We need to learn respecting the natural resources : Shri Patel

Team Absolute | Bhopal

Minister for Rural Development Shri Prahlad Patel has underlined the need to return to original roots saying that it is a joint responsibility to give back to the society and the mother Nature what we received. We need to learn respecting the natural resources and human labour. Shri Patel was addressing a one-day discussion on "Flourishing Rural Madhya Pradesh" organized at the initiative of Transforming Rural India (TRI) at MANIT here today.

Patel noted that there is increasing organic pressure on livelihood resources and natural resources. He mentioned that it is urgent to be extremely conscious about water, which is a life-sustaining element. To save lives, it is essential to save water. Instead of focusing on recycling, we need to promote its reutilisation.

Shri Patel said that women entrepreneurs associated with self-help groups are involved in millet production and the preparation of millet-based food products. He pointed out the need to focus on the social security of womens' self-help groups. He appreciated Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi for promoting millets as "ShriAnna", marketing its use worldwide. Millets are health improving, eliminating hunger, and contributing produce to economic prosperity. Shri Patel said that there are significant opportunities for food processing in Madhya Pradesh. He noted that food habits change at a distance of every 50 to 100 kilometers in India, which creates possibilities for establishing food processing units. He also emphasized that needs of human society are increasing putting tremendous pressure on resources.

Shri K.K. Shukla, Director of Maulana Azad National Institute of Technology Bhopal, TRI State Lead Aliva Das, Senior Coordinator Shri Rajesh Singh, and Senior Consultant TRI Shri Shehzad Khan were present.

Mentally Challenged Woman Raped in Hospital Campus

Team Absolute | Jabalpur

A 24-year-old mentally challenged woman was allegedly raped on the campus of a government medical college and hospital in Madhya Pradesh's Jabalpur district on Tuesday, police said.

A 22-year-old man has been arrested in connection with the incident on the campus of NSCB Medical College and Hospital, Garha police station in-charge Nilesh Dohare said.

The action was taken based on a complaint lodged by activists of Moksha Sanstha, a social organisation, he said.

The woman was staying in a shelter home at the medical college and hospital for the last one-and-a-half-month, Ashish Thakur, founder of Moksha Sanstha, .

Activists found out about the assault and rushed to the spot in the early hours of the day and took the woman to the police station, he said.

ALARMING RISE IN TIGER DEATHS IN MADHYA PRADESH

Alarming cases of tiger deaths and hunting incidents in Madhya Pradesh's Bandhavgarh Tiger Reserve and its surrounding forest divisions have been reported by a top official.

A report by the forest department based on an order by in-charge Principal Conservator of Forests Shubh Ranjan Sen in March this year sheds light on a concerning surge in tiger deaths in the state.

The report uncovered shocking details of negligence and procedural lapses in handling tiger cases, raising serious concerns about the state of wildlife conservation in the region. Known as the 'Tiger State', Madhya Pradesh is home to some of the highest concentrations of tigers in the country. The order by Mr Sen, which led to the report, had highlighted severe negligence in handling tiger cases, prompting the formation of a special committee to investigate tiger deaths from 2021 to 2023. The members of the three-people committee to look into tiger deaths were Indian Forest Service officer Ritesh Sonfia, Chairman, Principal Officer State Tiger Strike Force; Dr Kajal Jaiswal, Assistant Professor, School of Wildlife Forensics and Health, Jabalpur, and Archana Joshi, Advocate and Wildlife Officer, Katni.

LADLI BEHNAS TO GET RAKHI GIFTS ON 10TH AUGUST: CM

Team Absolute | Bhopal

Chief Minister Dr. Mohan Yadav, while inaugurating the Ladli Behna Utsav in Chitrakoot, announced that on August 10, Ladli Behnas will get Rs 1250 through a single click and an additional Rs 250 will be given as a Raksha Bandhan gift. He said that the Raksha Bandhan will be celebrated on 19th August. But it will be celebrated throughout the month of Sawan. Festivals are being organized in every district to receive blessings of Behnas.

Chief Minister Dr. Yadav said that sisters shower their affection on brothers. Today sisters have given me the joy by tying a huge Rakhi. He said that the festivals connect us. The whole world is amazed to see the festivals of India. Our sages started the tradition of festivals thousands of years ago to maintain love and harmony in society. Ladli Behnas handed over a 30-foot-long Rakhi to the Chief Minister in the program. The Behnas also presented 'Aabhaar Sneh

Pati', which was written in Bagheli dialect, to the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister Dr. Yadav said that Chitrakoot is the holy place of Lord Ram and Nanaji Deshmukh. The land of Chitrakoot is irrigated with the tears of love arising from the sacred union of Lord Ram and his great devotee Bharat. Continuous efforts are being made for the all-round development of Chitrakoot. As per the ideals of Nanaji and Pandit Deendayal Upadhyay, the benefits of government schemes are being given to the deprived and the backmost person for development. Ladli Behna Yojana beneficiaries and women having Ujjwala gas connections from Ujjwala Yojana will be given at Rs 450 for refilling their gas cylinders. Continuous efforts are being made for over all development of the state. Regional Investors Conclave will be organized in Rewa soon. With this, investors will get the opportunity to invest in large quantities in this entire region and the regional youth will get employment opportunities.

A teenager, his mother and sister drowned in the Narmada river after he started sinking and the other two jumped in to save him in Madhya Pradesh's Khargone district on Wednesday, police said.

The victims were taking a dip in the river at the Peshwa Ghat in the temple town of Maheshwar when they drowned in the afternoon, Additional Superintendent of Police (ASP) Tarunendra Singh said.

Vikram Singh Rajput (18) went deep into the water while taking a bath and started drowning. His mother Urmila (44) and sister Mohini (25) jumped in to save him but all three drowned, the police official said.

