of Punjab is an indicator of this trend.

China has been helped by Pakistan in reaching a 'give and take' arrangement with the Taliban in Afghanistan. As a result, China has extended its Belt & Road Initiative (BRI) to Afghanistan having been assured of non-interference by the Taliban on matters relating to Muslim minorities of China.

The advent of Information Technology has made social media an instrument of combat to be used for 'radicalisation', the creation of sleeper cells of terrorists including 'lone wolves' and building narratives to play 'politics by proxy'.

Artificial Intelligence (AI) has multiplied the prospects of information warfare and cyber attacks as an extension of proxy war.

India has taken the lead in examining the promise and perils of AI and after putting it on the agenda of the G20 Summit hosted by it, and has already held the Global Partnership on Artificial Intelligence (GPAI) Summit at Delhi on December 12-14.

GPAI has approximately 28 members besides the European Union. India is a founding member of this forum that guides the proper development and utilisation of AI.

In the Indian context, anti-India lobbies abroad in collusion with some civil society groups and NGOs have been building and spreading narratives designed to influence opinion against the regime by using 'misinformation' and even 'deepfake' tactics.

There is little doubt that the legitimate growth of AI can put healthcare, education, business productivity, human resource development, innovation and research on an entirely different pedestal. 'Machine learning', 'Deep learning' and 'Natural Language Process' can even provide 'predictability' -- though limited -- on the basis of human conduct studied through analysis of data.

India has brought in NITI Ayog to pursue the progress of AI and engaged in efforts to put AI applications for the larger good of humanity on one hand and prevent any destructive fallout of the same, on the other.

National security can be impacted by new socio-political developments of global importance.

The post-Cold War era was marked by the shift from open warfare to covert combat or 'asymmetric' war and this transformed the security scene. It was realised that "national security was inseparable from economic security" which meant that the enemy would be tempted to take recourse to causing economic damage to the opponent in order to weaken the latter.

This kind of damage can be inflicted through sabotage, blocking of the supply chains or recourse to cyber attacks to destroy the economic lifelines of the country.

Secondly, the destruction of national assets, large casualties and even loss of cattle wealth caused by natural or man-made disasters, weaken the country economically thus affecting national security in the wider sense.

India has made remarkable advances in preventing and mitigating the effects of disasters -- the establishment of the National Disaster Management Authority (NDMA) and National Disaster Response Force (NDRF) serves the mission of national security as well.

Finally, there is a new understanding of the protection of the environment as an essential mandate for the larger cause of the security of humanity. Prime Minister Modi with his deep understanding of the issue, placed before the G20 Summit his idea of 'Lifestyle For Environment' (LiFE) that underlined the importance of everyone's contribution to the protection of the environment.

These three dimensions of national security add up to the overriding requirement of 'mainstreaming' of security that has to be met in today's unsafe world. India has rapidly moved to achieve that by taking a holistic view of national security.

The basic task of national security set-up is to safeguard the assets of the nation -- physical resources, human power and 'protected' information -- against the 'covert' attacks of the enemy. An open attack will be taken care of by our Defence forces.

Intelligence is the anchor of security since by definition it is the reliable information about the secret plans of the adversary. Well-trained special agencies have been established for furnishing ongoing Intelligence. A new dimension of Intelligence is that the latter now has to help the process of framing policy of an integral response -- cutting across the spheres of military, law and order management and diplomacy -- instead of remaining content only with 'reporting' on threats.

Intelligence agencies have to have the closest liaison with local police set-up and other executive arms of the government at the ground level because threats relating to 'proxy wars' translate closer to the ground where people live.

'Intelligence from below' is the new requirement for safeguarding national security particularly when the gap between 'information' and 'action' was getting reduced.

Management of Intelligence agencies itself is somewhat of a challenge because national security does not admit of a wall of division between internal and external Intelligence or between human and technical Intelligence and calls for a convergence of objectives set forth for them on the basic mission of safeguarding national security, integrity and sovereignty.

National interests will be best served by a policy of exchange of officers among the agencies and such a practice should be further developed.

As the 'eyes and ears' of the State, Intelligence agencies have newer responsibilities of keeping the nation safe and economically progressive. It is a matter of great satisfaction that inter-agency cooperation has vastly improved under the present National Security Advisor (NSA) who is from the Intelligence background himself.

India today is better prepared to safeguard national security than it was at any time in the past because of a competent oversight of the Intelligence set-up, emphasis on an integral response to any threat and the political will displayed by the Modi regime in taking strong action on issues of security.