Chitrakoot is A Unique Blend of Sanatan Culture and Human Civilization: CM

Team Absolute | Bhopal

Chief Minister Dr. Mohan Yadav stated that Lord Shri Ram spent his exile in Chitrakoot, a place where a unique blend of human civilization and Indian Sanatan culture can be observed. The exploration of establishing a Geo Park on this sacred land has begun, which is expected to create employment and development opportunities, thereby promoting social and economic growth in the area. Dr. Yadav was inaugurating a three-day workshop for the potential establishment of a UNESCO Global Geo Park in Chitrakoot, held on Thursday at the Vivekananda Auditorium in the Udyamita Parisar.

Chief Minister Dr. Yadav acknowledged UNESCO's efforts to explore the possibility of establishing Geo Parks in 195 countries, expressing gratitude to UNESCO representatives for considering Chitrakoot's sacred land for this initiative. He highlighted Bharat Ratna Nanaji Deshmukh's role in igniting the spirit of self-reliance in the region, which is one of the most underdeveloped areas. The Pragati Deendayal Research Institute has made significant contributions to social and economic development, as well as in employment, animal husbandry, and agriculture. Dr. Yadav emphasized that Chitrakoot is unique in the state, with the potential to realize all possibilities. He stated that establishing a Geo Park in Chitrakoot would protect the area's ancient heritage and priceless Indian culture. During the event, Dr. Yadav also released a booklet about the Chitrakoot UNESCO Geo Park initiative.

On this occasion, the representative of UNESCO, while apprising about the purpose of establishing the Geo Park, said that there is a need to preserve our natural wealth.

The objective of Geo Park is to explore its geological and cultural heritage and make it more effective. There is no Geo Park in India yet. Due to the presence of an ancient history of human life in Chitrakoot, the Tapo Bhoomi of Lord Shri Ram, there is great potential for a Geo Park here.

Among those who were present on the occasion were Assembly Speaker Shri Narendra Singh Tomar, Minister of State for Urban Development and Housing Smt. Pratima Bagri, MP Shri Ganesh Singh, MP Morena Shri Shivmangal Singh Tomar, MLA Shri Surendra Singh Gaharwar, Organization Secretary of DRI Shri Abhay Mahajan, Padmashri Shri Umashankar Pandey, Shri Uttam Banerjee, Program in-charge Dr. Mahendra Singh, Shri Mukesh Pandey, Vice Chancellor Shri A.K. Singh, Shri Bharat Mishra along with public representatives and citizens.

Celebrating a decade of freedom

In the heart of India, close to Mathura's cobbled lanes and bustling markets stands a sanctuary of hope and resilience, which gave a new lease of life to Raju the elephant. At the Elephant Hospital near Mathura, Raju has become a global symbol of survival, inspiring change and transforming the landscape of elephant welfare in the country. Celebrating a decade of freedom, Raju, now a majestic 60-year-old, symbolises the journey from suffering to sanctuary. His story of exploitation sparked a revolution in how elephants are treated in India. Rescued in 2014, when nearly 70 elephants still endured the harsh realities of circus life, Raju's resilience paved the way for a brighter future. Today, elephants are no longer coerced into performing in circuses. Just a few years ago, the streets of Delhi echoed with the presence of elephants, rented out for weddings and processions. Fast forward to 2019, and these sights became a thing of the past, thanks to the profound impact of individuals like Raju. By 2019, the last of these elephants, Jasmine, was brought to Wildlife SOS, symbolising a significant shift in the capital's approach to these gentle giants. Raju's rescue shone a harsh light on the grim reality of tourist rides and the accompanying abuse. This revelation strengthened the Wildlife SOS campaign, 'Refuse To Ride', which continues to advocate against such cruelty. Raju's story is not just about one elephant's journey from pain to peace; it is a testament to the resilience of all elephants and the unyielding spirit of those who fight for their freedom.

Pocketbook Constitution: The Optics Of Parliament's Most-Loved Book

Sumit Baudh

A few legislators these days, especially those from opposition parties, are increasingly seen holding a small book in their hands. It's a pocketbook version of the Constitution of India, with a red cover and a black spine. The symbolism of these optics is intended to show their allegiance to the Constitution, as also their political opposition to the ruling alliance.

The optics emerged in response to the ruling political party's ambitious call to secure an unprecedented "400 paar" [more than 400 seats] majority in the Parliament - a majority that the Opposition alleged would have made amending the Constitution easier for the ruling alliance. Opposition leaders even declared a threat to the Constitution as they sloganised "samvidhan khate mein hai" [the Constitution is in danger].