Japan earthquake toll increases to 82, with 51 persons missing

Tokyo Agencies

The death toll from the series of powerful earthquakes that struck the central Japanese prefecture of Ishikawa earlier this week, increased to 82 on Thursday, with 51 persons still reportedly missing amid ongoing rescue efforts nearly three days after the disaster.

With many running out of food and water supplies in affected areas, the Ministry of Land, Infrastructure, Transport and Tourism announced on Thursday that a transport ship carrying food and essential supplies was set to arrive at either the Wajima port or Nanao port in Ishikawa prefecture by Friday evening, reports Xinhua news agency.

Prime Minister Fumio Kishida urged officials to mobilise all available resources to maximise life-saving efforts and lifeline supply within the first 72 hours of the disaster at a meeting of the emergency disaster response headquarters on Thursday.

The first 72 hours after earthquakes are especially critical for rescues because the prospects for survival greatly diminish after that, according to experts.

"By this evening, marking the passage of 72 hours since the disaster, I urge everyone on the ground to work with full dedication to save as many lives as possible," he said.

With time running out to find survivors before the 72-hour window closes, many were still believed to be trapped under rubble in the hard-hit coastal city of Wajima, where 48 deaths were confirmed so far, the national news agency Kyodo reported.

A Self-Defense Forces transport ship is set to unload heavy machinery on the coast of Wajima for disaster cleanup work, said the report.

In a series of aftershocks, nearly 95,000 households, as of Thursday morning, suffered water outages in several parts of Ishikawa due to water pipe damage.

However, "if Israel expands its attacks ... all our power will be used to attack Israel; we do not fear the war, and we are not hesitant about it; otherwise, we would have stopped fighting on the southern front," he said.

The Lebanon-Israel border witnessed increased tension since Oct. 8 after the Lebanese armed group Hezbollah fired dozens of rockets toward Israel in support of the Hamas attacks on Israel the previous day, prompting Israel to respond by firing heavy artillery toward southeastern Lebanon. Headquarters for the Treatment of Prisoners of War has said.

Under the exchange on Wednesday, 230 Ukrainian captives, including six civilians, had been returned from Russian custody, the agency was quoted as saying by Xinhua

Germany struggles with floods amid heavy rainfall

Berlin Agencies

Germany is struggling with widespread flooding caused by heavy rainfall and swelling rivers, with disaster control reaching its limits in some areas due to a lack of sandbags and overflowing dykes.

Weeks of persistent rainfall have caused problems in large parts of Germany, and led to the deaths of at least two people, reports Xinhua news agency.

The German Weather Service (DWD) is expecting "heavy rain with only brief interruptions", as well as storms and gale-force winds into Thursday.

Within 30 to 60 hours, there will be up to 50 liters of rain per square meter in many places, and up to 100 liters per square meter in the mountains.

The northern German state of Lower Saxony, which has been hit particularly hard, is now dependent on outside help.

Neighbouring federal states have supplied 1.5 million sandbags, while relief workers have also been sent from France, bringing a 1.2-km-long mobile dyke system. Although the financial losses incurred in Germany cannot yet be quantified, politicians are calling for a national emergency situation to be declared in order to be able to take on new debt in 2024.

"The floods are causing immense damage, especially in Lower Saxony," Andreas Schwarz, member of the Bundestag for Chancellor Olaf Scholz's Social Democratic Party (SPD), told Spiegel magazine.

"We could suspend the debt brake to cover these costs."

The debt brake is Germany's instrument for preventing new borrowing.

Over the last four years, the government has already suspended the regulation twice, due to the Covid-19 pandemic and the energy crisis. During a visit to the flooded area in Lower Saxony on Sunday, Scholz assured the affected states and local authorities that the government would support them "to the best of its ability".

Yemen's Houthi militia warned against attacking commercial shipping in Red Sea group of Western nations have jointly warned the Iran-backed Houthi militia in Yemen from carrying out any new attacks on commercial shipping in the Red Sea.

Since November 2023, the militia have carried out attacks on commercial shipping in the region more than 20 times after it declared support for Hamas in the militant group's ongoing war with Israel, the BBC reported.

The Houthis have used missiles, drones, fast boats and helicopters to carry out the attacks and have often claimed that the targeted ships were linked to Israel.

In a joint statement issued on Wednesday, the group of 12 nations --Australia, Bahrain, Belgium, Canada, Denmark, Germany, Italy, Japan, Netherlands, New Zealand, the UK and the US -- issued the formal warning to the Houthis and called the attack in the Red Sea "illegal, unacceptable, and profoundly destabilising".