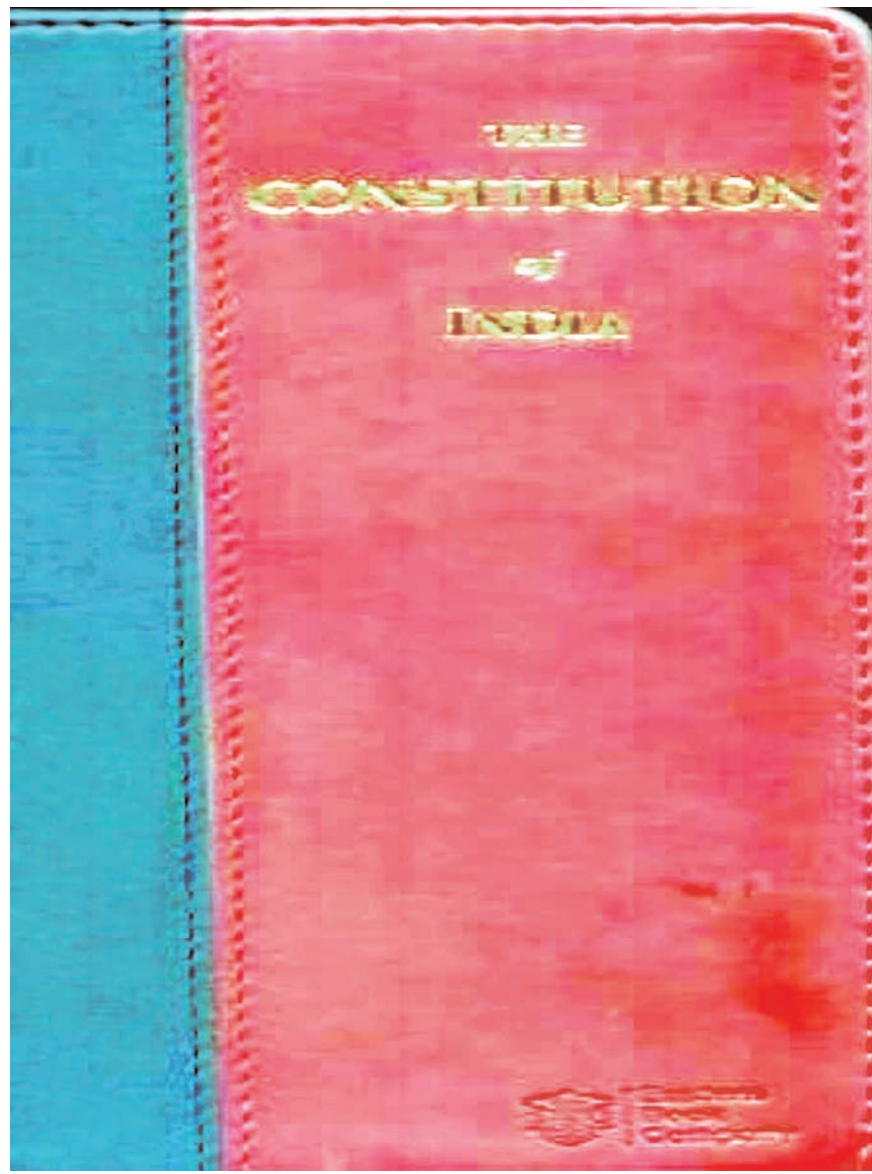

This year's electoral outcome has gone on to make the pocketbook Constitution a common sight in India's Parliamentary democracy. The core messaging of this optics is to uphold the protection of minorities and caste-based affirmative action /reservations in India.

In a famous 1949 speech, Dr B.R. Ambedkar, chairperson of the Drafting Committee of the Constitution of India, posed the question: If we wish to maintain democracy not merely in form, but also in fact, what must we do? He said, "In politics, Bhakti or hero-worship is a sure road to degradation and to eventual dictatorship."

Dr Ambedkar also said, "We must not be content with mere political democracy." He predicted that an emerging India of the time would have political equality (that is, universal adult franchise, one-person-one-vote), but deep and pervasive social inequality (that is, some people's lives would be more valuable than the others'). Dr Ambedkar famously called this "a life of contradictions".

The life of contradictions has endured for over seven decades, and it calls for a deep reflection on our societal and political structures. In his 1949 speech, Dr Ambedkar spoke about resolving the contradiction. How can an impending life of contradictions be averted?

"We must make our political democracy a social democracy as well. Political democracy cannot last unless there lies at the base of it social democracy," he said.

"What does social democracy mean?" Dr. Ambedkar posed this question in that speech, and explained, "It means a way of life which recognises liberty, equality and fraternity as the principles of life."

"What does fraternity mean?" Dr Ambedkar asked himself, and explained, "It is the principle which gives unity and solidarity to social life. [...] In India there are castes. The castes are anti-national. In the first place because they bring about separation in social life."

Caste is a fundamental unit of inequality in India. It continues to be a site of Constitutional remediation. The pre-election rhetoric of a "Constitution-under-threat" perhaps delivered its message most effectively to Dalit, Adivasi, and Bahujan voters, who are directly affected by caste-based inequalities. The optics of the pocketbook Constitution have outlasted electoral campaigning by now. Many politicians are seen with this pocketbook in their hands.

It's a gimmick. It's intended to attract attention. The Constitution of India is famously lengthy; it is, in fact, one of the longest-written constitutions in the world. The optics of a pocketbook Constitution in anyone's hands does not imply they have read it or are interested in wading through this lengthy text. Yet, the optics have given an unprecedented tangible form to the Constitution. It has popularised the ideas of Constitutionalism.

It is the practice of establishing, adhering to, and respecting a system of constitutional governance. It's an abstract idea that affects everyone and rarely presents itself in tangible form - in popular cultures and imaginations. Movies like Article 15 (2019) have generated the optics, amplified the text of Article 15, and popularised the idea of non-discrimination. The iconography of Dr. B.R. Ambedkar with the Constitution in his hand - a larger-sized book - is also common in Dalit sub-cultures. Printed copies of this poster (16"x 12") are commonly sold at roadside stalls in India, especially on Ambedkar Jayanti.

There's nothing to begrudge the optics. However, it has become a sore point among the ruling political parties in the Parliament of India because of perhaps the implied perception that they are anti-constitutional somehow. The remark of the Speaker of Lok Sabha at Shashi Tharoor's salutation to the Constitution ("Jai Samvidhan") is perhaps an example of this political soreness.

The optics, nonetheless, are good for spreading aspirational ideals of constitutionalism in popular cultures and imaginations. Even if it is momentary and the politicians discard the ideals when they do not favour them, this moment will endure in the collective memories and consciousness of a rising social democracy in India. Jai Samvidhan. Jai Bhim.