They said there was "no lawful justification for intentionally targeting civilian shipping and naval vessels", adding if the attacks continued then the Houthis would "bear the consequences", reports the BBC. The nations also called for an "immediate end" to the attacks which, they said, posed a "direct threat to freedom of navigation" in the critical waterway through which almost 15 per cent of global trade passes.

According to the International Chamber of Shipping, 20 per cent of the world's container ships are currently avoiding the Red Sea and steaming around southern Africa as a result of the attacks.

This development comes as the Houthis claimed a new attack on a cargo ship in the Red Sea.

On Wednesday, the group's military spokesman Yahya Sarea in a live broadcast aired by the Houthi-run al-Masirah TV said that the militia carried out an operation targeting the ship CMA CGM TAGE, Xinhua news agency reported.

The Land ministry said that areas of at least 100 hectares in Ishikawa were flooded by tsunami waves following the earthquakes, and the true extent of the flooding will likely be larger.

A series of strong earthquakes, with a major one of 7.6 magnitude, on Monday struck at a shallow depth in the Noto region of Ishikawa.

The Japan Meteorological Agency has officially named it the 2024 Noto Peninsula Earthquake.

Lord Ram's 'non-veg diet' remark by NCP Gen Secy stirs up unsavoury political-religious row

arely three weeks ahead of the Ayodhya Temple inauguration, a senior Nationalist Congress Party (SP) leader has stoked up a massive controversy on the alleged 'non-vegetarian' diet of Lord Ram, with political and religious leaders crying foul and demanding strict action, here on Thursday.

At an event in Shirdi, Ahmednagar on Wednesday, NCP (SP) National General Secretary Jitendra Awhad called Lord Ram a 'meat-eater' when he was exiled from the Avodhya Kingdom, leaving devotees and politicians across the country aghast.

"Lord Ram was never a vegetarian. Where will a person living in the forests for 14 years find vegetarian food? He was a non vegetarian... Is it correct or not ..?" said Awhad, citing ancient scriptures and also the Valmiki version of Ramayana epic.

As his comments kicked up a massive row, an unfazed Awhad on Thursday told the media that he stood by his remarks but softened to add: "I express regrets if it has hurt the religious sentiments of anyone." Reiterating that he did not say anything without a proper research and study as "He is my Ram, too, he was a Kshatriya, he was a 'Bahujan' and would be appalled at the status of the country today", but would not like to aggravate the issue in view of public emotions and wanted to end the row. Awhad said that he spoke on the issue from his heart and with proper references to ancient writings on Lord Ram, but "if some persons feel

Earlier, the political spectrum went on a boil with calls ranging from 'arrest Dr. Awhad' to 'send him to 14 years vanvas (jail)', with at least one religious leader joining the fracas. Nashik's Shri Kalaram Temple Trust's chief priest Mahant Sudhirdas Maharaj said he was going to lodge a police complaint against Awhad for Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) spokesperson Ram Kadam demanded Awhad's arrest, while party MLA Nitesh Narayan Rane asked "whether he would have been spared alive if he had spoken against any other community". Maha Vikas Aghadi ally Shiv Sena (UBT) leader Aditya Thackeray said it was "not proper" to make any controversial remarks on any godsgoddesses, even as the issue was hotly debated on social media, with pro-and-anti Awhad comments.

Ruling Shiv Sena of Chief Minister Eknath Shinde's party activists staged massive protests in Thane outside Awhad's residence, and other places like Pune, Nashik, Chhatrapati Sambhajinagar and other districts, slapped with shoes or burnt effigies of the NCP(SP) leader, raised slogans and demanded strict action. Defending his observations, Ahad said in an X post: "The juveniles who are ignorant of Lord Ram's history must first study it. Shri Ram accepted the 14 years' exile only to give the throne to his brother Bharat, as agreed upon by his parents," and Emperor Bharat ruled the kingdom by placing Shri Ram's sandals ('padukas') on the throne.

Rashmi Shukla appointed as first woman DGP of Maharashtra fter days of dilly-dallying, the Maharashtra government on Thursday appointed senior A government on Thursday appeared IPS officer Rashmi Shukla as the new Director General of Police (DGP) of the state, the first-ever woman to occupy the coveted post. Shukla, a 1998 batch IPS officer, currently the Director-General of Seema Sashastra Bal (SSB), replaces DGP Rajnish Sheth, who retired on December 31. She has also been a former Director of the State Intelligence Department (SID) and held other prestigious state and central postings. She had earned the ire of the erstwhile Maha Vikas Aghadi (MVA) government for the alleged phone-snooping cases involving certain leaders.

The move to appoint Shukla as the top cop came more than three months after the Bombay High Court in September 2023 quashed the two phone-tapping cases lodged against her in Mumbai and Pune during the previous government.

The first case pertained to allegedly tapping the phones of Shiv Sena (UBT) MP Uddhav Thackeray, and Nationalist Congress Party (SP) leader Eknath Khadse, while the second complaint involved tapping the phone of state Congress President Nana Patole.

She was also accused of leaking a secret report exposing an alleged nexus between some police officers and middlemen involved in a cash for transfers-promotions racket, which was prepared in 2020 when she headed the SID.

However, Shukla had rejected all the allegations of any wrongdoings and claimed that she acted in the interests of national security and public service.

Mumbai Trans Harbour Link toll Rs 250 per car for one year

Team Absolute Mumbai

he much-awaited showpiece Mumbai Trans Harbour Link (MTHL) will be opened this . month, and the toll for cars has been fixed at Rs 250 for the first year, officials said here on Thursday.

The state Cabinet presided over by Chief Minister Eknath Shinde and attended by Deputy CMs Devendra Fadnavis and Ajit Pawar and other ministers accorded approval for the toll proposal of Rs 250 per car for the opening year.

Shinde said the toll is 50 per cent lower than the rate charged for vehicles as per the general rules of road tax and it will be reviewed next year.

For frequent travellers, the return pass will come at a discount of 50 per cent of the one-way fare, the daily pass will cost 2.5 times the one-way fare, while the monthly pass will be 50 times of Rs 250.

The MTHL, officially 'Atal Bihari Vajpayee Shivdi-Nhavasheva Atal Setu', is likely to be inaugurated by Prime Minister Narendra Modi in the next few days, according to officials.

Post the Cabinet meeting, state minister Girish Mahajan informed mediapersons that the toll is very reasonable and lower than other highways for travel on the 21.8-km long MTHL, which has cost a total of Rs 21,200 crore, including a loan component of Rs 15,100 crore.

Mahajan said that in order to recover the megaproject costs, the toll will be levied for around 30 years by the Mumbai Metropolitan Region Development Authority (MMRDA), for which toll booths have been built at Chirle in Navi Mumbai.

The MTHL will slash the travel distance between Panvel and south Mumbai by around 15 km, and save commuting time of almost 100-120 minutes during peak hours, enabling motorists to save hugely on fuel costs, reducing pollution, traffic and congestions.

In order to avoid disturbing the protected flamingo bird sanctuary at Sewri mudflats in the Thane Creek, a Ramsar wetland site, MTHL has installed sound-barriers on both sides.

It also has visual barriers for the sensitive locations like the Bhabha Atomic Research Centre and the Mahul Oil Refinery along the MTHL.

The MTHL will offer faster connectivity to the Mumbai-Pune Expressway, Mumbai-Nagpur Samruddhi Mahamarg, the Mumbai-Pune Highway and other major national and state thoroughfares.

Work on what is the country's longest creek roadbridge started in 2018, but missed several deadlines, including during the Covid pandemic.

Now, scan QR codes to know about trees in gardens of Thane n first of its kind initiative, the Thane Municipal Corporation (TMC) has Linstalled QR codes which will provide information about the city's rich biodiversity and trees in Thane district of Maharashtra.

Under its initiative 'Innovative Concepts in Gardens', QR codes have been installed on around 2,000 trees. These are installed on a pilot basis in as many as 21 municipal gardens across Thane, the civic body said on Thursday.

"QR codes have been placed on the trees so that the citizens can easily get the information about the trees in the parks. After scanning these codes on the mobile phone, information about the tree will be available to the citizens in two languages, Marathi and English," the civic body said. Mitali Sancheti, deputy commissioner, gardens and tree authority, said that residents with smartphones will be able to scan these QR codes and get information like tree name, botanical name, tree characteristics, place of origin etc.

"Keeping in mind the response, suggestions and feedback received from the citizens, we have installed QR codes in the municipal gardens," Sancheti added.

She further said that as per the directives of Thane Municipal Commissioner Abhijit Bangar, the gardens and tree authority department is trying to make municipal parks more citizen friendly.

"Nature libraries have been started in some parks under the 'Chala Vachuya' campaign. They are getting enthusiastic response from citizens. And now the initiative of putting QR codes on trees has been taken up," Sancheti further said.

Shedding light on process of intalling QR codes, she said that the officials inspected these gardens, identified the trees, gathered information about them and then installed QR codes. "In this way the information of about 2,000 trees was collected," Sancheti said.