World leaders congratulate Keir Starmer on 'historic' UK election win

London | Agencies

Several top world leaders, including Prime Minister Narendra Modi, on Friday congratulated Keir Starmer as he gets ready to become the 58th Prime Minister of Britain following the Labour Party's resounding victory in the general election. Starmer has been credited with pulling the Labour Party out of the political wilderness by ending 14 years of the Conservative Party's governance. "Heartiest congratulations and best wishes to Keir Starmer on the remarkable victory in the UK general elections. I look forward to our positive and constructive collaboration to further strengthen the India-UK Comprehensive Strategic Partnership in all areas, fostering mutual growth and prosperity," PM Modi said in his message posted on X. French President Emmanuel Macron congratulated Starmer on his election victory and emphasised maintaining close bilateral relations between the two neighbouring countries. "Congratulations, Sir Keir Starmer, on your victory. Pleased with our first discussion. We will continue the work begun with the UK for our bilateral cooperation, for peace and security in Europe, for the climate, and for AI," he said in a post on X. Israeli President Isaac Herzog also congratulated Starmer while at the same time expressing his "deepest appreciation and gratitude" to outgoing MP Rishi Sunak for "his leadership and for standing with the Israeli people", especially during the "most difficult period". "I send my warmest congratulations to Keir Starmer. As he prepares to enter Downing Street as Prime Minister, I look forward to working together with him and his new government to bring our hostages home, to build a better future for the region, and to deepen the close friendship between Israel and the United Kingdom," Herzog said. Congratulating Starmer, European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen wrote: "Congratulations Keir Starmer on your electoral victory. I look forward to working with you in a constructive partnership to address common challenges and strengthen European security." European Council President Charles Michel also congratulated Starmer in a post on X.

"The European Union and the UK are crucial partners, cooperating in all areas of mutual interest for our citizens. I look forward to working with you and your government in this new cycle for the UK," said Michel, adding that he is looking forward to seeing Starmer at the European Political Community meeting on common challenges. Simon Harris, Prime Minister of Ireland, highlighted the close relationship with the UK, calling it "deep and consequential". "I look forward to it going from strength to strength," he said while stressing the need to work closely to bring about a "major reset" of Anglo-Irish relations.

Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky also extended his best wishes to Starmer on his election win.

Stressing the close bilateral relations between the two countries, Zelensky said, "Ukraine and the United Kingdom have been and will continue to be reliable allies through thick and thin. We will continue to defend and advance our common values of life, freedom, and a rules-based international order."

"I wish the incoming government every success both in domestic affairs and in solidifying the UK's leadership on the world stage. I look forward to working closely together on strengthening the Ukraine-UK partnership and restoring international peace and security," he added. He also thanked Rishi Sunak for maintaining close ties between the two nations. "I am grateful to my good friend Rishi Sunak for the UK government's steadfast support under his leadership. Challenger tanks, Storm Shadow missiles, F-16 training for our pilots, and the first bilateral security cooperation agreement are just a few of our shared achievements that Ukraine will never forget. Thank you, Rishi," Zelensky said in another post on X. New Zealand Prime Minister Christopher Luxon, too, extended his wishes in a post on X.

"Congratulations, Keir Starmer, on your election victory. New Zealand and the UK are great friends and can do so much more together. I look forward to working on every opportunity together as Prime Minister," he wrote.

Congratulating Starmer, Australian Prime Minister Anthony Albanese wrote, "Congratulations to my friend and new UK Prime Minister Keir Starmer on his resounding election victory - I look forward to working constructively with the incoming Labour Party Government."

89 migrants found dead at sea off Mauritania

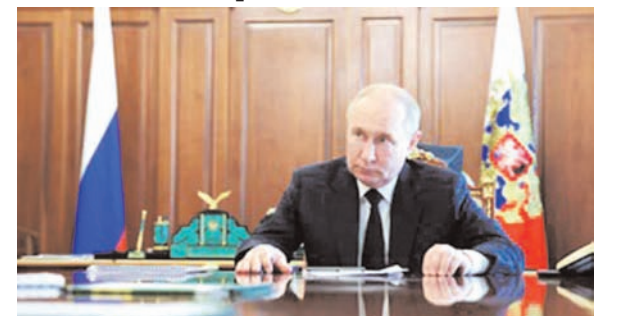

Nouakchott | Agencies

Mauritanian coast guards recovered the bodies of 89 illegal migrants near N'Diogo, southwestern Mauritania, local media has reported.

The migrants were aboard a large traditional fishing boat that was stranded off the Atlantic Ocean, four kilometres from the town of N'Diogo, Xinhua news agency reported, citing the Mauritanian News Agency. Nine people, including a five-year-old girl, were rescued by the Mauritanian coast guard, the report said. The boat, which left the Senegalese-Gambia border six days ago towards Europe, had 170 migrants on board, the report quoted survivors as saying.

Russia ready to start production of medium-range missiles in response to US actions: Putin

Astana | Agencies

Russia is ready to start producing short- and medium-range missiles in response to US actions, Russian President Vladimir Putin has said. "I said that in connection with the withdrawal of the United States from the Intermediate Nuclear Force (INF) Treaty and the announcement that they start production, we also consider that we have the right to begin research, development, and production (of these missiles) in the future," Putin told reporters on Thursday after the summit of the Shanghai Cooperation Organization in Astana. Russia is carrying out such research and development and is ready to start production, he said, adding that Moscow can act in a similar way in case US short-and medium-range missiles are deployed in any region of the world, Xinhua news agency reported. The US and the Soviet Union signed the INF treaty in 1987, which prohibited possessing, developing and testing ground-launched missiles with a range of 500-5,500 km. In 2019, the US officially announced its withdrawal from the INF treaty.

Gas leak affects dozens of workers at Kuala Lumpur airport

Kuala Lumpur | Agencies

A gas leak at an aircraft engineering facility in Malaysia's Kuala Lumpur International Airport affected 39 people, authorities said on Friday.

The leak occurred at the aircraft engineering facility separate from the passenger terminals and affected staff from several companies working in the area, the Selangor State Fire Department said in a statement on Thursday.

Those exposed to the gas complained of dizziness, with 14 of them sent to the air disaster unit to receive treatment, while one was hospitalised, it said, adding that there was no wider risk to public safety, Xinhua news agency reported.

The chemical was later identified as methyl mercaptan, added to liquefied petroleum gas as an odorant, coming from an unused tank at the facility, the Fire Department said.

Hurricane Beryl strengthens to Category 3, heading for Mexico's coast

Mexico City | Agencies

Hurricane Beryl strengthened to a Category 3 storm and is heading towards Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula, a tourism hotspot in the country, after leaving a trail of destruction across the eastern Caribbean.

"Data from the Air Force reconnaissance aircraft indicate that Beryl has strengthened to a Category 3 hurricane with maximum winds of 115 mph (185 km/h)," the US National Hurricane Center said in an advisory on Thursday night. Beryl was downgraded to Category 2 earlier in the day, Xinhua news agency reported.

Beryl was expected to bring heavy rain and winds to the Yucatan Peninsula, a major tourism destination that includes the Mayan pyramids and resorts, and to restrengthen in the Gulf of Mexico to make a second strike on the country.

On Thursday, Mexican President Andres Manuel Lopez Obrador urged people to move to higher ground, shelters, or homes of friends and family in other places.

He wrote on social media that Hurricane Beryl's trajectory indicates that it will enter through Tulum, a town on Mexico's Caribbean coastline. "Do not hesitate; materials can be recovered. The most important thing is life."

So far, the hurricane has killed several people in the Caribbean, including three in Grenada, which comprises a central island and several smaller surrounding islands.

Meanwhile, at least two people died, and five are missing in Venezuela due to the storm, which impacted 25,000 people.

'MARATHI MULGA' SWAPNIL GIVES MAHA 2ND OLYMPIC MEDAL IN 72 YEARS

Team Absolute | Kolhapur (Maharashtra)

There couldn't have been a better pre-birthday gift for himself and the country as shooter Swapnil Kusale clinched the bronze in men's 50m rifle 3 positions final at the Paris Olympics on Thursday -- scripting history by bagging only the second Olympic medal for Maharashtra after a long gap of 72 years.

Ranked 12th in the world, Swapnil earned the honour just five days before his 29th birthday on August 6, making it a personal double-whammy.

As the news flashed on television on Thursday afternoon, Kolhapur erupted in joy, as his proud parents - schoolteacher Suresh Kusale and Sarpanch Anita Kusale - along with his brother and other relatives cheered with tears of happiness, brimming over with emotions.

The Kusales' humble dwelling at Kambalwadi village became the epicentre for the celebrations with many youngsters and kids seen dancing, cheering, and clapping to express their admiration for 'Aapla Swapnil' (our Swapnil), their illustrious hero.

The legendary Khashaba Dadasaheb Jadhav (1926-1984) from Satara secured Independent India's first individual Olympic medal by winning the bronze in freestyle wrestling at the Helsinki Olympics in 1952. Swapnil's thorny journey to abrupt stardom is punctuated with lots of perspiration, shedding silent tears, quietly gulping disappointments, and confronting financial or other challenges at various levels for the past nearly 15 years since he developed a passion for shooting, with a cool, never-say-die attitude.

"Swapnil was always dedicated and hard-working... He was absolutely focused on his ultimate goal. He never bothered about holidays or festivals or such diversions. This (bronze) is the reward for all his silent struggles and sacrifices for the past so many years," said his proud father Suresh Kusale, fighting back the flood of joy welling up in his eyes.

"Right from his childhood, he had that spark and passion for sports... He was extremely self-disciplined and achieved this with the blessings of Lord Pandurang. We are very happy for him and the laurels he has brought to the country," said proud mom Anita Kusale.

His elderly grandmother also flashed a grin with a large red tilak/bindi on her forehead and thick spectacles which emitted her thrill at her grandson's feat. "He has exceeded all our expectations..." she said.

NCP-SP leader Jitendra Awhad's car attacked

Team Absolute | Mumbai

In a shocker, activists of the Swarajya Sanghatana attacked the vehicle in which Nationalist Congress Party (NCP) National Secretary Jitendra Awhad was travelling on Thursday evening.

At least three activists were captured on videos shouting slogans of 'Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj Ki Jai' and 'Chhatrapati Sambhaji Maharaj Ki Jai', pelted stones and rained blows with sticks on the SUV's glass windows, near the Eastern Freeway while he was proceeding to his hometown Thane.

Later, Swarajya Sanghatana general secretary Dhananjay Jadhav claimed responsibility for the attack and demanded that Awhad should apologise for his recent utterances to Yuvraj Sambhajiraje Chhatrapati - the 13th direct descendant of Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj.

Recounting the ordeal, a composed Awhad said that he was reading in the SUV and at one point when it slowed down, some persons pounced on it. His driver said that someone had pelted a stone and one of the glass windows was shattered.

The driver skillfully sped and negotiated the vehicle through the traffic before halting some distance ahead to examine the damage, though the perpetrators had disappeared by then.

NCP-SP President Sharad Pawar, Working President Supriya Sule and other opposition Maha Vikas Aghadi leaders have strongly condemned the attack, while Awhad's supporters organised spontaneous road-blocks in Thane, the hometown of Chief Minister Eknath Shinde.

After the July 14 communal flare-up that rocked the Vishalgad Fort in Kolhapur, Awhad had strongly criticised Yuvraj - who is the founder of the Swarajya Sanghatana - for allegedly inciting the crowds.