The deputy commissioner also said that none of these QR codes were not nailed to the trees, but instead tied. "The QR codes were tied around the trunks of the trees with the the help of nylon ropes. Care has been taken to ensure that no harm is done to the trees, Sancheti said he entertainment world has been rocked with the revelations from the sealed court documents related to prolific sex offender Jeffrey Epstein.

LEONARDO DICAPRIO, CAMERON DIAZ, BRUCE WILLIS, KEVIN Spacey named in Explosive Jeffrey Epstein List

Los Angeles | Agencies

The document includes a bunch of names from Hollywood. Michael Jackson and Leonardo DiCaprio are some of the big names in the document along with politicians Bill Clinton and Donald Trump, reports Mirror.co.uk.

Stars such as Cate Blanchett, Cameron Diaz, Bruce Willis and Kevin Spacey have also been name-dropped. However, simply their mention doesn't not imply that they have been party to any wrongdoing. The claims and association of the names to the crimes are yet to be proven in the court of law.

As per Mirror.co.uk, the judge said a handful of names should remain blacked out in the documents because they would identify people who were sexually abused. Before the unsealing, the names were listed in court papers as variants of J Doe. Many of the names on the list are people who had been publicly identified as Epstein associates prior to this unsealing through years of coverage of the case.Dozens of previously sealed court documents related to Epstein were made public late Wednesday after US Judge Loretta Preska ruled last month that documents naming more than 170 people who were either associates, friends or victims of Epstein should be made public.

The documents are part of a 2015 US defamation case by Virginia Giuffre against Ghislaine Maxwell, the disgraced British socialite who supplied Epstein with underage girls. Giuffre claimed the now deceased and heavily disabled physicist Stephen Hawking participated in an "underage orgy"

In 2015, photographs showed Hawking was hosted on Epstein's private Caribbean island before the billionaire was first charged in 2006. while it is alleged magician Copperfield had dinner with Epstein and asked a "victim" if she knew girls were getting paid to find other girls. Prince Andrew has also been named in the tranche of names, despite Buckingham Palace previously saying the allegations are "categorically untrue."

India vs South Africa, 2nd Cricket Test Match INDIA STORM TO SEVEN-WICKET WIN OVER SOUTH AFRICA IN TWO DAYS, END THE SERIES 1-1

Cape Town | Agencies

ast-bowling spearhead Jasprit Bumrah bagged a six-wicket haul and set the base for India beating South Africa by seven wickets inside two days at Newlands Cricket Ground here to end the two-match series 1-1.

South Africa began Day Two with them still trailing India, who scored 153 in their first innings, by 36 runs, and they managed to enter the lead, thanks to Aiden Markram's stunning 106 off 103 balls coming under pressure, especially when none of his teammates reached 20. But Bumrah continued to strike and picked 6-61 to bowl out South Africa for 176 at the stroke of lunch.

Chasing 79, India took only 12 overs to chase the target, with Yashasvi Jaiswal leading the charge by striking six boundaries in his aggressive 23-ball 28. Though India lost him, Shubman Gill and Virat Kohli, captain Rohit Sharma and Shreyas Iyer, who was troubled by short balls, hung around to hit boundaries and make India the first Asian team to win a Test match in Cape Town.

Apart from levelling the series, India have secured 12 important World Test Championship points after losing the first Test at Centurion inside three days, which meant Dean Elgar signed off from international cricket in a losing cause.

With the match decided in four and a half sessions, at 624 balls (107 overs), the Cape Town Test match between South Africa and India is now the shortest-ever completed game in the history of the longest format of the game.

Resuming from 62/3, the pitch offered excessive variable bounce and seam movement, Bumrah struck in the very first over of the day by having David Bedingham drive away from the body and nicked behind to wicketkeeper K.L Rahul.

Despite South Africa finding runs via streaky boundaries, Bumrah had another scalp when Kyle Verreynne tried to pull a short-of-length ball but holed out to mid-on. But Markram had other ideas on a tough pitch, ground in frustration. In the next over, Kagiso Rabada hit the ball straight to mid-off against Prasidh and Nandre Burger along with Lungi Ngidi added 14 runs for the final wicket, before Bumrah had the latter edging to the third slip to keep South Africa's lead to 78 and take his sixth scalp of the innings.

In the chase, Jaiswal went for the attack from the word go, throwing the kitchen sink at every ball to get runs aplenty. He and Rohit helped India reach 44/0 in just 33 balls, before Jaiswal holed out to mid-wicket, though he did his job. Gill was castled on low bounce by Rabada, while Kohli was strangled down leg off Jansen. Iver's winning boundary over mid-on then settled a topsy-turvy match in India's favour.