Among other things, Awhad had said that Yuvraj's blood should be checked as with his alleged utterances, he could not be the descendent of the legendary Maratha warrior king, Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj (1630-1680), and sowing communal discord among communities in residing near Vishalgad Fort and the Gajapur village, etc.

This had enraged the supporters of Yuvraj Sambhajiraje Chhatrapati - whose father is the Kolhapur Congress MP Chhatrapati Shrimant Shahu Maharaj - who accused Awhad of disrespect to the 'throne' and sought an apology.

Flying Awhad, Jadhav asked "why did you run away so scared; if you have the courage, come and face us instead of puffing your chest before television cameras".

Awhad maintained his stance and reiterated that whatever Yuvraj did (in July) was wrong as his actions were inconsistent with the Maratha warrior king's ideals, and claimed that even his (Yuvraj's) father, Chhatrapati Shrimant Shahu Maharaj, had disapproved it.

The targeting of Awhad is billed as a fallout of the procession led by the Yuvraj last month, with a few thousand Shiv-bhaktis, to protest against illegal construction there, but it escalated the tensions and led to rioting there.

Later, the Bombay High Court intervened and halted the demolitions in view of the ongoing monsoon season and the people of Gajapur village, which bore the brunt of the rioting, called off their protests.

Govt's policies have potential to strengthen rupee: Piyush Goyal

Team Absolute | New Delhi

Commerce & Industry Minister Piyush Goyal on Thursday said that the government's efforts to boost semiconductor manufacturing, domestic shipping and a reduction in imports of oilseeds, rubber and pulses have the potential to strengthen the rupee vis-a-vis the US dollar.

The Union Minister was speaking at an Assocham event for the launch of a book titled "Bharat@100: Envisioning Tomorrow's Economic Powerhouse" written by former Chief Economic Advisor K.V. Subramanian.

The book predicts that India can achieve a $55 trillion economy by 2047 if the nation sustains an 8 per cent annual growth rate.

Piyush Goyal pointed out that the steps taken by the government towards achieving self-sufficiency in defence, a stronger currency and macroeconomic fundamentals will help India become a developed nation.

He said that a stable economy will push India to be among the top 3 economies of the world and the Centre will ensure a better quality of life to the last man at the bottom of the pyramid in the next five years.

The Union Minister said the government is focused on efforts to replace the oil economy with electric mobility and making quality the fulcrum in manufacturing.

He said that India is at the same sweet spot today as China was between 2000-2020 when they grew at 8 per cent based on a stable economy and low inflation.

"Our political and social problems will eventually reduce, our economy will grow faster, and we can replicate China's growth story," Piyush Goyal said.

Speaking on ethical wealth creation and the need for private investment, he lauded Prime Minister Narendra Modi's commitment to recognise the contribution of wealth creators in the private sector and businesses.

"PM Modi values wealth creators for their role in job creation and for providing goods and services for the citizens," Piyush Goyal remarked.

He further stated that PM Modi's speech at the CII post-budget conference brought to the fore the importance of manufacturing to India's growth story and the need for stable policies to make India a developed nation by 2047.

Historic day for Indian stock market, Nifty closes above 25,000 for first time

MUMBAI GOT 78.40 PC DRINKING WATER STOCKS IN JULY: BMC

Mumbai: Starting August on a happy note, the Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation (BMC) announced that in July's bountiful rains, Mumbai has got 78.40 per cent drinking water stocks, here on Thursday. The month had opened with the BMC staring gloomily at the rock-bottom levels - barely 5 per cent - and anxiously glancing at the skies, waiting for the monsoon to settle down, after a sluggish start.

Today, the civic body said that the seven fresh-water lakes supplying potable water have notched up an average of more than three-fourths of the annual water requirements of the country's commercial capital.

The reservoirs: Upper Vaitarna (current level 600.01 metres/full supply level 603.51 m.); Middle Vaitarna (279.47 m./285.0 m.); Modak Sagar (163.15 m./163.15 m. overflowing); Tansa (128.57 m./128.63 m.); Bhatasa (135.63 m./142.07); Vehar (80.25 m./80.12 m. overflowing); and Tulsi (138.20 m./13.17 m. overflowing).

The current levels of all the lakes compare quite favourably with the past couple of years as of July 31: 12.85, 251 million litres (2022), 11,07,181 ml (2023), and 11,34,736 ml (2024).

An official said that with roughly another five to seven weeks of monsoon still left to cover up the balance, the drinking water supply till monsoon 2025 is expected to be comfortable without the spectre of water cuts.

Maharashtra hails Olympic medalist Swapnil Kusale; announces Rs 1 crore reward

Team Absolute | Mumbai

Top leaders of Maharashtra lauded Kolhapur shooter Swapnil S. Kusale's historic feat of bagging a second Olympic Bronze Medal for the state after a gap of 72 years, and announced a Rs 1 crore reward for him, here on Thursday.

The ruling MahaYuti allies Shiv Sena, Bharatiya Janata Party, Nationalist Congress Party and opposition Maha Vikas Aghadi partners Congress, Nationalist Congress Party (SP) and Shiv Sena (UBT) leaders, besides other prominent personalities have hailed Swapnil's achievement. Leading the state in felicitating Swapnil, the newly-appointed Maharashtra Governor C. P. Radhakrishnan warmly congratulated him for bagging the Bronze Medal in the 50 metres Rifle 3 position at the ongoing Paris Olympics-2024. Chief Minister Eknath Shinde said this a step forward for a son of Maharashtra who has done India proud and highlighted the country's position on the global sports map in shooting. He also announced a prize of Rs 1 crore for Swapnil, and interacted with the Kusale family on video-conference at their home in Kambalwadi village in Kolhapur.

Deputy CM Devendra Fadnis said that with Swapnil's exemplary performance, Indian shooters continue with their impressive performance at the Olympic games, and lauded him for his hard work that brought glory to the country and made Maharashtra immensely proud. Deputy CM Ajit Pawar said that Kolhapur boy Swapnil has brought glory to the entire country and expressed hope that he would 'continue to shine and keep making the country proud'. NCP (SP) Working President Supriya Sule greeted Swapnil for bagging the shooting Bronze Medal, and said "we are proud of you!"

Her colleague and NCP (SP) General Secretary Jitendra Awhad said that thanks to Swapnil, the country got its third Olympic medal this year and delighted the nation and the people. Congress state President Nana Patole lauded Swapnil, who grew up in the soil of Kolhapur and brought honours for the whole country by bagging a Bronze Medal in shooting, at the Paris Olympics. Kolhapur Congress MP, Chhatrapati Shrimant Shahu Maharaj (1874-1922), Shiv Sena (UBT) leader Aditya Thackeray hailed Swapnil's amazing performance at his debut in the Olympic games, and by becoming the first Indian to win a medal in this shooting category. Besides the political leaders, the social media and groups were flooded with congratulatory messages from celebs to industrialists to commoners, while hundreds of people in Swapnil's native village in Kolhapur broke out into celebrations.

BCCI mourn passing of former India cricketer Anshuman Gaekwad

Team Absolute | Mumbai

The Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) expressed deep sorrow over the passing of Anshuman Gaekwad, a former Indian cricketer and coach, who succumbed to cancer in Vadodra on Wednesday aged 71. A stalwart of Indian cricket, Gaekwad's international career spanned over a decade, featuring in 40 Test matches and 15 ODIs. His resilience was most notably displayed during his gutsy 81 in Jamaica in 1976, where he faced a hostile West Indies pace attack on a treacherous pitch. Another highlight of his career was his marathon 201 against Pakistan in Jalandhar in 1983, where he batted for an incredible 671 minutes.

In domestic cricket, Gaekwad's record was equally impressive. He amassed over 12,000 runs in more than 200 first-class matches, including 34 centuries and 47 fifties. His contributions to Indian cricket extended beyond his playing days, as he took on various roles, including head coach of the national team, selector, and administrator.

Appointed as India's head coach in 1997, Gaekwad led the team through a period of significant achievements. Under his guidance, India won a memorable tri-nation tournament in Sharjah in 1998 and witnessed Anil Kumble's historic 10-wicket haul against Pakistan in New Delhi in 1999. His strategic insight and calm demeanor earned him immense respect from players and peers alike.

In recognition of his five-decade-long association with cricket, the BCCI honoured Gaekwad with the prestigious C. K. Nayudu Lifetime Achievement Award in 2018.

BCCI president Roger Binny paid tribute, saying, "Anshuman Gaekwad's passing is a great loss for Indian cricket. His dedication, resilience, and love for the game were unparalleled. He was not just a cricketer but a mentor and a friend to many. The cricketing community will miss him dearly, and his contributions will always be remembered. My thoughts and prayers are with his family and loved ones as they cope with this loss," said in a statement released on Thursday.

BCCI secretary Jay Shah said, "The passing of Anshuman Gaekwad is a profound loss for the cricketing community. A true servant of Indian cricket, he will be remembered for his courage, wisdom, and dedication to the sport. His contribution to the game has been significant, and he leaves behind a lasting legacy. My thoughts are with his family and friends during this difficult time."

Lisa Kudrow recalls how Matt LeBlanc helped her ease anxiety

Los Angeles | Agencies

Actress Lisa Kudrow recalled how her 'Friends' co-star Matt LeBlanc helped her ease some anxiety about her portrayal of Phoebe Buffay during the sitcom's early days. During an appearance on Sirius XM's Where Everybody Knows Your Name, Kudrow said that it took her "if not a year and a half, maybe two seasons, before I felt like I had Phoebe down."

"The things she said were so outrageously illogical that in order for me to justify them, you know, I felt like 'Oof!' she recalled.

"It just took a lot of work to figure out, 'All right, how is it possible that I think this is true or a good idea or a reasonable thing to say?'"

Kudrow went on to explain that she put in real "acting work" into her character but it wasn't until she was into her second or third season that she felt that something was off, reports people.com.

"I'm like, 'something's wrong,' 'cause I'm not doing the work I was doing," she said.

"I'm slacking off. I'm being lazy and I was getting really mad at myself, and LeBlanc came. He said, 'What's going on with you?' I said, 'I'm being lazy. I'm not doing the work that I did first season, the second season. I'm not doing the work I did for Phoebe, so it can't be good.'"

"And he went, 'No, you know who the character is now. You don't need to do the work you did. You got it,' and I went, 'What? Oh,'" she added.

The host noted how with LeBlanc's help she was finally able to feel "relaxed."

"That was enough," Kudrow said.

"It's sort of like someone shook me 'cause I was getting hysterical. I wasn't literally getting hysterical, but you know like if you're getting hysterical, someone slaps you back. You're like, 'Oh, thanks. That's what I needed.'"

Actress-singer Selena Gomez has shared throwback pictures with her baby sister Gracie Teefey, saying that she will always protect her.

Gomez took to Instagram to share throwback images with her sibling.

In the first couple of photos, Gomez is seen flaunting blonde hair embraced by Gracie as a young child. The siblings sat together on the floor in what appeared to be a dressing room. "There's nothing like a little sister and the bond you have," Gomez wrote in the caption. "I will forever protect you, help guide you, and love you through every single moment in life baby girl," she added.

In some other images, Gomez is seen smiling as she looks down at Gracie hugging her leg while standing together in the same room, people.com reported.

Gracie is the daughter of Mandy Teefey and Gomez's stepfather Brian Teefey. The siblings remain close despite the 20-year age gap, and Gomez regularly shares loving messages for Gracie on social media.

In other news, Gomez recently opened up about her feelings about the time in her life when she was photographed by the paparazzi and was dating American popstar Justin Bieber.

A clip of Bieber's song 'Company' was shared with the caption: "I know and so do you that at the time she would never have gotten engaged to Benny (Blanco) (when) she was in her IT GIRL era." The text over the video also said Gomez's former self "would never date Benny Blanco". Hitting back at the claim, she said: "Kinda makes me laugh because I was so depressed back then lol!"

SANDRA BULLOCK IS ALL SET TO 'GET BACK' AFTER TWO-YEAR BREAK

Los Angeles | Agencies

Hollywood star Sandra Bullock is all set to "get back in the game" in Hollywood after taking a two-year hiatus for her family including her two children and care for her late partner Bryan Randall who passed away last year at the age of 57.

Randall passed away following a short battle with ALS, a fatal motor neuron disease that causes progressive degeneration of nerve cells in the spinal cord and brain.

"She is gradually reemerging into public life. She's excited about what the future holds. She's ready to get back in the game," a source told this week's edition of US Weekly.

Another source added that the 'Speed' star had endured one of the "hardest times" of her life following the death of her partner and that she needed time off, reports femalefirst.co.uk.

The source said: "Sandra needed the break to be with her family and Bryan."

Bullock had previously shared that Randall was the "love of her life" while talking about her lack of urgency to get married during a 2021 appearance on 'Red Table Talk' with Jada Pinkett-Smith.

At the time, she said: "We share two beautiful children — three children, his older daughter (Skylar, 30). It's the best thing ever. I don't need a paper to be a devoted partner... I don't need to be told to weather a storm with a good man. He's the example that I would want my children to have."

Jisoo from Blackpink to feature in Korean zombie series

Seoul | Agencies

Jisoo, who is the member of all girls K-pop group Blackpink is all set to star as the lead of the cast of upcoming zombie thriller series "Newtopia". The series features two lovers navigating a zombie-infested Seoul. The man, portrayed by Park Jung-min, initially encounters a zombie outbreak during his mandatory military service. His girlfriend, played by Jisoo is an engineer with a new job who is waiting for his release.

Separately, the pair criss-cross the city and fight off zombie attacks as they try to reunite.

The series marks the directing debut of Yoon Sung-hyun, who is known for his 2011 film "Bleak Night" and the action-thriller "Time to Hunt", reports variety.com.

Jisoo has had multiple cameo roles in Korean TV series and a major role in 2020 period action-comedy series "Snowdrop". She had a small role in "Dr Cheon and the Lost Talisman" and is reported to be a part of the "Omniscient Reader's Viewpoint", a multi-part film adaptation of a hit webtoon. Blackpink last year renewed their group contract with YG Entertainment. But the band members did not. Rose moved to The Black Label, while the other three established independent labels, and all are now off doing solo projects.

MATT DAMON OPENED UP ABOUT HIS FRIENDSHIP WITH CASEY AFFLECK AND BEN AFFLECK

Los Angeles | Agencies

Hollywood stars Matt Damon and Casey Affleck attended the New York premiere of 'The Instigators', where Matt Damon opened up about his friendship with Casey Affleck and his brother Ben Affleck. The Affleck brothers and Matt Damon have been friends for more than 25 years since the latter and Ben co-wrote 'Good Will Hunting'.

Matt Damon said that after all these years, there are no surprises with the two siblings.

He told People: "They're consistently great. They're consistently incredible partners to work with. And no, there aren't really, usually, any surprises." While the three collaborators will "get in creative arguments", Damon noted: "Those are healthy, and we know each other well enough that our feelings don't really get involved and our egos don't get involved. So it's a pretty healthy working relationship with both of them." As per People, Damon and Casey, returned to their hometown of Boston to shoot the film in 2023. However, the project almost didn't come to fruition until Casey enlisted help from Damon's wife, Luciana Barroso, Damon confirmed. Casey asked Barroso, 48, to get Damon to read 'The Instigators' script.

Damon noted that Barroso also served as a producer on the film, adding that "like Casey and like Ben" he "just trusts her taste."

"So when they say something, when they dig their heels in on something — any of them do — I pay attention," he admitted. "We all have blind spots creatively or otherwise. And, when I see somebody that I agree with so much feeling strongly about something, I look really carefully at it."

Kay Kay Menon : Re-lived time when social media was not a thing

Mumbai: As the makers of 'Shekhar Home' dropped the trailer on Thursday, actor Kay Kay Menon said that the upcoming detective drama series helped him relive memories of the time when "social media was not even a thing".

Kay Kay said: "Shekhar's character took me back to the good old days. I re-lived the memories of the time when social media was not even a thing."

The actor added that after reading the script and analysing the role, he was drawn to the complexity of unravelling mysteries.

"The series isn't just about solving crimes -- it's also about exploring human nature in all its aspects -- from love and loyalty to betrayal and deceit. Playing Shekhar was a pure delight. I'm excited to bring Shekhar to all of you," he said. Rasika said that working on 'Shekhar Home' has been a fun journey.

"It was a delight to collaborate with talented actors like Kay Kay Menon and Ranvir Shorey. And to be directed by Rohan Sippy. My character, Iraboty, is a force to reckon with -- a strong, determined woman driven by the quest for justice."

Delving more about her character, she added: "She has a compelling journey and the dynamic between Shekhar and Iraboty adds a layer of intrigue. Their bond, evolving through shared challenges and discoveries, gives a glimpse of a partnership that goes beyond solving the case."

Kirti said that the series is one of those rare scripts that grab hold of you from the very first read. "It seamlessly blends mystery with humour, creating a narrative that resonates across a wide spectrum of audiences. From the moment I stepped onto the set, I knew this was going to be a special journey, and my character is an interesting one," she added.
